Hospital Commission Suggests Age Limit for Trenton Board

By ROBERT AVERY
Staff Reporter

Trenton — An Ontario Hospital Services Commission report has recommended measures in "strengthen board-medical staff relations" at Trenton Memorial Hospital. It added that there is little chance of the hospital losing its accreditation because of a recent dispute. The board has adopted the recommendations and the doctors have stated they are satisfied with the report.

The report was released late Monday afternoon following a three-day study by two OHSC representatives into the breakdown of board-staff relationships.

The medical staff had said the members of the administration were "too old and out of touch". But the doctors had never listed any specific complaints for the board member.

The doctors transferred from active to courtesy staff to get the OHSC to enter the dispute.

The report says the board has "not always conducted itself in a manner which would strengthen board medical staff relationships." As a result it recommends that the board seek the advice of the medical staff in such matters of patient care.

For the doctors the report says that they return to active staff and from this position assist the board with suggestions on the operation of the hospital in certain areas.

The report also deals with the hospital's bylaws which are currently under revision.

It suggests that there be an age limit for board members and that a director be allowed to serve for only a limited number of years, with a one-year absence after a number of terms and re-election.

The report asks that courtesy medical staff privileges be limited to those who have health problems or who, because of their distance from the community, would not be able to hold executive office or stand for committees, as is required of the active staff.

Also it recommends that the administrator be given full responsibility for engaging and discharging all employees.

The final matter to come under the scrutiny of the board was administration, which it labelled "not as effective as might be desired".

The report recommends the hiring of an experienced chief executive officer because of the increased size of the hospital following completion of the new addition.

The reports concludes saying that if these current issues are solved the hospital has little to worry about in obtaining its accreditation. The hospital had gained accreditation las September in its first attempt.

Prince Tours Wales Under Close Guard

Gasoline Bomb Kills Soldier

CAERNARVON (CP)—The Prince of Wales toured his new Welsh domain today, leaving behind a grisly terrorist murder scene.

Nine hours after the Queen invested her son and heir, Prince Charles, as the 21st Prince of Wales, a terrorist gasoline firebomb killed a military policeman just outside the walls of Caernarvon Castle, site of Tuesday's investiture.

Cheering yachtsmen and spectators ashore greeted Prince Charles today at the vacation resort of Llandudno.

The 20-year-old heir to the throne had a cosy dinner party with friends before leaving Holyhead aboard the royal yacht, Britannia.

Small sailboats and yachts clustered around the Britannia when it arrived at Llandudno, on Wales' north coast, after the overnight trip from Holyhead, on the Isle of Anglesey. But security was heavy, and navy frogmen searched the Llandudno pier for bombs throughout the night.

There was a brief alert, on a lonely mountain road near Llandudno when security men found a wire running to a manhole from a telephone pole. An RAF bomb disposal officer cut the wire minutes before the prince's cavalcade passed by.

"I am 100-per-cent certain it is not a bomb," the lieutenant said. He said it seemed to be an old telephone appliance.

The villagers of Bala formed their own vigilante group to guard the prince. One member of the group said, "any attempt to interfere with our plans to welcome our prince will be strongly dealt with."

The men, armed with shotguns, patrolled the area through the night, looking for anything suspicious.

Army helicopters patrolled the roads the prince used through the morning.

Police said the firebomb outside Caernarvon castle was thrown under a truck in which a soldier had been sitting with a girl.

Firemen dragged the soldier from the charred and twisted hulk of the three-ton military police vehicle and gave him mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. The soldier was taken to hospital but died.

The girl was reported to have escaped serious injury.

Prince Charles was aboard the royal yacht Britannia when the soldier was killed.

The firebombing was the most serious of three major incidents of violence during the day.

Two Welsh nationalists opposed to the investiture were killed early Tuesday trying to blow up local government offices at Abergele, 35 miles from here.

Later, a bomb exploded harmlessly not far from the empty royal train soon after the start of the procession to Caernarvon Castle. Police said no one was injured and no one was injured.

Police today said that a fourth bomb had been found in a suitcase in the railway station at PRINCE

Mailman, 87, Retires 8 Years After '29 Ford

FOREST, Ont. (CP) — "I am going to have to find something to do to put in the time," said 87-year-old Marvin Black on retiring after 56 years as a contract mail carrier on a rural route here.

A telegram from Deputy Postmaster-General F. A. McGee, read at a retirement party Monday, said that "from the information we have, this record is unparalleled in mail contract work."

Mr. Black recalled starting his run on a hot August day in 1913, using a horse and rig. There were three customers then, 74 now.

In 1916 he bought a Model T Ford to become the first motorized mailman in the area, near Sarnia, and one of only a half-dozen car owners in Forest.

He went through three Model Ts and then in 1929 bought a 1930 Model A which he used for 32 years and 300,000 miles until 1961.

Johnny Carson Gets Increase; $85,000 A Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Carson has signed a multiple-year contract with the National Broadcasting Co. that is reported to make him the highest paid entertainer in television history.

Industry sources claimed that Carson, host of the Tonight show, might be earning up to $85,000 a week under a two or three-year period. He received $1,000,000 a year under his old contract.

Don Durgin, president of NBC-TV, said Tuesday that Carson got "a good increase and one that I think he richly deserved." He declined to disclose the terms of the contract.

Viet Cong Attacks Dwindle to Nothing

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacks in South Vietnam "are almost down to nothing," an American source reported today. Military officials said attacks have dropped to one of the lowest levels of the year, but added that infiltration from North Vietnam is keeping enemy forces up to strength.

The U.S. command said ground fighting was light and scattered today, and there were only seven rocket and mortar attacks during the night — the lowest number in a month.

South Vietnamese headquarters said 13 Vietnamese civilians were killed and 16 were wounded Tuesday when Viet Cong terrorists threw hand grenades into two movie theatres in the provincial capital of Na Xuyen, 90 miles southwest of Saigon.

Ten Thousand Iranian Dope Pedlars Set Free

TEHRAN (AP) — Ten thousand Iranian dope pedlars were released by government order circulated Tuesday night. But they were warned they would be shot by firing squads if they resumed their trade.

Iran banned the cultivation, sale and use of opium in 1955, but resumed cultivation of poppies this year in restricted quantities and under government control. During the 14-year ban, the government estimated it lost $1,000,000,000 in revenue while neighboring Tyrkey and Afghanistan benefited from increased exports.

Some of the 10,000 dope pedlars had been sentenced to more than 10 years in prison under the old law prohibiting possession of opium.

Under the new law, the government will issue permits to drug addicts to buy enough dope to support their habit at government-controlled stores. Persons without permits who are found possessing drugs will be sentenced to death.

Marine Ex-commandant Joins Ban-blast Plea

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of more than 100 Americans, including a former commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps, has asked President Nixon to initiate negotiations to ban large underground nuclear explosions.

The group, the Educational Committee to Halt Atomic Weapons Spread, appealed to the president in a letter to the White House made public Tuesday.

Among the signers were Dr. Jerome Weisner, former science advisor to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson; Senator Charles E. Goodell (Rep. N.Y.); Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, and Gen. David M. Shoup, former Marine Corps commandant.

"There is growing evidence that large underground tests could endanger the population," their letter said. They proposed banning tests of weapons over 10 kilotons.

Manitoba Liberal Joins NDP

WINNIPEG (CP) — The New Democratic Party, its ranks bolstered by the addition of a member elected under the Liberal banner, has mustered an over-all majority in the Manitoba legislature.

With the addition of Larry Desjardins to his caucus, NDP Leader Ed Schreyer called for the resignation before Friday of Premier Walter Weir's election-battered government.

If Mr. Weir does not resign, the NDP leader told a news conference Tuesday night, he will seek the assistance of the lieutenant-governor.

Mr. Desjardins, 46, has been a Liberal member of the legislature for St. Boniface since 1959. He announced he will join the NDP caucus and sit as a Liberal-Democrat, giving the NDP a bare majority of 29 seats in the 57-member house.

A Family Affair

The Walter Law family from Bluefield, W. Virginia, make keeping in shape a family affair as they jog down the Outlet Park road early on Dominion Day. The family is camping at the park.

Town Planners Oppose County Planning Area

TRENTON — Council here will oppose the immediate organization of a county planning board for Hastings, pending a complete probe into the matter.

Councillor Paul Tripp told council of a recommendation made by the Trenton Planning Board which opposed the setting up of a county planning board.

Labelling the move as "premature" and "requiring more study" councillor Tripp asked the matter be looked into before any such plan is endorsed.

"It is premature to go into this until we have a complete study of the economics of the municipalities involved," said councillor Tripp.

He added that the Smith report should also be studied in depth and relased to the situation.

For Mayor James MacDonald the planning boards of Trenton and Belleville have been "quite efficient" a nd care should be taken in making any move that would result in a change in their operation.

Hastings County Council had advocated the plan of a county planning board at a recent meeting.

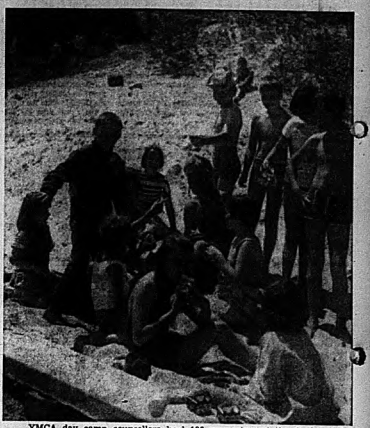
But to initiate the plan at this time would be, according to councillor Tripp, "a disaster".

"I believe planning committees should be set up in each community concerned to study a county board would have," said councillor Tripp.

For this councillor, the differences in the county require much looking into before a board could be set up to handle the job.

"I believe the mayor of Belleville shares this viewpoint," said councillor Tripp.

Intruders Foiled



Police Investigate Break-ins

PICTON — Police are holding two suspects in connection with two break-ins over the weekend.

The kitchen door in the home of Mrs. Malcolm Rorabeck was forced but the intruders left empty - handed.

The second break - in occurred at 85 Mary St. the home of Mrs. Allan Jarvis. Mrs. Jarvis heard the intruders and frightened them off when she went to investigate.

In downtown Picton, a window of Andrew's Paint and Paper Shop was smashed. Damage is estimated at $25.

YMCA day camp counsellors had 100 youngsters at the Outlet park yesterday — their first excursion of this year's day camp program. Other trips are planned during the next two weeks to Old Fort Henry and O'Hara's Mill as well as an all day hike.

Campers Enjoy Excursions

Travel is the word this year as far as the local YMCA's day camp operation is concerned.

The program, which began this week, will consist of two two-week courses with about 100 youngsters attending day camp in each session. They will be supervised by at least 10 counsellors.

And to start the first session off on Dominion Day, two busloads of youngsters went to the Outlet Park for a day of sunbathing, swimming, picnicking and fun.

Other excursions will be taken to Old Fort Henry in Kingston and to O'Hara's Mill.

An all-day hike cross country is also planned.

Each day of the week there is day camp instruction at the YMCA building itself from 10 to 11 a.m. and day camp swim from 2.30 to 4.30 p.m. when there are no excursions on the agenda.

All of the counsellors, who usually have around 10 youngsters to look after, attended the playground day camp supervisory training session at the Salvation Army camp on Robin Lake in Ameliasburg.

William Bell is program assistant and Vicki Joblin, Carol Booth, Carol Nix, Jayne Riley, Debbie Holway, Cathy Mansbip, Mike Gorman, Alan Craig, Ron Hisner, Steve Burtch, Dave Grant and Paul Hayes are counsellors in the day camp program this year.

The program, open to the children of members as well as non-members, costs a nominal amount but those who can't afford the charge can still attend.

The first day camp period, from June 30 to July 11 was completely filled weeks ago and although subscribers to the second session are getting more numerous every day there are still a few spaces open.

Life Jackets Save Swamped Canoeists

The worth of a life-jacket became evident yesterday when a light canoe, over half-way across the Bay of Quinte, overturned.

Howard Hyderman, 24, of 52 Bridge St. was out canoeing with 14 year old Roy Willis of 76 St. Paul St. when the mishap occurred.

But before embarking, Mr. Hyderman, realizing his 14 year-old passenger could not swim very well, had insisted he wear a life jacket.

Police chief Douglas Cross said the canoe capsized in front of the sewage disposal plant over half-way across the bay, when the wake of a passing motor boat hit the canoe from the wrong angle.

"There was no intentional burning of the canoe," said the chief, "and it was far enough away that the canoe's passengers didn't realize the wave was coming. But it was lucky the life jacket was there."

Employees at the sewage plant saw the canoe go over and reported it immediately, so that the LaSalle Ambulance rescue boat was able to get to the scene in a matter of minutes. Its crew rescued the safe, but soaked canoeists.

Rustlers Hit Area Farm

Rustlers have performed an on-the-spot butchering operation that cost a Belleville-area farmer a $250 steer.

The carcass of the steer was found yesterday on the Point Anne farm of Sam Gurnick.

Belleville provincial police say the steer was slaughtered sometime during the past weekend in an open field 300 feet from the Point Anne Lane and its hindquarters taken.

Car Crash Injures Woman

A Trenton woman is hospitalized today with injuries suffered in a two-car crash on Highway 2 near the Canadian Forces Base Trenton last night.

Mrs. Margaret Auger, 55 Kerr Crescent, Trenton, sustained possible back injuries when a car driven by her husband, Thomas, 50, was in collision with an automobile driven by Gary Wayne Owens, 22, of 48 Yeomans Street, Belleville. She was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital.

The mishap occurred at the 6RD road intersection and provincial police estimated total damage at $1,000.

Bolt of Lightning Hits Frankford Man

A Frankford man, Albert Cadwell, 67, was thrown eight feet and knocked unconscious Monday morning when lightning struck his house.

Mr. Cadwell, a retired Frankford shoemaker, was sitting at his kitchen table in his Frankford home when the lightning struck him.

He sustained burns to his face and arms. A pair of spectacles he was wearing at the time were shattered and the frame completely burned.

The lightning leaped from an electrical outlet about three feet away from Mr. Cadwell. An electric clock plugged into the outlet was completely burned.

Mr. Cadwell was alone at the time of the incident.

Christophers Aid Community

PICTON — A dozen teenagers gathered on Picton's Main Street Monday, causing a stir that drew Mayor H. J. McFarland, a photographer, and several passers-by to the scene.

A love-in perhaps? Spokesman for the group, David Anderson, quickly explained that he and his companions were members of Project Christopher, doing "their thing" to aid community development.

The young people were busily mowing grass, raking, and weeding flower beds on the lawn of Ted Armand, who praised the good will ambassadors for their initiative.

Mr. Armand had been working in his yard when he looked up to see the teenagers walking past, one of them carrying a guitar.

When he asked for a song the group joined in singing the ballad of "Johnny Appleseed," then offered to finish Mr. Armand's yard work.

"These youngsters deserve recognition for their work," commented Mr. Armand.

"So many teens gain publicity through misbehavior when it's really young people like these who deserve recognition," he added.

Associated with Project Christopher, the 12 teens who helped Mr. Armand with his gardening are among 95 members of this international group now staying on Wauposs Island.

During the winter and early spring these teens work with Project Christopher Chapters in various cities. Their time is spent earning money by holding bake sales and sponsoring other profit making projects.

The money is pooled annually to send as many representatives as possible from each chapter on cross-country tours of good will during the summer months.

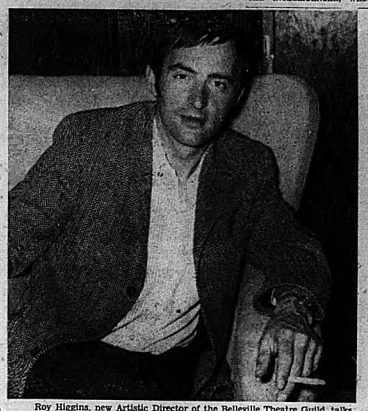
The young people's group is interdenominational and is headed by Father John Brayley who started Project Christopher in Montreal nine years ago.

The "Christophers" now at Wauposs Island will leave Prince Edward on Friday, bound for Ottawa where each member will commit himself to a particular program of summer work.

Some teens will work with the mentally retarded while others will spend time with the aged and underprivilegee.

Said 19 year old Greg Blackie, one of the organization's leaders, "To us community development means assisting people willing to put us to work."

"We talk to the people we help and in so doing learn about them," he commented.



Mr. Armand, the Picton resident assisted by the "Christophers" observed at once that they were "the opposite to hippies."

When asked if long hair and hippie styles did exist among the Christophers, Greg Blackie replied, "We have a few with long hair but we police ourselves on our appearance."

"When we move into a new community we are judged primarily by our appearance so we keep our hair cut," said the youth leader.

Mayor H. J. McFarland, who stopped when he saw the teens at work on Main Street, lauded them for their aims.

He asked that the group come to his office Friday for a special presentation before leaving the county.

Roy Higgins, new Artistic Director of the Belleville Theatre Guild, talks about production plans for the coming year. The Guild's new home is located at the old Salvation Army Cita del and has been dubbed the "Gallows Theatre."

Olympic Awards Given Retarded Graduate

Belleville School for Retarded Children has closed for another term with two of its students graduated.

The event was marked by closing exercises attended by close to 40 parents and guests.

Presentation of prizes and a program by the school's 33 children were among the highlights of the event.

Graduates were Sheila Scea and Garry Baldree.

The schools Olympic quartet also received 11 medals for its efforts at the recent first Canadian Olympics for retarded children in Toronto.

Nine of the awards were for swimming and the medals — two gold, two silver, seven bronze — were awarded team members Sheila Scea, Julie Murray, George McGrimmon and Roddy Stovell.

Newest Industry Plans Expansion

DESERONTO — The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company has become the Quinte area's newest industrialist — and has already announced plans for expansion.

A and P yesterday became owner of the Metcalfe Foods plant here and today revealed it had purchased 8½ acres of adjacent land to enlarge production facilities.

The land has been acquired from the now inoperative Dravo Company.

The purchase, says G. N. Provost, A and P president and chairman, provides the marketing chain with expansion opportunity in supplying "remanufacturers and to extend the line of private brands, including additional products under the A and P label."

A portion of the purchased land, Mr. Provost disclosed, will be sold to the Ontario Water Resources Commission for a proposed water treatment plant.

Purchase of the 35 year-old Metcalfe operation — effective July 1 was confirmed by A and P last week.

Power Cuts Scheduled

Don't panic if the power is off in your area for a few minutes tomorrow morning. It's part of a house moving operation.

The Belleville Utilities Commission will be cutting electric power at various intervals as the house is moved to another location. The West side of North Front Street will be the area affected.

The height of the house with the float on which it will be moved is 32 feet but the service lines are only 18 feet above the pavement. As the house is moved down the street the service lines that are in the way will be disconnected to allow the house to pass.

The power cuts will last 15 to 20 minutes as the house owned by F. Godbout progresses the four miles to its new location in Thurlow township.

Two Bulls Killed By Car

TWEED — A Peterborough man escaped injury early this morning when his car came into collision with a pair of yearling Jersey bulls.

The accident occurred at 2.15 a.m. this morning as Marcel Fournier, 40, travelled eastbound on highway No. 7.

One bull was killed instantly after the crash and the second had to be destroyed by OPP at the scene.

Owner of the bulls was Mansfred Kulach of Actinolite. The animals were worth $300. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $400.

No Ballet In City This Year

The National Ballet Company will not be touring Canada this year, and, as a result, the troupe will not be performing in Belleville.

This was the main announcement made to the Belleville branch of the National Ballet Guild at its annual general meeting June 19 at the home of Mrs. Dorothy McKinnon.

Members were also informed of the financial success of the Wine and Cheese Party, which the guild sponsored.

New officers for 1969-70 are: Mrs. Irene Harris, past president; Mrs. Kay Manderville, president; Mrs. Lou Halpin, 1st. vice-president; Mrs. Heidi Peschken, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Daphne Clarke, secretary; Mrs. Jane Haslett, treasurer; Mrs. Carol Wilson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Doris Waddell, publicity; Mrs. Joan Hipwell, Quinte Arts Council representative.

Members at large are Mrs. Dorothy McKinnon, Mrs. Diane Coyne and Mrs. Maria Kvarda.

Guild Director Promotes Teenagers' Drop-in Centre

By JUDY SCHRIEDER
(Staff Reporter)

For Roy Higgins, newly established artistic director of the Belleville Theatre Guild, the "medium" is the theatre.

He feels that there is a great need to "cultivate understanding" in order to bridge the communication gap, and, to that end, he spends from 2 to 5 p.m. every day at the Guild's new theatre, "communicating" with the teen members of the association.

The "drop-in" centre provides a forum for group discussion, most of which centres around the teens' theatrical interests. However, Mr. Higgins was quick to point out, the discussions are not necessarily restricted to guild members.

"There is definitely need for involvement and encouragement," he said. "The theatre guild is a community venture."

Non-members who are interested in any aspect of the theatre are most welcome to participate in the afternoon sessions.

"The key word is involvement," stressed the new director. His background certainly supports his belief.

A Torontonian by birth, Higgins slipped into New York's theatrical world at the age of 15, when he journeyed to that city to establish himself in professional theatre.

His philosophy is simple and direct: "Set a goal, you can make a goal."

That is exactly what Roy Higgins did.

He spent years in the theatre and movie industry in California where he directed relatively inexperienced young people.

In the last four years, he has directed 24 shows, mostly with young people, and all without a single "flop."

In 1967, the only high school production to appear at Expo was Higgins' mounting of "Our Town," presented by the Dunbarton Secondary School of Pickering, Ontario.

Inspired by the growth of interest in theatre among students, he channeled this interest into the creation of North America's first Youth Theatre Company in Newcastle in 1968.

As founding director of the Great Pine Ridge Festival of the Arts in that village, Roy Higgins and his troupe of teens accomplished an amazing theatrical feat, presenting three plays, six performances each, during a period of three and a half weeks.

The Newcastle experience will be reborn in the Belleville area this coming fall, when Mr. Higgins plans to direct an entirely student run production, with adult supervision.

At the present time, 36 teens participate in the guild's activities, but the aim is for "total area involvement."

Higgins hopes to launch a season subscription campaign, aimiig for 1000 subscribers.

"What I am trying to do is decentralize the theatre," he commented.

The attainment of that goal would mean more community participation.

"Richard Howard, director last year caught the enthusiasm of the people," remarked the new director. Now Higgins feels that it is his job to harness that interest.

There will be at least five plays produced by the Guild this coming year, one of them being a musical.

Mr. Higgins has been involved in eight professional musicals. Last winter, as artistic director in Cobourg, he directed the well-known play, Oliver.

At the present time, plans are under way to produce a one-act summer play for the children at the Belleville parks.

Mr. Higgins remarked that he would also like to produce a series of short radio plays, if he had the opportunity.

"The challenge of "the theatre here and the friendliness of the community made me choose to work in Belleville," he said.

Even in the short length that Mr. Higgins has resided in the area, he has already taken an active role in local endeavors, as production manager for Arts Festival '69 aimiig for 1000 subscribers.

Pet Shelter Conundrum

It is hoped that the acrimony and hard lines engaged in by the Province of Ontario and the Ontario Humane Society will not be evident when the City of Belleville and the local branch of the humane society sit down to discuss animal control.

The provincial body cancelled its contracts across the province last week in protest of the provincial legislation which will require all municipal pounds to release unclaimed or unsold animals for use in research and teaching.

As a result, Trenton and Belleville again face the problems of municipal animal control. Officials of the local branch of the society indicate a willingness to negotiate. Municipal officials agree that the accommodation of the past months was satisfactory.

Despite all the legislation passed by humans, dogs just do not understand that if they now run at large they might end on a dissecting table in a research laboratory.

Obviously the impasse must be resolved by human beings in a fashion that is humane for the animals, fair to the pet owner and yet protect the rights of the rest of the community.

Tshombe Dead

With the death of Moise Tshombe only one major figure in the political spectrum of the Congo remains after nine years of turbulent independence. Undisputed leader and survivor of the early turmoil in the former Belgian colony is Lt. Gen. Joseph Mobutu, the one-time army sergeant who seized power in a bloodless coup in November 1965.

Tshombe was only 49 when death came from a heart attack in Algiers. He had been a prisoner of the Algerians since his chartered aircraft was hijacked over the Mediterranean exactly two years ago. It was Tshombe who in the period of turmoil and anarchy immediately following the Congo achieving independence in 1960 broke away from the central government to head a secessionist government in the province of Katanga.

The Katanga revolt was subsequently crushed and Tshombe went into exile. In 1965 he was recalled by President Joseph Kasavubu to be premier. Soon they were engaged in a struggle for power. Kasavubu won and Tshombe went back into exile. Only weeks later Kasavubu was himself ousted by Gen. Mobutu, then chief of the Congolese army.

Kasavubu died in March from a brain hemorrhage, at the age of 56. President from the Congo's beginning as an independent state in 1960, his colleague as prime minister at that time was Patrice Lumumba, a left-winger who was murdered by tribesmen in Katanga in 1961. His death was believed politically inspired.

Now only Mobutu survives. Of all the Congo's leaders he is the one who seems to have retained the respect of the population and maintained law and order in a land which only three years ago was in chaos and required United Nations intervention to restore calm.

Mixed Offering

This spring and summer have been different all right. It has been cool and rainy, hot and humid by turn, and Monday morning's thunder blasts may have been making up for what Belleville missed last Friday night when other parts of Hastings county erupted loudly.

If you really want to see an open-air spectacular, however, go to the Adirondacks on a hot steamy day. Last week's storm hit there too; it began quietly enough, then the rumbling grew louder and the rains came and fork and sheet lightning rent the atmosphere.

The wet road and thrashing forest in that eerie tree-shrouded mountain region for brief seconds were turned into day by the electrical phenomenon in the sky, and everything took on a bluish tinge from its reflection.

It was like something Robert Louis Stevenson might have described during his sojourn at Saranac Lake. There he spent the winter of 1887-88 before leaving on further journeys and settling finally in Samoa.

In the village of South Colton, with lightning flashes still close, fire engines and an ambulance were taking care of some trouble on the main street. A lightning strike perhaps, fire, or both; it was difficult to see as cars were waved past. It was not a night one would have wanted to take to the outdoors, yet the firemen and ambulance men were there, whatever the need.

U.S. Put in the Shade

Russia Credited with Keeping India-Pakistani Peace

By MYRON BELKIND

NEW DELHI (AP) —President Nixon's visit to the Asian sub-continent next month comes at a time of increasing Soviet initiatives there.

In an effort to make friends, Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin has made almost regular trips to the area—going four times to India, twice to Pakistan and once to Afghanistan in the last 3½ years.

Former president Johnson made a stopover of only a few hours in Karachi, Pakistan, to meet former president Ayub Khan in December, 1966.

Dwight D. Eisenhower was the last president to make a tour of the sub-continent, visiting India, Pakistan and Afghanistan in 1959.

More recently State Secretary William P. Rogers made a three-day swing through India, Pakistan and Afghanistan in May.

It is known that U.S. embassy officials in New Delhi have pushed hard for a long time to get Washington to send some high-ranking officials to visit India.

The absence of high-ranking American visitors to the sub-continent is viewed by many observers here as a reflection of a passive and ad hoc diplomatic approach to the region.

The continually shifting U.S. policy of arms sales to India and Pakistan is an example.

The United States sold arms to both countries until the two neighbors went to war in 1965. Johnson responded by cutting off arms to the two nations, hurting the U.S.-armed Pakistani military forces more than the mainly Russian-equipped Indian forces.

Under Pakistani pressure, the policy was relaxed in 1967 to permit the sale of equipment and spare parts to both countries, and was further modified later to permit the sale of weapons by North Atlantic Treaty Organization members, with each sale to be considered on a case-by-case basis.

Now, the Nixon administration says it is reconsidering the whole issue again.

Russia is the largest seller of arms to India and last year agreed to supply weapons to Pakistan, too.

Both Russia and the United States have been generous contributors of economic aid.

But the Russians have made their greatest impact in the area of international diplomacy.

During his recent swing through the sub-continent, Kosygin campaigned hard for greater regional economic cooperation—and got a friendly reception.

The Soviet Communist party chief, Leonid Brezhnev, suggested to the recently concluded world Communist conference that the nations of this region should form a collective security pact.

The proposal has been received only lukewarmly, but the Russians have at least been given credit in official quarters for trying to end the neighborly conflicts that have disrupted the sub-continent since it was partitioned in 1947.

"I hope you can explain this, Kampshapht — if these figures are correct, we've recalled more units for defects than we've produced!"

July 2, 1969 . . .

Amelia Earhart, pioneer American aviator, and navigator Fred Noonan disappeared 32 years ago today — in 1937 — when nearly at the end of a round-world flight. They reported by radio, on a 2,556-mile flight from New Guinea to Howland Island, in the Pacific, that they were out of fuel — and were never heard from again. It was later suggested they had been asked to spy on Japanese fortifications and eventually died in Japanese hands.

Police Praised For Their Interest In Youth of Belleville

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

We would like to take this opportunity to express our sincere thanks to Chief Crosbie and his staff for the interest he interest they take in the youth of Belleville. On several occasions various sections of the 17th Belleville Scout Group have had the opportunity to visit the Police Station and were shown every courtesy and consideration by the police in describing their duties and facilities. A thorough explanation of the duties and functions of the court was given as well. Very often the guides are off duty policemen and on one occasion we know of they had just come off duty and had not even taken time for supper.

We sincerely believe these courtesies and explanations by our police force have given our boys a new outlook on policemen in general.

In our opinion, Chief Crosbie and his staff deserve a lot less criticism and more support.

Canada and U. S. Now Co-operating On Hydro Prospects

Toronto Star Syndicate

Canada and the United States will one day join in producing vast quantities of hydroelectric power. Rivalries among western provinces and states are giving way to mutual accommodations.

The huge system will extend from northern Alaska to the Gulf of California and may extend as far east as the Great Lakes.

Key men from all over the western United States, British Columbia, the Yukon and Alaska have met in the State of Washington to discuss long range plans, with special attention paid to each region's problems.

Two basic systems were discussed:

The use of the Rocky Mountain Trench—a southward flowing depression starting in the Yukon — to funnel fresh water into the northwestern United States. A southward flowing lake and canal system which would start at the Peace River Reservoir in British Columbia. It would flow across Alberta, into Saskatchewan where it would split into two branches. One would flow south from Moose Jaw into the Mississippi River system; the other across Manitoba, through Ontario's western lakes into Lake Superior.

Millions of acre feet (see Editor's Note) of fresh water from Canada's northwest and Alaska are wasted each year.

For example, Alaska's rivers pour 800 million acre feet of fresh water into the Pacific and Arctic Oceans each year. Canada's annual runoff is much greater. It is estimated two billion, five hundred fifty million acre feet of fresh water run into the oceans each year—water which will be desperately needed in the near future.

No other nation in the world boasts such a vast supply of fresh water as does Canada.

EDITOR'S NOTE: One acre foot of water is enough to cover an acre of land with water one foot deep. The amount of water is 325,900 gallons.

Gun Toll In U.S. Increases

Windsor Star

There were 205 people killed by guns in the United States last week, of which 131 were homicides, 65 suicides and only 19 accidental. This compares with the same week in 1968 when 199 were killed.

It is odd indeed that, in light of these figures, there still are groups and individuals opposed to adequate control over guns. Not all the above victims were killed with premeditation, it is the cold fact still is that guns are made to kill.

That was their original purpose and, sad to say, that is all too often their effect.

Weather Comment is Tricky

Vancouver Sun

It is with some trepidation that we comment upon our early Southern California - type weather. There is an old saying—as old as one of our high school teachers, anyway—that to talk about a virtue means its loss. Veteran motorcar drivers, even before being stripped of the protection of St. Christopher sensed this instinctively when they commented upon their luck in completing their cars for good behavior until they got where they were going.

Similarly, an editorial on sunshine and warmth almost automatically presages a radical change in the weather, usual between editions. Still, the temptation to remark on a theme or two is irresistible. Perhaps in time around it won't constitute the kiss of death.

There appears to be a school of logic—feminine, of course—that, like baked beans, there is only so much weather in the pot. If the good stuff is drawn upon rashly, there isn't much left to spread around. There are nice ladies presently going through the miseries of the damned because they know — they know! that they will holiday in snow storms because their good weather credit already has been eaten up.

Sometime, when the weathermen are marooned between highs and lows, maybe they'll work over their files and from the "no dear, yes dear" routine. It may be, too, that a spinoff from such serious scientific study would be a recommendation that West Coasters start taking summer holidays in May and June.

Well, we've gone and said it. You look out the window—we're chicken.

May Have Little Effect

Seven-Nation Body Threatens More Rhodesia Sanctions

By HAROLD MORKISON

LONDON (CP) — A special seven-country Commonwealth group is to study how the economic war against Rhodesia can be made more effective but this move is unlikely to cause much trembling among Ian Smith's men.

The Rhodesian leader, with the aid of his friends, has been able in part to surmount existing trade and other embargoes. Even those officials involved in the new study cynically question whether more sanctions can make much difference.

They suggest the best that can be expected is that the various moves will continue to act as irritants—to take the joy out of Smith's power until a more moderate force can gain political strength.

The seven nations in the group are Canada, India, Pakistan, Jamaica, Kenya, Zambia and Britain.

When compulsory embargoes against Rhodesia were first imposed by the United Nations three years ago, there was a growing feeling inside the Commonwealth that Smith could not long survive. But South Africa and Portuguese colonies close to Rhodesia merely ignored the UN order and helped move essential goods in and out of Rhodesia.

Since then a number of other countries have either been lax in maintaining port control over trade or have shown enthusiasm for the UN measures. Chrome, tobacco and copper have moved out of Rhodesia for sale abroad, in some cases falsely labelled. A number of foreign products, including British cars, have moved into Rhodesia. Some observers suggest there is a greater sense of prosperity in Rhodesia than in Britain.

Probably one element in the lagging spirit of the UN sanctions is that Smith has displayed unusual skill and endurance in his political tangles with Prime Minister Wilson and other British officials. In the effect challenged Britain to test his political control over Rhodesia. Wilson accepted the challenge with some political hesitation, though to suggest to some Commonwealth leaders at that Wilson's heart wasn't in it.

Now that Smith has decided to cut all links with Britain and pursue an independent course—probably edging close to South Africa—Afro-Asian Commonwealth members have raised a fresh cry against the lack of British will. The new study group is the answer.

It is somewhat similar to a Canadian situation when a government finds itself confronting an unsavory problem and immediately sets up a royal commission to recommend a solution. The seven-country study group has been ordered to meet quickly and urgently and report back to the Commonwealth sanctions committee.

It may be mid-August before the study group makes a report and it may take longer for the sanctions committee to study it. But in the end, the ability of the sanctions committee to plug embargo holes will still depend on the spirit and will of UN members.

Monday Brings Washday Blues to Man's Best Friend

But for Winston — a year-and-a-half-old St. Bernard — washday means he's on the receiving end of soap and scrub-brush. If you can picture yourself washing behind the ears of a 170-pound baby, you can appreciate the task regularly undertaken by Winston's admiring "parents." Fortunately, Winston's garden-hose baths are usually only twice-monthly affairs.

You Said It!

Today's forum for public opinion deals with the labor movement. The feature is designed to provide a forum for Quinte area residents to express their views. Opinions expressed by the contributors to You Said It are not necessarily those of the publisher.

By DONALD G. BURSHAW

In my opinion, one of the biggest mistakes the Labor Movement has made over the years, has been in the field of communications; of not doing a better job of keeping the public informed as to what is fact and what is fiction, in regards to the activities of unions.

To a large degree, the public only hears from headlines and newscasts when unions are on strike and don't realize that almost two million Canadian breadwinners belong to unions. They negotiate and renegotiate their wages, hours and working conditions with their employers and 95 per cent reach settlement without any trouble. Only five percent of these thousands and thousands of union-management discussions result in work stoppage.

Some people get the idea from the news media that union members are just asking to go on strike all the time, but the facts prove otherwise.

If the public only knew, the hours, days, weeks and even months of negotiations, conciliation, that take place to avoid a strike.

Or, if you think the union members have been "agitated" to go on strike by some "union leader", just imagine how frustrated you would have to feel before you would voluntarily give up your pay cheque, before you would be willing to tramp around in rain, heat, cold or snow, walking a picket line.

Under most union constitution and bylaws, it takes a two-thirds majority vote by secret ballot by the membership before they take strike action.

The truth is that employees have to be very, very frustrated and quite convinced that their employer isn't treating them fairly before they will vote "yes" to strike. If you believe otherwise, you need the experience of standing up in front of a membership under these conditions and face the questions that are presented to you, before a vote is taken.

The facts are that experienced union leaders do everything possible to avoid, rather than encourage, work stoppage. The five percent work stoppages and the 95 per cent settlements reached without trouble proves this to be a fact.

Most of us have often heard "higher wages mean higher prices". But few realize that by itself the statement that "higher wages means higher prices" is just plain economic nonsense.

When you realize just how small the wage factor is in many of the goods and services we buy, it becomes quite clear that increases in wages alone cannot possibly account for the rapid increases in prices in recent years.

How many housewives realize that direct wage cost in a pound of steak is about a nickel?

How many people realize that in a house costing $20,000 the total wage bill is around $2,500 while the cost of raw material, land, finance charges and builders' profits account for 88 per cent of the cost?

How many realize that wages paid to the workers who assemble the average four-door full-size passenger car is something less than $60?

These are facts that the public is not exposed to, but they are facts that clearly show why it is impossible for wages to be the major cause of most price increases — but wages are still blamed for rising prices.

Profits receive little attention as a cause of rising prices and yet in 1968 the before-tax profits of corporations in Canada, were close to six billion dollars. Thus profits in 1968 rose by some 17 per cent above the level of the previous year.

The salaries of executives have gone up 60 per cent since 1961, while the pay of hourly workers has risen by 40 per cent.

Last year Ford Motor Company paid over $10,000,000 in salaries and supplemental compensation to its 52 directors and officers — an average of almost $400,000 each. It seems strange that labor gets blamed for inflation, and corporation profits soar, while according to the Economic Council of Canada, four million Canadians live in poverty.

Perhaps the next time someone tells you sternly that "high wages are pushing up prices" you will pause for a moment, and remember the facts — and perhaps recall the findings of The Report of the Task Force on Labor Relations tabled by the Prime Minister in the House of Commons on Wednesday, March 26, 1969. After a year and a half of study, these experts found that wage increases were not the cause of the price increases we have been experiencing. They pointed out:

"Our conclusions about the causes of inflation, and particularly about the role of collective bargaining in the inflationary process, will disappoint those who seek a single culprit, and especially those who see the labor movement as the prime candidate for this honor. The problem is too complex for such a simplified solution."

The task force also agrees with the council that wage guidelines offer no real contribution to the problem of reaching equitable non-inflationary settlements.

Some people believe that unions are too big and powerful. Did you ever think that in Canada they are probably not big enough?

Did you know that less than one third of Canada's working force is organized into recognized union organizations compared with over two thirds in Sweden and about 50 per cent in Great Britain?

There is a real need for organization of unions, for the "white collared" workers in offices, banks and stores, along with further escalation in all fields of the working class.

A lot of people feel that unions are too selfish. Of course we are organized to serve our members and our job is to serve them well. If we don't serve them well by improving their wages, working conditions and standard of living, we are failing down on the job.

But if we don't consider the public interest, we are also failing down on the job.

The record of the labor movement is not selfish. Far from it. We have been fighting for years for almost every social welfare measure we enjoy today. We are still fighting for social improvements and we will continue to do so.

Unions are not perfect, but like democracy — which isn't perfect either — no one has worked out a better system.

County Delegate Attends 4-H Meet

For Robert Jarrell, of RR 6, Belleville, 4-H provincial conference was a challenging experience. More than 75 outstanding 4-H agricultural club members from across the province attended the week-long conference held at the University of Guelph June 23-27.

Active participation on both the individual and team level was stressed. Each delegate was encouraged to better understand his own role as a member of the group.

Leadership methods and proposed changes in 4-H club programs were topics of enthusiastic discussion. Individual development has replaced technical training in agriculture as the main purpose of 4-H.

Delegates also explored various agricultural departments of the university.

The conference, however, allowed plenty of time for fun. Conversation, pranks, and sing-songs continued long past the recommended bedtime, making early morning exercises seem even earlier.

Everyone agreed that meeting fellow delegates from across the province was the highpoint of the week. As one youth said, "Now I could walk from Ottawa to Windsor and eat well all the way."

Queensboro

QUEENSBORO — Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McMurray and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Declair attended a testimonial dinner in honor of Rev. and Mrs. E. Snelgrove recently at Carnegie Street United Church, Lindsay, on the occasion of Rev. Snelgrove's retirement.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper McClintock of Kapuskasing visited Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McMurray on the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lynn and children of Cobourg spent the weekend with Mrs. W. J. Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Walker Jr. and children of Oshawa were weekend visitors of his grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Walker.

Mrs. Frederick Feeney of Peterborough spent the weekend with Mrs. Frank Barry.

Over one hundred friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Holmes on June 21 to celebrate the 40th anniversary of Mr. Holmes parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Roushorn of Whitby.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Kapusta of Ottawa and Douglas Thompson of Toronto spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson and along with Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson and Bob attended the Rollins family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rollins of Lakefield.

Around the Cat

The Whig Standard trophy for lawn bowling will rest in Kingston for the coming year.

Kitty Ovens and Eddie Deantsion of the Kingston Club won the trophy at a tournament held Tuesday on the Kingston greens. There were 32 rinks in competition from Belleville, Kingston, Trenton and Prescott. A tournament in Peterborough took a number of Madoc and Campbellford bowlers to that point.

In second and third places were also rinks from the Kingston Club, Muriel and Bill Duncan Sr. finishing in second place and Stella and Harold Buck in third place. In fourth place were Mr. and Mrs. E. Monk of Prescott.

The two-game high score was won by a Belleville rink of Millie and Orlo Smith, while the one-game high score was also taken by a Belleville rink of Thelma Fitzgibbon and Jerry Hyde, Jr. The no-game high was won by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leishman of Kingston.

Belleville rinks taking part in the tournament were Millie and Orlo Smith, Joan and Jerry Hyde Sr., Thelma Fitzgibbon and Jerry Hyde, Jr., Marg Sherman and "Ab" Wonnacott, Edie and Walter Elliott, and Lois and Bill Van-Tassel.

The bowlers reported that the greens were in good condition but a trifle heavy.

A mixed pairs tournament will be held in Trenton for the Parker trophy next Saturday.

OUTSTANDING RECORD

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Moncton recorded the lowest fatal accident rate per 10,000 persons in any city in Canada in 1968, a Canadian Safety Council Survey says. The city recorded only one fatal accident last year.

UNDERSTANDING TEAM

MONTAGUE, P.E.I. (CP) — Jerry Bell of Montague found that some teams go to great lengths to accommodate star hockey players. Montague's juvenile hockey team rescheduled a Maritime juvenile hockey playoff game to 11 a.m. from 2 p.m. so Bell could marry Beth McKinnon. The game ended at 1:30 p.m. and Bell made it to church for the 2 p.m. ceremony.

Canada with Modest Gaiety, Celebrates Its 102nd Birthday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada, with modest gaiety, became 102 years old Tuesday.

For most Canadians it was just another summer holiday marked with speech making, sports and concert events and the inevitable rush to the highways and resort areas.

There was an international flavor, too, when Dominion Day was noted in Germany, Hong Kong and Bucharest.

The Canadian activities started Monday night on Parliament Hill with concerts, a fireworks display and dancing in the streets until 1 a.m.

In Toronto, someone aimed poorly and a 21-gun salute tore leaves off maple trees and rattled the windows of the Ontario legislature.

In Port Chambley, Germany, members of Canada's NATO brigade were hosts at an international fly-in when 90 aircraft arrived with more than 300 guests from other NATO brigades for a friendly get-together.

About 50 persons gathered at the Sai Wan war cemetery in Hong Kong as R. G. Heshaway, Canadian trade commissioner, placed a wreath in memory of the 300 Canadians who died there in defence of Hong Kong. The men were members of the Winnipeg Grenadiers and the Royal Rifles of Canada.

In Bucharest, an article in the official Communist party newspaper Scinteia, commended Canada's decision to establish diplomatic ties with Communist China. The article was published to mark Canada's birthday.

Across Canada, the weather was generally favorable.

In Ontario, two skydivers parachuted on to the baseball diamond at Kingston penitentiary. A third missed the mark and landed in Lake Ontario, but waded ashore.

Bill Wacey of Trenton, Ont., and Bill Baird of Kingston hit the mark as part of the July 1 celebrations inside the prison. Lawrence Crocker of Toronto missed.

Tolerance Our Greatest Natural Resource

OTTAWA (CP) — The tolerance that Canadians show towards each other is the greatest natural resource of the country, Prime Minister Trudeau said in a Dominion Day message.

"Canada in 1958 is as exciting a country as it was on the centennial of Confederation . . . as rich and beautiful and expansive a country as the Fathers of Confederation a century ago dreamed it might become.

"We are a fortunate people, we Canadians who live in this land. And our greatest good fortune, that which is becoming increasingly evident to others even if not always to ourselves, is not measured in terms of economic or political or military strength. . . .

"Tolerance and moderation are found in this country perhaps in larger measure than anywhere else; against them we can judge our stature as a country and as a people.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Yes, ma'am, it's good for all kinds of nasty little crawly things."

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

QUESTION: What can I put on my luggage so I can easily identify it as a busy airport?

ANSWER: Last year the airlines carried some 225 million pieces of passenger luggage millions of them similar. So when you are travelling, to avoid confusion and long delays, put something bright and distinctive and individual on the exterior of your bags. Th identification mark could consist of strips of bright adhesive tape in a personal pattern or unique travel stickers. Personal identification cards are necessary also for final closup proof that it is your bag. Always keep a business card or identification sticker inside your suitcase. In this age of jets coe mistake at an airport could put your luggage on a plane to Baghdad while you are on your way to New York. Always remove old destination tags before you start a new flight. Otherwise your bags might take your previous trip a second time and without you.

QUESTION: We are taking our children to Niagara Falls for a holiday. Please name a few attractions that would please children as well as adults.

ANSWER: Niagara Falls is one of nature's grandest works and one of the main attractions is just watching the falls. There is a maze of parks where you can rest, loiter or picnic. Two of the major shows for children are Marineland and Game Farm.

Nearby are two other prime attractions, Canada and the Indian Village. The former consists of 11 acres of scale minatures of famous or prominent Canadian buildings and the latter is just what it sounds, a reproduction of a North American Indian village. If you can drag the children away from these attractions, head for the downtown section where they have three towers where you can take an aerial view of the Falls, if you have a head for heights. The Oneida Tower has a shopping plaza at its base, the Skylon features a showcase of products from many nations and a revolving dining room up at the top, and the Seagram Tower has a shopping area, an amusement park and dining rooms aloft.

Then there is Louis Tussaud's Wax Museum and the Hollywood Wax Museum. From here you can stroll to the Houdini Magical Hall of Fame, where many of the magician's tricks are shown and explained. Also, visit the Antique Auto Museum.

Another attraction nearby is Ripley's Believe It or Not Museum, which has some interesting exhibits. Then there are replicas of the crown jewels, the Spanish aerial car, which takes you over the rapids, a trip through the Adam Beck generating station, trips through man-made caves to the base of Horseshoe Falls and the Maid of the Mist trips through the foam to the Falls which costs $1.50 but is recommended to please children and adults alike. If you wish to stay overnight there are many hotels and motels in the area but because of the demand in the summer it is wise to book well in advance. There are two good routes from Belleville—Route No. 1: take 401 to Toronto and the Queen Elizabeth to Niagara Falls. Route No. 2. Take interstate 81 to Syracuse, N.Y., the New York Thru-way to Buffalo N.Y. and the Queen Elizabeth to Niagara Falls. Why not go one way and come back another?

Evidence Is Heard On Beach Ownership

WELLAND (CP) — A judicial inquiry into the ownership of a stretch of Lake Erie beach in nearby Bertie Township received its final evidence Monday.

During two weeks of Supreme Court testimony here and in Toronto, 113 exhibits—mostly survey maps and old documents —were entered as evidence.

Mr. Justice Alexander Stark of Toronto is to hear final argument in the fall from the provincial attorney-general's department and lawyers representing four lake-front property owners.

The property owners want their claims of title to the water's edge recognized. The attorney-general's department contends that the owners never held actual title to the water's edge.

Orbiting Monkey Doing Well

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bonny, the 14-pound orbiting monkey, appears to be in excellent condition, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Tuesday.

He continues to be relaxed and rested, experts monitoring the space flight said.

He did some sleeping Monday night, the reporthasid, and during the day has been alert and active.

Bonny's space capsule was launched from Cape Kennedy, Fla., Saturday night into a near-circular orbit 225 to 315 miles high.

The plan is to have Bonny remain in orbit 30 days to help establish guidelines for future manned missions in space that could last months or even years.

House Faces Two Issues

OTTAWA (CP) — Only two items remain to be disposed of as the Commons goes back to work today after a four-day Dominion Day weekend.

Both items—the official languages will and a proposed rule change could spark enough debate to keep MPs in Ottawa until mid-July or longer.

The Commons originally was to have begun its summer vacation last Friday. But government insistence on passing the rule change giving it power to allocate time for debate raised the hackles of the opposition parties.

They are attacking the proposed rule as dictatorial and promise strong opposition to it.

Trenton Band In Maine

BRUNSWICK Me. (AP) — Representatives of a contingent of Canadian airmen stationed at Topsham Air Force Station for the last decade Tuesday presented a commemorative flagpole in thanks for their reception both here and in Topsham, Me.

Some 40 of the Canadians have been stationed at the air station, which has been acting as a radar information interpretation centre for the 36th North American Air Defence Command Division.

The station is scheduled to close next fall.

Canadian CF-101 jet aircraft from the Canadian base at Chatham, N.B., performed a fly-past of the ceremonies, which also included a performance by a group of kilted bagpiper and drummers from the Canadian Forces Station at Trenton, Ont.

Britain's A-bombs On Subs

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain said Tuesday it has transferred its nuclear strike-force from delta-wing bombers to Polaris submarines.

The defence ministry made the disclosure, which ends a 12-year nuclear role by the Royal Air Force's V-bombers.

Two nuclear submarines, the Repulse and the Resolution, each carrying 16 Polaris missiles, are already in operation. They are to be joined soon by a third, the Renown.

The defence ministry would not say when the changeover took place, but it had been known for some time that the move would be made before the end of the year.

Corvair Owner Wins Suit

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A federal jury awarded $425,000 in damages Tuesday to a 23-year-old woman who charged that the auto accident which left her paralyzed was caused by negligent design of her vehicle.

Jane Jenkins received the damages in a suit against General Motors Corp.

Miss Jenkins was paralysed from her arms down as the result of a 1962 auto accident near Swainsboro, Ga. Her lawyers maintained that the car she drove—a Corvair—was negligently designed.

The accident occurred when the car left the road and struck a culvert.

Tight Security Prevails

case by the side of a road over which Prince Charles travelled an hour later on his way from Caernarvon to board the royal yacht Britannia at Holyhead.

Today, Prince Charles began a four-day tour of Wales by yacht, automobile and helicopter.

The 20-year old heir to the throne covers four of 13 counties today, travelling from Llandudno down to Cardigan, hopping over the steep mountain passes by helicopter.

In a tight nine-hour schedule, the prince has his first prolonged encounter alone with the people over whom he will some day rule.

He meets mayors, local worthies and members of the Welsh League of Youth, a movement strongly imbued with nationalism. He also will inspect troops, sign visitors' books, shake dozens of hands and receive gifts of Welsh slate and inscribed plaques.

The tour winds up Saturday night at the Welsh capital of Cardiff with a concert by the Welsh National Youth Orchestra.

During the tour, he will visit nearly every town of importance and meet a large cross-section of the Welsh people.

Caernarvon, meanwhile, returned to its usual sleepy calm Tuesday night after the pageantry and tension of the day's investiture, when the young prince received the symbols of office from the Queen and promised to "become your liege man of life and limb, and of earthly worship. . . ."

The old town was ankle-deep Tuesday night in torn newspapers and the litter of an estimated 250,000 persons. The invited guest list for the investiture was limited to 4,000.

More police were used to protect the Royal Family than on probably any previous occasion in modern British history. There was at least one policeman every five yards of the procession route, and 2,500 troops also were on hand.

The 700-year-old castle, guests included Canadian High Commissioner Charles Ritchie and Toronto-born Arnold Smith, Commonwealth secretary-general.

Also on hand was John Martin, a Welsh-born alderman from St. Catharines, Ont., a member of the Ontario Welsh-St. David's Society - Interviewed on television, Alderman Martin expressed a hope that Charles will pay a visit to Canada next year. The St. David's Society holds an annual songfest in the Niagara Peninsula.

The ceremonies over, Prince Charles and Princess Anne went aboard the royal yacht Britannia, anchored off Holyhead, in the Irish Sea, for an informal dinner and dance with 16 young friends.

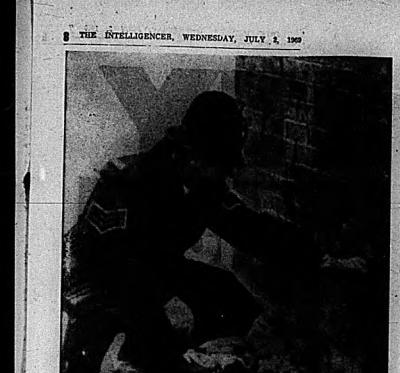
Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon headed a list of 1,700 guests at a lavish ball in a one-time stately home four miles outside Caernarvon.

Also present were more than 200 Canadians who came to Wales on a seven-day tour organized by the Welsh tourist board.

The Queen and Prince Philip, with other members of the Royal Family, returned by train to London shortly after the official investiture ceremonies ended.

Almost up to the time Prince Charles went aboard the Britannia, there were repetitions of the nationalist-inspired incidents which had marked the entire day.

A banana peel was thrown as he passed a tavern and there were a few boos along the processional route.



A specially convened court handed down £5 (£12) fines Tuesday night to a handful of young men charged variously with making insulting gestures at members of the Royal Family during the day's processions, threatening disturbances and carrying potential weapons.

Throughout the ceremony inside Caernarvon Castle, the Queen seemed tense and unsmiling and Charles nervously licked his lips and avoided her eyes. But with the ceremony over, she turned to her newly crowned son and smiled warmly.

In London, Gwynfor Evans, the only Welsh nationalist in the House of Commons, denied the bombings were the work of Welsh nationalists.

"Not the slightest piece of evidence has yet been produced to show that these explosions, which we all condemn, are work of anybody connected with the Welsh nationalist movement," he said.

"If it should come to light that they are the work of anarchists or people who are not Welsh, will members of the government apologize to the Welsh people for the way they have exploited them in order to prevent the advance of the Welsh nation towards national freedom?"

Explosion Damage

Security Made Reporters Resort to Ancient Methods

CAERNARVON, Wales (Reuters) — Journalists covering the investiture of Prince Charles as Prince of Wales Tuesday had to resort to a medieval method to get their copy out of 13th century Caernarvon Castle during the ceremony.

They had to put their stories in a leather pouch which was then lowered from the battlements to a messenger waiting outside.

The reason: No one was allowed out of the castle during the five-hour ceremony.

The rule was laid down for security reasons and because it was not feasible to install telephone lines in the press boxes on the castle battlements.

Reporters also ran into trouble finding out information about the security arrangements for the investiture.

Although at least 5,000 police were in town, the security rules were so tight that no one would talk about it. There was no central police information bureau.

One reporter heard a rumor that two men who had planted a bomb in a small town 40 miles from Caernarvon were killed when the device went off prematurely.

The reporter jumped into his car and tried desperately to get out of town. He was stopped about every 110 yards by police who checked his car for bombs.

After two hours he finally reached the town. Abergelle found out the story was true and tried to get back to Caernarvon.

Again he was checked every 110 yards by police.

But not once did any policeman notice that his car lacked the proper tax stamp to make it legal to drive it.

Nine Titles For Prince

CAERNARVON (AP) — With his investiture as Prince of Wales Tuesday, Charles of Windsor became: His Royal Highness Charles Philip Arthur George, Prince of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, Duke of Cornwall and Rothesay, Earl of Carrick, Baron of Renfrew, Lord of the Isles and Great Steward of Scotland, Prince of Wales, Earl of Chester, Knight of the Garter.

Cosy Dinner After Event

CAERNARVON (A.P.) — Prince Charles, the new Prince of Wales, had a cozy dinner with friends, including some much talked-about girls, before embarking on a tour of Wales today.

The prince invited his closest friends to an informal celebration dinner Tuesday night aboard the royal yacht Britannia.

The guest list, particularly the girls, was headline news in Britain and aroused fresh speculation about the Royal Family's most eligible bachelor.

The girls included Lucia Santa-Cruz, 25-year-old daughter of Chile's ambassador to Britain and a dark-haired beauty Charles has known for years; Sybilla Dorman, 19-year-old daughter of the governor-general of Malta who was Charles's guest at a Cambridge ball last May; and Lady Cecil Kerr, 21, a pretty brunette daughter of the Marquess of Lothian.

After dinner there was "just sitting around and talking and laughing, no music or anything elaborate," a spokesman for the prince said.

The Britannia left early this morning for the vacation resort of Llandudno on the North coast, the first stop on Charles's four-day tour of Wales. Security men were out in force along his travel route.

Free Wales Army Members Imprisoned

SWANSEA, Wales (AP) — Six convicted members of the Free Wales Army were sentenced to prison Tuesday in a court building hung with flags honoring the new Prince of Wales they had sworn to oppose violently.

The sentences came minutes before Queen Elizabeth invested Prince Charles as Prince of Wales.

Three of the prison terms were suspended.

At the height of their activities, uniformed members of the Free Wales Army had claimed they could mobilize 7,000 guerrilla fighters with the backing of millionaire Welshmen.

Testimony at the trial disclosed that the army probably never had more than 15 members and a meager armory.

Ann Landers

Successful Marriage Not Gift—Achievement

ANN LANDERS

DEAR READERS: This may be just another day to you, but it is a very special day in my life. Thirty years ago, on a sweltering Sunday afternoon in Sioux City, Iowa, Jules Lederer slipped a plain gold band on my finger and I became his wife.

Honesty forbids me describing myself as a student of Morningside College, so let me simply say I was enrolled there. Jules had had one year at Northwestern — High School, that is. He was a product of Detroit, handsome, energetic, imaginative, a born optimist and eager to take on the world. He had a good job and a promising future. He was also broke.

I was an effervescent, fun-loving girl, hopelessly square, driven by a crusading spirit to save the world — sort of a Jewish Joan of Arc. I was also engaged to marry a law student in California. But Jules, never one to be discouraged by small obstacles, asked me to marry him anyway. I said yes and the wedding took place three months later.

We were blessed the following year with a baby girl, Margo. From then on, I saw more of the moving van than I saw of Jules. When an opportunity for advancement arose, he took it. And it seemed always to be in another city. We moved from Sioux City to St. Louis, from St. Louis to New Orleans, from New Orleans to Milwaukee. Then came World War II and Jules served in the infantry. In 1945 we moved from Little Rock to Los Angeles, from Los Angeles to Eau Claire, Wisconsin, and from Eau Claire to Chicago.

Time, that subtle thief of youth, is often cursed by those who long to stop the clock, or turn it back, but we want none of that. Each year has been better than the last because we have grown together. A good marriage, it is said, is made in heaven. This might be true, but the maintenance work must be done right down here. A successful marriage is not a gift, it is an achievement. No real marriage can exist without differences in opinion and the ensuing battles. But battles can be healthy. They bring to marriage the vital principle of equal partnership. If there is a secret to making marriage work it is "Never go to bed mad."

Our 30 years together have been blessed with good health, good fortune, good friends, good times and success. Jules says he could not have made it without me. I am not sure he is right. But I could not have made it without him, and of this I am certain. He taught me how to be alone without feeling sorry for myself. He taught me never to back away from a challenge — that it is better to try and fail and then to try again. He taught me how to use my time productively. His work habits are impeccable. I learned mine from him.

Being Mrs. Jules Lederer has been superb training for Ann Landers. Thirty years with this unselfish, supportive, responsive man has enabled me to live life as few people get the opportunity to live it. Being Ann Landers' husband could pose a terrible problem but Jules has met the challenge with dignity and incredible good humor. My husband is my best friend, and I am his. I consider it a privilege to be the wife of this beautiful guy who took on the world with a ninth grade education and a hole in his sock.

HALIFAX (CP) — A Halifax woman told a Canadian Cancer Society meeting that canary bird seed in a linen pouch makes an ideal form for women who have undergone breast surgery, and she has made several for master tomy patients. "I made one . . . for a luncheon lady who needed three boxes of bird seed."

Mr. and Mrs. N. Piccione Mark Diamond Wedding Anniversary

A most auspicious event was celebrated on Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Nicolamario Piccione, Station Street, marked their 60th wedding anniversary with their family.

Mr. and Mrs. Piccione were married on June 27, 1909 in Casalenda, Italy. The following year in 1910, Mr. Piccione immigrated to Canada and five years later in 1915 he was joined by his wife Angela Maria.

The family gathered together and attended mass at 11.30 in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel and later all enjoyed dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Piccione's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Nephan, Strachan Street.

Many floral arrangements, cards and messages of congratulations were received and among these were telegrams from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, Prime Minister Trudeau, Hon. Robert Stanfield, Premier John Roberts, Lee Grills, M.P., and from the Mayor of Belleville Dr. J. Russell Scott. A framed plaque was presented by Dr. R. T. Potter, M.P.P. on behalf of the Provincial Government.

IODE Chapter Holds Picnic

MARMORA — The June meeting of Marmora Chapter of the IODE was held at the summer home of Mrs. Howard Bleecker, Crowe Lake. The picnic supper held before the meeting was highlighted by the cutting of a birthday cake in honor of a member, Miss Miriam Savage, whose birthday was June 24.

Regent, Mrs. William Regan, presided over the business meeting. Since the interest of both parents and pupils in the first Science Fair held in June had been most gratifying, it was the unanimous decision of members to sponsor a Fair again next year and that it should become a yearly event.

It was noted that this project may became a central science fair for our district to be held with Madoc, Stirling and Tweed following the local fair.

A full report by educational secretary, Mrs. Gordon Bennett, indicated that the fair had been successfully carried out, and recommendations for next year were discussed briefly.

Publicity convener, Mrs. G. J. Meiklejohn, said that a report of the Fair would be forwarded to Echoes Magazine. Results of the one-day rummage sale convened by Mrs. Eugene Brady were quite satisfactory.

A report of the work done during the month was given by Mrs. Mel Borland, secretary of services at home and abroad. Coffee parties at the Lake were planned by members for a Summer project.

Slides of Venezuela with interesting commentary were provided by Mrs. Vaughn Glover.

Dewar – Musgrove

Pictured following their recent marriage in Bridge Street United Church chapel are Mr. and Mrs. William Logan Dewar. The bride is the former Mary Katherine Musgrove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Musgrove of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dewar of Niagara Falls. Dr. H. M. Davis officiated at the ceremony and wedding music was provided by S. Alec Gordon. Miss Martha Jane Musgrove and Mrs. Richard Hayley attended the bride, while Conrad Hisse was groomsman, and Frederick Mathews and James Stewart were ushers. A reception prior to the couple's departure to Florida was held at the Wishing Tree Lodge, Picton RR 1, home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Musgrove.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert K. Stillman announce the engagement of their eldest daughter Linda Marie to Douglas Rodney Moorcroft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moorcroft of Foxboro. The wedding will take place at 12 noon, July 19, 1969 at St. John's United Church, Campbellford.

Miss Pamela Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wood, Craig Street received first class honors on the steel guitar at recent examinations by the Dominion Conservatory of music held in Belleville.

Women's Institutes

WALLBRIDGE WI

The June meeting of the Wallbridge Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Garfield Evans.

The meeting opened in the usual manner, with president, Mrs. Everett Phillips in the chair.

Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Finkle were appointed to take tickets at the area convention to be held at Club Canara, Oct. 16.

Mrs. Allan Spencer reported on the District Annual, which held a centenary in May.

Everyone enjoyed a sing song.

Mrs. Everett Phillips gave a report on the Guelph conference.

Miss Joyce Evans favored with two piano selections.

A card was signed by all to be sent to members, Mrs. Sam Nicolson and Mrs. Ed. Spencer, who are in the hospital.

Mrs. Frank Tucker won the draw.

Mrs. Ted Evans presented Mrs. E. Gaudaur with a piece of pottery, as a farewell gift from the Institute.

The meeting was closed in the usual manner.

Parasol for A Queen

Caernarvon, Wales — Fashion designers predict that a new fashion may start in Britain from the parasol the Queen carried at the Prince of Wales investiture on July 2, Queen Elizabeth with striking parasol, and Prince Charles are seen as they walk towards King's Gate, following the ceremony.

New Fashion May Start In Britain

CAERNARVON, Wales (AP) — A new fashion may start in Britain from the parasol the Queen carried at the Prince of Wales' investiture, says the royal hat designer, Simone Mirman.

"Now that the Queen has been seen with a parasol it may revive a craze for this romantic fashion accessory," Mrs. Mirman told reporters.

But the parasol turned out to be more of an umbrella in the light drizzle that fell on the royal show.

The frill-edged umbrella with a matching handbag was the only accessory the Queen carried with her starkly simple investiture outfit — a knee-length coat in stiff silk with a matching dress hemmed with pearls. Her moulded hat in the same material was like a medieval headdress.

Designer Norman Hartnell said the color was pale yellow but under the grey skies of Wales it turned out to be a dark ivory.

"It was designed as nothing too lavish so as not to upset the public," said Hartnell, the Queen's favorite designer.

Princess Anne was flamboyant by comparison in a wild silk coat of bright turquoise fitted and flared and with a half belt tied at the back. It came from Susan Small.

The matching hat by John Boyd blossomed in the back into a blue-and-white flower shape.

Brightest of all was the Queen mother Elizabeth in a dazzling apple green outfit by Hartnell. The dress was of lace. Her matching Breton hat was covered with fine heron feathers, like some weaving undersea plant.

With them was Princess Margaret wearing a matching coat and dress slightly above the knee in a pinkish coral shade.

Children of Deaf Parents Seem Noisier

VANCOUVER (CP) — Becky Victorino is teaching children of deaf parents how to be quiet.

And once that's accomplished she hopes to teach them how to speak up in their most effective manner.

Some of the children are deaf themselves. Others aren't. But they all come from homes where noise has never been regarded as a problem.

Miss Victorino is heading a new pre-school course which is attempting to introduce these children to useful speech at an early age.

Raising her voice above the din of hammers, music boxes, clacking toy guns and stomping children, she told an interviewer:

"All this noise really doesn't bother me because I'm used to working with children. But deaf children especially are careless about some things, like knocking things over and letting them roll noisily.

"We would like to teach them to be more careful and make better use of their eyes."

Walking softly and handling objects with a minimum of noise is only the first step. The most important work is making a start on the slow and often fruitless job of teaching them to speak.

"The child of deaf parents really has a problem, even if he isn't deaf himself," Miss Victorino says. "If he's got normal hearing, he won't receive the usual auditory stimulation at home and his speech will be delayed in coming or impaired when it does come.

"Most children learn to speak by imitation, mostly of their parents. They can learn to speak once they reach school, but we believe speech is best established in the first five years

Columnist Makes Cherry Cream Pie for First Time

By MARY MOORE

In August of 1968, Mrs. R. L. of La Salle, Ontario wrote asking for a recipe for Cherry Cream Pie. I had never heard of it, and by that time the cherry season was over and there were no raw ones to make a test. So I kept her letter attached to my July calendar program for 1969.

Now I have made Cherry Cream Pie for the first time in my life and five of us ate the whole thing — a deep nine-incher.

CHERRY CREAM PIE

NOTE: This pie may be made substituting one 14-oz. can pitted Montmorency cherries for the pitted raw cherries, water and ½ cup of the sugar.

Pastry:

1 cup unsifted all - purpose flour
½ tsp. salt
1-3 cup shortening
2 tbsps. butter
1¼ tbsps. cold water

Filling:

¾ cup water
⅔ cup sugar (divided)
1½ cups pitted Montmorency (sour) cherries
½ cup flour
1½ tbsps. corn starch
¼ tsp. salt
⅔ cup (one 6-oz. can) evaporated milk
2 large eggs — yolks and whites separated
2 tbsps. butter
½ tsp. almond flavoring
¼ tsp. red food coloring
⅛ tsp. cream of tartar
6 tbsps. sugar (for meringue)

To make Pastry cut shortening and butter into flour and salt until size of peas. Drizzle in cold water, tossing with fork until dough can be pressed into a ball. Roll out on lightly floured board to fit 9" pie plate. Trim and flute to make high edge, prick with fork and bake at 425 deg. Fahr 10 to 12 min. or until barely tinged with gold.

To make Filling in a saucepan mix ½ cup of the sugar (1st amount) and the water and bring to boil. Add pitted cherries and simmer 15 min. It should measure 1¼ cups. If it does not boil it down more. In a large saucepan, mix remaining ¼ cup sugar (from 1st amount) with the flour, corn starch and salt very well then stir in hot cherry mixture until thick and boiling. Remove from heat and stir in evaporated milk and egg yolks. Return to heat and cook stirring until just boiling. Remove from heat and add butter, flavor and coloring. Cool. Pour into baked pie shell. Cover with meringue made by beating together egg whites and cream of tartar until foamy, then adding the 6 tbsps. sugar and beating until very stiff. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. 12 to 15 min. to brown. Cool and chill 4 hours to cut neatly.

Points for Parents

By MARY BETSON

Baby-sitter: "Jimmy said it would be all right for him to go across the street to play at Susie's house."

Mother: "I didn't want him to bother Susie's mother today. She's going to have a dinner party tonight."

A baby-sitter will not be confused about what children are permitted to do if you leave definite written instructions. The children also should know what the rules are.

Successful Living

Alcoholism Often Due to Underlying Problem

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Regarding "Where to Turn," whose abusive alcoholic husband has pursued her to the new address: seemingly this woman is seeking a solution, but people are too quick to jump to the conclusion that if a man has an alcoholic problem he is the villain and all others concerned are the poor sacrificial lambs.

Could it not be possible that this woman may be partly at fault? For all we know she may be a flirt, a nag, a dirty housekeeper, a cold, unloving and unsympathetic person, or perhaps she has a tendency to belittle her husband in the eyes of her children in an attempt to gain more attention to herself, or perhaps she wants to be independent and so on . . .

The fact that this man made an attempt (or two weeks is a good sign that he is trying so you suggest that he be put out, and that the police be summoned.

There are alcoholic clinics, but if these people do not want to help, just give me some kind of a hint in your daily column and I will make an attempt at it. I consider myself one of the fortunate ones, having beaten this problem with my own system.

I hope that you do not mind my little criticism, but keep up the good work. You can't win 'em all, but I am sure that you win more than your share.-We all make mistakes; I make most of mine in spelling. — Willing Help

Dear Willing Help: You have insight. There is always some underlying problem. But if the wife in this case is at fault, why does he follow her around?

It is well known that to keep covering up, to keep pampering a problem drinker, delays his coming to realize and admit he needs help. And we can't give help unasked.

No one knows all the answers, and I, of all people, know all too well that there are two sides to every story. Thank you for writing in. Thank you even more for offering to help; but "Where to Turn" lives. unfortunately, hundreds of miles from you.

WI Hears Report of Conference

The Queensboro Branch of the Women's Institute held their June meeting in the Institute hall recently with Mrs. Ed Holmes as hostess and the president, Mrs. C. A. McMurray in charge.

It was decided to purchase more song books. Mrs. Ed Holmes asked for the use of the hall for the Holmes reunion to be held on June 28.

Donations have been given to Madoc Agricultural Society and Plainfield children's home since last meeting.

Mrs. Harry gave a report of the Guelph conference which she had attended. Miss Hazel Thompson read the report of the district annual which was held in Cooper.

It was decided to send Mrs. John Thompson, Mrs. Roy Rollins and Miss Hazel Thompson to assist in the opening day at O'Hara's Mill. Plans were discussed on taking a trip in July. Mrs. Roy Rollins read the motto "Royal Bank of Canada monthly letter," which was based on the subject of delinquency.

Lunch was served at the close of the meeting. and a social time was spent.

Dear Hilda

I am touched and proud to tell you this story:

A customer who shopped in the same Loblaws for 15 years is going back to the Old Country to live out her retirement. On her final shopping day, she left a little card at the cash register, addressed "To All the Staff at Loblaws" that said:

"A brief little message
With a specially warm thought
That comes from the heart
To say 'thank you very much'"

And so to Mrs. Mole, who signed the card, I am happy to say "Thank you, Mrs. Mole from All the Staff at Loblaws" and Godspeed on your journey. We love you, Mrs. Mole!

Rain Has Been Bonus

Prince Edward Knee Deep in Berries

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

All that wet weather in recent weeks may turn out to be just the berries for one sector of the Quinte community.

It's not a large group but at this time of year its products are on practically everyone's lips.

Moisture — and plenty of it — is the key to richly-ripe strawberries, and that's just what the weather has been granting local berry growers.

Individual gardeners with their own strawberry patches may be having problems.

But for the big-time producer, supplying local stores and retail chains, everything in the big-time garden may be lovely.

For these, there's more to strawberries than cream.

The rosy-hued berries mean business and right now the business of getting the berries to market is in full swing.

In the Quinte district, Prince Edward County is a prime producing area for the luscious dessert fruit.

And indications are that 1969 may produce a better-than-average crop.

In fact, operators of pine farms are looking to the likelihood of perhaps doubling their normal output.

Willowlee Farms is operated by the Van Clief family just south of Belleville in Ameliasburg township.

The Van Clefs have a 2½-acre corner of their farmstead set aside as a strawberry plantation.

This year, with a stepped-up rainfall, production could blossom to 20,000 quarts, says Lyle, one of the Van Clief sons.

A good crop is estimated about 10,000 quarts.

Problem is to get all the berries picked in time since excessive moisture can cause mildew. Modern techniques come to the rescue with sprays which — without affecting the fruit's edibility — keep down spoilage.

(Owners of small, back-garden patches — without such professional aids — may be faced with problems of rot).

But modern techniques haven't replaced tradition when it comes to gathering the harvest.

There's still only one way to collect a strawberry crop—by hand.

The chore, however is one source of summer work for students, increasingly hard-pressed to find jobs during school vacations.

The Van Clief operation currently employs about 20 pickers — a work force which may be increased during the next week as harvesting reaches its height.

A large proportion are young people, mostly high school students.

O'Hara Homestead Revives Pioneer Life

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

A new point of interest is being added for the already popular Moira River Conservation Area park at O'Hara's Mills, four miles northwest of Madoc.

It is the 125-year-old O'Hara residence which will be officially opened on Saturday, July 5.

Hon. George S. Kerr, the new Ontario Minister of Energy and Resources, will cut the official ribbon with ceremonies scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Also in attendance will be descendants of the O'Hara family, Authority officials, local members of parliament and municipal dignitaries.

Built before 1850, the old O'Hara house still has many of its original furnishings and with the exception of new clapboards, still appears much the same as it did a century or more ago.

Although the focus of attention on official opening day will be on the old house, one of the big points of interest at the conservation area will continue to be the O'Hara mill itself.

No feature of pioneer life contributed more to the early development of this country than did the sawmill, the introduction of which relieved settlers of the arduous task of sawing lumber by hand.

The water powered O'Hara Mill is of the muley saw type and is one of only two known to be left in Ontario.

Also on the O'Hara property is a century-old log school house and a farm driveshed containing agricultural implements in common use before the present day farm mechanization took over.

For the official opening on July 5, the old sawmill will be in operation, the old school bell will ring again and spinning and weaving demonstrations will be offered. A pioneer shingle mill is also expected to be ready for operation.

The mill itself was built about 1847 and was operated by the family as a custom sawmill operation until after the turn of the century.

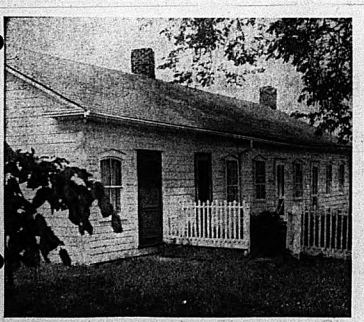
Since its purchase by the Authority in 1954 the mill and mill machinery have been restored, as have the mill pond and dam.

The century old schoolhouse was added in 1965. Donated to the Authority by the Elzevir township council, the old school was reconstructed at the O'Hara site. School desks, books, and other artifacts were donated by residents throughout the county.

Also of interest at the O'Hara homestead is a granite millstone, at one time used in a grist mill at Malone on the West branch of the Moira.

The old O'Hara house was built about the same time as the sawmill and except for regular maintenance and new clapboards stands much the same as it did 120 years ago.

Until its purchase by the Authority the house was used as a summer residence by Mrs. Minnie O'Hara Maines, a direct descendant of the original O'Hara family.



The story of the O'Hara family who ran the sawmill and lived in the house is typical of all Eastern Ontario pioneers.

James O'Hara Jr. the grandfather of Mrs. Maines, was the first white male child born in Madoc township. His childhood playmates were Indian children.

The doors of the O'Hara family were never locked and Mrs. Maines recalls her grandfather relating that often in the winter they would wake in the morning to find Indians sleeping before the fireplace.

Wool was carded and spun by hand and many of the woollen articles knitted and woven by Mrs. O'Hara are still in the house, including the dining room curtains.

The official opening of the O'Hara house is the contribution of the Moira River Authority to Conservation Week being held July 5 to 13.

House Looks the Same

Colonial type O'Hara homestead, four miles northwest of Madoc, still appears much the same as it did a century or more ago. The house at the O'Hara Mill conservation park will be officially opened on Saturday, July 5.

Mill Restored to Former State

Crothers' Pet Project Goes Deeper in Hole for Encore

TORONTO (CP) — The Dominion Day track and field meet, begun 10 years ago, may be abandoned by promoter Bill Crothers for lack of attendance.

"I'm very happy with the level of competition at the meet, but the attendance is too bad," Crothers said Tuesday night. He sponsored the meet last year for the first time and lost about $3,000.

Only 276 fans showed up at the Canadian National Exhibition stadium which can seat more than 33,000. Total receipts were $753.

"This two-day event cost me about $9,000 to put on, and with this kind of support, I don't think I can go on," Crothers said.

Crothers, holder of the Canadian open and native records for the 880-yard run, blamed the lack of "track personalities" such as six-miler Bruce Kidd or sprinter Harry Jerome, both now retired.

"It's strange. Part of the problem is the fact that our Canadian native records are pretty good. If the public knew a lot of records would be broken, they might come out, but there is little chance of that.

"A meet like this is important because it brings all top Canadian athletes together to get top-flight competition. We have to force athletes to push themselves and improve the standard so that we get eight top competitors in each event.

There are about 100,000 kids involved in high school track and only about 7,500 listed with the Canadian Track and Field Association.

"Until we can keep these kids in the sport and establish a broad base for Canadian track and field with track shoes on every veranda the same way there are hockey skates in every basement, we'll get nowhere."

On the field, Joan Pavelich, 16, of Vancouver, set a Canadian women's juvenile record in the discus with a toss of 158-3, bettering the record of 151-3 set by Nancy McCredie of Brampton, Ont., in 1962. She also won the shot put with a heave of 43-8¼.

In all, British Columbia athletes won nine of the 38 events, including the top three placings in the women's 220-yard run. Ann Langdale of Vancouver, won the 220 in 24.5, defeating Irene Piotrowski of Vancouver, holder of the Canadian open and native records in the event with 23.5.

The day was a personal triumph for pole vaulter Bruce Simpson of Toronto, who cleared 16-½, the first time he has broken the 16-foot barrier in competition.

Craig Blackman of Toronto won the high school 440-yard run in 48.4, placed third in the senior 220-yard run in 48.4, and anchored the Scarborough Lions track club, winners of the high school 4x110-yard relay in 43.1.

Andy Boychuk of Toronto, winner of a gold medal in the marathon at the 1968 Pan-American Games, won the gruelling six-mile run in 28:50.2.

Mike Cairns of Calgary bettered his own Canadian native shot put record of 190-1 with a heave of 196-11.

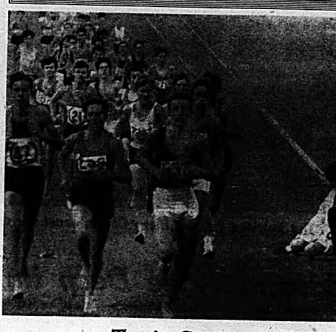
The meet concludes today.

Argos Take First Heat

HENLEY ON THAMES (CP) — Toronto Argonauts, stepping up their stroke to 39 a minute, closed the gap and won their opening race today in the Thames Challenge Cup for eight-oared crews, the second most important stiffy event at the Royal Henley Regatta.

The smooth-stroking Canadian crew defeated the Liverpool Victoria Rowing Club of England by half a length over the one-mile 550-yard course.

The winning time was seven minutes 12 seconds.



The English crew took an early lead but Argos closed the gap and took a slight lead just before the lie mark. The all-Toronto crew led for the rest of the way and held on for a half-length victory.

Twenty-two crews, including Harvard University, the University of Pennsylvania and Massachusetts Institute of Technology were entered in this event on the Thames course.

Fifty - three overseas crews, including two from Canada, have swelled foreign ranks to the highest level in years.

Hugh Wardell-Yerburgh, Britain's Olympic silver medallist, admitted before the stiff competition began that "the British entries are a bit feeble."

Kingston Edged In Tourney Finale

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Senior Intercounty A11-Stars Tuesday edged Kingston Lakeview Centennials 8-7 in 12 innings to win the Ontario Baseball Association championship and the right to represent the province Aug. 15-26 at the Canada Games in Halifax.

The winning run was scored in the top of the 12th when Roger Dewale came home on a double by winning pitcher Bob McGillop. Dewale got on base when he was hit by a pitched ball.

Dewale and team-mate Rick DiMarchi led the All-Stars hitting with three each.

For Kingston Mac Druce also had three as Larry Spiegel was the losing pitcher.

The All-Stars and the Centennials qualified for the finals of the eight-team tournament by winning two straight games during the weekend.

Saturday's action in the tourney saw Belleville Joyces bow to Leaside Maple Leafs 9-5 to eliminate the other Eastern Ontario Baseball Association challenge.

Kingston came on strong Sunday, whipping Niagara District All-Stars 8-7 and edging Leaside 2-1 for a berth in the final. The winning Intercounty team drubbed Bowmanville 14-2 Saturday and blanked Orillia 3-0 Sunday for the right to meet Kingston in the tourney finale.

Belleville had beaten Kingston 13-9 and 8-3 in the arch-rivals' two EOBA meetings to date.

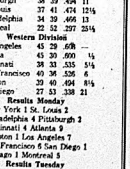
Chuvalo Rated No. 7 Behind Ellis

SYLVANIA, Ohio (CP) — Two Canadians-George Chuvalo of Toronto and Bob Cleroux of Montreal-are both listed among the top 10 contenders for the World Boxing Association's version of the world heavyweight title.

The WBA's ratings, released Tuesday show Chuvalo No. 7 behind champion Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky.



Cleroux, who retired in 1963 and staged a comeback last year, now is ranked No. 10 after nine consecutive victories. Cleroux's biggest victory to date was against Cleveland Williams, a split decision last November.

Former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson has been dropped from the top 10 list of contenders by the WBA because of inactivity.

Boog's Big Seven Not Enough for Birds

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

American League baseball hitters Boog Powell and Frank Howard both had their bats booming Tuesday, but only Howard came out a winner.

Powell drove across seven Baltimore runs with two homers, and a pair of singles, but the Orioles, AL Eastern Division leaders, were beaten 10-9 by New York Yankees.

Howard's efforts helped Washington Senators sweep a doubleheader from Cleveland Indians, 4-1 and 7-5. The tall first baseman clubbed a home run, along with two other hits, in each game. His ninth inning single in the second game drove across the deciding run.

Elsewhere in the AL Tuesday, Seattle Pilots trimmed Oakland Athletics 7-1 as Reggie Jackson cracked his 30th home run of the season for the Athletics' only score. Minnesota Twins outscored Chicago White Sox 10-5, Detroit Tigers trounced Boston Red Sox 12-4, and California Angels trounced Kansas City Royals 9-3.

Monday, Kansas City edged California 2-1 and Minnesota trounced Chicago 7-3. Washington at Cleveland was postponed.

Howard raised his batting average to .306 and his homer total to 26.

The six-foot, seven inch, 260-pound slugger singled in the first inning of the first game, homered in the third and singled in the eighth. In the second game, he walked in the first, homered in the fifth, doubled in the seventh and singled in the three-run ninth inning.

Ed Brinkman and Mike Epstein also homered for the Senators in the opener. Tony Horton homered for the Indians in the second game.

Powells' runs batted in total soared to 70, his homer total to 19 and his average to .303. The six-foot, four inch 240-pounder cracked a two-run homer in the first, a two-run single in the fifth and a three-run homer in the seventh to send the Orioles ahead 9-7.

But Frank Fernandes clouted a three-run Yankee homer in the last of the seventh, leaving Powell a ninth-inning chance to tie the game with another homer. But all he did was single, and the Orioles couldn't score.

Braves Got His Number Before Trade with Reds

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pitcher Clay Carroll asked Atlanta Braves to trade him last year and the National League baseball club sent him to Cincinnati.

The Reds converted Carroll into a reliever this season and he has beaten everyone—except the Braves.

Atlanta pounced on Carroll Tuesday, for the third time this season in a 5-4 extra-inning win over the Reds. Carroll was the victim of Sonny Jackson's game-winning, bases-loaded single. His record now is 11-4.

Los Angeles Dodgers scooped Houston Astros 4-1 on Manny Mota's three-run, inside-the-park homer to protect their half-game Western Division lead over Atlanta.

In other NL action Tuesday, Montreal Expos trounced Chicago Cubs, the Eastern Division leaders, 11-4. St. Louis Cardinals swept a doubleheader from New York Mets 4-1 and 8-5, Philadelphia Phillies posted their eighth consecutive win, 7-4 over Pittsburgh Pirates and San Francisco Giants nipped San Diego Padres 5-4.

Monday, New York bounced St. Louis 10-2, Montreal tripped Chicago 5-2, San Francisco downed San Diego 6-1, Los Angeles dumped Houston 7-1, Philadelphia edged Pittsburgh 4-3 and Atlanta beat Cincinnati 9-4.

Carroll came on in the ninth inning to cut off Atlanta's rally after the Braves had tied the game 4-4 on Tito Francona's run-scoring single.

But in the 10th, the Braves loaded the bases with none out on a walk to Orlando Cepeda, Clete Boyer's single and an intentional pass to Tony Gonzalez before Jackson's winning blow.

Cincinnati starter Jim Merritt blanked the Braves on four hits until they rallied with three runs in the eighth inning, including two on Hank Aaron's double.

Tony Perez slammed a three-run homer for the Reds in the first inning, his fourth in four games.

Mota's seventh-inning homer snapped a tight pitching duel between the Dodger's Bill Singer, who picked up his 12th victory, and Houston's Denny Lemaster.

The Expos' battered Chicago star pitcher Ken Holtzman for five runs in the third inning, then chased him during another five-run rally in the fourth.

Despite the loss, the Cubs boosted their Eastern Division lead to 7½ games over the Mets. The Cubs had won three straight from St. Louis before going to Montreal.

No Sehl-DuHamel Duel Again But Racers Still Raise $1,500

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

It would have taken a broken leg to keep Dave Sehl from racing against Yvon DuHamel in Tuesday night's Muscular Dystrophy motorcycle races at the Belleville Fairgrounds.

A broken ankle, to be exact. Sehl — runner - up to Montreal's DuHamel in last year's Canadian Motorcycle Association points race for expert class racers — watched yesterday's 16 heats of dirt - tracking from the pits with a cast covering an ankle broken this weekend in the Columbus, Ohio U.S. Nationals.

DuHamel was also one of the nearly 50 riders entered in Tuesday's second annual Muscular Dystrophy races. His absence was due to a weekend mishap of his own, not notably caused by the same racer who drove into Sehl's ankle in Columbus.

It marked the second straight year the Sehl - DuHamel rivalry has failed to materialize before a Belleville crowd. Both men were at the Fairgrounds last year, but DuHamel was forced out of competition with engine trouble.

However Tuesday night's program had more than enough action for those who spilled over the grandstand and exalted the Belleville Firefighters' Association to pass on $1,500 to the Canadian Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Much of the excitement was provided by Dave Sehl's youngest brother Doug, who drove his brother's new Triumph to a first-place finish in the senior 500 c.c competition.

Sehl pushed the specially-constructed bike to a 34-second standing start lap to outclass the field by more than 100 yards of the Fairgrounds half-mile oval.

Veteran Don McHugh of Brampton cornered like there was no tomorrow in picking up second place expert honors. McHugh has been dirt-tracking nearly as many years (21) as expert winner Jean Marc Houde of Quebec City has been alive.

Houde was third in national points standing to DuHamel and Sehl in 1968, and will probably challenge Canadian cycling's big two at the Aug. 15 Ontario Dirt Track Championships, held in conjunction with this year's Belleville-turned-Quinte Exhibition.

Following the races, which drew a bigger gate than the 1967 national championships in Belleville, city firemen Roque Davis and Wally Istead presented $1,500 to David Taylor, director of field services for the Muscular Dystrophy Association of Canada. The donation was up some $300 from that raised at last year's first firemen-sponsored MD races.

The local Firefighters' Association again presented a plaque to the Pinton Pushers' Motorcycle Club for their assistance in co-ordinating the event.

SACO Bantams Look Better All the Time

PORT PERRY—An Ontario softball title was shown to be within Belleville's grasp in Tuesday's 8-team bantam tournament here.

Belleville's SACO bantam all-stars took top honors by winning their three games, but the WHO more important than the WHAT.

The SACO's final-game, 4-3 win came against North Bondale, who beat the Belleville youngsters in last year's all-Ontario bantam final.

John Sprackett hurled the all-important win, as he did in the bantams second tourney game — a 10-3 trimming of Niagara-on-the-Lake.

A one-hitter by Ken Johnson game the SACO's a 2-0 opening game verdict over St. Catharines.

Y Boys Dive in U.S.

A pair of local YMCA divers got their first taste of international competition Monday in the United States.

Brothers John Green, ten, and Charles Geen, 14, of Belleville represented Ontario in the annual Ontario New Jersey dual diving contest held this year at Newark, New Jersey.

John, the Ontario champion in the boys' ten and under one-metre springboard class, placed third in his specialty Monday in Newark.

Charles placed third in the same event in the boys' 13- and-14-year-old class in the competition won by the New Jersey team.

Bill Rushlow, the Geen brothers' instructor at the Belleville YMCA, was one of two coaches for the 16-member Ontario team, which travelled to Newark Saturday, practised Sunday and returned Monday night after the competition.

All the Angles

Waterdown's Doug Sehl leans into a corner during one of the 16 heats of motorcycle racing at Belleville's Fairgrounds Tuesday night. Sehl took senior 500 cc honors for the night in which Belleville's Firefighters' Association — with the co-operation of the local Piston Pushers' Motorcycle Club — raised some $1,500 for Muscular Dystrophy research.

Second at Almonte

Kinsmen Track Team Has Promise

They finished far behind the winning Ottawa Uplands Harrier Club, but the Belleville Kinsmen Track and Field Club came up with a promising second place finish in their initial track meet of the summer season.

There were almost enough ribbons to go around after the meet for the 45-member squad, which was composed of 29 boys and 13 girls, came away with 40 ribbons — 27 individual ribbons and three relay ribbons.

The Kinsmen tracksters compiled 113 points, as compared to the Uplands Harrier Club's total of 289 points, in the Almonte Legion Dominion Track and Field Meet Tuesday.

Marie Brain led the Kinsmen Club's assault Tuesday setting meet records in four events and winning the individual championship in the Bantam Girls class.

She turned in an 11.6 second clocking in the 100 yard dash, a 26.7 clocking in the 220-yard dash and a 6.3 second clocking in the 50-yard dash. She also took the long jump title with a record leap of 15' 8½".

Dennis Bowman set a meet record in the long jump (16' 6¼"), took triple jump honors and placed third in the high jump en route to the individual championship in the Midget Boys class.

Frank Johnston of Centennial Secondary School leaped 20' 4½" to set a meet record and win the juvenile boys' long jump competition. Johnston also placed second in the 440 and 220-yard dashes.

Dave Simmonds of RCI was the juvenile 880 yard run in 2:10.4 and Centennial's Ralph Vandervoort took seconds in the juvenile 100 and 220 yard dashes.

Quinte's Jim Sled proved his superiority in the Men's Open sprint events winning the 220 in 24.9 seconds and placing second in the 100 and third in the 440.

Dave Locke, with a 2:18.4 clocking in the midget 880, was the other local boy to win an individual event. Dave Rutherford placed third behind Locke and Russ Campbell gained one of the Kinsmen's few ribbons in the events with a second place tos in the Bantam Boys' stepchut.

Although Marie Brain dominated the bantam class, she wasn't the only local to fare well. Trainette Dawn Yateman showed plenty of spring, winning the bantam girls' high jump with a leap of 4'3" and the triple jump with a distance of 29'8". A third bantam girl to place was Regyna Armonas who finished second in the high jump and third in the triple jump.

Kaarina Jokinen topped the Kinsmen Club's midget girls with a second in the long jump, a third in the 100 yard dash and a fourth in the 220-yard dash. Other midget girls to fare well were Robin Mann with a second in the triple jump, Kim Sturgess with a second in the high jump and Sue Crawford with a fourth in the same event.

Barb Platt's 2:51.3 time and second place finish in the open class was the best local performance in the girls' open class. Becky Fell turned in fourth place performances in both the open 100 and 220 and Mary Palmer tied for fourth in the open long jump.

Kinsmen Track and Field Club athletes earned a first, second and third in the open relay events. The first belonged to the men's 880-yard relay squad of Andy Ling, Dave Rutherford, Peter Locke and David Simmonds and the third to a women's relay team composed of Dawn Yateman, Becky Fell, Marie Brain and Kaarina Jokinen.

Culloden Hurls Dream Game

The Intelligencer scored four runs in the fourth inning to take the lead and go on to an 8-3 Departmental Softball League win over International Hardware Monday night.

Ron Culloden went the distance for the winners allowing only two hits. For the losers. Ray Ryan and Lou Middleton split the pitching duties.

The winning pitcher, Culloden, hammered out a triple while mates Maurice Switzer, Bill Hoard and Bill Moreton managed two singles each.

For International Hardware Harold Redquest homered and Cy Radford rapped out a single.

We prove our cars the hard way to make them worry-free

We've taken our Datsun 1600s over some of the roughest roads and through the toughest rallies to prove a single point: that Datsun 1600s are more dependable than any other cars in their class.

Just for the record, Datsun has always had a fine reputation for reliability and performance. Datsun won the Canadian Rally Championship in 1967. Datsuns won two classes in the Shell 4000 Rally/68. And this year, Datsun 1600 won the South African Gold Fields Rally. It won team class honours in the rugged East Africa Safari Rally, where a field of 87 cars started and only 31 finished. Datsun 1600s came in 3rd, 5th, 7th, 8th, 11th, and 13th.

Datsun 1600s have real muscle. They're the most powerful imported cars in their class. Their advanced design overhead cam engines turn out 96 hp. They can go 0-60 in 13 seconds and up to 100 mph. And they can go up to 35 miles per gallon.

Mercedes-Benz, BMW and Datsun 1600 have a similar all-independent suspension system for precise handling and perfect control. There's a collapsible steering column, disc brakes, headrests, safety harnesses and padding inside. All standard equipment.

You don't have to race or rally a Datsun 1600 to enjoy it. You can take it easy with an all-synchro 4-on-the-floor or 3-speed automatic and stay cool with a "windows-up" fresh air ventilation system.

Test drive Datsun 1600 soon. There are more than 160 Datsun dealers coast-to-coast in Canada and over $1,000,000 in parts to back it wherever you go.

Corby's Win A Pair

Stinson Win Creates Traffic Jam Atop Commercial Loop

There's a traffic jam at the top of the Commercial Softball League standings today thanks to the defending league champions, Stinson's Construction.

Stinson's moved into a three - way tie for first, with Richard Ellis Agency and Corby's Dist., Tuesday night by edging City 3-0 in ten innings in the first game of the Commercial League doubleheader at Alemite ball park.

In the nitecap of the doubleheader Corby's Distillery jumped from last place into a tie for first place in the seven team Commercial League with their second win in as many nights. Corby's squeezed by Belvedere Hotel 5-4 Tuesday night following a 4-1 win over Point Anne Monday night in Point Anne.

City Hotel lefthander Bob Ethier stilled Stinson's for nine innings, giving up just four hits and throwing third strikes past 15 batters, but the Builders played errorless ball behind righthander Bob Swan who kept City in check in a six inning affair.

Ethier's bobble burst in the bottom of the tenth when left fielder Larry Soule singled with one out. Ethier made Bob Tomsso his 16th strikeout victim for the second out but Soule advanced to second on a throwing error by City third baseman Doug Hull.

Stinson's third sacker Neil Campbell drilled a hard bouncer, that proved to be too hard for Hull to handle, into the hole and Soule scored the winning run with a head-first diving slide that just beat the throw of second baseman Carm Milligan who had recovered the ball after Hull's bobble.

Bob Swan was credited with the win, the Builders' sixth in a row. Swan didn't walk a man while scattering six hits and fanning five.

Ethier gave up just six hits, struck out 16 and didn't walk a man in his ten-inning losing effort.

Ralph Plane, Ken Genereaux, Paul Stinson, Swan, Soule and Campbell all collected singles for the winners while Bob Brooks with a triple and single, Milligan with a pair of singles and Larry Potter and Pug Kellar with doubles accounted for City's six hits.

CORBY'S DIST. 5
BELVEDERE 4

Corby's gathered a pair of runs in the top of the sixth without the benefit of a hit to nail away their second consecutive win and move into a fifth place tie with the Black Diamond Cheesemen.

A pair of walks, three passed balls, a wild pitch, a fielder's choice and an error by Belvedere second baseman Rusty Gervin produced Corby's final two runs and gave them a 5-3 lead.

Starter Grant Collet gave way to Sonny Grey after he opened the bottom of the sixth by walking Belvedere hurler Wayne McConnell. Grey gave up a base hit to Jerry St. Denis and a run-scoring single to Cliff Hinsman, but out of the jam by fanning Gary Gow and forcing Hinsman out at second on Don Smith's grounder back to the mound.

Collett and Grey combined for a seven-hitter while fanning three and issuing seven free passes. Loser Wayne McConnell gave up five hits, set ten men down on strikes and walked half a dozen batters.

Dave Sneddon had a brace of singles for the winners. Carl Boomhower and Ross Empey a double apiece and Bob Wannamaker, Larry Mavety and Chuck Rowbotham base hits.

Hinsman stroked a pair of singles for Belvedere, McConnell banged a triple and Bob Smith, Don Smith, St. Denis and Garvin each singled.

CORBY'S DIST. 4
POINT ANNE 1

Sonny Grey got Corby's on the winning track Monday night when he limited Point Anne to four hits — two of them in the bottom of the sixth when the Cementmen tallied their lone run — over the seven inning distance.

Grey threw third strikes past three batters and issued two free passes. Losing hurler Jamie Hunter surrendered eight hits — two of them home runs and four of them extra base swats — struck out three men and walked a trio.

Larry Mavety's run-scoring single accounted for Corby's first inning run and Carl Boomhower's solo homer sent Corby's two runs ahead in the fifth. Corby's ran the score up to 4-0 in the top of the sixth on a solo homer by Dave Sneddon and consecutive triples by Ross Empey and Grey.

Boomhower and Sneddon paced the winners' attack with solo homers. Mavety collected a pair of singles and Empey and Grey slammed triples. Bob Wannamaker and Chuck Rowbotham also hit safely for Corby's.

Larry Fraser, Tom MacDonald, Rick Rosebush and Mike Cook each singled for the Cementmen who now have a record of six wins and six losses.

Sports Briefs

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Tuesday he does not think there will be any expansion of the major leagues in the next 10 years.

* * *

* * *

MONTREAL (AP) — Montreal Expos have placed Ron Fairly on the 21-day disabled list. Fairly injured the small finger on his right hand against Chicago Cubs Monday night. Fairly's place on the Expos' roster will be taken by catcher John Bateman, whose 21-day disablement period expires Wednesday.

* * *

GLENEAGLES, Scotland (CP-AP) — Bob Fufek of the United States took the lead at the end of the second round Tuesday in the International Seniors' golf championship. Sandy Somerville of London, Ont., was one of four players tied for four with 145. Phil Farley of Toronto shot a one-over-par 69 Tuesday for a 148 total. Jack B. Nash of London had a 72 for 151; Romeo Trudeau of Montreal had a 75 to tie with Nash at 151; Don Anderson of St. Thomas, Ont., was at 153 after a 77 round and Fred Lyon of Toronto had a 74 for a 157. The third round will be played Thursday.

* * *

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Cale Yarborough blazed to a world's closed-course record of 190.76 miles an hour Tuesday and won the pole position for the July 4 Medal of Honor stock car race. Batting 100-degree temperatures and a brick wind, Yarborough toured the 2.5-mile Daytona International Speedway circuit in 47.123 seconds on the first of two official qualifying laps. His second lap was slightly slower — 190.407 m.p.h. — but both eclipsed the previous mark of 190.129 m.p.h. set by David Pearson in February.

* * *

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jim Ryun, the mile record-holder, said Tuesday he had cancelled a planned European trip and all other track competition during the summer months. The announcement here came two days after the 22-year-old Kansan failed to complete a mile run in a national AAU meet at Miami on Sunday. It was the fourth time this year he had walked off a track and failed to finish a major race.

* * *

ORILLIA (CP) — More than 5,000 persons crowded Couchiching Park Tuesday as 100 boats competed in the national inboard hydroplane championships. John Palmer of Collingwood, Ont., won the featured 280-cubic inch class by 20 seconds over Ken Helwig of Sarnia. Distance was three times around the 1 2-3-mile course. The open grand prix was won by Art Asbury of Ontonque Lake, Ont. Bob Saunders of Tonawanda, N.Y., finished second and Helwig was third. Larry Burns of Toronto won the limited B stock hydro class and Jim Monahan of Toronto took the D stock hydro.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bruce Crampton's $12,500 second-place cheque for the Cleveland Open has moved the steady Australian into sixth place among the leading money winners in golf this year. The 33-year-old Aussie has collected $73,744 for 20 tournaments, the PGA Tournament Players Division announced Tuesday. Crampton has not won a tourney this year but has placed in the top five in five. Gene Littler, the top earner since early April, picked up $1,045 at Cleveland to boost his total to $109,182. Other leaders include: 2. Gary Player, $89,006; 3. Lee Trevino, $85,571; 4. Billy Casper, $79,321; 5. Dale Douglass, $78,657; 7. Miller Barber, $75,611; 8. George Archer, $74,942; 9. Dave Hill, $73,725, and 10. Bruce Devlin, $69,841.

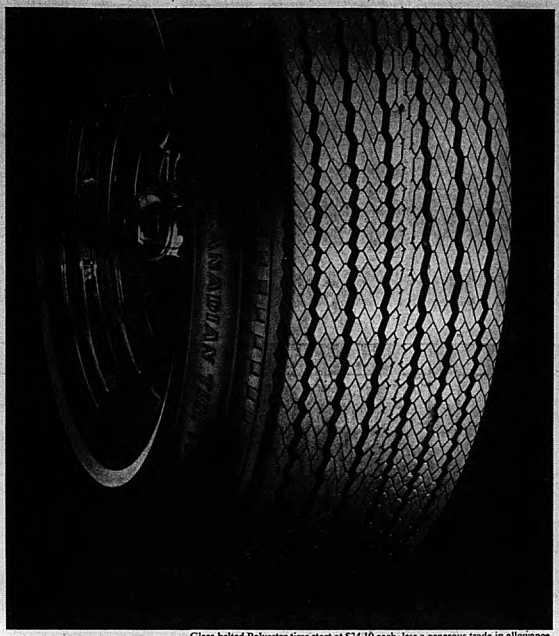
Aussies Abound At Wimbledon Meet

WIMBLEDON, England (CP) — Margaret Court of Australia and Billie Jean King of the United States were the favorites today as semi-final play began in the women's singles of the All-England lawn tennis championships.

Mrs. Court meets British professional Ann Jones and Mrs. King, the three-time Wimbledon champion, goes against Rosemary Casals, also of the U.S.

Mrs. Court defeated Julie Heldman of the U.S. 4-6, 6-3, 6-3 in the quarter-finals Monday.



Similarly, Mrs. King lost the first set to Judy Teggart of Australia before rebounding for a close victory in which she showed flashes of the form that has given her the title for the last three years.

While the women are in action, the four men who survived Tuesday's quarter-final singles play get a day of rest before Thursday's semi-finals.

Australian Rod Laver takes on Arthur Ashe, the only American left in the men's singles, while John Newcombe of Australia meets fellow-countrymen Tony Roche.

Laver disposed of Cliff Drysdale of South Africa 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, in 73 minutes Tuesday while Ashe beat Bob Lutz of the U.S. 6-4, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5.

Newcombe eliminated Tom Okker of The Netherlands 8-6, 1-6, 6-1, 7-5 and Roche put out Clark Graebner of the U.S. in a service duel 4-6, 4-6, 8-3, 8-4, 11-9.

Glass-belted Polyester tires start at $34.10 each, less a generous trade-in allowance.

See what the best dressed 1970 cars will be wearing.

(And they're available at Canadian Tire Stores now.)

The word is out. Glass-belted polyester tires will become fashionable wear for many of next year's new model cars. And car makers are prepared to pay up to $50.00 extra per set to get them. But Canadian Tire, true to its leadership in the field, introduces their own glass-belted polyester today.

It's far superior to conventional ply tires. Smoother riding. Better steering response. Twice the strength. And up to twice the life. The glass-belted polyester is here, and here to stay.

The magic formula of polyester and fiberglass pays off in so many ways. Rough roads become smooth ribbons of travel. Resistance to punctures and bruise breaks is claimed to be up to ten times greater. Traction improves to the nth degree. Tire-to-road tread contortions, that contribute to tire wear, are minimized.

Add it up. Safer. Smoother. Stronger. Better handling. And backed, for 40 months, by the Canadian Tire "no wear out" guarantee. See actual guarantee (catalogue).

The glass-belted polyester, the tire of the future, is available today at all Canadian Tire Stores.

Fire Is Doused Quickly

Firemen surround a smouldering four-engine aircraft which 55 seconds earlier had been in the centre of a blazing 10,000-square-foot fire. The fire was set with 4,000 gallons of aviation fuel to demonstrate the speed with which crash fires can be extinguished with equipment developed by Pyrene Co. Ltd., using a super foam concentrate called Light Water. The demonstration was held recently at Stansted Airport in England.

Two Youths Killed 'Dragging'

TORONTO (CP) — Two youths were killed and another seriously injured Tuesday in what police said was a drag race involving up to 30 high-powered cars in nearby Vaughan Township.

Ian Ramsey, 18, of Brampton, and John Stawacci, 19, of Meadowvale, Ont., died at the scene. John Galka, 20, of Brampton, was taken unconscious to hospital with undetermined injuries.

Police said the three were thrown from a speeding car driven by Ramsey when the vehicles smashed into a utility pole and flipped over into a ditch after ripping a 450-foot-long gouge in the ground.

Police said 20 to 30 other drag racers fled the scene, leaving the dead and injured.

The crash occurred in the area of Weston Road and Steeles Avenue.

"That it's never happened before has probably got to be classified as the motoring miracle of the decade," a township policeman said. "We just knew they couldn't get away with this kind of stuff forever."

Police said they have been patrolling the township for about a year looking for elusive drag racers whose cars can do speeds up to 150 miles an hour.

"They're very well organized to the extent that they have spotters out watching for us," one officer said.

He said the spotters have two-way radios with which they can monitor police calls.

'Muscle' Cars Pose New Problem

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — High-powered automobiles are going to promote new thinking in the field of traffic safety predicts J. B. Humphrey, secretary of the Insurance Bureau of Canada.

Mr. Humphrey told the annual meeting of the Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce here Tuesday that the type of car, now known in the automotive business as the muscle car, is becoming a new status symbol among young people. They are the "slick, professionally manufactured versions of what we used to know as a hot rod."

The cars, Mr. Humphrey said, "are potentially more dangerous because they are available to anyone who can scrape up a minimum down payment."

Important as the advances in traffic safety have been in recent years, seat belts won't help much "if you hit an abutment at 100 miles an hour."

Mr. Humphrey said a highway which is perfectly designed for speeds of 60 to 80 miles an hour is inadequate for cars capable of travelling up to 135 miles an hour.

'Hawks' Cut Off Red Cross Aid

TORONTO (CP) — A Canadair elief spokesman said Monday "it appears the hawks in the Nigerian government" are responsible for ending the role of the International Red Cross as relief co-ordinator of the civil war with Biafra.

Jack Grant, business manager of Canadair elief said in an interview: "It looks as though once again the Nigerians plan to use starvation as a weapon of war."

Mr. Grant said "any implication that relief agencies are purposely screening the trafficking of arms or military supplies is erroneous."

Calgary Gets Ready to Receive Stampede Visitors' Onslaught

CALGARY (CP) — The finishing touches were being put to a western facade today as the city sharpened its cowtown image for the tourist onslaught that usually comes with the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede.

Billed on posters as The Greatest Outdoor Show on Earth, the 57th Stampede starts Thursday.

As the normal rhythmic pulse of this oiltown turned into an unrelenting gallop, downtown stores adopted early western fronts as they sought the tourist eye.

The 10-day stampede, built this year on a theme of Salute to Youth, begins tonight for at least 3,000 teen-agers who are scheduled to participate in a youth parade.

The parade will be headed by Olympic swimming star Elaine Tanner of Vancouver, Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener and Alberta Premier Harry Strom will be on the reviewing stand.

The regular stampede parade takes place Monday morning.

Although the downtown pace borders on the hectic, the most feverish activity is around the stampede grounds, nestled in a bend in the Elbow River in the southeast section of the city.

Here among the brightly colored Salute to Youth exhibits is a mountain, made of straw bales and covered with polythene, that will be used for skiing and climbing. A Boy Scouts of Canada exhibition and a small roofed amphitheatre complete with gas flares are also featured.

A signature wall, four feet high and 90 feet long, where youths can place names and slogans has been erected not far from a paint-in where others can demonstrate their artistic inclinations.

Another building called Moods of Youth is decorated on the outside in stark contrasts, with black and white figures made of rectangles, triangles and circles. Inside large cubes have been suspended from the ceiling. These have alternating black and white faces splotched with circles. On the walls are large prints showing young people captured in moods from ecstasy to melancholy. A projection screen is up front.

Elsewhere on the grounds the Royal American Exposition has been setting up the midway rides and sideshows. The troupe arrived Monday night aboard its special train and was expected to be ready by Thursday.

Exhibitors of agricultural animals and vegetables prepared to show their prize selections to the judges and public.

Bucking horses and brahma bulls were also being readied for the infield events that will take place each afternoon except Sunday.

Contestants from across North America will compete for $100,100 in prize money. Of this, $44,000 will go to the winners of the chuckwagon races, held each evening, with another $10,000 going to top rodeo riders in the saddle bronc event. Calf roping, steer wrestling, bareback bronc riding and brahma bull events each carry $9,200 in prizes. The remaining prize money goes to the winners of novelty events such as wild cow milking and the wild horse race.

Steam Oven Explodes, Killing Hamilton Man

HAMILTON (CP) — One man was killed and seven injured Monday when a concrete steam curing oven exploded and flew across several brick yards before crushing several cars outside a body-repair shop.

The explosion of the 50,000 pound oven—12 feet in diameter and 70 to 80 feet long—levelled the Day and Campbell Ltd. concrete block plant and demolished two garages after bursting through the factory's north wall.

The rear section of the oven was blasted 200 feet into the company employees' parking lot.

Dead is Felice Russo, 41, of Hamilton, one of a 10-man work crew in the building. In critical condition in hospital are Marcello Demeo, 29, Armand Lostsma, 48, and Vittorio D'Intimo, 39.

In fair condition in hospital is John Boyson, 41. Lewis Ilic, 48, William Mercer, 25, and Gaetano Deliberba, 23, were treated and released. All are from Hamilton.

Off-duty Hamilton police officer Peter Bontje was about to get into his car at his home near the plant when the explosion occurred.

"It was like a cannon going off, a real solid boom. I ran across the road and I saw this man staggering around. His face was all blood and covered in cement, as if he had been dunked in cement."

"I thought it was a bomb exploding," said Mrs. June Velzi, who lives beside the plant. "When I got to the back door, all I could see was dust rising from the crumbling walls."

Nearby homes and six small factories were cleared because of a possible gas explosion.

Firemen were unable to determine cause of the explosion in the 20-year-old plant.

Captain and Pilot Fined for Mishap

ALMA, Wis. (AP) — The captain and the pilot of a barge that rammed a wing dam on the Mississippi River, spilling thousands of gallons of fuel oil into the stream, were fined in Buffalo County Court Monday.

County Judge Gary Schlosstein fined the towboat captain Chester Forkum, a total of $621 on charges of unlawfully depositing fuel oil in the river. And the towboat pilot, George Stroube of Godfrey, Ill., was fined $50 and costs on a charge of operating the craft in a careless manner.

Neither defendant appeared in court. Pleas of no contest were entered for them.

State conservation warden James Everson was the only witness in the trial involving the incident that occured June 18. barge.

It took several days before the flow of oil from the damaged barge could be stopped. Meanwhile, U.S. engineers from St. Paul used a vacuum cleaner type of device to remove the oil slick. The $5,000 bill for the operation is to be sent to the towing company.

Investors Overseas dropped 2 to 43½, Peel-Elder ¼ to 25¾ and Spencer 20 cents to $3.60.

Volume by 11 a.m. was $46,000 shares compared with 434,000 at the same time Monday.

But volume was the lightest since July 26, 1963, with 1,177,000 shares traded compared with 2,569,000 Friday.

The industrial index was up 1.43 to 177.44, its highest level of the day.

Gains outnumbered losses 206 to 102.

Base metals posted their largest daily advance of the year, rising 2.02 to 107.26.

On index, western oils rose 2.93 to 250.11 and base metals 64 to 217.10.

ANAF News

The two youthful good will ambassadors of Canada, Doug Nickle of Belleville and Gordon Spafford of Toronto, have certainly made a great impression already on their American hosts. They were met in Washington by members of the American Legion. They were taken on tours of the American Capital and afterwards were driven to Annapolis. Upon his return to Washington, the Legion commander immediately sent a telegram to Dominion President J. C. Lundberg congratulating him on having such fine lads in Canada and had nothing but the highest praise for the deportment, appearance and intelligence of these lads.

Sports chairman Greg Ackerman has lost no time arranging another golf match after the success of the first one. This time it will be held at the Stoco Golf Course on Sunday, July 27th and he hopes to arrange one every month until the end of the season.

Yet another old comrade passed on a week ago and the sincere sympathies of the members are extended to the family of the late Clair Kennedy. It has been a sad month for the Unit. Cdes R. Mondeville and H. Dunphy are still hospitalized in Kingston while Cdes A. McKenna and B. Feather are resting at home.

With the hot spell, the coolness and comfort of the air conditioned auditorium was greatly appreciated at the Friday evening social and a good crowd was on hand to take advantage of it.

Mao Makes Three Big Moves To Reclaim Some of His Power

TOKYO (AP) — Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung has made three big moves to reclaim some of the political power now in the hands of China's military leaders.

He ordered the Communist party to take over leadership of China's 29 revolutionary committees, rebuild and strengthen its branches in the provinces and revive its once-powerful but recently-neglected Communist Youth League.

The 75-year-old party chief's orders were outlined in a joint editorial published Monday on the party's 48th anniversary in three Maoist organs—the People's Daily, the Liberation Army Daily and the theoretical journal Red Flag.

The editorial said revolutionary committees must form "a strong core of the party leadership . . . which is armed with Mao Tse-tung's thought, exercises unified leadership and keeps close ties with the masses."

Mao was quoted as saying: "Every party branch must reconsolidate itself in the midst of the masses. This must be done with the participation of the masses and not merely a few party members."

The editorial said all organs —the army, the Youth League, workers, poor and middle-class peasants and Mao's personality-ized Red Guards—must accept party leadership and abide by it, added: "The consolidation of the Communist Youth League should also be started."

China's revolutionary committees, active in provinces, regions and independent municipalities, have evolved into a form far different from what Mao originally envisaged. They are dominated by the military, the only disciplined force left in the wake of Mao's "Great Cultural Revolution."

The Communist Youths League, Peking said, "is a school for communism" and once the source of many party members, went into eclipse during the Cultural Revolution after Mao established the Red Guards. But the Red Guards ramified through the country, and Mao now appears to prefer a revival of the old league.

The party's ninth national congress, held in Peking in April, resulted in the selection of tough-minded military men to many top positions.

Of the 170 members elected to a new and expanded centralo committee, 73 were military commanders, deputy commanders or political commissars, and 22 others had military backgrounds.

Mao handpicked the delegates to the congress and had hoped they would reaffirm his recovery of power from purged President Liu Shao-chi.

But Mao's latest announcement indicates he is disturbed by the military leaders' power and now considers them a threat to his position and that of

Toronto Brunette Is Named New Miss Dominion of Canada

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — A beauty queen came out of the hospital Tuesday to crown her successor, Jacquie Perrin, a 21-year-old brunette from Toronto.

Miss Perrin, a 34-24-36 university student, fought back tears when she was named the new Miss Dominion of Canada over 16 other contestants in the glittering ballroom of the Sheraton-Brock Hotel.

But while Miss Perrin fought back tears of joy, much of the applause from the 1,000 spectators went to her predecessor, Nancy Wilson, who came out of hospital after internal surgery to take part in the ceremony.

Miss Wilson was helped up and down the stairs but walked down the runway on her own to a standing ovation.

Runner-up was Christine Philion, 20, of Kamloops, B.C., and second runner-up was Sharon Forbes, 22, of Moncton, N.B.

Miss Perrin, the 1968 Miss Toronto, Argonaut, told a news conference she felt "very fortunate."

"I couldn't believe it until they announced my name. I feel just wonderful. It's indescribable how I feel."

Miss Perrin is entering her third year as a geography major at York University and is working for the summer as secretary.

She will leave immediately to attend a lobster festival at Pictou, N.S. She will compete in the Miss Universe pageant at Miami, Fla., July 19 and at the Miss World competitions in Britain next November.

Strictly Personal

Homicide Suicide Alike

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Most people, when they think about it at all, look upon suicide and homicide as opposite "cures" of killing — when actually they are part of the same syndrome of hate and violence.

Psychological studies going back a half-century and more have always demonstrated that the person who kills himself is introjecting his desire to murder others, while the person who kills another is projecting his feelings of self-hate and self-destruction.

What is lacking in both cases is an adequate sense of self-esteem; the violent personality feels weak, rather than strong, and is unable to separate his thoughts from his actions — because every "normal" person also has destructive and violent thoughts.

A student like Lee Oswald and Jack Ruby and Sirhan Sirhan and James Earl Ray have a common personality pattern, no-matter how different their backgrounds or political beliefs. They feel themselves to be failures, and their dramatic act of overt violence is a way of "showing the world" that they can make a name for themselves. This is why most of them cannot rest until they are captured. To be recognized for their act is an essential part of its commission.

Indeed, most persons who commit anti-social acts unconsciously yearn to be apprehended, for one reason or another. Nothing else explains the large percentage of self-disclosure even in burglary cases — where the criminals leave their calling-cards, as it were, by their unvarying modus operandi, or even by dropping their wallets and credit cards.

And, after the crime, these same compulsive criminals cannot refrain from showing their loot in night clubs, buying new cars, patronizing gambling spas, and generally doing everything possible to ensure that the police have an easy time tracking them down. As Wilson Misener once said, "A criminal is somebody so stupid that even a detective can catch up."

It is not mere stupidity, of course — it is an emotional blindness to one's own drives and motivations, a basic lack of insight into one's genuine needs that makes them continue to act out these futile fugues. For the criminal no less than the addict and the gambler is a slave to his own appetites and can never be "satisfied" until he is confined, just as the addict must end in stupor and the gambler will not stop until he is broke.

We still know pitifully little about this dark area of human behavior, and what we spend on research constitutes far less than one per cent of what we spend for police and prisons. If fires can be prevented, and cancer detected, surely violence can be defused by early treatment.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For July 3

Your birthday today: Your financial luck builds this coming year along with assistance from those you care about. In group action all projects move ahead well. Today's natives are prudent, have a quiet personal charm, a knack for getting people to join in their special interests.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): There is a sad story on every hand today — just keep yourself from being a part of any of them. Time out for meditation will be helpful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): The indirect approach in selling will be tried on you today — leave the large purchases till a better time. Do one thing at a time.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Get started early and put forth consistent effort. Pay no attention to gossip, particularly about romantic interests. Light entertainment for the evening.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Your friends can be a burden. Some of your activity now promises future windfalls. Pause for brief reflection.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): The temptation today is toward intrigue, double-talk. Your reserve and tactful avoidance of close contacts protect your interests.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): If you expect little co-operation, and don't press too hard to get any, you will be ahead of the situation by the time the day is over. Do what you are supposed to do, no matter how others go about their jobs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Travel conditions are already hazardous, overcrowded. Tidy up for the holiday. Concentrate on keeping necessary routines well in hand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Take nothing for granted, check facts as you go. Emotional involvements are deeper than planned, sooner than you expect . . .

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Today is one of those times when your tact is tested, inconvenience; stay calm. Keep the evening simple.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Your budget shows some strain, but it is probably worth the inconvenience. Just be sure that you are getting what you really want. Old contacts reappear.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Travel should be postponed, if feasible. Home interests conflict with business interests; find a balance.

Strikes Hobble Ontario and Quebec

Major Labor Disputes Take Zing Out of Construction Boom

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two major labor disputes have taken the zing out of a booming construction industry in parts of Ontario and Quebec this summer.

In Toronto, a construction strike is locked, which began May 1 continues with five key unions out of 14 still locked out. Most commercial projects in the city are affected by the 6,000 workers, who include painters, cement masons, carpenters, bricklayers and architectural glass and metal unionists.

The strike started in May 1 when electricians went on strike. The industry retaliated by locking out 13 other unions, but most have since settled for wage increases ranging from $1.70 to $1.90 an hour.

But negotiations are stalled after 61 days with the five holdouts and major projects have stopped.

It is a different picture in Quebec City and the Eastern Townships where 11,000 workers, members of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, are involved in a tooth-and-nail battle with builders.

At issue is a union demand for compulsory hiring halls where the construction companies would have to go to hire workers.

The strike, which started in early May, also involves higher wages and has been marked by several incidents of violence and union claims of strike breakers.

Provincial police in the areas say they lack sufficient men to check construction sites and some citizens are threatening to form vigilante committees.

Two other big disputes in Quebec have tied up iron ore production and threatened school openings in the fall.

About 1,500 employees of Wabush Mines and the Iron Ore Co. of Canada in northeastern Quebec have been on strike since May 12 to back demands for a $1-an-hour wage increase.

The strike has tied up the 65 per cent of Canada's iron ore production which comes from the Quebec-Labrador area and has reduced St. Lawrence seaway traffic.

Quebec's 70,000 teachers still do not have a work contract after two years of negotiation. Their last contract expired June, 1968, and about 16,000 members of the Quebec Teachers Corp. resigned May 31.

The Quebec Federation of Catholic Boards has urged that the teachers not be rehired immediately if a contract is reached when negotiations resume July 3, threatening school opening in the fall.

In Ontario, a major strike is threatened in the nickel industry. The United Steelworkers of America, with 18,000 workers in Sudbury and Port Colborne, broke off talks Friday with the International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd.

Their contract expires July 10 and the union is awaiting the report of a conciliation board before taking further action.

Other minor strikes have affected various points of both provinces.

In Quebec City, about 950 employees of 22 garages have been on strike for higher wages since April 16 and in Toronto, Local 183 of the Laborers' Union have been out since June 5 protesting allegedly unsafe conditions on a subway construction site.

Union spokesmen say unless conditions are improved, a province-wide strike of 4,000 laborers is possible.

Meanwhile in Oshawa, Ont. more than 70 plumbers went on strike Friday asking for a contract providing $7 an hour after one year, on a par with Toronto salaries.

Local 938, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, is on strike against two Ontario trucking firms, affecting operations in the Lakehead, Toronto, Port Erie, Ottawa, Sudbury, North Bay, Windsor and Sault Ste. Marie.

Also in the Sault, more than 150 plumbers have been on strike for a year with no settlement in sight. The strike has hampered, but not halted, construction in the city.

Nearly 100 hourly-rated workers, members of the International Union of Operating Engineers, have been on strike against the Goderich Manufacturing Co. since June 23 and a strike by hydro workers is threatened in Hamilton.

The men, members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, voted June 27 to strike if no settlement is reached. Negotiations have broken off, but no strike date has been set.

NDP Youth Wants More Radical, But Undefined, Program

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Democratic Youth wound up a four-day biennial convention here Tuesday with a consensus for a more radical leftist program for the New Democratic Party.

But the manifesto which the youth wing will present to the national meeting of the senior party in Winnipeg in October will have to be drafted by the executive.

Eight resolutions which were to form the basis of the manifesto never reached the floor of the conference for debate.

The convention was thrown into turmoil Tuesday when the newly - elected president, 25 year-old W. J. Lenihan of Saskatoon, resigned "for personal and family reasons."

Chris Thurot of Halifax was acclaimed to the presidency in his stead.

Mr. Lenihan's resignation sparked a major dispute over the youth group's relations with the NDP—a dispute which had brewed throughout the conference.

The delegates, representing all provinces except New Brunswick and Newfoundland, spent the day in a closed "struggle session" called to redefine the aims and structure of the NDY.

A leftward split with the senior party dominated much of the conference discussion. Delegates had attacked NDP candidates who advocated continuation of the free enterprise system.

Others called for a complete rejection of U.S. ownership of Canadian industry.

But Mr. Thurrock, like Mr. Lenihan and outgoing president Ken Nowakowski of Edmonton, advocated working within the party for a more socialist trend to party policies.

The only resolution to be passed by the convention was a pledge of support for Quebec's "right to self-determination" and alliance with Quebec socialists.

Tanker Officers Reach Accord

NEW YORK (AP) — Deck officers have reached tentative agreement on a new contract with tanker operators, ending a 16-day walkout in U.S. East and Gulf coast ports.

The settlement was announced Tuesday by Edward Silver, chief negotiator for the shipping industry, and Capt. Thomas F. O'Callaghan, president of the International Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots (AFL-CIO).

The Library Corner

Churchill — His Paintings, by David Coombs.

For more than 40 years Sir Winston Churchill pursued the art of painting. Here in this book are illustrated virtually all his paintings which are known to have survived. He gave away many of his paintings over the years and apart from his wife and family the list of owners is headed by the Queen and three former presidents of the United States. All are reproduced beautifully in this outstanding book.

House of Bondage, by Ernest Cole.

The House of Bondage is the dwelling of the black people of South Africa whose bitter life is one of the tragedies of our century. Ernest Cole is a remarkably gifted photographer taking his first pictures at 15 with a borrowed camera. His many pictures document his unique and terrible view of South Africa's underside.

Take Me To Spain, by Colin Simpson.

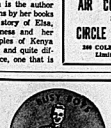
In his book Colin Simpson takes you first down from the Basque country to Madrid. You side-trip to ancient Toledo and castled Segovia, watch flamenco dancers in Seville, gaze on the Moorish splendors of Granada. Such history as you need has been made succinct and vivid; and on Spanish art and architecture and character the author writes always so readably.

The Peoples of Kenya, by Joy Adamson.

Joy Adamson is the author known to millions by her books describing the story of Elsa, the Kenya lioness and her cubs. The Peoples of Kenya tells of another and quite different experience, one that is equally remarkable. It also reveals her gifts as an artist and shows that she is interested in people as well as animals.

Rare Stamps, by L. N. and M. Williams.

The fascination of stamp-collecting appeals to young and old and much of its lure lies in the possibility of discovering a stamp of which only a few examples are known. This book is devoted entirely to such stamps from the famous rarity the Post Office Mauritius to errors of perforation design, denomination, or color.



The Art of Flower Arrangement, by Beverly Nichols.

No happier author for such a book could be found than Beverly Nichols. He brings to the subject a deep love for flowers, an appreciation of art in its many manifestations through the ages, and a sympathy for the "little things" of life that give color and grace and happiness to civilized existence.

Madoc Girl Tops 49 Ontario Scholars

JOAN BROWNSON

95 Per Cent Mark Is Highest

Girls walked away with the laurels this year in Grade 13 examinations in Hastings County.

Not only did they capture top honors but quantitatively, too, they outcleased the boys. Thirty one of forty nine Ontario Scholars in Hastings are girls.

Joan Brownson, 19-year-old grade 13 student from Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc leads the list of the county's scholars with an average of 95 per cent. She will be attending the University of Toronto and has been awarded the Rutherford Scholarship, a renewable grant of $200 a year for four years, as well as free tuition.

Running a close second to Miss Brownson is Kathleen Milligan with 94 per cent. She is an 18-year-old student graduating from Trenton High School. Kathleen will be attending Queen's University in the fall and has been awarded the $1,350 Queen's scholarship for the province of Ontario.

Twenty-six of the Hastings scholars attended Belleville high schools.

Quinte Secondary School boasts the greatest number of scholars, with 12 out of a class of 150 graduates.

B.C.L.V.S. and Moira Secondary School each have five scholars. Nicholson three and Albert College one.

Top student in the Belleville high schools is Moira student Jane MacPherson, with an average of 89.4 per cent.

Other Moira scholars are: Olivia Long, John Slater, Maureen Boldrick and Carol Aitchison.

Marathon Withdraws Options on Land

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Marathon Realty, real estate division of Canadian Pacific, has withdrawn its options on land in the North Front Street area, proposed as a site for the Bell Telephone training centre.

Marathon was among unsuccessful bidders on the Bell contract, won by Quinte Seasons Hotels, now planning a $2,300,000 resort-training centre east of Zwick's Island.

Marathon representative Eric Grant, who directed the CP bid, said "the company had now withdrawn its options on about five and one half acres of land, west of North Front.

Mr. Grant said he would be in Belleville next week to examine a Four Seasons request for rezoning of land in the Zwick's Island area to permit the resort development.

The CP right-of-way runs immediately north of the area.

Asked if Marathon would register any objection to the rezoning, Mr. Grant replied:

"We wouldn't do it just on principle. If there was some change in the zoning that's going to affect the railroad property we might object to it."

Both electric power and traffic were interrupted this morning to allow a house-moving project to pass up North Front Street. The home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Godbout was being moved from North Front Street to its new location four miles away in Thurlow township.

Accidental Burst of Gunfire Panics Patrols Guarding Rocky

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — A man was killed and three wounded today in a shooting fray in downtown Santo Domingo as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller prepared to meet with Dominican leader for a look at conditions in their often-troubled country.

The dead man was identified as an air force corporal. Two armed forces members and a civilian were among the wounded.

A military spokesman said an accidental burst of automatic weapons fire by an officer touched off a prolonged shooting exchange among armed patrols guarding the city.

Another version said unknown individuals fired on the patrols, touching off the shooting.

There were also lesser shooting incidents in the San Carlos district and near Duarte Bridge. There were no reports of casualties in these shootings.

This area was a constitutional rebel stronghold during the 1965 civil war. It is in the Ciudad Nueva sector of the capital regarded as the centre of opposition to the government of Joaquin Balaguer.

Scattered gunfire and small noise bomb explosions could be heard during most of the night and pre-dawn hours in this part of the city.

Traffic was considerably below normal during the night and early today in this part of the city, blanketed by the most extensive security force since the civil war.

After meeting with Dominican leaders today, the New York governor leaves for Kingston, Jamaica, the next stop on his Latin American fact-finding tour for President Nixon.

U.S. Military Officials Are Puzzled Over Low Level of Fighting in Vietnam

Three North Vietnamese Regiments Have Been Returned Home

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. military men were puzzled today over one of the lowest levels of fighting in the war and tried to determine just how many North Vietnamese have infiltrated into South Vietnam or have been withdrawn.

American officers said three North Vietnamese regiments, the 36th, 139th and 27th, have pulled back across the 17th parallel demilitarized zone into North Vietnam. But they said the Communist command still has three regiments in the northern portion of South Vietnam, and speculated the withdrawal may simply mean new regiments will replace them.

Four North Vietnamese regiments also have pulled back from the central highlands around Ban Me Thot, perhaps to get replacements after the recent battle there, the officers said.

Along the southern half of the Cambodian border, northwest of Saigon, a regiment of the North Vietnamese 7th Division has pulled back west of Loc Ninh. But spokesmen noted units of the 7th, 1st and 9th North Vietnamese divisions have been continually manoeuvring in the critical 3rd Corps area.

In one 10-day period, said the spokesman, the same enemy regiment operating west of Loc Ninh went back and forth across the border three times.

The latest military intelligence indicates 10,000 North Vietnamese troops infiltrated down the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos and Cambodia last month. Spokesmen said about 63,000 North Vietnamese have come down the trail since the first of the year.

This appeared to conflict with a statement in Washington by State Secretary William Rogers, who said "we know pretty conclusively" that the infiltration of North Vietnamese troops into South Vietnam has declined.

Sources pointed out it takes North Vietnamese infiltrators three to four months to reach the 3rd Military Corps of South Vietnam, thus a decline might not be reflected until the end of July or August.

Another U.S. source said the 3rd Corps is still getting the highest level of infiltration.

"Current reports indicate they're still coming in," he said.

Hanoi to Free Three

HONG KONG (AP) — North Vietnam announced today it will release "three American aggressors," apparently prisoners, in honor of U.S. Independence Day and allow others to receive gifts from their families.

The announcement broadcast by Radio Hanoi did not specifically say the prisoners would be released July 4, just that the releases would be made to observe the American holiday.

Its reference to "U.S. aggressors" was taken to mean American pilots shot down over North Vietnam.

The broadcast did not identify the men to be released, nor did it say when or where they would be freed.

Nixon Looking for Some Sign Drop in Fighting Is Deliberate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is looking for some sign that the sharp drop in the fighting in South Vietnam and a reported cut in the North Vietnamese infiltration into the South mean Hanoi is deliberately slowing down the war.

But officials are not sure they will get such an indication.

State Secretary William P. Rogers suggests these developments may be due to some "change of plans" by the Communist command. And he has held open the possibility they could lead to increased U.S. troop withdrawal from Vietnam when President Nixon reviews his plans next month.

But Rogers also told a news conference Wednesday the decline in North Vietnamese and Viet Cong activities could be due to manpower supply problems or to a regrouping of forces for new attacks.

Some authorities believe if the developments have political significance they would eventually get some signals to that effect, perhaps through Soviet or other diplomatic channels, from Hanoi.

On the North Vietnamese infiltration level, Rogers said: "We are not quite sure what it means except that we know pretty conclusively that there has been a reduction in the infiltration in the last two months."

At the defence department, however, military authorities looked to discount the significance of the reported drop. They said the total of North Vietnamese forces moving through the jungle trails normally varies from month to month.

Rogers said Defence Secretary Melvin Laird told him Wednesday the combat level in the South during the last week was the lowest in a long time and "possibly during the whole war."

He expressed hope this constituted a deliberate response by North Vietnam to President Nixon's June 8 announcement of the withdrawal of 25,000 American troops by the end of August.

Nixon intends to make a new decision during August on whether he can further reduce U.S forces.

Papyrus Boat Drops Life Raft

OSLO (AP) — Norwegian explorer Thor Heyerdahl reported today that he had his six-man international crew have dropped their life raft from the papyrus boat Ra.

Heyerdahl told an amateur radio operator the crew had too much trouble securing the raft against the lashing seas.

"We are now fully dependent on the papyrus if we run into serious trouble, but the stability of the boat has been improved by getting rid of the life raft," Heyerdahl was quoted as saying.

He said the boat is sailing according to schedule despite the fact that it has soaked up a good deal of water and is floating deeper now than at the start of the voyage from Safi, Morocco, May 25.

Heyerdahl's expedition hopes to reach the West Indies during August before the hurricane season starts.

Radio communications from the Ra, monitored by hams in St. Petersburg, Fla., showed the boat was 1,400 miles east of the Lesser Antilles.

Combined Hearing Slated

Municipal Board to Review Conflicting City-township Zoning

The Ontario Municipal Board will review conflicting zoning decisions in Belleville and neighboring Thurlow township at a joint inquiry.

This was confirmed today by OMB chairman J. A. Kennedy, who called the contrasting decisions in both municipalities "part of the same package."

The hearing will re-examine commercial zoning situations in both municipalities on opposite sides of the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway in the North Front Street area.

"A Belleville bid to rezone a land bloc for development of a $3,000,000 shopping plaza was turned down by the OMB earlier this year.

Shortly after, a Thurlow township request for similar zoning across the freeway was granted by the OMB.

The conflicting decisions sparked a controversy compounded by appeals to the OMB for reviews of both moves.

In Belleville, the appeal was launched by the city and a citizens' committee with an 11,000-name petition.

In Thurlow, the protest came from Oshawa Wholesale — parent of Towers Discount Stores — the Belleville Plaza and Metropolitan Trust.

"The two will be heard together," said Mr. Kennedy, "because they're part of the same package."

A joint hearing would "save some expense, some valuable time and save going over the same material twice," said the OMB chairman.

No time or place has yet been set for the review, although Mr. Kennedy said it was "inconceivable" the inquiry be held before August.

Lawyers representing all parties in both issues were now consulting on a convenient venue and would report back to the OMB.

After that, the board would formally date the review.

Hastings Has 49 Ontario Scholars

Anne Watson of Stirling is Quinte's top student with a 90.7 average. Elizabeth Ford, Coleen Fortin, Timothy Foster, Dorothea Gospodaric, Henry Kafka, Deborah Parks, Robert Preston, Richard Reilly, Aline Skurat, Cheryl Stapley and Fred Sutherland also received scholarships. Anne Watson, Cheryl Stapley and Fred Sutherland attended the now closed Stirling-Rawdon high school until grade 12, when they were transferred to Quinte.

Albert College's Ontario Scholar is Margaret Monroe.

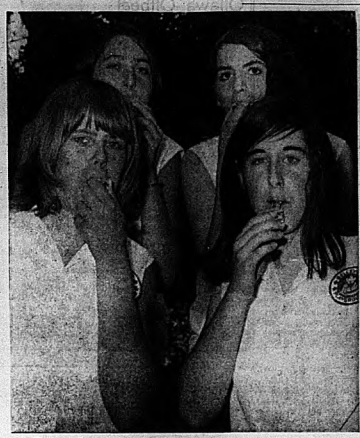
Marjorie Stailkovich leads the scholars at B.C.I.V.S. with an 86.4 average. David Geen, Alison Mueller, Leona Woods and Wally Zinch are the other scholars.

At Nicholson Judy Schrieder with an average of 84 per cent. Debra Moher and Joanne McAlpine won scholarships.

Other Ontario scholars at Trenton besides Miss Milligan are: Allison Bays, Ray Lobban, Teresa Rutherford, Connie Smith, David Turton and David Smith.

Other Centre Hastings Ontario scholars besides Miss Brownson with an average of 80 per cent or more are: Jung Mah, Robert Paranuik, Marian Price, Andrew Thomson and Wanda Fitzgerald.

Elizabeth Churcher is top student at North Hastings High School in Bancroft with an average of 82 per cent. Linda Hooker and Grace Martin of North Hastings High also received scholarships.



Tweed-Hungerford District high school students were led by Catherine Cassidy who had an 80.4 average. Other Tweed students who will be granted Ontario scholarships are: Margery Cruise, Glenn Gunning, Janice Lalendra, Evan Neugebauer, Murray Spencer and Paul Woolfrey.

This circus trailer appears to be very popular with the children at the Dundas Street Park. The equipment was provided and installed by the Kinsmen Club of Belleville to complement the facilities near their pool on Dundas Street.

Farmers Fear Rustling

Although Belleville area farmers have expressed fears of cattle theft police have quieted rumors that a rustling epidemic has broken out.

According to Trenton and Brighton police spokesmen, there is no epidemic of rustling as yet.

However, there has been a lot of discussion by farmers about the safety of their stock. Cattlemen are apprehensive about the security of their herds in view of skyrocketing beef prices.

Still, police have reported isolated incidents — two of them — in the last month in the Trenton - Brighton area.

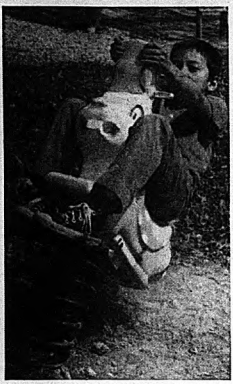
Although they have not disclosed details, police admit that twice last month missing calves were being reported. As yet, the two calves have not been found.

Just before the price of beef skyrocketed, a Cherry Valley farmer reported that 12 of his Holstein heifers were missing.

Complicating reports of missing cattle, is the fact that animals can be missing a month before a farmer will become aware of it.

The Cherry Valley farmer, Gordon Bell, utilized an aircraft to try to locate his missing stock. The search was fruitless.

The animals were taken from Mr. Bell's farm, at present rented by George Kewly, owner of Bell's Dairy in Prince Edward County. The cattle belonged to Mr. Bell.



According to Mr. Bell this morning, three of the missing cattle — identified by tags in the animals' ears — were located near Brighton about one month ago.

The heifers have not been returned to Mr. Bell.

"According to what I hear, several farmers in the county are missing cattle," Mr. Bell said.

Police have failed to substantiate any of the incidents to which Mr. Bell referred.

In the northern localities of Hastings County there have been no reports of cattle rustling.

Kinsmen Create Kiddies' Corner

It's just about completed. Almost all of the playground equipment has been installed in the Dundas St. Kinsmen Park and from the large numbers of children already using the equipment, it looks like a huge success.

The project was undertaken by the Kinsmen Club of Belleville in the hope of creating a new and unique park for the children of the city.

The total cost will be $8,600 with all the work being done by the Kinsmen themselves.

The equipment includes swings, various climbing apparatuses and eight rocking horses. All the pieces installed are permanent fixtures.

"The grounds will be supervised by our own people," said Donald Eisner a Kinsmen official, "and it is hoped that through the years we can continue to improve on the park."

The park has an animal theme with all the equipment being either in animal or clown form. Even the garbage containers are shaped like clowns.

With the pool nearby, the added feature contributes to the overall recreation scheme, offering a place for the children to play in complete safety.

"This is the only one of its kind," said Mr. Eisner, "between Toronto and Montreal."

The children seem oblivious to the unique aspects of the park and see it only as a great place to have fun and enjoy themselves.

Playgrounds Open Friday

Playgrounds are being readied for another recreation season in Belleville — registration is tomorrow — and supervisors heed much more than whistles to carry out their projects. Shepherding hundreds of youngsters daily means plenty of hard work ahead for 24 playground leaders, among them (clockwise) Sandra Crane, Eveline Palisca, Donna McLaughlin and Barb MacPherson.

The whistle will be blown on hundreds of Belleville youngsters next week.

In fact, more than a score of whistles — the attention-getters used by city playground supervisors.

Registrations open at all 20 local play centres in Belleville tomorrow at 9.30 a.m.

The playground season gets underway Monday — an event that takes most youngsters out of the house for about seven hours a day for the remainder of the school holidays.

Keys to the on-the-spot success of the recreation program are the supervisors — young men and women now rounding off training for the project.

Today is the second of a two-day exercise that sees the 24 supervisors practising the recreation-direction techniques they recently learned at a week-long summer camp at Roblin Lake.

Peace Park Dedication

Robert Kohaly, Q.C., Dominion President of the Royal Canadian Legion, will be the guest speaker at the third annual re-dedication of the Lester B. Pearson Peace Park July 6.

Among the other guests will be Kentaro Uemura president of the Tokyo Kiwanis Club who is flying from Japan with his wife. Mr. Uemura will present a Japanese flag to the Peace Park.

Garage Burns

A garage, owned by Elwood Dulmage of 273 Dufferin Avenue, was burned last night as firemen raced to the scene about 10.40 p.m.

The exact amount of damage and the contents of the building are unknown as yet.

Firemen did say, however, that there was no car in the garage at the time. The building, itself was insured. No one was injured.

Ride'em Cowboy

John Pickett seems lost to the world as he rides one of the many pieces of playground equipment at the Dundas Street Park. There are eight more horses like this for the children to play on.

Wilson Heads Firm

Union Carbide board chairman, Birney Mason, Jr. recently announced the appointment of F. Perry Wilson to the presidency of the corporation's New York headquarters.

Mr. Wilson is a former resident of Belleville, coming here in 1949 as assistant sales manager. In 1953 he was made vice-president of sales of Bakelite Canada. That same year he became president of Bakelite.

With the formation of Union Carbide-Canada Limited, Mr. Wilson was appointed vice-president of that company and later became a director and executive vice-president.

He was born in Manson, North Carolina in 1914 and was educated in that state. He was graduated from North Carolina State University with a B.S. degree in chemical engineering.

Mr. Wilson is married and has a son and daughter.

NDP Win in Manitoba

With long-established Social Credit governments in British Columbia and Alberta, the entry of the New Democratic Party into the halls of political power in Manitoba represents another swing toward the left on the Canadian provincial scene.

It was an astonishing upset which saw the NDP winning 28 seats, an increase of 12, the Conservatives who formed the last government dropping to 22 from 31 and the Liberals winning only five compared with their official Opposition total of 13. One Social Creditor was re-elected and an Independent was elected.

It is not the type of election return Canadians would expect here in the east where capitalism reaches its highest peaks of achievement and the parties of the establishment, the Progressive Conservatives and the Liberals, are firmly entrenched.

Ontario has been Conservative for nearly three decades. In Quebec it is the Union Nationale who outside the province would approximate to the PCs. New Brunswick has a Liberal government, so too have Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland, while Nova Scotia is Conservative.

Out west again is Saskatchewan which is Liberal, though now with what might be regarded as hostile socialist-oriented governments on its flanks. Yet even in the prairie province there are 24 NDP members in Opposition and waiting in the wings for some such swing as has brought the party into prominence in Manitoba. Ironically, it was a Liberal defection — by Larry Desjardins, member for St. Boniface since 1959 — that gave the NDP an additional seat, making 29 seats for a bare majority in the 57-member house.

It is something for Prime Minister Trudeau to think about in his federal fastness in Ottawa. Out west they are not interested in such exotic themes as the constitution and bilingualism. Practical bread-and-butter issues are what count there — agriculture and wheat sales in particular.

Mr. Trudeau may also be pondering the New Democratic Youth biennial convention which has just concluded in Ottawa with a consensus for a more radical leftist program for the party.

The rest of us might take note of the fact that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, which regularly gives prominence to the doings and utterances of the NDP, led off its late-night news bulletin with the party's Manitoba success Tuesday.

Prince of Wales

Prince Charles, Prince of Wales and heir to the Throne, is a regular sort of fellow as the saying goes. The noises of a few nationalists aside, the Welsh at large seem to have taken him to their hearts. Tuesday's ceremony at Caernarvon was a moving occasion with many human moments as the Prince made his pledges to his mother The Queen and before the largest potential audience — on television — the world has known. Here once more, in the person of a shy 20-year-old of strong and compassionate personality, the Royal Family has shown it is still a force for stability, unity and good in the world.

No Privacy

Public figures must expect to live in the glare of publicity, and none more so than international personages like Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis. It is sad though when former members of personal staff are so heedless of personal privacy as to reveal the sort of titillating gossip so beloved of popular magazines. Such is the case in the book, "My Life with Jacqueline Kennedy," by her one-time secretary, Mary B. Gallagher. Mrs. Gallagher has come up with all sorts of tattle, from the former first lady's liking for trading stamp gifts to her relationship with her mother-in-law. Mrs. Kennedy Onassis is as entitled to privacy as anyone else. It is because of magazines and books like this that she has enjoyed very little in recent years.

Evening Glow

When it comes to natural phenomena, is there anywhere better to view a sunset than in Prince Edward County? Say at The Outlet, or at Mountain View? Northern Ontario and many other remote regions can claim similar manifestations of beauty. But here, to the south, in the early evening, there is more to refresh the spirit amid the cloud and sunshine of a declining day.

Ottawa Offbeat

Peaceniks Find Haven at Capital's Costly Art Centre

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — So you and your fellow-taxpayers shelled out $46,000,000-plus to build the National Centre for the Performing Arts in Ottawa, and you'll all be ponying up with another annual $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 to keep it going.

Which is fine, says Canada's cultural czar, Stale Secretary Pelletier — although he personally wouldn't have okayed it — as long as this incredibly opulent (11 bars) palace of the artic arts doesn't become captive of the favored few.

Favored or not, it will be the few who will savor its costly pleasures.

The few, mainly, who live in the National Capital District.

And not all of those 450,000 either, when you eliminate the kids, the poor and the plain disinterested.

So while they may not make it their actual cultural "captive," as State Secretary Pelletier worries, the few — senior civil service mandarins, Ottawa's "social set" of the "old families," as they call themselves, the ambassadors plenipotentiary and ministers extraordinary from the nearly 100 foreign missions here, a few tourists who hear about it, and assorted others — will comprise the relatively restricted audience.

That annual $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 has to go atop your initial $46,000,000 investment simply because this rather specially circumscribed audience does not want to, can not, or might refuse to pay a ticket tariff high enough to cover the operating costs of this pleasure palace.

The Centre's management put in for an annual $2,800,000 operating subsidy.

But this is a time of officially proclaimed government "restraint," as it is called—although nobody bothered to think of that these past three years when the $46,000,000 was poured into this temple of culture.

So practising the "austerity" it preaches, the government chopped $450,000 from the operating subsidy and the Centre now must struggle along on $2,-800,000.

Already, it warns, money is a problem.

And if it is a problem for the Centre — it is a problem for you-know-who, which means you.

But free not.

Weep no tears of self - pity even if you live in Prince Rupert or St. John's, and are about as far away from Ottawa as you can get in this country and will not be getting to go to many First Nights in the glorious cathedral of culture.

It has been in a good side cause — the aid and comfort of peaceniks and the tacky inhabitants of the Capital's hippie colony — an extra dividend of a sort.

Gives you a nice, warm feeling of being wanted, does it, that glow of goodness you get from helping your fellow-man, even if he is dirty, unshaven, obscene and itching, literally, to make you over in his disorderly image.

At the invitation of the Centre's "Youth Co - ordinator," they moved into the multi-million - dollar premises for what they called a "peace filibuster."

Not, mind you, to brave the wind and rain out on any of the Centre's architecturally landscaped and sculptured patios, but inside a rest area with a roof over them, brick walls and glass doors around them.

There, in less than a day, with their untidy manners they provided an insight into their untidy minds.

Scattered around were old canvas sneakers, tattered bits of soiled cloth, a couple of dirty blankets, bread crusts, empty beer cans, the litter and rubble of any hippie haven.

Squatting amid the garbage were yobng girls — young enough to be home with their mothers — and long-haired youths in beads and earrings.

They stayed there until they tired of it, then, moving out, promised soon to return for another "sit-in for peace."

While the Arts Centre opens its soft heart to them, a block away, on Parliament Hill, hearts are harder.

The RCMP ran them off when they spread their blanket behind the shrubbery. And in the Centre Block, House of Commons guards under command of the Sergeant-at-Arms, Colonel David Currie, a World War II tank commander who won a Victoria Cross rolling inland from the Normandy beaches, bar the doors to the unwashed, unshaven, unshorn and unshod.

There have been cries of protest and pity from the do-gooders that this is mean and cruel. But Colonel Currie sticks to his guns: "nobody, but nobody in dirty bare feet gets into the Centre Block, period."

But then the Centre Block did not cost $46,000,000 so there is not as much to spoil as at the Arts Centre.

U.K. Socialism Makes Heavy Weather

The Times of London

"Except in Scandinavia —and more especially in Sweden, where the Social Democrats have recovered strongly — the record of social democracy in office is unimpressive. Britain has had two socialist administrations since the war. Most of the initial reforms had been put through by 1951. They were, broadly speaking, accepted by the Opposition and by the public. To that extent the climate of postwar Britain has been a social democratic climate. But what might be called the Scandinavian model socialism inevitably reaches a stage at which its extensions are minimal, not revolutionary . . .

"Since the war, the effective parliamentary governments in Western Europe have been Conservative or Christian Democrat in tendency. The Socialists have introduced social reform, but the centre and right parties — alone or in coalition — have proved the ones best capable of governing successfully in terms of the ground rules of welfare socialism. They have kept the balance in mixed economies with more skill, and done unpopular things with less public rejection. The socialist still to govern, once much talked of, wanes in disappointment and perplexity. Perhaps this infirmity of purpose in office lies in the origins of socialism as a propagation of ideas, a lobbying of existing parties, rather than an organizing for — and understanding of — political power . . ."

Lakehead Cities to Merge

Windsor Star

Another Canadian city with a population in the 100,000 bracket is on the way. It will result from a projected merger of Fort William and Port Arthur and further expansion may be taken for granted. Its operational life will begin Jan. 1, 1970.

Insofar as Windsor's opinion on the subject is concerned they are doing the right thing. Fragmented Jurisdictions, such as we had in this area for a long time, have inherent weaknesses that sooner or later must be patched up. And apparently it now is the Ontario government's aim to do just that wherever it seems necessary.

Naturally some objections will be raised. That was the case here and it will be elsewhere.

But the commonsense of unification and the economics that can be effected under it — although perhaps not apparent right away —will shine through. This, too is a time of rapid growth in most if not all jurisdictions. Anything in the way of balkanization would only result in costly delay.

Ottawa Initiates Study For Reviving Canada's Merchant Marine Fleet

Toronto Star Syndicate

Canada once had a good-sized merchant marine fleet. She may have another if a newly announced market study produced favorable answers.

Ottawa has commissioned three consulting firms to examine the costs and benefits of a government subsidized, privately owned merchant fleet. Hedlin, Menzies and Associates, a Winnipeg - based firm, is the prime contractor for the study. It will subcontract supporting technical work to two other firms, Gibson Transportation Limited, another Canadian firm and George C. Sharp, Inc., of New York City.

If the Hedlin, Menzies report is favorable, there is a possibility some of the fleet will be constructed in Canada by a ship building industry well able to do the work. Depending on the speed with which the government wants to go ahead, some of the first ships of the fleet may be bought.

The revival of a Canadian merchant marine could mean some 50 Canadian owned ships now under foreign registry would be transferred back under the Canadian flag. In June 1969, Canada's registered deep sea merchant fleet totalled only four vessels — one of them an oil tanker.

Much of the non-communist world's merchant fleet is registered under foreign flags to escape domestic wage, comfort and safety regulations which drive operating costs to levels which won't let them compete with ships from more permissive nations.

Many vessels are registered in Panama and Liberia, which cater to owners from all over the world. For a relatively small registration fee and an annual tax based on tonnage, vessel owners are free from many costs.

They may be subject, however, to other "ali-ki for peace."

While the Arts Centre opens its soft heart to them, a block away, on Parliament Hill, hearts are harder.

The RCMP ran them off when they spread their blanket behind the shrubbery. And in the Centre Block, House of Commons guards under command of the Sergeant-at-Arms, Colonel David Currie, a World War II tank commander who won a Victoria Cross rolling inland from the Normandy beaches, bar the doors to the unwashed, unshaven, unshorn and unshod.

There have been cries of protest and pity from the do-gooders that this is mean and cruel. But Colonel Currie sticks to his guns: "nobody, but nobody in dirty bare feet gets into the Centre Block, period."

But then the Centre Block did not cost $46,000,000 so there is not as much to spoil as at the Arts Centre.

May Have Little Effect

Seven-Nation Body Threatens More Rhodesia Sanctions

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

President Nixon's visit to Bucharest later this month is reported to be causing great delight in Romania.

It's easy to see why. The visit has about it many of the elements that characterize Romania's own style in foreign policy —a large measure of self-interest, a hint of cloak-and-dagger-intrigue, a thumb-to-the-nose at the Russians, and total surprise. It seems guaranteed to appeal to the Romanians' appreciation of the devious.

As with many of Romania's foreign policy adventures, however, there is a temptation to ask now about the Americans: "What are they up to? What is really to be gained beyond a brief flare of publicity?"

Such questions have been posed already; sometimes in much stronger terms by some U.S. political commentators. James Reston of the New York Times, calls the visit "mistimed" because it could antagonize the Soviet Union at a delicate moment.

In London, the much-respected Guardian goes a step further. If Nixon doesn't care whether he annoys the Russians, its editorial said, then it could mean he doesn't expect any concrete results from bilateral talks with them on strategic arms limitation.

It's possible both views overestimate the importance Soviet leaders will attach to Nixon's visit.

They have every reason to be annoyed about it. They will probably want to alter their own plans for a visit to Bucharest, to reduce the chances of unfavorable comparisons between the reception they get and the response given Nixon.

But the Soviets have shown in the past they can ignore pinpricks in pursuit of larger goals.

Also, the Soviets have always seemed prepared to put up with Romania's foreign-policy adventures as long as the Communist party there did not lose control.

Under party leader Nicolae Ceausescu, the Communists hold an undisputed grip on Romania. No opposition is brooked and there is no question of the country adopting the policy of "socialism with a human face."

This, for the Soviets, seems the important thing.

Where there is room for legitimate concern is about the implications of the Nixon visit for future U.S. policy toward Eastern Europe.

Under the Eisenhower administration, the Republicans tried —with notoriously unsuccessful results—to wean some of the East European countries away from the Soviet Union, under a vaguely divide-and-conquer policy.

A return to that policy could destroy any possibility of progress in Soviet-American rela-

Irish Lass from Ulster Visits Prince Edward

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Two weeks ago Prince Edward County received a special delivery package from County Down, Ireland.

Seed potatoes, perhaps, or a complimentary clump of shamrocks? No, "the package" was Maureen Dillon, a member of the Young Farmer's Club of Ulster and one of eight delegates flown to Canada from the United Kingdom in connection with the Junior Farmers' youth exchange plan.

Miss Dillon, a 23-year-old colleen who is employed by a bank in Belfast, has been a guest at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Sprigings and their daughter Linda, RR2, Bloomfield, since her arrival in Prince Edward.

In Canada for nine weeks, the Irish farm lass has visited in Simcoe, Waterloo, Middlesex, Thunder Bay District and Prince Edward.

What does Miss Dillon think of The Garden County, as Prince Edward is commonly called?

"I am very interested in the market gardening done here," she said. "At home we cannot grow tomatoes, cob corn, or mushrooms outside because of the cooler climate."

Observing the farm machinery used here, Prince Edward's Irish visitor discovered it very similar to the farm equipment used in her country.

Canadian farmers, however, do use one piece of machinery not yet found in Miss Dillon's County Down. The hay swather which cuts and crimps hay in a single operation was something very different to the Sprigings' Irish guest.

Asked if irrigation was commonly used in her country's farming Miss Dillon replied, "In Ireland most of our irrigation comes from above."

She pointed out that Ireland's rain is spread more evenly than that of Ontario but the total amount of rain for both is almost equal.

Since her arrival in the county Maureen Dillon has been "on the go" with her camera snapping color slides of all local points of interest. When she returns home she will travel through Northern Ireland, showing these pictures and addressing young farmer clubs.

Miss Dillon made an unscheduled stop in Belleville last week to view the Moira River.

"The village of Moira is close to my home in Ireland so I wanted to see the river," she explained.

She also visited Zwick's Island Park to see the Dairy Princess crowned and found it an enlightening experience.

"I like the way it was organized," commented Miss Dillon. "In Ireland the Dairy Princesses don't have to be farm residents and they aren't asked to milk a cow during the competitions."

Canadian and Irish young people are much alike, she observed. Teens here dress and talk much as the Irish young people do.

"In Ireland, though, we don't dress quite as casually as the Canadian people do," she said.

Miss Dillon was lamenting a wardrobe of "not very fussy dresses" that she had been unable to wear often since arriving in Canada.

"They were out of place here," said the Irish girl who has given in to the local summer garb of shorts and blouse.

Miss Dillon feels Irish teens enjoy a better opportunity for socializing than their Canadian counterparts. There are many more dances in Ireland where boys and girls meet and talk, according to her.

"We seldom have high school sweethearts at home," she stated. "Usually people meet at dances and most of them marry at 23 or 24 years of age."

Irish lasses are abreast of all the current fashions judging by Miss Dillon's observations.

"At home the skirts are much shorter than they are worn here," she testified.

Slang expressions seem the same in both countries with one exception. In Canada there is the phrase, "Is that right?"

Said Miss Dillon, "Each time someone here says this to me I think for a moment he is questioning my word."

This week Maureen Dillon leaves Prince Edward to visit Lenark County. On August 3, following a trip to Vancouver she will sail for home with her fellow delegates.

Is Miss Dillon's home really "a little bit of Heaven" as the song writers claim? Sweating at a mosquito hovering around her, Miss Dillon said "We don't have these in Ireland."

Guild Chooses Plays

Variety is the keynote in the plays selected by the Belleville Theatre Guild for the coming year.

At a meeting of the executive four plays were decided upon — Aunty Maime, Rosencrants and Guildenstern are Dead, Wait Until Dark, Blithe Spirit and either Ann of Green Gables or The Music Man.

Complication may arise in obtaining the rights to perform Ann of Green Gables but it is hoped that this will be cleared up as soon as possible.

Two more plays will be performed under Guild sponsorship, Dark of the Moon will be done by the teenagers and a children's play will be staged in association with the Recreation Centre.

Obituaries and Funerals

ROY YATEMAN

TRENTON — The funeral for Roy Yateman, 31 Edward Street, Trenton, who died at his home on Sunday in his 72nd year, was held from the Weaver Funeral Home on Wednesday afternoon. He had been in failing health for nearly two years.

Rev. D. Wilson conducted the service in the chapel and also said the graveside prayers at White's cemetery.

The bearers were William Boys, R. Whitley, L. Paul, Gerald Weaver, Alfred Haynes and G. Bowden.

Mr. Yateman was born at Fonboro, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Yateman, and resided in Trenton for the past 25 years. He formerly lived in Sidney township and the Shannonville area. Mr. Yateman was employed with the CPR and retired as a section foreman.

He was a member of Grace United church. Fraternally he was a member of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees Lodge No. 192 of Perth.

Surviving are his wife, the former Ada Tripp, six brothers, Stanley, Arthur, Orville and Melville Yateman of Belleville, William, R.R. 5 Trenton, Albert, Massena, N.Y. and one sister, Mrs. Ernest (Della) Mutton, Colborne. One sister, Mrs. Gertrude Rutter of Belleville, is predeceased.

FRANK O'CONNELL

TWEED—Frank O'Connell, a native of Richmond Township, died recently in Napanee at the Lennox and Addington County General Hospital following a stroke.

A son of the late Peter O'Connell and his wife, the former Marcella Daley, he spent his entire life in the township.

Surviving are his wife, the former Helen Yorke, a son, Maurice O'Connell, Richmond and two sisters, Mrs. A. J. (Kay) Black and Miss Anne O'Connell, both of Belleville. He was predeceased by his parents, a sister, Mrs. J. (Mary) Whalen, and a brother, Joseph O'Connell.

Mr. O'Connell was a member of the Knights of Columbus, the Holy Name Society and took an active interest in all community projects.

The bearers were John, Joseph, Clare, James and Joseph P. Jordan and Thomas Doyle.

Service was held in St. Charles' Church in Read.

SANDFORD HUBBLE

The funeral for Sandford Hubble was held from the Thompson Funeral Chapel on Wednesday afternoon.

Rev. Gordon Woodcock conducted the service in the chapel and also the committal rites at Mount Pleasant Cemetery in Rawdon township.

The bearers were Harold Garrison, Roy Thrasher, Edgar Ray, Gilbert Sills, Bruce Christie and Lorne White.

EMPLOYMENT STRENGTH

The RCMP has a uniform strength of about 9,000 and a total establishment strength of about 11,000.

Bonarlaw Personals

BONARLAW — The Boy Scouts of Bonarlaw held a weekend at the cottage of Don Irish at Oak Lake, when six boys attended the Camporee, with Jack Rathwell as leader. They won the award for most points at the camporee, second went to Fonboro, while third went to Plainfield.

The ACW was held recently at the home of Mrs. Arthur Burkitt, with a good attendance of members and four visitors. This was the last meeting before summer holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McLellan and Kenneth of Ottawa are holidaying at the farm home, Bonarlaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Acker have moved to their new home at the Bateman Settlement.

A number of friends attended the confirmation service at Marmora when ten teenagers from Bonarlaw were confirmed by Rt. Rev. Bishop K. C. Evans. A dainty lunch was served following the service by the members of the ACW.

Mr. and Mrs. William Neal sold their farm to Mr. Skarret of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burkitt, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dickie and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Mumby were among those who attended the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Burkitt at their home, Mountain View.

Miss Paula Lalonde of Picton spent a few days with her uncle, Paul Laton and Mrs. Laton and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack O'Connor, Marmora visited Mrs. S. Mathews and Ross.

Miss Diane McKeown, R.N. of Scarboro spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril McKeown, Lisle and Jane.

Lorne McInroy held a successful auction sale recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Heath, Lindsay, visited Mr. and Mrs. E. Heath.

Sterling Keith Belch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Belch, 215 Cannifton Road, Belleville, graduated June 13 in the municipal assessment course at Loyalist College. Mr. Belch, who attended Quinte Secondary School, is now employed with the government at Fort Arthur.

Police Question All Men Named Vicenzo in Search for Killer

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto police are questioning all men named Vicenzo they can find who had business or social dealings with the family of Philippo Vendemini, the 43-year-old shoe-merchant who was shot to death Sunday.

Vicenzo—Italian for Vincent—was the name Vendemini used while speaking on the telephone with a man who called him long-distance early Saturday morning, police said Wednesday.

It may also be the name of the man police are seeking who arrived in an airport limousine at the Vendemini home later in the evening to look at shoe samples and who then drove away with Vendemini in the latter's car.

Vendemini was shot in the head and chest from ambush 1 a.m. Sunday when he returned his car to the parking lot behind his mid-town Toronto store.

Police obtained the information about the conversations from Vendemini's wife, Giuseppina, 40, who described the man with whom she last saw her husband as being from 30 to 35, about 5 feet, 7 and swarthy.

Mrs. Vendemini told police she gathered from her husband's telephone conversation that Vincenzo was interested in buying shoes and would possibly fly to Toronto—from where it was not clear.

Police are checking limousine rentals, airline flights by Italians—especially from Montreal—and Mr. Vendemini's business contact. Interpol, the international police organization, is checking shipments of Italian shoes to his store.

About 30 detectives are investigating the murder with hopes of finding leads to gangs said to be preying on Toronto's large Italian community.

Acting Deputy Chief Adolphus Payne, meanwhile said there is no concrete evidence that the killing is linked to illegal sale of alcohol. While a gangland connection is suspected, the acting deputy refused to say what area of crime may be involved.

Athens Lawyers Exiled to Hills

ATHENS (Reuters) — Two Athens lawyers who defended 21 leading judges purged 18 months ago by the military-backed government were exiled today to tiny mountain villages.

Relatives said George Maghakis and Theodylos Zoukas were arrested at their homes at dawn and taken to security headquarters.

Their families were told they would be sent to villages and forced to reside there because they were a danger to public security.

The move was the latest development in an open clash between the government and the 25-member state council, the supreme administrative court of Greece.

When the council recently decided in a 13-to-12 vote to reinstate the 21 top judges, the government dismissed its 66-year-old president, Michael Stassinopoulos.

Twelve judges resigned from the state council in solidarity with Stassinopoulos after his dismissal.

Indians United

SARNIA (CP) — Canadian Indians apparently are united in their rejection of the federal government's plan to shift responsibility for Indian affairs to the provincial jurisdiction, the leader of the Sarnia Chippewa band said Wednesday.

Chief Fred Plain, at a meeting of the band council, said the white paper presented to Parliament last month by Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien fails to answer too many questions asked by Indians across Canada.

The chief said a resolution condemning the white paper will be presented to other Indian leaders at a meeting today in Toronto.

Pop Music Idol Dies in Pool

LONDON (AP) — Brian Jones, 25, a pop music idol who rose to stardom as one of Britain's Rolling Stones, died today after he was pulled unconscious from the swimming pool at his Hartfield home, police reported.

The long-haired guitarist was clad in swim trunks when he was taken from the pool by three house guests. When an ambulance arrived, attendants attempted mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but Jones was pronounced dead at the scene by a doctor.

Tom Keylock, Rolling Stones tour manager, said it is possible that Brian had an attack of asthma while he was bathing.

"There was an asthma inhaler, which Brian used to help him with his breathing, at the side of the swimming pool."

Jones quit the popular quintet last month, saying he wanted to play his own type music.

He made his last public appearance with the Rolling Stones in May, 1968, at London's Wembley Stadium. Ten thousand people attended and the group got a wild reception.

Rolling Stones records have sold 43,000,000 copies around the world.

Jones died at Cotchford Farm, a 10th century estate southeast of London that once belonged to A. A. Milne, author of Winnie the Pooh. Jones bought it last November for nearly the equivalent of $80,000.

The pop star twice was convicted of possessing marijuana. In December, 1967, he was placed on probation for three years and fined $2,000 but avoided a jail sentence by promising to give up drugs. He was arrested again five months later after police found marijuana at his home in London's Chelsea district. He was fined $123.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL J. McCAREY

McCarey – Duncan

Sacred Heart Church, Batawa was the setting on Saturday, June 21, 1969 at 11.30 a.m., when Linda Anne Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Duncan of Batawa became the bride of Michael Joseph McCarey, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McCarey of Belleville. Rev. Father W. H. Dunphy officiated at the ceremony and wedding music was rendered by organist Michael Shoniker.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of peau de grenadine featuring an empire waistline and three-quarter length sleeves and accented with lace trimming. A chapel train extended from the waistline and a chapel length mantilla headdress was trimmed with matching lace. She carried a bouquet of white carnations mingled with ivy.

The maid of honor Miss Mary Anne Kotek wore a floor-length A-line gown in turquoise shade styled similarly to the bride's and carried a bouquet of white daisies. The bridesmaids Mrs. Donna Brunton and Miss Mary Cranston were identically attired to the maid of honor.

James McCarey attended his brother, while the ushers were John McFee and Paul Duncan, brother of the bride.

At the reception in the Batawa Community Centre, The bride's mother wore a pale pink coat and dress ensemble with pink and white hat, white accessories and a corsage of deep pink roses. The mother of the bridegroom's mother assisted with receiving wearing a royal blue dress and jacket ensemble with ivory accessories and a corsage of pale pink roses.

For the wedding trip to the East Coast, the bride chose an ivory dress and jacket with navy blue and yellow accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. McCarey will reside at 44 Ponton Street, Belleville.

Church Groups

ST. ANDREW'S WG

The Women's Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held its final meeting for the summer months, on Tuesday evening.

President, Mrs. R. Jones welcomed the members and opened the meeting. Mrs. B. Sine led in devotion for the Welcome Group. Mrs. R. Kempster read the minutes of the previous meeting as well as correspondence. Mrs. R. Michaud gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. J. Robertson reported plans are well under way for the antique sale and tea-show to be held Sept. 16, 17, 18. This is the third annual show and members are looking forward to another successful show.

Mrs. R. Jones reminded all of the bazaar in November. The next meeting will be held in September in form of a pot-luck supper.

The Harmony Group served refreshments.

Oh to Have A Closet Filled with Furs!

NEW YORK (AP) — A closet filled with furs? Why not?

Considering the variety of shapes, styles and colors shown here during several weeks of fur collections, it's entirely possible for the rich, elegant lady to fill her winter closet with nothing but fur. Out with the little wool dresses. Enter calfskin suits, sable pants, and chinchilla gowns.

Imagine a collection of James Galanos furs. A broadtail pants outfit in different shades of brown, co-ordinated with a maxi red fox coat. Then for those shopping days, a grey and white seal coat with leather and metal clasps. A fluffy, snow leopard coat would look great with a skier's tan, while Mexican ocelot completes the sophisticated city look.

For evening, the black broadtail jump suit, slashed to the waist, looks stunning, perhaps under a long coat in four shades of brown patterned mink.

Expenditures—a mere $32,000.

Even winter cloth coats have been rescued from their seasonal sameness by the addition of scarves, mufflers, and stoles.

Christian Dior and the Brothers Christie use signature scarves of mink and chinchilla. Giorgio de Sant'Angelo, the dress designer who made a gypsy look a summer favorite, took yards of ocelot and made a muffler with a fringe of fox tails. Oscar de la Renta introduced his "minkerchief" as well as a flower-embroidered broadtail stole in red and white with leather fringes. These flings and scarves cost anywhere from $300 into the four-figure category.

As in all fashion, the emphasis is on the young look and most designers have adopted the narrow, snug shapes, high armholes and slim sleeves that give furs a fit like dresses.

The long evening coat was every designer's finale style. Geoffrey Beene's white mink was belted like a bathrobe. Christie had a long, fuschia-colored chinchilla. Barlan, well known in the trade for its expensive furs, showed a sable-colored rabbit floor sweeper for only $550.

White Cane Club, Escorts Enjoy Picnic

The annual picnic of the White Cane Club was held at Zwick's Island Park on Saturday afternoon with a large attendance of members and escorts.

Guests from Kingston were Field Secretary Gordon Sheppard and Mrs. Sheppard, assistant field secretary, Roy Lesperance and Mrs. Lesperance and children.

A pleasant afternoon was spent in playing games and participating in contests. The "hot potato" game was won by Roy Lesperance and the 'Ontario geography' contest by Gordon Sheppard and Clarence Morris. Pat Baverstock and Aurel Casey were the winners of the clothes pin game.

Soft drinks were served during the afternoon and later everyone sat down to a picnic supper.

Assisting at the picnic were Maude Rollins, Myrtle Peck, Laurie Towner, Mrs. D. J. Gill, Mrs. C. Kellar, Gladys Seldon, Walter Waite and Tom Wardhaugh.

On June 21 at Holy Rosary Church, Margaret Elizabeth Waller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Waller, Foxboro, was united in marriage to Paul Joseph Bedore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bedore, of Napanee. Officiating at the ceremony was Father George Mullin. The couple will be residing in Oshawa.

Mr. Mrs. R. Kuntze Wed 50 Years

On Monday, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Kuntze celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Their family, Jack and Charlotte Kuntze, their four children; as well as daughter-in-law from Ottawa, and her two children helped the couple celebrate the special occasion.

The family gathered at Sun Luck Gardens, where they enjoyed dinner, and later went to the home of Jack Kuntze, MacDonald T. Potter, Belleville, where the immediate family and some 20 to 40 invited guests enjoyed a social evening.

Telegrams were received from the Prime Minister; from the Leader of the Opposition, Robert Stanfield; a scroll from Dr. R. T. Potter, M.P.P. The couple also received a letter from Lee Grills, M.P.; and a letter from Mayor J. R. Scott, and more than 50 letters of congratulations.

The couple were married in Dale Presbyterian Church, in Toronto, on June 30, 1919. They resided in Toronto until 1940, after which they moved to Belleville. Attendants at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lane.

While in Belleville, Mr. Kuntze operated a groceteria, and later, an appliance and music store on Front St. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club for 28 years, and is a life member of Moira Lodge No. 11. Both have been members of Bridge St. United Church for more than 25 years.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

BAY OF QUINTE WI

Fourteen members of the Bay of Quinte Women's Institute toured the Intelligencer building and station CJBQ on a Wednesday afternoon. This was arranged by Mrs. Stanley Holland who was convener of Canadian Industry.

In the evening 13 members convened at the home of Mrs. Alva Meyers for the regular meeting. Mrs. Cecil Jeffrey presented Mrs. Clarence Holmes with a life membership to the Federated Women's Institute of Ontario.

The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Peter Jordan.

Lunch was served by the lunch committee and the meeting closed in the usual manner.

School Holds Graduation Exercises

TWEED — The first graduation exercises for the Grade 8 pupils of the S. H. Connor Public School, Tweed, were held at the Tweed-Hungerford District High School.

During the ceremonies, more than 76 pupils received their graduation diplomas, while 18 boys and girls received award tabs for various achievements.

The evening's program opened with a message from the staff, given by A. Cox, mathematics teacher.

Presentations were given to top girl and boy in general proficiency, Bill Spencer and Judy Jones. Both received cup trophies.

Trophies were also presented to senior girl and boy athletes of the year, Iain Poste and Judy Jones. Junior boy athlete of the year was awarded to Bill Spencer.

Diplomas were arranged in school colors, in the form of a shield crest, which was designed last fall by Grade 8 pupil, Barbara Spencer, and art teacher, Mr. G. Smith. Valedictorian was Janice Peacock.

Diplomas were presented to the students by Laurison Gunning, the area trustee.

A variety show was carried out for the audience and pupils, after which a poem was given, which was composed by the pupils. Later a skit of school days completed the show.

Guest speaker for the evening was the previous principal, S. Howard Connor of Tweed. He was introduced by Mrs. Irene Bateman.

After completion of the proceedings, a graduation party was held, which was planned entirely by the pupils.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was William MacMillan, vice principal, with assistance from several members of the teaching staff.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD H. BONTER

Bonter – Hicks

The wedding was solemnized in Humber Valley United Church, Islington, recently, when Rev. R. Arthur Steed performed the double - ring wedding ceremony of Carol Ann Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hicks of Islington, to Donald Harold Bonter, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Harold Bonter of Carrying Place RR1. Raymond Gould organist of the church rendered traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. David Johnson in appropriate spatial selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie with an overlay of lace, with lace sleeves and inverted pleat at back which fell into a short train. Her shoulder length veil was caught to a headdress of organza and seed pearls and carried a round bouquet consisting of white miniature carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

Miss Jo-Ann Noble was maid of honor with Miss Janet Bennett as bridesmaid. Both wore Empire styled floor length gowns of pink orchid peau de channe with chiffon sleeves and large bow at back. Their bouquets were similar to the bride's but with pink shade miniature carnations and purple statice. Garlands of matching carnations were worn as headdresses. The flower girls Miss Heather Vickery and Miss Suzanne Bleecker, nieces of the bridegroom, wore a long gowns of white peau de channe with pink orchid ruffled chiffon trim as back interest. Both carried tiny bouquets of pink miniature carnations and purple statice and were double end hairpieces of pink carnations.

The groomsman was Bruce Miller of Aurora, cousin of the bridegroom and the ushers were Peter Hatfield of Carrying Place and Douglas Hicks of Toronto.

The reception was held in the Humber Room at the Old Mill, Islington where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a princess line dress of imported beige sheer lace with tulle hat in melon tones, bone accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a Dior lace dress with matching tulle hat, white accessories and a corsage of pink and white sweetheart roses. Rev. R. Arthur Steed was master of ceremonies with a toast to the bride proposed by the bride's uncle, Arthur Weir of Consecon.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and points west, the bride donned a dress and coat ensemble in patterned blue shading with black patent accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The couple will reside at RR1, Carrying Place.

U.C.W. Meeting

TABERNACLE UNITED CHURCH

The last meeting (until September), of the UCW, was held at the church with the vice-president, Mrs. Matier presiding.

After the minutes, the program for the evening was presented by the Junior Band of children of the church.

Valarie McKay, Linda Hamilton, Sherry Pine, James Crook and Miss N. Boldrick rendered piano solos, while a piano duet was given by Peggy and David McKay.

Other selections on drums, cornet, accordion were rendered by Stephen Pine, Bob Graham, Scott and Caroline Wessels. The baton routine was given by Miss Bonnie Rose.

Miss Horton thanked those who took part in the program.

Unit four was in charge of the devotional period, the theme being "God's creation," as described in the book of Genesis, read by Mrs. Wessels.

Mrs. Osland and Mrs. Wessels both gave readings, which were followed with prayer by Mrs. Osland. The singing of a hymn closed the devotional period. The collection was received by Mrs. Elliott and dedicated.

Mrs. Matier announced the church picnic and also the duties of Tabernacle Church UCW at the Hastings Manor from July 22 to 26.

Unit five presented two fern stands and ferns to be used anywhere in the church. Lunch was served by Units one and two.

Friends Bid Family Farewell

MINTO—Minto Community Hall was filled Friday evening when relatives, friends and neighbors gathered to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Maorris Morrison and family.

The family have sold their farm in the district, and are living near Bancroft.

Ken Mumby, acting as chairman, expressed regret in losing the Morrison family as neighbors and wished them good luck in their new community venture.

Mrs. G. Sutherland and Mrs. T. Mumby gave readings. Mrs. A. Martin sang, playing her own accompaniment on the guitar. Miss Caroline Richardson gave a piano solo.

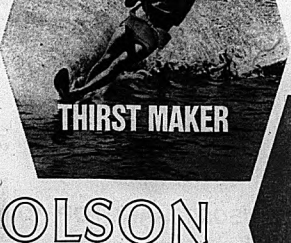
Art Martin then read the address and Messrs. Cecil Mack and Ed Richardson presented the departed family with gifts on behalf of the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrison replied, thanking everyone for the gifts, and all who were responsible in any way toward the memorable evening. They also invited all to visit them in their new home.

The evening ended with the serving of lunch, after which a social hour was enjoyed.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE



Mr. and Mrs. George Rilley announce the engagement of their youngest daughter Bonnie Lynn to Mr. Robert Smith, Toronto, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Smith of Birmingham, England. Wedding will take place July 26, 4 p.m. at Christ Church, Coleman St., Belleville.

* * *

Previous to her marriage, Mrs. Paul Bedore, (nee Margaret Waller), was entertained at a miscellaneous shower by Mrs. J. Aitken, Foxboro.

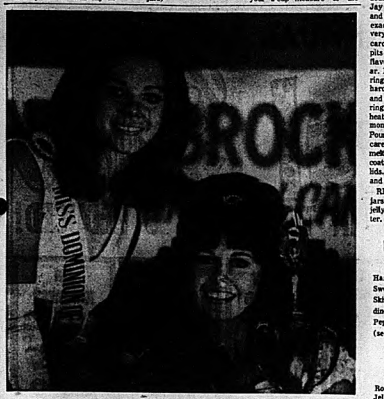
Basket of Cherries Makes 20 Small Jars

By MARY MOORE

As you read this, God willing, it will be July, 1969. As I write it, it is July, 1968.

I have twenty 8-oz. jars of beautiful cherry red jelly to boast over after my efforts — all from one 4-quart basket of Montmorencys.



Shirley Martin was my inspiration. She made dozens of small jars of it during cherry season 1967 for the Country Store at Brantford's Glenhyrst Antique Show in May, 1968. They cleared $77. at that booth alone so you can imagine the quality of their wares.

CHERRY JELLY
(Approximately eight 8-oz. jars)

3½ lbs. stemmed Montmorency cherries (about 2 qts. — see below)
½ cup water
7 cups (3 lbs.) granulated sugar
1 bottle liquid pectin
1 tsp. almond extract

Stem cherries and weigh or measure. If you measure fill your 2-cup measure to the brim four times. Wash in colander under running cold water and drain well. Do not pit. Turn into flat-bottomed large saucepan and mash with potato masher until all cherries are broken and juicy. Add the ½ cup water and bring to boil and simmer covered 10 min. Line colander with double thin cloth. (I used two Jay cloths.) Strain cherries and press out juice. Measure exactly 3½ cups juice (for very large saucepan (Discard small amount of pulp and pits for they are useless and flavorless for Jam.) Add sugar. Place over high heat, stirring constantly, and bring to hard boil. Add liquid pectin and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Skim off foam. Add almond extract stirring well. Pour into eight 8-oz. jars and carefully cover with clean, melted paraffin, tipping to coat sides a little. Cover with lids. Wash and cool. Label and date. Store in dark place.

RESULT: Eight gorgeous jars of delicious cherry red jelly for your toast come winter.

Miss Dominion of Canada

All smiles — Jacquie Perrin, a 21-year-old brunette from Toronto, is the new Miss Dominion of Canada. She is being crowned by her predecessor, Nancy Wilson (left) at the Sheraton-Brock Hotel in Niagara Falls. Miss Wilson came out of hospital after internal surgery to take part in the ceremony. Jacquie is a student at York University. (CP-Wirephoto)

Why Does One Belittle?

By DORIS CLARK

Why is it a common thing for a person to downgrade another? Why does a husband disparage his mate — or a wife belittle her man?

Psychologists point out that some characters who are chronically unhappy with themselves get a perverse satisfaction out of putting someone else apart. It is usually someone close to them; someone whose warm regard can withstand the blows—they hope!

My Jewish philosopher-friend explains it this way:

"It's like when two people are in swimming. One person tries to get up higher by pushing down on the head of the other. But it doesn't work that way. All you are doing is killing someone."

* * *

Dear Doris: Could you please tell me a polite and warm way to approach the subject of what to call my in-laws?

I have a wonderful mother and father, the best anyone could want. I feel the names "Mom" and "Dad" are special and out for them. I just can't imagine calling my in-laws by that name. Every time I do call them Mom and Dad I feel like a phoney hypocrite. My in-laws don't give me any way in which I could call them anything else.

If I could call them Jean and Jack I'd feel much more comfortable as I am very friendly with them. — Uneasy.

Dear Uneasy: It is awkward. I have sat in a living-room where a son has been talking to both sets of parents, and it does sound a bit artificial when he speaks to Mom over there, then to Mom over here. Same with Dad.

Why not "Mom Moore," "Mother Jean," or "Pop Jones"? Or, better still, trot out the question to their most involved. Explain that you don't feel right in calling them Mom and Dad — and would it be all right to call them Jean and Jack?

* * *

Dear Doris: I come from Europe and my English is fairly well. However, each time I have to write a note of absence to my children's teachers in school I'm not quite sure whether I'm doing it right or wrong.

Is it correct to begin with "Dear Teacher," (the teacher's name), and what is the proper way to end the note? Is it necessary to sign with "Sincerely, Mrs. B."? I have been told that it is impolite to just sign, Mrs. Brown " — Europa

Dear Europa: Congratulations on your fine literary efforts! Anybody who is keen enough to write for information about the things she isn't sure of, will get along.

In Canada it is still right to start a friendly letter with the formal salutation: Dear Miss Numbers," and to end it with the complimentary closing: "Yours sincerely", or just "Sincerely," though many commercial houses have dispensed with these formalities in business correspondence.

Use decent notepaper.

Doris Clark

Teachers take a dim view of notes written on cereal box tops, which does happen.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "You are a bad girl to get into my desk drawer. Look at what you've done to all my writing paper. I ought to spank you."

Mother: "This is my drawer and this low drawer is for your things. If you want some of my paper, you should ask me to get it for you."

Gentle insistence on property rights usually will be just as effective in teaching about "mine" and "thine" as will scolding and irritability.

Geometery Designs in Fall Styles

NEW YORK (AP) — Drape them anywhere but on a woman and the fall fashion creations of Greek-born designer George Stavropoulos look more like experiments in geometry than the stuff high style is made of.

But put them on a woman and they come alive.

One of Stavropoulou's most complicated productions is the "puzzle pants." a one piece affair that starts down the shoulders like a cape, then somehow turns into a jumpsuit with two flouncy skirts of chiffon. It looks and moves like a dream.

Mystery is the keynote of Stavropoulo's seamless coat — both for the way it makes a woman look and for the way it was made. The single round piece of black wool somehow sprouts a stand-up collar while swirling around into a diagonal row of buttons in the front.

Stavropoulos unveiled his fall designs Wednesday at the American Designer Showings.

Ann Landers

Pornography Pictures Alarm Teener's Mom

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need your cool, smart head to see me though this one. Yesterday I ran into a large collection of the filthiest pornography ever assembled in one place. There were several magazines, pictures of live people (not drawings), and advertisements for gadgets I never knew existed. It made me sick. I discovered this unspeakable trash in a suit box under our 16-year-old son's bed. The boy is an honor student, an excellent athlete and has many friends, both boys and girls. I can't imagine him being interested in this stuff, but obviously he is because the mailing envelopes are addressed to him, which is proof he sent for the trash.

ANN LANDERS

The boy's father died two years ago and I feel helpless. So far I have said nothing to him. I am waiting for word from you on how to handle the situation. Please advise me. — UNSURE MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: Confront your son with the junk and tell him you found it under his bed. Tell him you are surprised that he'd spend his time and money on trash designed for fourth rate minds.

Don't appear shaken or condemnatory. Just let him know you are disappointed. Hand over the materials and tell him the stuff is his and he can do whatever he wishes with it. If he keeps it, say nothing. From your description of the boy he appears to be stable and solid and the junk will not hurt him. (P.S. I'll bet he doesn't keep it long. Bright people become bored with pornography when the novelty wears off — and it wears off in a hurry.)

* * *

DEAR ANN: When I married Elsie she weighed 98 pounds. She gained 15 pounds with each baby (we have three children) and she hasn't lost any of it. Elsie loves to eat and hates to exercise. Last week she asked me for an additional $20 for a week for massages. She said the girls in her card club insist massages are a great way to lose weight.

I don't see how massages are going to help Elsie if she continues to eat everything in sight and shun exercise. She insists that the electrical equipment and the massager's ability to pummel off the fat is the secret.

If you say she is right I will hand over the extra money. — UNCONVINCED.

DEAR UN: I hate to deprive Elsie of the massages because they might help her relax. But they will not make her thinner.

If Elsie eats like there is no tomorrow and continues to sit on her fatty acids (courtesy Dr. Paul Dudley White) she won't lose an ounce.

DEAR ANN: In the good old days parents used to paddle their kids with hair brushes. My ma used one on all six of us and it really kept us in line.

Today it is impossible to find a wooden hair brush large enough to hit a kid with. What do you suggest? — STRICT PA.

DEAR PA: God provided the very best instrument for keeping kids in line. It is called the hand — and I heartily recommend it.

Government Studying Takeovers by Foreign Investment Firms

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Edgar Benson said Wednesday the government is studying the implications of foreign-owned investment companies taking over Canadian firms, and the subject might be referred to a parliamentary committee.

He added, however, that the government does not intend to interfere at this stage in the purchase of Royal Securities Corp. by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith of New York.

Mr. Benson said the Commons finance committee might be instructed to undertake a study of foreign purchases of Canadian financial institutions, but that committee is already loaded with other work. It opens an inquiry today into the cause and effort of high interest rates.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield pressed strongly for a Commons inquiry into the ramifications of foreign control of Canadian financial institutions.

Mr. Benson's long-awaited statement on the Royal Securities case first promised for last week—said merely that the government is watching developments and will follow with interest a study being made by the major stock exchanges and the Investment Dealers' Association.

Pending outcome of that study, investment dealers and stock exchanges are deferring consideration of new applications for membership from foreign-based brokers.

Purchase of Royal Securities by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, the largest of New York stockbrokers often referred to as a stock supermarket, raised questions about Royal's relations with the Bank of Canada.

As a Canadian securities firm, it has had access to the central bank for loans as part of the Bank of Canada's management of the country's money supply and credit policies.

Mr. Benson said the government will make its own review of foreign takeovers as they affect the national interest. This review would include studying the need for limiting the Bank of Canada's credit facilities for foreign-owned firms.

Buying Furniture

By KEN WEERES

Furnishing a home can be a source of pride and satisfaction, but can also be very frustrating.

Before you begin shopping, develop a long range plan for buying furniture. Estimate the amount you must spend for furniture now, within a few months and as long as five years ahead. List the furniture for every room. A schedule of this type will help you plan what you want, allow you to save the necessary finances and result in better, more comfortable home furnishings.

You might consider buying only the basic furniture first. Often a few well chosen pieces of furniture, arranged in an artistique fashion can provide comfortable surroundings. Special articles can easily be postponed.

Before shopping know what you can afford to spend and know the style, color and other factors that would be best for you and your home. Consider each room separately and carefully.

Always buy from reliable stores. Be sure they have trained sales staff to assist you, stand behind their guarantees, and provide adjustment for unsatisfactory purchases.

Attempt to gather as much information as possible on the items you intend to buy. Newspapers, magazines, advertisements, consumer books decorating books and catalogues are excellent sources which provide helpful advice. And when you do shop, take along pictures, fabrics, color samples, to show the sales clerks and to compare with other merchandise.

Check the construction of the furniture. Are the joints dovetailed and glued properly, is the furniture easy to clean, are the fabrics of good material? In furniture buying you are ahead to buy fewer pieces of high quality. High quality that lasts is your best bet. But remember, furniture can become obsolete due to fashion changes if you go for unusual styles.

Second hand furniture of good quality is more economical than low quality new furniture. Second hand shops, auctions, classified newspaper advertisements are excellent sources of used furniture. And the savings can be great even if you must do the refinishing work yourself.

Slightly damaged furniture often affords good savings. Many times furniture is damaged in shipping. Dealers often sell this damaged furniture at reduced prices. But know the extent of the damage before buying.

Furniture sales, usually offered in August and February offer excellent opportunities for good furniture buys at reduced prices. Local newspapers are useful sources of information for these sales.

If you must use credit arrangements to buy furniture, go to your bank, get the cash rather than financing through the retail store. Most furniture stores have arrangements with finance companies where the interest rates will be as high as 20 to 24 percent. Most banks, credit unions and so on have loans available for furniture. And also the cash in your pocket allows you, to bargain and take advantage of special sales at stores that do not provide credit facilities.

Prisoners Protest Plan to Close Farm

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — Reports that a federal prison farm here for minimum-security prisoners is about to be closed brought an orderly protest march Wednesday by about 50 of the institution's 69 prisoners.

Administrative personnel would not confirm the closing order but one source said "it's in the mail today."

Prisoners paraded around the landscaped grounds carrying placards. One said: "Why spoil a good program?"

Most appeared concerned about where they would be transferred if the institution established in 1960 is closed.

The farm is operated under direction of the maximum federal penitentiary at Dorchester, N.B., about 40 miles away. Locks, bars and cells are nonexistent in the Springhill setup.

— OTTAWA (CP) — The minimum security prison at Springhill, N.S., will be closed Sept. 1, a spokesman for the solicitor-general's department said Wednesday.

Conservative MP Hits Power Given Languages Commissioner

OTTAWA (CP) — The official languages commissioner will have more power than a chief justice, Conservative MP Elton Woolliams claimed Wednesday arguing for an appeal procedure in the languages bill.

Mr. Woolliams said the commission, far from being "a little old investigator," will have the powers of a court.

"He can summon witnesses, he can call evidence, he can hold hearings in camera, he can admit affidavits, he can seize documents without a search warrant," the Calgary North member said. "There is no appeal from that kind of power."

Justice Minister John Turner replied that the Woolliams speech during Commons debate on the languages bill was "a rerun in color" of previous irrelevant arguments.

The proposed commissioner would be a factfinder without power to penalize or sanction. His job would be to see that departments and agencies meet the spirit and letter of the bill.

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) said an appeal system would defeat the act by opening every move by the commissioner to dragged-out court action.

An appeal clause in the bill was deferred, as was a vote on an amendment by Gerald Baldwin (PC—Peace River) to guarantee ethnic rights.

Liberals and New Democrats argued that the Baldwin amendment would be more restrictive than a guarantee clause already in the bill.

The languages debate continues today in the Commons.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux also may rule today on a procedural argument over motions that set the stage for a rules debate.

Mr. Baldwin, the Conservative House leader, contended Wednesday that the government is trying to impose its desires over those in a report from the Commons committees on procedure and organization.

Involved are new rules that would give the government power to limit debating time on legislation.

Also in the Commons, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said the government is "deeply distressed" by the Nigerian decision to eject the International Red Cross from war zones.

In the Senate — which also meets today — Hazen Argue (L—Saskatchewan) said immediate federal aid is needed to keep western farmers from bankruptcy. He said Moose Jaw and Weyburn, Sask., may become ghost towns without such aid.

Andras Confers With Loan Firms

OTTAWA (CP) — Robert Andras, minister without portfolio responsible for housing policy, met Wednesday with representatives of Canadian trust and loan companies. Similar meetings were held earlier this week with representatives of insurance firms in an effort to channel more investment money into housing mortgages and hold the line on interest rates. No statement was expected until the talks are concluded.

'Certificates of Identity' Given Stateless Americans

OTTAWA (CP) — Some Americans who have voluntarily become stateless by renouncing their citizenship after arrival in Canada are refused certificates of identity, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Wednesday.

A certificate of identity is comparable to an interim passport and is the only travel document a non-citizen who doesn't have a passport from another country can get.

Mr. Sharp said in a written Commons reply to David Lewis (NDP—York South) that without special compassionate reasons "it is not the policy of the government to issue certificates of identity to former citizens of a friendly country, such as the U.S., who have voluntarily become stateless by renouncing their citizenship after arrival in Canada, unless they have done so with the intention of becoming Canadian citizens, or because they are conscientious objectors."

Nothing New On Banks Case

OTTAWA (CP) — There is nothing new to report in Canada's efforts to have Hal Banks returned here to face perjury charges, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Wednesday. He was replying in the Commons to George Hees (PC—Prince Edward-Hastings).

Thant Appeals for World Ban On Stocking Germ Weapons

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant has called for a worldwide pact banning the development, production and stockpiling of all chemical and germ warfare agents and for "their effective elimination from the arsenal of weapons."

Thant's three-point proposal was sent to the UN disarmament committee that opened a new round of discussions in Geneva today, to all 126 members of the United Nations and to the UN Security Council.

The program also urges all nations to accede to the Geneva Protocol of 1925, which prohibits the use of poisonous gas and germ warfare, and calls for a clear-cut affirmation that the 1925 ban applies to the use in war of all germ and chemical agents, including tear gas.

The United States signed but never ratified the protocol, which has the formal endorsement of more than 60 governments. Japan is the only other major power that has not acceded to the agreement.

Thant's recommendations were accompanied by a 118-page study prepared for him by an international group of 14 experts.

The experts warned that "any country could develop or acquire" the capacity to wage war with chemical or bacteriological weapons and that there is no sure defence against such weapons. Some of them, the experts said, could endanger the future of mankind.

Although gas warfare was used in the First World War and a number of nations are known to have stockpiled chemical and germ weapons during and since the Second World War, the experts cited only the United States as an example of a nation which has used the weapons in a recent war. They cited American use of herbicides to defoliate jungles and forests in South Vietnam.

Spy-journalist Hanged

SEOUL (Reuters) — North Korean spy-journalist Soo-Keun Lee, arrested in Saigon after a flight from here in January and sentenced to death by a Seoul court in May, was hanged in a prison today.

Lee, 45, former vice-president of North Korea's central news agency, crossed the border at the armistice village of Panmunjom, March 22, 1967, and was rushed out in a truck of a United Nations command armistice officer in a hail of pistol fire from Communist guards.

The Seoul district court, passing a death sentence for him May 10, said he pretended defection to come south as an undercover agent under instructions from the North Korean Labor (Communist) party.

Wearing an artificial moustache and a wig, Lee slipped out of Seoul with a forged passport Jan. 27. He was stopped in a scuffle with South Korean officials at Hong Kong Airport Jan. 29.

Hong Kong police allowed him to take a Phnom Penh-bound flight, but he was arrested by South Vietnamese police during a stopover at Saigon and flown back here to face trial. He did not appeal.

U.S. Congressmen Go Hungry As Wives Test Welfare Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Frank Church (Dem. Idaho) ate a peanut butter sandwich and a carrot in the Senate.

Senator Walter Mondale (Dem. Minn.) had hot dogs for dinner at home for three straight nights.

Senator Thomas Eagleton (Dem. Mo.) had nothing but biscuits with water in prospect for Wednesday night dinner. His wife had run out of money for food.

The wives made their reports Wednesday at a news conference on the last day of a week of buying food for their families on a welfare budget.

The families of six members of the Senate and House of Representatives tried it under a program sponsored by the National Welfare Rights Organization, which is campaigning for a guaranteed adequate income instead of patchwork food programs for the needy. It says a guaranteed income of $5,500 a year would be adequate for a family of four.

"What we learned was how bland, tasteless, monotonous and uninteresting the food was—and I'm hungry," Mrs. Mondale said.

"That's all I've been thinking about for a week is getting something more to eat. And besides, I've gained two pounds."

The wives said they went in heavily for bread, rice, noodles and other starches to stretch things. Peanut butter, spaghetti and hot dogs were frequent items on the menus. They missed good lean meat, fresh fruits and ice cream.

"I think you learn the value of pennies," Mrs. Church said. She said she spent half a day each day planning what to buy and where to shop, adding: "I'm a good cook but terrible at mathematics."

Mrs. Church said she realized that mothers on welfare do not have half a day to spend on food planning.

Mrs. Eagleton said "we survived" but more important was the lack of nutrional foods that cost too much.

"How do you send your children to school with empty stomachs?" she asked.

Mrs. Eagleton, with two young children, had $14.28 to spend for food for a week. This averages 17 cents a meal for a family of four.

The budgets varied according to the states of the congressmen. The welfare rights group said the national average for food on a welfare budget is 18 cents a person a meal.

No Automatic Tests for Winners

TORONTO (CP) — Horse trainers at Woodbine race track expressed surprise Wednesday at a new ruling which no longer makes urine tests automatic for the winning horse of each race.

"It's news to me," trainer Alex Chris said after taking Takeover, winner of the first race, into the winner's circle.

Hall the Gang, winner of the third, Bolero Weeper, which took the fifth, and Victory Trip, winner of the eighth, also were examined.

Edward J. Gorman, supervisor of thoroughbred racing for the ORC, expressed surprise when told some of the trainers were unaware of the announcement to the rules of thoroughbred racing in Ontario.

"They should know," he said. "Their association has been informed of this change.

"I forget the exact date the change was made, but it was made sometime earlier at this meeting."

The old rule said: "Urine samples shall be taken from the winning horse of every race and such other horses as the steward or a commission veterinarian may direct."

The new directive reads: "Urine samples shall be taken from such horses as the stewards or a commission veterinarian shall direct, to a minimum number equal to twice the number of races scheduled on the card."

French Lead Crusade

Pros Want to Invade Davis Cup

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The first battle in the campaign to extend open tennis to the Davis Cup was being fought in London today.

Delegates from the Davis Cup nations were meeting to vote on a proposal by France that the promoter-controlled professionals be admitted to the big team tournament.

France has the support of the other three big tennis powers—the United States, Britain and Australia. But most of the smaller countries were reported opposed to the idea, which needs a two-thirds majority to go through.

Basil Reay, secretary of both the Davis Cup and the International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF), said:

"Although the competing nations control the Davis Cup and its rules, in this case they can only make a recommendation to the ILTF.

"When the ILTF meets in France July 14, it will decide whether to adopt the proposal for one category of players, with the abolition of the terms professional and amateur.

"Obviously, any decision to run an open Davis Cup would be meaningless if the governing body of world tennis rejects the idea of one category."

Today's meeting was on the basis of one vote for each delegate.

At the ILTF meeting in Prague, decisions will be taken on a block voting system. Britain, the United States, Australia and France each have 12 votes, while other countries are allowed votes carrying between one and nine, according to their past tennis achievements.

Richie Ponders Faraway Places

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Richie Allen hinted Wednesday night he might play baseball in Japan or South America or even go live on a farm rather than return to Philadelphia Phillies.

The 27-year-old Allen was suspended indefinitely June 24 for not showing up for a doubleheader in New York. He reacted by saying he would never play for the National League team again.

Allen Wednesday said his thoughts to a local television station in a copyrighted half-hour dialogue.

"Do you want them (the club) to make the next move?" Allen was asked.

"No, I don't want them to do anything. No. I don't want nobody to do nothing."

"You'll sit for the rest of the season," it was suggested.

"So?" he replied.

Based on his reported $80,000 a year salary Allen is being docked almost $500 per day.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service claims Richie Allen, controversial first baseman for Philadelphia Phillies, owes $8,641 on part of the $70,000 bonus he got for signing in 1900.

It was the second disclosure in two days for tax problems for Allen. Tuesday the IRS filed a tax lien for $2,168.44 it claims he owes on his 1966 income.

Cameraman Dies at Game

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerald Mailhot, 26, a CBC cameraman, was killed Wednesday when he fell from a television platform while dismantling a camera after a National League baseball game between Montreal Expos and Chicago Cubs.

The platform was 40 feet from the ground at the press box level of Jarry Park, the Expos home stadium.

No Grand Slam For Maggie

LONDON (Reuters) — Ann Jones of Britain has won a rematch with Billie Jean King, the American who beat her in the 1967 final of the All-England lawn tennis championships.

She did it Wednesday with a 10-12, 6-3, 6-2 semi-final victory over Margaret Court of Australia who many expected would take the women's singles title.

The defeat ended Mrs. Court's hope of winning the grand slam of tennis in her last year on the tour. She already had won the Australian and French titles and needed victories here and at the U.S. Open at Forest Hills, N.Y., in September to take the slam.

Mrs. King advanced to Friday's final with a 6-1, 6-0 victory over fellow professional Rosemary Casals of the U.S.

The men's singles semi-finals will be played today with top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia meeting Arthur Ashe of the U.S., and professionals John Newcombe and Tony Roche playing in an all-Australian battle.

Laver and Ashe, also met in the 1968 semi-final, when Laver won 7-5, 6-2, 6-4.

Both have displayed top form this week. Laver whipped Cliff Drysdale of South Africa in his quarter-final Tuesday 6-4, 6-2, 6-3. Ashe beat Bob Lutz of the U.S., 6-4, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5.

The American won the U.S. Open title last September.

The men's doubles reached the final stage Wednesday.

Tom Okker of The Netherlands and Marty Riessen of the U.S., seeded sixth, beat the second-seeded Australian pair of Laver and Roy Emerson in one semi-final, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

The other semi-final was called off because of darkness with Newcombe and Roche leading Bob Hewitt and Fred MacMillan of South Africa two sets to one. It will be completed today.

The South African team earlier defeated the U.S. Davis Cup pair of Stan Smith and Lutz, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2, 3-6, 10-8.

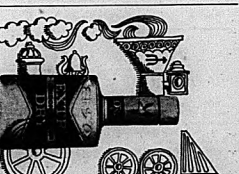
The match had been suspended by darkness Tuesday night with the score five all in the final set.

Track Takes Going Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Amendments to the Criminal Code given royal assent in the Senate last week could mean increased revenue for many pari-mutuel race tracks across Canada.

A provision in the amended Criminal Code bill removes the fixed nine per cent a racing association may take from each betting pool and allows the percentage of the take to vary between 5% and 12 per cent, based on the average amount wagered on each race.

The new percentages:



—12 per cent if the average amount wagered per race at a course during the calendar year immediately preceding the running of the race did not exceed $10,000.

—11% per cent if the average amount wagered exceeded $10,000 and did not exceed $15,000.

—11 per cent if the average amount wagered exceeded $15,000 and did not exceed $20,000.

—10% per cent if the average amount wagered exceeded $20,000 and did not exceed $25,000.

—9½ per cent if the average amount wagered exceeded $30,000.

Show me a Montreal Expo baseball fan and I'll show you the most faithful living specimen since Ole Dog Tray.

It's an easy matter to chalk up the Expos' loyal following to the facts that a) - they represent Canada in major league baseball, and b) - the first-ever season of any team would be considered a novelty worthy of tales for grandchildren.

But for a team that has won only 22 of 75 games to be drawing average home gates of 15,000 — about half Jarry Park's sardined capacity — that's something else again!

Wednesday night Les Expos had more than 19,000 under the lights as they lost their 53rd game in typical fashion. You know, the usual stuff like turning a shoestring catch into a two-run triple, ending a three-hit rally by being caught off base, forgetting to throw the ball home after an outfield catch with a runner perched on third, etc., etc.

Somehow, we just knew the Expo baseball scene was going to be original when they got standing ovations that historic April 14 home opener — a game in which the more memorable aspects included three Expo errors on one St. Louis batter in one inning.

Undaunted, the Canadian Mets have rewarded their Mount Royal Loyalists with everything from a triple play in thousands of free miniature baseball bats.

And if they suffer from a pitching staff that may not boast a dozen complete games all season, the Expos have shown their fans they have five or six fellas capable of knocking the horsehide into a door left ajar at Le Canoe tavern across the street.

A propos of which, where else can a Canadian sports fan root and quaff at the same time? You can't count the dingy bear-like confines of Maple Leaf Gardens Hot Stove Lounge, where the customer is as much in the dark as the Leafs are set on the ice.

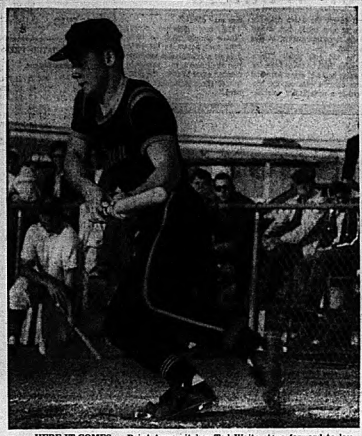
But no, in Jarry Park you take your authentic Expo paper cup in one hand, genuine fifty-cent souvenir program in the other, don your official tricolor Expo cap, and go right out in full view of the other bleacherites.

A shamefully immoral display by Ontario standards, but real baseball savvy in Jonesville.

The frills — including dozens of bilingual saleswrites whose combined uniforms could have been cut from a five-yard bolt of blue nylon — do much to help the average Expo fan live with the knowledge that the boys are holding down the National League's eastern doormat without any trouble at all.

Extras like a curious scoreboard and comical organist who plays Expo homeruners around to the tune of the William Tell Overture make it easier to forget about the 26 games separating yes and the league-leaders.

For the players, there's the elation of being a provincial here (or national, depending on your political sentiments) second only to Henri Richard and Jean Drapeau.



They might not have thought of themselves as a "premier ball" or "champs droit" before, but who cares — it appeals to the ballplayer's esthetic sense. Besides, insults from the Meschers don't sound so bad when you can't understand them.

As the Jarry Park turnstiles clicked for the half-millionth time for Expo games this week, the fans were still cheering opposing players for home runs and booing Montreal manager Gene Mauch for pulling members of his bedraggled pitching staff. Nearly 13,000 turned up Monday night in monsoon weather.

Hopefully, the novelty won't wear off after the Canadian acquaints Montreal's sporting fraternity to losing teams this winter.

ANDY CAPP

HERE IT COMES — Point Anne pitcher Ted Waite steps forward to lay down a bunt in the fourth inning of Wednesday night's Commercial League game with Corby's Distillery. Waite beat out this bunt, one of his three base hits in three at-bats, and threw a two-hitter; but the Cementmen were shut out 1-0 by Sonny Grey when Corby's tallied an unearned run in the second inning.

City on Top as Ethier Outduels Reid

The anticipated duel between City Hotel lefthander Bob Ethier and Ellis Juniors righthander "Scotty" Reid proved to be a mismatch last night as City drove Reid from the box after two innings en route to a 5-2 win over the Juniors and sole possession of first place in the seven team Commercial Softball League.

Ethier went the route and allowed just three hits as City broke the game open with five runs in the first three innings, and snapped the three-way tie, with Ellis Juniors and Stinson's Construction, for first place.

Meanwhile Sonny Grey hurled his second complete-game victory of the week in leading Corby's Distillery to their third straight win — a 1-0 verdict over the slumping Point Anne Cementmen — in the opening game of Wednesday night's Commercial League doubleheader at Alemite ball park.

Reid, whose right arm is one of the main reasons the Juniors have been right around the top of the league all season, ran into trouble right off the bat.

City leadoff man Rod Ridley drew a walk, Pug Kellar moved Ridley to second with a sacrifice, Bob Brooks lashed a run-scoring single and moved to third on a fielder's choice and a passed ball before riding home on Jerry Genereaux's run-scoring base hit. Reid got out of the inning by retiring Ethier on a ground ball, but gave up two more runs in the second frame on three hits — two of them r.b.i. singles by Brooks and Pug Kellar.

Reid allowed four runs on five hits and a walk in his two innings of work. Mark Sheridan took over in the third and finished up for the Juniors. He gave up a single run on two hits and two walks and fanned a pair in five innings of work.

Ethier fanned nine men and issued two free passes. The Juniors two runs and two of their three hits came in the top of the fourth when catcher Wes May led off with a single and right fielder Wayne Brown belted a two-run homer with one out. Left fielder John Campbell collected Ellis' other hit, a fifth inning single.

Brooks with his pair of run-scoring singles and Larry Potter, Doug Moreau, Genereaux, Kellar and Ethier with singles accounted for City's plate production.

CORBY'S DIST. 1 — POINT ANNE 0

Corby's win — their third straight this week and second of the week over Point Anne — boosted the Distillers to within two points of the fourth place Cementmen, who were 5-1 on Tuesday, June 10th, but have lost six of seven games since and haven't won since they beat Ellis Juniors 2-1 Tuesday, June 17th.

Grey has been instrumental in all three Corby's wins this week. Wednesday night he blanked the Cementmen by scattering eight hits and striking out seven men on base — three of them on third. Grey also took a spell and didn't walk a man.

Monday night Grey threw a four-hit complete game and picked up the win in Corby's 4-1 victory over the Cementmen and Tuesday night he pitched two innings in relief of starter Grant Collet in Corby's 5-4 win over Belvedere Hotel.

Centre fielder Ted Waite led a heart-breaking Wednesday night. Waite threw a two-hitter, issued only two free passes and fanned a pair, but lost when Corby's tallied their unearned run in the second inning.

Corby's run came when Cementmen first sacker Eric Maher made a two-base throwing error on Chuck Rowbotham's ground ball and Dave Sneddon followed with a run scoring single. Pitcher Grey collected Corby's other hit, a third inning single.

Waite with three singles and Larry Fraser, Mike Cook, Rick Rosebush, Jim Horwood and Maher with base hits accounted for Point Anne's eight hits off Grey.

Combines Blitz Posties in Sixth

A five - run outburst in the bottom of the sixth inning carried the CN Combines to an 8-7 Departmental Softball League win over the Post Office Wednesday night at Prince Charles School.

The win boosted the Combines to within two points of the league - leading CN Turbos and left the pair of Railway teams looking down on the rest of the league.

Larry Marshall picked up the win with two innings of one - hit, two - run relief work in support of starter Calhoun, who gave up five runs on five hits in his five innings of work.

Starter and loser Jack Calnan was driven from the mound during the Combines sixth inning outburst and gave way to George Johnson who finished up. The Combines got eight runs on six hits and walked four.

Arthurs slammed a home run for the winners, who collected four extra base hits. Larry Marshall had a double and single, Bob Barchy a triple, Ron Marshall a double and Glen Clarke a single for the Combines.

Catcher Steve Tehworth and pitcher Calnan each socked a double for the third - place Post Office club.

Reserve Scores Initial South Hastings Win

Fourteen proved to be a lucky number Wednesday night for the first-year Tyendinaga Reserve club of the South Hastings Baseball League.

After 13 consecutive losses at the start of the season, the Reserve struck back last night in their fourteenth game and walloped fourth place Latta 10-1.

Third place Read moved closer to league-leading Shannonville by Wednesday night's other league contest by dropping second place Plane's Concrete 7-4.

Starter Dave Maracle and reliever Jim Dunn, who came on for the final two outs in the fifth inning of the Reserve-Latta tilt, limited Latta to four hits and struck out seven men while walking three.

Meanwhile catcher Wayne Brant's four singles in four trips to the plate paced the Reserve's nine-hit attack on four Latta hurlers.

Jim Dunn slammed a solo homer and a single, Harold Sero a double and a single and Bill Brant a single as the Reserve batteried starter Bob Smith and relievers Terry McTaggart, Doug Gero and Doug Chisholm, and broke the game wide open with a six-run third inning outburst.

Harold Pascoe scattered three hits and fanned six in pitching Read to a 7-4 win over Plane's Concrete. Starter and loser Bernie Coughlin and reliever Dick Powell gave up ten hits and five walks for Plane's.

Carm Milligan and Al Coffey stroked a pair of singles each for Read while Bob Moon's double paced Plane's three-hit attack.

Our Track Power Could Peak in '72

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's track and field team for the 1972 Olympic Games will be one of the finest ever, a sport official said Wednesday.

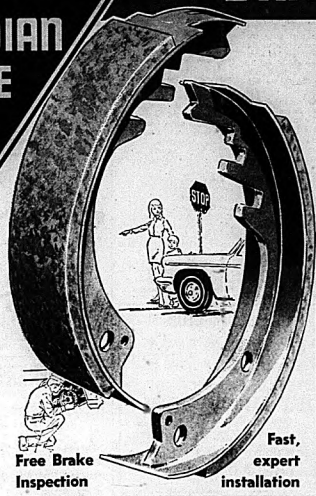
"With the young athletes who competed at the Dominion Day meet here Tuesday and Wednesday, our Olympic medal hopes have never been higher," Bob Hancock, manager of the Ontario team to the Canada Games, said Wednesday.

The Canada Games will be held in Halifax, Aug. 15-25 with all 10 provinces and the Northwest Territories competing.

"Our strength lies in the age-class athletes—those in the 17-to-19 age group—who will be hitting their peak in 1972," he said after the final event of the meet held at Canadian National Exhibition Stadium.

"With competitors like pole vaulters Bruce Simpson and Larry Wolfe, shot putter Joan Pavelich, and sprinters Stephanie Berto and Ann Langdale, we'll certainly improve our Olympic performance.

"We have a bantam and midget meet in two weeks and you should see the competition—it's fierce," he said.



"With our developing schedule of native and international meets—mostly with the United States—we can keep an athlete interested in the sport right from age 12 up to Olympic competition."

Gets Hat Trick

Jackson Says He's Not 60-Homer Type

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The home run records of Babe Ruth and Roger Maris are safe. Reggie Jackson guarantees it.

"I'm not going to get 60 home runs because I'm not a 60-home run man," Jackson said Wednesday night after belting his 31st, 32nd and 33rd homers in Oakland Athletics' 5-0 victory over Seattle Pilots.

But some baseball experts have other ideas and point out that Jackson's pace is 10 games ahead of Maris, who hit 61 in 1961, and 23 ahead of Ruth, who walloped 60 in 1927, both for New York Yankees. Wednesday night's was Oakland's 72nd game of the season.

"It's nice to be compared with great players like Ruth and Maris, but I don't think I'm ready to be put in their class yet," said the 23-year-old outfielder.

Elsewhere in the American League, Minnesota Twins topped Chicago White Sox 4-2, Detroit Tigers drubbed Boston Red Sox 7-0, Washington Senators whipped Cleveland Indians 5-1, New York Yankees edged Baltimore Orioles 3 and Kansas City Royals shaded California Angels 1-0.

Jackson's explosion was the eighth time this season he has hit more than one homer in a game. The major league record is 11 by Detroit's Hank Greenberg in 1938. Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh Pirates set the NL mark of 10 in 1947.

Jackson connected in the first and sixth innings off Marty Pattin and in the eighth against Diego Segui. All three homers came with the bases empty.

The first was a fly ball that barely cleared the fence just inside the right field foul pole some 330 feet away. The second was a 425-foot shot over the center field fence and the third was a line drive which just cleared the wall in centre, which is 400 feet from home plate.

"The first one was lucky," Jackson said. "The wind blew it out."

Virtually overlooked was John (Blue Moon) Odom's five-hitter, which kept Oakland three percentage points in front of Minnesota in the Western Division. It was the fifth consecutive triumph for Odom, who ran his record to 11-3 and also hit a home run.

Minnesota's Dave Boswell checked the White Sox on two hits until the eighth inning and Harmon Killebrew slammed his 19th homer. The game was called because of rain after 8½ innings. It was Chicago's first setback in Milwaukee, where the White Sox play one game against each AL club.

Tom Tresh and Don Wert belted homers and drove in three runs apiece for Detroit, making it easy for Denny McLain, who scattered eight hits, to become the AL's first 15-game winner. Boston has a five-game losing streak for the first time this season and is only one-half game ahead of third-place Detroit in the Eastern Division.

Washington continued its mastery of Cleveland, beating the Indians for the ninth time this year as Paul Casanova and Brant Alyea each knocked in two runs. The Senators, who have won six in a row, also ended Sam McDowell's seven-game winning streak. Tony Horton homered for the Indians' run.

If Phillies Miss Allen They Haven't Shown It

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ever since Richie Allen bolted Philadelphia Phillies, almost everybody on the team has been taking up the slack. Now, even the relief pitchers are getting into the act.

Reliever Al Raffo helped himself to his first major league victory Wednesday night by knocking in three runs with a single and a squeeze bunt as the Phils knocked off Pittsburgh Pirates 14-4 for their ninth straight victory.

The Phils lost their first two games after Allen jumped the team in New York last week, but they haven't been beaten since.

Meanwhile, Atlanta Braves ripped Cincinnati Reds 9-4 to take over first place in the Western Division, while Los Angeles Dodgers dropped to second, a half-game back, after an 8-2 loss to Houston Astros.

In other NL games, Chicago Cubs whipped Montreal Expos 4-2, New York Mets defeated St. Louis Cardinals 6-4 in 14 inning and San Francisco Giants beats San Diego Padres 6-3.

Raffo, who has two defeats, polished off a four-run second inning with a two-run single, then squeezed in another run with his bases-loaded bunt in the sixth.

He replaced starter Billy Champion after two runs had scored in the first and kept the Pirates in check until they chased him with a run in the seventh, cutting the Phils lead to 7-4.

But Philadelphia scored five runs in the eighth, including two on Johnny Briggs' single, and added two more in the ninth to preserve Raffo's triumph. Briggs also had a homer in the fourth.

Five Atlanta batters were hit by pitches—a modern National League record for one game—and the three hit in the second inning equalled a major league mark. Gerry Arrigo hit two, and Pedro Ramos hit three.

The wild game also was marked by an unusual double play on what should have been a Cincinnati hit. With the bases loaded and one out in the third, Tommy Helms lined a sinking liner to right.

The Reds on base apparently thought Hank Aaron had caught the ball and didn't run. But Aaron had trapped the ball, and he threw, to second for a force play. The runner at second was tagged out for the double play.

Reliever Claude Raymond, of St. Jean, ue., singled in two of the Braves' runs, while Orlando Cepeda had a two-run double as Atlanta won its fifth straight.

The Cards blew three good scoring chances, then watched as Ken Boswell smacked a two-out RBI single and pitcher Ron Willis gave up a bases-loaded walk in the 14th for the Mets' winning runs.

Vic Davalillo's grand-slam homer—his first in the majors—had tied it for the Cards 4-4 in the eighth.

But St. Louis couldn't capitalize on three separate rallies after that against reliever Tug McGraw.

Curt Flood was out by inches at the plate in the ninth when Veda Pinson doubled and catcher Jerry Grote made a lunging play on Tommie Agee's throw to the plate to nab the speedy Cardinal.

Jim Qualls, a rookie recalled from the minors only a few weeks ago, knocked in the first two runs of his major league career in helping the Cubs pass Montreal.

New Zealand Man Lands at Hamilton on Round-world Flight

HAMILTON (CP) — Cliff Taft, 39, an office equipment salesman from Hamilton, New 15-horsepower airplane at Hamilton Civic Airport Wednesday night to reach the half-way mark in his flight around the world.

Taft was met with applause from about 200 spectators who had gathered for his arrival, but he official greeters were two Hamilton ham-radio operators, Robert Perry and Alfred MacDonald, who have been following his progress since he left home May 12.

Taft believes his Aircourer 115 —a 21-foot, single-engine two-seater, capable of flying 85 miles an hour—will be the smallest airplane ever to fly around the world.

"It's time people around the world started thinking about New Zealand," he said. "That's why I'm doing it . . . to make people think of New Zealand.

Wednesday's 1,000-mile flight from Winnipeg was the longest leg so far of Wait's trip. It took 9½ hours.

His route has taken him hedge-hopping across the tip of Australia, across the atolls of the South Pacific to Iwo Jima and on to Japan.

His most serious problem emerged when he was denied permission by Soviet Union officials to land in Siberia to refuel before crossing the Bering Sea.

"I called my wife from Japan and told her I was giving up," he said. "I didn't have the money to ship the plane across the Pacific.

"But she told me to keep going. She said she had the money and I wasn't to ask where she go it. I asked. She had taken out a second mortgage on the house."

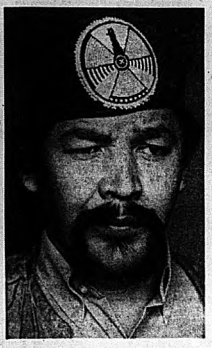
The plane was shipped to Vancouver where it was re-assembled.

U.S. Called Strikebreaker

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO accused the U.S. defence department today of being "a massive scab and strikebreaker" for continuing to buy millions of pounds of labor-boycotted California table grapes for shipment to Vietnam.

"I doubt that the soldiers are crying for them," said William Kircher, chief AFL-CIO organizer and strategist behind the long strike and boycott against grape growers by the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee.

The United Farm Workers, headed by Cesar Chavez, have been trying since 1965 to win recognition by growers as a workers' bargaining agent.



A consumer boycott of California seating grapes has spread throughout the United States and into Canada.

Hangman Kept Busy

PRETORIA (Reuters) — South African judges are keeping the hangman busy, defying a worldwide trend toward abolition of the death penalty.

A leading law authority estimates South Africa hangs one out of every two criminals executed in the non-Communist world. Nearly all are non-white.

Last year, the gallows were used 119 times at Pretoria central prison, where all South African executions are carried out.

Red Power Urged

Canada's native Indians are determined to win for themselves a full share of Canadian life, says Red Power advocate Tony Antoine of Vancouver. Red Power movement is willing to resort to violence, if necessary, to get it. Antoine, one of the acknowledged leaders of the movement, is an Okanagan Indian. He sports a Fu Manchu moustache and a red beret.

Innocent Man Jailed

Karpis Says Authorities Ignoring His Confession

MONTREAL (CP) — Alvin Karpis, 61, says he staged a 1932 bank robbery for which another man has served 37 years in prison, and the authorities have known this all the time.

Karpis made the statement Tuesday night in an interview on the CBC public affairs program Hourglass.

Karpis was leader of the notorious Karpis-Ma Barker gang, linked to a series of murders, kidnappings and armed robberies, and was U.S. public enemy No. 1 when captured after a shoot-out in 1936 by FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover.

Karpis was paroled in January and deported to his native Montreal after serving 33 years in prison for the kidnapping of William Hamm, a wealthy St. Paul brewer, who was ransomed for $100,000.

Recently, Karpis appealed to Kansas Governor Robert Docking on behalf of Frank Sawyer, 70, who is serving a 20- to 100-year sentence for a bank robbery in Fort Scott, Kan., in June, 1932.

In a sworn affidavit submitted to the governor, Karpis maintained that Sawyer was innocent and he (Karpis) was guilty, and gave details which he said only the actual holdup men could possibly know.

In the CBC interview, he declared his guilt and charged that authorities have known the truth almost from the start but have refused to act on it.

Death Penalty in U.S. Mostly for Black, Poor

BOSTON (AP) — The United Church of Christ has called for a U.S.-wide, interfaith campaign to abolish what it termed the "outdated and barbaric practice" of capital punishment.

A "disproportionate number of black and poor" now occupy death cells, the church said.

"They are victims of an evil which decent people of our society have too long endured, and which violates categorically our Judeo-Christian ethic."

The 2,000,000-member denomination, in a closing session Wednesday of its eight-day policy-making assembly, said "human agencies of legal justices are fallible" and it has been found that capital punishment "discriminates on the basis of skin color and economic condition."

A report noted that 1968 was the first year on record in which no executions took place in the U.S., but attributed this to efforts to halt the practice. It noted that 506 persons await execution in 37 states.

STOP
KILLING YOURSELF
By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

(Every once in a while I'll present the pros and cons of a breast feeding, provided my readers as theree is much difference of opinion):

Dear Dr. Steincrohn:Thank you for having a baby the girl devoted to breast feeding. It's certainly too bad that women of this country are beginning to seem to think there is a valid choice between breast a and bottle feeding.

They seem to think that the nutritional requirements of a calf and of a baby the girl are exactly the same, when of course, they are miles apart. They are content to let the cow (or goat, or the soybean) nurture their children.

Nature didn't goof. It is man who is breaking nature's laws and thus suffering the consequences of ill health, crime and delinquency, much of which stems from an inferior type of mothering.

It's important for mothers to breast feed their babies. I'm happy to their role as mothers. That, after all, is the most important job in the world, and millions of mothers all over the world take it for granted.

Of a mother were alone with her baby on a desert island, with nary a bottle or cow in sight, the baby would thrive. It's our unnatural culture which has robbed women of their confidence in their womanly ability to succeed. God couldn't be everywhere at once, so he created mothers to give milk to their children.
— Mrs. C. . . .

Comment: Now let's take a look at the negative:

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: You've asked for an opinion about breast feeding. If I may, I would like to express mine. I am the mother of two lovely little girls, 5 months and 4 months. The baby is on a well-known prepared formula, as was her sister.

Both are healthy, happy babies and have never kept me up at night, crying with cramps. Neither has ever had any kind of digestive problem or rash.

My older daughter is very friendly and outgoing and has not always given me behavioral problems. If she turns out to be a juvenile delinquent, it won't be the result of anything that has happened as yet.

In a letter you printed a very self-satisfied woman smugly observes that a bottle cannot "hum and coo" as the milk flows. Or bellow can a breast!

It is the mother who loves the child as she holds him close to her to be fed — whether by bottle or by breast.

I am not promoting bottle feeding or discouraging breast feeding. All I am trying to say is that the choice should be up to the mother.

I simply say that the means by which the child is fed is secondary. It is not the bottle or the breast that loves the child: it is the mother! — Mrs. N.

Okest we bear from a registered nurse.):

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Here are two views on breast feeding. If the mother wants to and is able to, fine. On the other hand I know some women who have an aversion to breast feeding.

They should not be pressured into it by other mothers, mothers-in-law or well - meaning friends who try to make them feel like half a woman. A baby who is bottle fed can be as much loved as a breast - fed baby. Doctors, nurses, family and friends should let mothers make their own decisions.
— Mrs. V. . . .

(And lastly, from mere man.):

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Put me down as a pro breast man. My mother breast-fed me and I have always enjoyed good health.

Besides, I think it has something to do with breast fixation so many bottle-fed men have when they grow up. We breast-fed men aren't as silly over the matter as our bottle-fed friends. To my eyes there is nothing more attractive than a mother breast feeding her child.

Prince Evades Fire Call

FISHGUARD, Wales (AP) — Continuing harassment ascribed to Welsh nationalists greeted Prince Charles today at the outset of the second day of his tour of Wales.

Somebody apparently hoping to create a traffic jam sounded a false fire alarm just as the prince's cavalcade was entering the village of St. David's at the western tip of the extremity of Wales.

The alarm was rebounded to the wrong fire station, however, and the cavalcade was just able to get by before fire engines roared out.

"I would say this is the work of Welsh extremists," a fire department spokesman said. "If the fire engines had pulled out of St. David's two minutes earlier—as they would have if they had got the call direct—the engines would have met the prince's procession head-on in a one-way street."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock list today provided its fifth successive day of advance today with a small mid-morning gain.

The market has been off 18 times in the last 22 trading sessions.

Advances outnumbered declines by 219 to 83.

Real estate issues led the industrial advance with Revenue gaining 1¼ to 6¾, Canadian Interprov. ¼ to 2¾, Brascan ½ to 8¼ and Block Bros. ¼ to 7¼.

Other strong industrial groups were gas, oil, manufacturing and merchandising.

Only two of the exchange's 21 groups indexes closed lower.

Volume was light with 2,788,000 shares traded compared with 1,777,200 Friday.

Advances outnumbered declines 447 to 119.

Analysts said the recent market strength may be a combination of a technical rally and a dividend rally.

The market has been down 16 of the last 22 trading days.

Maple Leaf Gardens was up 1¾ to 22¾. Observers say there is a possibility of a fight for control of the Gardens after the recent dismissal of Stafford Smythe as president of the company.

New Continental was up 15 cents to $3.10. Dynamic 13 cents to $2.97. Mill City 20 cents to $3.40. Perron five cents to $1.50 and Consolidated East Crest 10 cents to $2.25.

Canadian Equity rose 1¾ to 10¾ despite reporting first half profits of 10 cents a share compared with 11 cents in the similar 1968 period.

Teck gained 35 cents to $8.95 and Silverfields 801 cents to $2.90.

Teck plans to acquire the outstanding shares of Silverfields on a basis of one new Teck class B share for each 2½ shares of Silverfields.

On index golds advanced 8.96 to 223.06 and base metals 1.53 to 100.78.

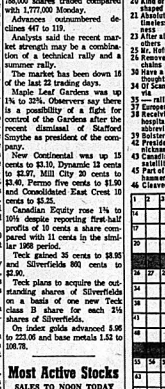
'Newfie Bullet' Dies Quietly



ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The "Newfie Bullet" died quietly at 8 a.m. NDT today at the end of her last, 547-mile run across Newfoundland, a trip that drew only passing public interest.

About 150 persons were on the platform here when the CNR train, officially named the Caribou, No. 102, squealed and groaned into a halt, ending a service opened June 30, 1898.

There were 205 passengers aboard—mainly news reporters and photographers—railway buffs from the United States and old railway hands —when the 15-car train pulled out of Port aux Basques on the southwest tip of the island at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

"I saw the first train go through June 30, 1898," said Mr. Tipple, a retired railway engineer. "I was 13 years old."

Tennis Pro Part Of Athletic Export Trade

VANCOUVER (CP) — Paul Willey is becoming a part of Canada's export trade—the athletic equivalent of a grain drain.

He's headed for a tennis job in Phoenix, Ariz., that pays more than three times the $15,000 a year he earns as a club pro in Vancouver.

But money isn't the reason, the 27-year-old former Davis Cup player says: It's just that he has to leave Canada to broaden his experience.

"I'm very nationalistic and I'll definitely be back. I want tennis to succeed in Canada. I'm going to make it succeed if I have to go across the border to get the experience.

"I know I can produce champions . . . but Canadians have got to wake up. They don't care until they get beaten. I think that we should have athletic scholarships and subsidize our athletes."

For 11 years, the one-time Canadian junior champion has been coaching at the Vancouver Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club and has started a small firm that builds tennis courts and sells tennis equipment.

Now he's headed for a $50,000-a-year job as a coach and administrator in Phoenix, where the city has paid $500,000 to put Phoenix on the tennis map. Willey will be the mapmaker.

"I'm starting a new enterprise. These people are looking for someone to get direction from and put their city where they want it to be. Vancouver can do the same thing, but no."

He says he doesn't mean just Vancouver, but Canada. The trouble is, he says, that the whole approach to tennis in Canada is amateur and volunteer: it should be professional.

"The only way that I can see out is to refer to professional sport. Pro sport is succeeding because the people that are behind it either do their job or they're kicked out.

"A lot of people put personal time into tennis in Canada, other than their business, and this is the wrong approach. Hire somebody—and then fire them if they don't do the job.

That, says Willey, means tennis needs money in Canada—from governments or from business, or from both.

"Down there (in Phoenix) I can tell them I want to do something and they'll ask me how much money I need. . . . They want to put Phoenix on the map; they're fanatics. just fanatics.

"Here, I try to send 15 players into Ontario for a tournament and the B.C. Lawn Tennis Association says they can't afford to send more than 10. And I'm not throwing all the blame on the association."

Willey starts his job in Phoenix in September, just before he brings such stars as Rod Laver, Roy Emerson and Pancho Gonzalez here for a $24,000 pro tournament.

"Believe me, it's not the money in Phoenix. It was really just a matter of philosophy and approach and the opportunity to be able to do the things that I felt had to be done.

"I've had 10 or 15 jobs offered to go south. Any of them would pay three times what I get here. I've really put it off and kept on hoping that things would improve up here.

"The Physical Fitness Council came out and said they had $5,000,000 for athletics but of course, as you know, they haven't spent $5,000,000. . . . The people have just got to wake up.

"You know it's not a question of money. It's a matter of the opportunity to expand my background. I've always known what I wanted to do and that's to do something for Canada."

Sandra Post Opens Door For Canadian Girls

By JIM McKAY
Windsor Star

One of the first opinions expressed by Sandra Post of Oakville, Ont., when she joined the Ladies Professional Golf Association women's professional golf tour in 1968, was that it would show other Canadian girls that it was possible.

Now her entry into professional ranks has led to a second Canadian—Nancy Smith of Windsor, Ont.,—joining the ranks.

And, although she did not create the air that surrounded the entry of Miss Post a year ago, Miss Smith has already established herself on the women's tour.

She qualified for her tour card by finishing in the top 60 per cent of the field in her first three Florida tournaments last winter at St. Petersburg, Port Malabar and Port Charlotte. This was the minimum time allowed, and many girls have attempted to gain a tour card for several years.

"She has talent," says tour director Leonie Wise, "she's not strong in any phase of her game but so far she's been impressive."

The entry into the professional world is a dream come true for the 26-year-old school teacher, who has wanted to be a touring golfer since she was a teen-ager.

"It has always been on her mind," says her father, Clarence F. Smith.

"She's been teaching for a few years and we were surprised that she'd want to live out of a suitcase as you must do as a touring professional. But apparently she loves it."

Miss Smith, who attended London Teachers' College, first served notice of her golf prowess by winning the Ontario women's junior golf championship in 1960 and won a number of tournaments in the Windsor-Detroit area in the last eight years.

During the spring of 1968, while Miss Post was embarking on her touring career, Miss Smith was making applications to southern U.S. clubs as an assistant teaching professional.

She was hired by the Fountain Inn course at Simpsonville, S.C.

Last winter she left the course and joined the tour.

Her brother Mike, head professional at Kings Inn course in Fremont, Quebec Bahamas, immediately arranged a tieup between the club and his sister and requested her sponsorship by a Columbus, Ohio, golf enthusiast.

The sponsor will handle her expenses during the 1969 season and she plans to return to Kings Inn to take up duties as a teaching professional during the following winter.

Miss Smith is the second golfer from Windsor to join a professional tour. The other is Bob Panasiuk, a member on the men's tour.

A tall, statuesque blonde, Miss Smith is a graduate of Kennedy Collegiate at Windsor.

Juniors Qualify Tomorrow

A familiar event—the district qualifying round for the Ontario Junior Championship — will return to the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club Friday ater a year's absence.

Some 50 to 60 golfers will tee off Friday in the 18-hole qualifying round which starts at 9 a.m. and encompasses competition in three age categories — junior for 16, 17 and 18-year-olds, juvenile for 14 and 15-year-olds and bantam for those 13 and younger.

The competition returns this year to the Bay of Quinte Club after last year's switch to CFB Trenton Golf Club.

Only three years old, golfer, junior Dave Henderson, who is now overage, qualified for the Ontario Junior Championship last year.

This year's competition will be held at the Thornhill Country Club north of Toronto.

Arts Festival '69
Quinte Arts Council
April 9 - 23
To All Those Who Enjoyed 'Arts Festival '69

For three years the Arts Festival has given the citizens of Belleville an opportunity to enjoy both the visual and performing arts. Continuation of the festival in its present form, has been made possible through a municipal grant. We believe this grant has been a good investment resulting in greater enthusiasm, higher standards of achievement, wider participation and low ticket prices.

This year, after receiving half of the requested municipal grant the festival committee and the participating groups undertook Arts Festival '69, fortunately the remaining half of our grant was not approved at budget time, therefore the committee now requires one thousand dollars to honor the financial commitments undertaken for the festival, e.g. printing programs; advertising; production manager; stage hands; display materials; lights and their transportation etc.

You are invited to make a contribution to Arts Festival '69 c/o Quinte Arts Council. All donations are tax deductible.

Respectfully yours

Russians Planning Attempt To Get Sample of Moon Soil

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist sources said Wednesday the Soviet Union plans to launch an unmanned moon probe July 10 that will attempt to scoop up a sample of moon soil and return it to earth.

The experiment, if successful, would precede by six days the American Apollo 11 shot designed to land two men on the moon.

The report came as Frank Borman, the first American astronaut to visit Soviet Union, arrived here and was met by three Soviet cosmonauts-German Titov, Konstantin Feoktistov and Georgi Beregovoi.

Borman and his family will spend nine days in the Soviet Union, visiting a space communications centre in the Crimea and Vyzouni Gorodok, where the cosmonauts live. There are no announced plans for him to see the Soviet launching centre at Baikonur in Kazakhstan.

The sources, who have contacts inside the Soviet space program, said the July 10 launch would be the third attempt to carry out the complex shot.

The first blew up on the launch pad in early April and the second exploded in Flight June 14 when its second stage ignited, they said. Neither was announced by Soviet authorities.

Book Shows Radical Mood

OTTAWA (CP) — A new mood of radicalism within the New Democratic Party is suggested in a 29-page booklet released Wednesday, entitled Socialism Canada Seventies.

It is a distillation of a series of papers and documents produced in the last year or so on the future of socialism in Canada, with a running commentary by Desmond Morton of the University of Ottawa.

It is issued by the Ontario NDP. A short prefatory note says it does not represent established party policy or the shared views of any group of contributors.

"The whole purpose was to produce a flood of ideas, some of which we hope will be picked up by the party," Mr. Morton told a news conference.

A reporter, noting that none of the national party's "old guard" appeared to have been associated with the venture, asked whether the views expressed represented a group looking for new leadership.

"I don't think there is any leadership orientation there at all," replied Mr. Morton.

To a question as to why the booklet was issued under the name of the Ontario NDP, rather than that of the national party, MP Ed Broadbent (Oshawa-Whitby) replied: "They paid for it."

Mr. Broadbent told the news conference that Socialism Canada Seventies reflects a "general shift to the left" in thinking within the NDP. Its ideas came generally from people who had entered politics in the last 10 years.

The toughly-worded document is heavily concerned with what it calls the "enormous, uncontrolled and unresponsive power of the modern corporation."

The document calls for a "meaningful relationship" between the cities and the federal government.

MP Max Saltsman (Waterloo) noted that the largest Canadian cities are bigger than some provinces. If they are not satisfied with their relationship to the provinces that have jurisdiction over them, cities should have the right to work directly with Ottawa.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For July 4

Your birthday today: Now is the time to pursue a course of action that is really a manifestation of your faith. Outworn habits should be thrust out of your life. Today's natives are almost all natural students, seekers of knowledge, and industrious people.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Take the liberty and opportunity to explain your personal connections. (Keep your methods secret.)

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Personal matters can be advanced quite handily. Financial affairs tend to run into difficulty, misunderstandings, confusion.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Things go well considering all factors. Enjoy the companionship of old friends and kin. Avoid the temptation to say too much.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Today your emotional orientation may change subtly. Give yourself time to catch a good balance before making important moves.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Make as bold and emphatic an impression as your means and circumstances allow. Just remember to do it gracefully and thoughtfully.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Partners have something to say too: give them a chance. Neighbors may impress you and your mate with something big.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): You can have so many ways to spend money today. Where you have choices, keep your health in mind. Travel conditions are apt to bewilder.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Unreal expectations complicate relationships. Pressure demands are not the answer. Wait for the whole story!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): You encounter disapproval without being able to get at the causes. Nothing to do but wait, while avoiding any squabble.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): You find your friends suggesting all sorts of useless actions. Be patient with them while you work out your own pattern of self-expression.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Information on financial matters should be regarded as incomplete. Differences of opinion with mate or family are par for the course today.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Fatigue is a factor to be taken into account. Conserve your money and strength.

Charles' Spirits Soar After Roaring Welcome

FISHGUARD, Wales (AP) — Prince Charles moved into a hotbed of Welsh nationalism today on a royal tour already marred by bombings and bombo scares from extremists.

But his spirits were reported lifted by the roaring welcome from thousands of Welshmen as the tour opened Wednesday.

On the second day of a royal tour through the land he is pledged to serve as Prince of Wales, Charles is visiting a centre of anti-English feeling.

The Roman-founded city of Carmarthen is the only place in Wales that sends a nationalist to the Westminister Parliament.

Gyrfow Evans, now leader of Plaid Cymru, the Welsh nationalist party, was elected in 1966 on a promise to seek a separate parliament for Wales.

His election gave new impetus to the nationalist movement and to extremists who have not hesitated to use violence against what they regard as their English rulers.

Evans himself did not attend Charles's investiture as Prince of Wales at Caernarvon Castle on Tuesday, but he has strongly denied that his party supporters are responsible for a rash of bombings and bomb scares during and after the royal ceremony.

Charles, 20-year-old heir too the throne. was visibly heartened by the rousing reception during the first of four days to be spent meeting the people.

Tens of thousands turned out to cheer and wave, and the royal party was 30 minutes behind schedule at the end of Wednesday's 200-mile trip.

Charles spent the night aboard the royal yacht Britannia, anchored in picturesque Fishguard harbor.

His program, perhaps wisely, calls for only a 15-minute stay at Carmarthen before he goes on to a festival of song in Swansea.

Bomb disposal experts travelled with the royal party by motorcade and helicopter.

At one point of the tour Wednesday, what was believed to be a time bomb was found on the prince's route, under the Beaver Bridge which crosses the River Conway. The seven pound tin containing two wires was blown open but no other explosives were found.

Youngsters' Parade Opens Calgary Stampede

CALGARY (CP) — The Calgary Stampede got a youthful push into its 57th year Wednesday night as 3,000 youngsters staged a parade in step with the exhibition's theme—A Salute to Youth.

Gov-Gen. Michener will officially open the show tonight. For the 69-year-old Albertan native, it will be his first Stampede.

The parade, watched by between 75,000 and 80,000 people, moved over a two-mile route and featured youths of all ages and sizes.

Their enthusiasm, as they moved through a cool evening interspersed with sprinkles of rain, reflected the mood of the city as it teetered on the edge of the annual Stampede madness.

Dancing in the streets with breakfasts of pancakes and bacon served from chuckwagons was planned for today.

Rodeo events with contestants from Canada and the United States start this afternoon.

Chuckwagon racing champion Gary Dorchester will be back to defend his title against 35 other rigs.

Prize money offered for rodeo and chuckwagon events is $100,100.

The first judging of livestock begins today.

The midway commercial and artistic exhibits and the youth section, Flare Square, were expected to attract large crowds despite an increase in the adult admission fee to $1 from 50 cents.

The fee was increased to finance $800,000 worth of additional barns and grandstand facilities.

Other attractions include a casino and a $50,000 gold brick to be raffled on the last day.

Cause Erosion

EDMONTON (CP) — An estimated 1,250,000 acres of fallow land were eroded in Alberta by high winds in 1968, says A. W. Goettel, head of Alberta's department of agriculture soils branch. He said the situation arose as a result of high winds, dry weather and pulverized soil.

Bank Head Hopeful Inflation Checked

Topsy-Turvy

A Belleville welding gas company on Harriet Street got a new sign yesterday. A crane and welding crews were pressed into service to erect the brand-new symbol. All went well until a second look was taken by someone — like company personnel Bill Attwaters (left) and John Garvin. One side of the sign was upside-down.

Robarts to Attend

Ontario Calls Quinte Parley

By Donald MacKenzie, Staff Reporter

Letters are going out today from the office of Hon. Darcy McKeough, minister of municipal affairs, inviting all municipal council members and senior officials from four counties to attend a meeting July 22 in Belleville, when Premier John Robarts and some members of his cabinet will be present.

Besides Mr. Robarts and Mr. McKeough, Hon. Charles MacNaughton of the treasury department and minister of public works Hon. J. R. Simonett will also be present.

The invitations are being sent to officials in Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac counties.

Purpose of the meeting is to give the elected and appointed county officials the opportunity to discuss their problems on a personal basis with Ontario's premier and his cabinet.

Councils of Kingston, Belleville and Trenton will also be receiving invitations.

The meeting here, which will be the second of a series (the first is in London July 17) will be held at Centennial Secondary School and Hastings county clerk-treasurer Carl Bateman will be chairman.

'Light' Is Seen By Rasminsky

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor Louis Rasminsky of the Bank of Canada feels there may be "some faint glimmering light" in the battle against inflation.

He told a special Commons committee studying interest rates Thursday that the forces in Canada's economic policies are on the right track and "I am confident that we can muster the determination and persistence to finish this job."

Mr. Rasminsky said that Canada's economy is so closely linked with the United States economy that developments there have a strong impact on what happens here. "And if the U.S. does not succeed in bringing its inflation under control I think the chances of us eliminating inflation from the Canadian economy are not very good."

But he said he was hopeful that the fight against inflation would be successful in both countries.

"There are indications of some alleviation of demand pressures in certain sectors of the economy both here and in the United States. We may be witnessing the beginning of some healthy uncertainty regarding the inevitability of continued inflation."

But he said it would have been "astonishing" if the pressures of demand which had been experienced during the last eight years of economic growth did not result in some distortions and expenses.

Mr. Rasminsky said that the current high interest rates are designed to discourage people from borrowing and spending. Anything but a tight-money policy at this stage, he said, would only exacerbate inflation. To some extent it was true that high interest rates contribute to rising prices and inflation, but their purpose is to "provide an incentive not to borrow, and not to spend."

An anti-inflationary monetary policy cannot fail to result in relatively high interest rates, he said.

But he said he was well aware that tight money conditions have an uneven impact on various parts of the country.

"For this reason, at recent meetings with executives of the chartered banks, the Bank of Canada has expressed the view, as it has in earlier periods of tight credit conditions, that those institutions should have special regard for borrowers in less prosperous areas of the country and for small businesses that do not have alternative sources of credit."

He said he was satisfied the banks agreed with his views.

Mr. Rasminsky also said that when high interest rates in the United States encouraged American corporations to seek money in Canada, "I suggested to the banks that they should give priority in the use of their total loan resources to the credit-worthy demands of their Canadian customers."

He said that private financial institutions in Canada "have not had an improper influence" on the determination of interest rates. He said they tend to follow rather than lead in this respect.

Chrétien Plans Tour

OTTAWA (CP) — Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien said Thursday he will begin a tour of the provinces next week to consult Indians and provincial governments on the new federal policy on Indians presented to the Commons last month.

Gerard Laprise (Creditiste—Abitibi) asked the minister when he had any assurances that the provinces would accept responsibility for Indians.

Mr. Chretien said he would be negotiating with Indian associations and the provinces on the new policy.

Farm Union to Fight For Higher Beef Prices

GUELPH (CP) — Walter L. Miller, president of the Ontario Farmers' Union, said Thursday the union will take "every action necessary," including withholding cattle, to increase the price of beef.

In an interview after an executive board meeting, he said the market could support prices three to four cents a pound higher "without putting the consumer in a difficult position."

Mr. Miller also said he has written to the Ontario and federal governments asking for aid for farmers who lost crops or were unable to plant because of heavy rains.

Pope Offers to Fly Relief To Biafra Direct From Rome

ROME (Reuters) — Pope Paul has offered to send Roman Catholic relief flights to Biafra directly from Rome if necessary to make sure there are no arms aboard the planes, says the Nigerian commissioner for external affairs, Okoi Arikpo.

The Pope made his offer during a private audience with Arikpo, who told him that the Catholic relief agency Caritas International and other organizations are suspected of carrying arms into Biafra on mercy flights.

Arikpo told a news conference Wednesday the other organizations were the non-Catholic Inter-Church Aid and the Canadian Canairelief Service.

The commissioner, who arrived Monday for talks with Italian officials, said the Pope assured him that the transporting of arms to Biafra was not intended and he had never approved of any agency smuggling them in.

Arikpo said he told the Pope that Nigeria welcomes relief flights as long as they are properly organized and inspected by federal officials.

Arikpo described as "absolutely incorrect" charges by the Biafran representative in Rome, Mike Ugwuma, that Nigerian leaders openly had recognized the use of starvation as a weapon of war.

"We do not want to use starvation," Arikpo said. "That is why we hope we can organize relief services with the necessary guarantees for our security."

Presbyterian Urges Action

TORONTO (CP) — A Canadian churchman has renewed demands that Ottawa take a strong position in opposing Nigerian restrictions on relief for Biafra.

Dr. E. H. Johnson, moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, said Thursday in an interview the Canadian government should move to "secure the passage of clearly identified and properly inspected relief flights" into Biafra.

Dr. Johnson also said the government should "take new initiatives in relation to other governments to negotiate for a ceasefire and for a peace settlement" in the war between Nigeria and the breakaway state.

Dr. Johnson's remarks followed his private talks Wednesday with External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp in Ottawa. The talks were to discuss Dr. Johnson's findings on his fifth trip to Africa. Mr. Sharp had no comment after the meeting.

Leslie Frost Has Broken Leg

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP) — Former Ontario premier Leslie Frost suffered a broken leg and head injuries and his 66-year-old wife were cut and bruised when their chauffeur-driven car was involved in a two-car crash at a highway intersection here Thursday night.

U.S. Considers Ordering Air Bags on 1971 Cars

WASHINGTON (AP) — Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe has given advance notice that the United States government may require automakers to install inflatable air bags or a "similar passive restraint system" in 1971 model cars.

The advance notice gives the auto industry 90 days to comment before the government issues a proposed rule. Additional comment would be permitted before the rule went into effect.

Volpe said this week seat belts, now required on all cars and trucks, have proved effective in reducing injuries but studies show fewer than 25 per cent of drivers use them.

For this reason, Volpe said, some better means of protecting vehicle occupants must be found.

He described nylon air bags as "one very promising system that is in the final development stage."

The bags, which would inflate automatically in several hundredths of a second after impact, could be installed in steering wheels, dash boards and behind front seats. They would be activated by a special impact sensor.

Welsh Teenagers Cheer Prince

SWANSEA (CP-AP) — Prince Charles visited the southeast corner of Wales today—scene of recent terrorist bombings — on the third day of his royal tour while controversy bubbled over a BBC television film on how to blow up a pipeline.

Thursday at Carmarthen, heartland of Welsh nationalism, Charles got a rousing teenage welcome rivalling the deafening days of wildest Beatlemania.

Four thousand squealing, screaming schoolboys and girls jammed into Carmarthen Park to see the 20-year-old prince.

U.S. Senators Oppose Germ and Gas Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate armed services committee has decided the U.S. military should continue research for defence against gas and germ warfare, but should hold up development of such offensive weapons of its own.

Growing congressional concern over chemical and biological warfare—CBW—was reflected in the committee's announcement Thursday it had deleted a $18,000,000 item from the Pentagon's proposed $22,000,000,000 weapons and research authorization bill.

But the committee approved $8,000,000 for defensive devices and agents against CBW.

The $18,000,000 was only a tiny part of the $1,900,000,00 trimmed from the Pentagon requests. The Nixon administration already had sliced $825,000,000 from the budget by canceling work on the Cheyenne helicopter and the Manned Orbiting Laboratory, but the committee chopped off more than $800,000,000 in addition. Left in the bill was the full $798,400,000 asked by the administration for a controversial anti-missile system.

Senator Thomas J. McIntyre said his subcommittee recommended deletion of all funds for chemical and biological warfare weapons.

"Measured against this nation's traditional opposition to the offensive use of such agents, we could not justify research and development expenditures for that purpose," said the New Hampshire Democrat.

The cut came as President Nixon announced that the United States would seek reliable international arms control for such weapons. The White House said last month that a sweeping appraisal was to be made of whether development and testing of CBW agents is necessary and proper.

Congressional concern over CBW started as a one-man crusade by Representative Richard D. McCarthy (Dem., N.Y.).

More congressmen became aroused after the death of some 6,000 sheep near a nerve gas testing ground in Utah last year.

The army's plan to dispose of 27,000 tons of obsolete gas bombs by transporting them overland and dumping them in the sea brought more outcries from Congress this spring. Just last week a panel of scientists recommended that the army design a new chemical warfare agents on government installations instead of dumping them in the sea.

Foster Ward Residents Seek Freeze on New Construction

Activated by the appearance of a small service building in their residential midst, Foster Ward homeowners are moving to freeze any new construction in their waterfront bailiwick.

The ward's ratepayers' association last night decided to seek a city hall bylaw barring building in the area until Belleville's urban renewal plans have firmed up.

Request for such an ordinance was endorsed after the ratepayers heard from aldermen and city planning director Bert Kenny at a meeting last night at the Wharf Street Debating Club.

It was stimulated by recent construction in the ward of a garage-office building as operations centre for a janitorial service — Hunt Bros.

The new building points up what appears, at first glance, as an eccentric situation in Foster Ward.

Foster Ward already includes some notable industrial installations — including a tank terminal for fuel shipments. While the district still is greatly residential — and one of the city's oldest, with traditions linked to the booming days of water transportation — the ward has been zoned completely industrial area since the mid-1950s.

This has prevented any new home construction. Homeowners seeking expansion or improvement of their holdings require a special dispensation from the city's committee of adjustment.

A new phase opened recently when the ward was included in a downtown urban renewal study, still in progress.

Then came the new service-industry operation and the ward's homeowners apparently were forcefully reminded of the zoning designation for the area.

Now, residents owning homes and vacant lots don't relish the prospect of any possible industrialization before urban renewal plans take shape, ratepayers' president Cecil Kellar told last night's meeting.

The solution, suggested by Mr. Kenny, was a temporary freezing order obtained from the Ontario Municipal Board through city council.

Such a move was approved by the three councillors present — aldermen Arthur Keegan, Robin Jeffrey and Richard Ellis.

The idea already has been proposed by planning consultants conducting the renewal study, Mr. Kenny and Ald. Keegan said.

Such an order must specify its own time limit — say six months to one year, said Mr. Kenny.

He also warned it could not be revoked within the stated limits and all construction — even the home improvements allowed by the adjustment committee — would halt.

But officially, the city has frozen residential construction under its zoning ordinance for years, Mr. Kellar reminded the meeting.

"The city already has the freeze on us people," he said. "We can't build a residential house. It's been that way for 15 years and it wouldn't hurt for another year."

The area proposed for freezing must also be defined in any request to city council, Mr. Kenny said.

After receiving approval from the association's membership for the principle of the freeze, the ratepayers' executive now will proceed to draw up specifics of the request, Mr. Kellar said later.

What the future holds for Foster Ward may be finally revealed when the urban renewal study is finalized.

But Ald. Jeffrey last night indicated to the ratepayers her belief that the waterfront ward had glittering potential.

"I certainly think you live in the choice location in the city of Belleville," she said, "and the value of this land will go up and up as time goes on."

Merrywood Camp Holds Open House

Seven crippled children from the Belleville area, sponsored by the Rotary Club in this city, will enjoy summer camp at Merrywood on the Rideau.

The camp, located between Perth and Smiths Falls, just off Highway 43 at Port Elmsley, will be holding its annual open house Sunday, July 6 between 2:30 and 5:30 p.m.

All residents and visitors to the area are most welcome to drop in and observe the comprehensive camping program offered, officials say.

"Campers' ages range from 7 to 17 years. Juniors and intermediate groups remain for two week periods, while seniors stay for three.

Merrywood is one of five camps owned and operated by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children and financed through contributions to the annual Easter Seal Campaign.

Here's the Plan

Foster Ward residents cluster around city planning director Bert Kenny (centres) as he outlines zoning plan of the area. Local ratepayers last night agreed to seek freezing of construction in ward awaiting urban renewal study.

Four-county Institution

Tender Let for Regional Jail

Local government sources are awaiting details on the effects of the new Quinte regional jail now contracted for construction.

The $2,657,000 project on a 36-acre site north of Napanee has been awarded M. Sullivan and Son Ltd., Armprior. the Ontario public works department announced yesterday.

The detention centre will accommodate 104 male and female prisoners under minimum, medium and maximum security conditions.

It will replace some of the oldest jails in the province — in counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac.

It will be used for detaining prisoners awaiting court appearances in all municipal and provincial courts in the region, as well as prisoners serving light sentences

Ramifications of the new centralized unit for municipalities involved still have not been firmed up.

One of the prime details involved is cost of transportation.

Belleville Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today that under the Municipal Act local municipalities at present are responsible for conveying prisoners to and from jail.

Napanee is 25 miles from Belleville and, the chief says, transportation could be a costly item in local police budgets.

Yesterday he wrote the Department of Correctional Services to obtain more details, said Chief Crosbie.

The Napanee centre is the first of its kind in Ontario and no cost or procedure guidelines exist at present for local authorities, he added.

Lennox and Addington clerk-treasurer Douglas Perry today pondered the possibility the provincial government may evolve some method of bus transportation for the municipalities.

The currently - unclarified situation is compounded by the fact that administration of county justice services was taken over completely by the province in 1968.

Up to that time, the counties had been directly involved with the project- conception of which was launched in 1964. The following year an agreement was signed by the four participating counties and the site purchased two years later.

The initial phases had involved a committee of local municipal representatives, the latter-day existence of which also has been an issue with one of its members, Belleville Alderman, Jerry Joyce.

Ald. Joyce, as Belleville's official representative on the group, has been publicly critical of the provincial government for ignoring the committee in the past year.

Today, he reiterated his complaints.

The committee has been "ignored completely" by the province since Queen's Park assumed responsibility for the administration of justice in the counties, he claimed.

This has caused a breakdown in liaison between local and senior government levels, said the city councillor.

"I feel I should be able to tell city council what is going on," he added.

Indications from Chief Crosbie and Mr. Perry are the new centre may be finished in 18- 20 months.

The centre — located near Highways 41 the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway — will be a one-storey building, its 48,- 000 square feet enclosed by reinforced structural and precast concrete.

One of the units is designed to accommodate the correctional services "live-in-work" program.

This project allows selected prisoners to take daytime employment in education training or employment in the surrounding community.

The interior design also calls for a large multi-purpose room, infirmary, work shops, visiting and library, visiting and interview units.

With its completion, some of the criminal offenders in Ontario will become vacant.

Hastings County jail in Belleville — the city's oldest and six female cells, dating back to the early 1830s.

Also vacant will be the area are units of an even earlier vintage.

What now is the basement of the present building was once the area's first jail-cell unit, built in 1839-39, governor W. J. Theriault says.

Early Start Indicated On Low Rental Houses

PICTON — Construction of 30 low rental housing units will begin in Picton early this month, nearly two years after the proposal for their construction first came before town council.

Robert Charlecoix, assistant to the general manager of MacDonald Homes, the Belle's Corners Construction Co. awarded the tender for the unit by town council, said that work will begin as soon as the company receives a building permit from the town.

MacDonald Homes has advertised in this area for subtrades and suppliers for the construction project.

The housing units will be built on lots on Maple Ave. and Diarsell St., running parallel to Gladstone Ave.

"Each unit will be erected at an approximate cost of $17,- 000," said Picton Reeve, Bernard Hepburn. "Unit rental costs will be based on renters' income," he added.

Before the concept of low rental housing was fully understood in Picton, a petition circulated among residents of Jebreon St. and Maple Ave., protesting the project was sent to town council. Councillors William Lane, Margaret Ackerman and James Bird were appointed by council to explain to the petitioners why low rental housing was not detrimental in a residential section. In talks with concerned residents, the councillors succeeded in correcting many of their misapprehensions about low rental housing.

IN MEMORIAM

DARYL — In loving memory of my dear wife Helena, who passed away July 4, 1968.
Family missed and deeply mourn- ed.

Heart of my heart I miss you still,
Fondest memories will never fade,
Dimming your picture before my eyes,
Sad to see the one in my heart that dies.
The stars seem dim as I whisper
My own darling wife, I miss you so.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by husband Jack and sister Heather and family.

EMBURY — In memory of a dear friend Josie Embury who passed away July 4, 1968.
We cannot think of her as dead,
Nor feel that she is gone,
Along the path of life we tread,
She has but gone before
—Always remembered by Ed, Cathy and family.

EMBURY — In loving memory of a dear aunt, Josie Embury, who passed away July 4, 1968.
God knew you were getting weary,
So He did what He thought best,
He closed your eyes and whispered come and rest.
Your memory is our keepsake,
With which we'll never part,
God has you in His keeping,
We have you in our heart.
—Sadly missed and never to be forgotten, Grace, Speedy, Gordon and Ruth.

EMBURY — In memory of my aunt Josie Maude Embury who passed away July 4, 1968.
Her hands are now resting peacefully,
So He did what He thought best,
Her eyes are closed and she cannot see,
And whispered come and rest.
Dearest aunt, we miss you so much,
Not even a goodbye.
You had gone before we knew it,
And only God knows why.
—Sadly missed by Joan, niece and nephew Maxine and Gordon.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbours during the illness and following the sudden emergency of our little daughter Jeanie Marie. Also to Dr. Aziz and Mrs. Jean Smith, the La Salle Nursing Service nurses, and to all who in any way assisted.
—Mr. and Mrs. Mel Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Biggers.

Prince Edward Wide Open for Industry

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — "What is a Chamber of Commerce? I don't think anyone really knows. I think we've forgotten to tell our citizens what we really are."

These were the opening remarks of guest speaker, Jack H. Wilson, Trenton, at last night's meeting of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Wilson, manager of the Trenton Chamber, spoke to about 25 persons present at this open meeting to discuss community development.

In his address he emphasized the important role of the Prince Edward Chamber in welcoming Piasecki Aircraft to the area.

"I strongly recommend that you show Mr. Piasecki that your Chamber of Commerce is here to assist him and in so doing you will open the gateway for other industries," stressed the speaker.

"Unless Piasecki receives assistance no other industries will come in, and Prince Edward is wide open for industry," added Mr. Wilson.

A work program, in Mr. Wilson's opinion is an integral part of the success of any Chamber of Commerce. He observed that without involvement there is very little for any organization to do.

As a forerunner to a work plan Mr. Wilson suggested a survey among residents asking them what projects they would like to see completed.

He cited the Noridge Plan involving renovations to store fronts and other buildings as a long term project.

A Santa Claus parade typifies a short term activity.

"It's no damned good to talk about these things over a coffee table," emphasized Mr. Wilson.

Involvement in the Chamber of Commerce is the key to accomplishing the things so many would like to see done in their community, according to the speaker.

Mr. Wilson defined the Chamber of Commerce as a voluntary group of citizens established to promote in numerous areas the progress of the community it serves.

"We are the people. We must be heard from," said the speaker. Mr. Wilson stressed the Chamber should be the leading organization for tourist resort operators, farmers, and for residents of Picton, Bloomfields and Wellington.

Utility of area Chambers is important and Mr. Wilson referred to the "Think Tank" held in Trenton last year. He felt that co-operation among the small Chambers led to good will and constructive activity. "We must unite," urged Mr. Wilson.

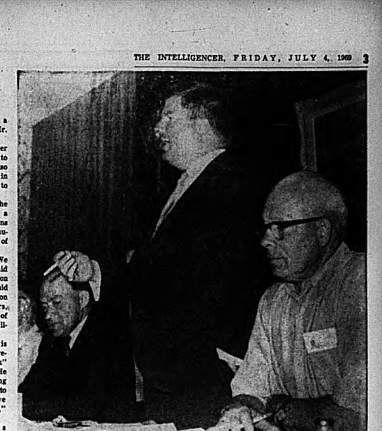
Following Mr. Wilson's speech, a discussion panel consisting of L. R. Mclean, Gordon Lloyd, J. Wilson and Howard Mallett brought a number of questions to light.

A tourist operator asked what the Chamber thought about a licensed liquor lounge in the county.

Replied Mr. Lloyd, "I think if the members were polled the vote might me split."

"The tourist operators are the ones who can put on the pressure here," he added.

County Warden George Foster wanted to know if the Chamber was doing anything to cut down the number of party line users in rural Prince Edward.



He was assured that a survey is being taken on the situation.

Allan Ralley, a member of county council, predicted the failure of the local Chamber through to poor attendance.

"So many seem constantly involved in the same type of thing — there is a hard core of participants and no new blood," remarked Mr. Ralley.

Mr. Wilson agreed that the attendance was low and stressed the need for projects to bring people out. He felt that the Chamber's membership committee should muster its strength in a drive to collect newcomers to the organization.

It was reported that 421 letters had gone out inviting members to the meeting but only about 25 persons attended.

Jack Wilson, head of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce and guest speaker at a meeting of the Picton chamber yesterday, gestures at his audience during a panel discussion on the chamber and the community. Seated beside him are two panel members, Gordon Lloyd, Picton chamber president, and Howard Mallett, vice-president.

He was the son of the late Peter LeSage and the former Sophia Trudeau.

Mr. LeSage is survived, by his wife, the former Mae Allore, and a daughter, Helen LeSage of Chicago, Ill., Gy-a daughter, predeceased her father in 1941. Also surviving are the following brothers and sisters:

Raymond LeSage, Regina Saskatchewan; Leonard LeSage, Bergen, New York; Reverend Father Clayton LeSage, Perth, Mrs. (Stella) Gebrink, of Rochester, N.Y.; and Mrs. Jack (Mildred) Grace, of New York. He was predeceased by two brothers, Stafford and Joseph LeSage and by three sisters, Agnes, Nora and Pearl.

The funeral was held from the Cassidy Funeral Home, Tweed, to St. Carthagh's Roman Catholic Church, on Thursday for Requiem Mass, celebrated by Rev. Clayton LeSage of Perth, assisted by Rev. Peter H. Murphy of Flinton, and Rev. Bernard O'Neil of Perth.

Present in the Sanctuary were: Rev. G. O'Hearn, Perth, and Dean C. E. Baker of Tweed.

The bearers were: Russell O'Coin, Jack. James and Lawrence LeSage, Simon Conreyes, and Vincent Trudeau.

Interment was in St. Carthagh's Cemetery, Tweed.

Lorne McLinton

Police Constable Dies on Holiday

While vacationing at Bob's Lake in north Hastings County, Lorne Frederick McLinton, R.R. 4 Belleville, a member of the traffic department of the Belleville Police Department, died suddenly from a heart attack on Thursday. He was in his 35th year.

Mr. McLinton started his holidays over the weekend and at the time of leaving with his family had no medical problems and was looking forward, to a fishing vacation. He joined the police force, 11 years ago, went immediately into the traffic department, and was detailed to motorcycle work this year. He took an active interest in safety work and lectured to different groups on this problem. He was closely associated with Police Association work and was vice-president of the local group.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie stated today "he was an excellent officer and well respected by everyone."

He was born at Richmond, a son of David Lemuel McLinton and the late Mrs. Mary Anne McLinton and had resided in Belleville for 12 years. He formerly lived at Smiths Falls.

Mr. McLinton was a member of St. Joseph's church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Elizabeth (Betty) Henderson, his father, two sons, Robert Bertram and William David and one daughter Bonny Lynn, all at home.

Also surviving are his three brothers, Howard and Rae McLinton of Oshawa and Russell McLinton of Otawa.

Mr. McLinton is resting at the Hillcrest Funeral Residence. Requiem Mass will be celebrated in St. Joseph's church on Monday, July 7 at 10.00 a.m.

Interment will be in St. James' Cemetery.

Give your wife the runaround

This one. It will run her around anywhere her heart desires. And run you around $1845. Which is a small price to pay.

While you're figuring, here are some other numbers. 35 to 40 miles per gallon, 62 hp, and 80 m.p.h. They add up to quite a car.

In its price the Datsun 1000 carries all the little attentions a woman appreciates. There are reclining bucket seats, all-vinyl upholstery and padded everything. There are carpets, white walls, a tinted windshield and a cigarette lighter. Plus an alternator, windshield washers, and an all-synchro four-on-the-floor on both 2 and 4-door models.
Extras? Who needs them?

One more thing: the runaround will keep running. We had a professional car-breaker work it over and he couldn't make it quit. He did things to that chic little car that shouldn't be allowed, yet he couldn't break it. So we figure your wife can't either. But if you ever need parts, there are 160 Datsun dealers from coast to coast, backed by a million dollars worth. So give your wife the runaround. She'll love you for it.

Efficiency Drives Costly

PICTON — Gordon Lloyd told a meeting of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce last night that he left the annual meeting of Ontario Chamber of Commerce "very impressed by its leaders."

Mr. Lloyd, who attended the May meeting in Ottawa outlined the topics under discussion there. Among them were regional government, business and government relations and the cost of education.

Mr. Lloyd felt an address delivered by the incoming president of the Ontario Chamber was of special significance to all members of the Prince Edward Chamber. William E. Gunn, the new president touched on regional government and education costs in an excerpt from his address read by Mr. Lloyd.

"It is of utmost importance that we consider the implications of regional government as we are doing at this 37th annual meeting. I am concerned that this heading drive for efficiency by the proponents of regional government may be leading us into municipal tax burden more onerous than we now bear. Drives for efficiency by governments have a tendency of ending up costing more than they save, mainly misunderstanding suddenly become insufficient for the new government structures.

I think it is important that we as a chamber are taking a careful look at the rapidly rising costs of education.

Just how much can the citizens afford to pay for the education of their young, for classrooms and or lower teacher - pupil ratios?

There are limits to the ability of the public to continue to pay ever - increasing amounts for education and it is appropriate that the Chamber of Commerce should show some leadership and involvement in taking a hard look at these things and warn government leaders that their exasperance for social improvement still must meet the test of the pocketbook."

When the Ontario Chamber examined tourism, statistics showed that for every dollar spent in advertising a $372 return came into the province.

Girls on Top

The old chestnut about women being the weaker sex has taken another knock with word that girls have walked away with the top honors in Grade 13 examinations in Hastings County.

Their prowess embraced both numbers involved and marks. Thirty one of 49 Ontario scholars in Hastings are girls.

This is a tribute not only to the girls but to the educational system, as well as the growing importance attached to completion of studies in this modern world.

The fact is, girls mature faster and seem to be more receptive to education than boys — but then much of it is lost along the way when marriage supercedes as their first priority. Still, more young women are combining marriage with a career, at least for a time until additional family responsibilities intrude.

The boys seem to catch up eventually to preserve what of course is still a male-dominated society.

'Mod' Wales

"I know that social conditions have changed since 50 years ago and, of course, are still changing.

"The demands on a Prince of Wales have altered, but I am determined to serve and to try as best I can to live up to those demands, whatever they might be in the rather uncertain future. . ."

Prince Charles is right, times have changed. Yet observers were quick to point out the extraordinary links between past and present in the recent ceremony at Caernarvon. Here was a 700-year-old castle with television cameras mounted within its walls to beam latter-day history via satellite to an audience of some 500,000,000.

Look at some of those changes. While the Queen wore a Tudor hat supposedly in tune with the medieval surroundings, but hardly flattering to Her Majesty, outside the castle the mod world was to the fore as ever. And among the security forces of all people.

To quote Colin Smith of the London Observer Service, "On the morning of the Investiture, as detectives, one of them a pretty dark-haired girl in a miniskirt, followed Euryn Ap Rhobart (a Welsh nationalist and language student at University College, Bangor) and his girl friend, Vera Williams, around his home village of Llanberis (population 700)."

So that was the scene in Llanberis, some seven miles from Caernarvon, with the detectives later questioning the newsmen as to what was said in conversation with Rhobart, and heads presumably turning at the vision of the dark-haired young woman among them. As another Welshman of some fame, singer Tom Jones, might observe, it was an "un-us-ua-l" day.

Industrial Production

Canada's fourth place ranking in growth of industrial production during the 1958-1967 period is a matter for satisfaction, but nevertheless the country's 77 per cent increase falls far behind Japan's phenomenal 245 per cent.

The figures were released recently in a United Nations report which showed that Japan far outpaced the rest of the world.

The other placings are interesting too. Russia ranked second with 121 per cent, nearly twice the United States' 69 per cent increase. Italy was third with 113 per cent, far ahead of West Germany with 56 per cent and France with 51 per cent.

Britain, to the surprise of nobody, was last with industrial growth of only 32 per cent. Strikes, the gradual decline from the spirit and determination of wartime Britain, and the strictures of the Labor government have brought the country to a new economic low.

World industrial production in the period expanded by 86 per cent, according to the UN survey. Canada's effort compares very favorably, and we have nowhere to go but up.

Pentagon Supreme... But

U.S. Military Has Greater Power of Decision Under Laird

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The military's influence in the decision-making of the republican administration of President Nixon is climbing in the wake of Defence Secretary Melvin Laird's efforts to loosen the intensive Pentagon centralization imposed during the McNamara years.

However, officials say, Laird has no intention of letting his authority slip or allowing the military to run unrestricted.

"Laird is not a man to give up power," said an associate who has worked closely with the Nixon administration's defence chief.

And, a top official said, "Anybody who gets the idea that we're going back to the old 'Wild West' days of service rivalries is all wrong."

By "Wild West" days this official meant the years before Robert S. McNamara became defence secretary in 1961 when in-services fought unabashedly over budget shares, weapons systems, and roles and missions.

Within the Laird guidelines, the military and civilian heads of the armed services and the various assistant secretaries of defence are given considerable responsibilities for developing programs and dealing with problems.

Associates noted Laird has permitted the air force to handle the dispute over the C-5A super transport and the army to resolve the controversy over disposal of surplus war gas.

In the McNamara era, the defence secretary and his top aides called the detailed shots.

The defence secretary believes that if he has a good man in a job, that official should handle his job without close supervision from the top.

Laird also means it when he says field commanders should not be second-guessed, these sources said.

During the Johnson administration, the U.S. commander in Vietnam sometimes received streams of messages from Washington with "guidance," suggestions and outright orders.

This no longer happens, officials said.

Under Laird every member of the joint chiefs of staff have been invited at one time or another to sit in on consultations of the National Security Council, President Nixon's top policy-making body.

During the Johnson administration, Gen. Earle Wheeler, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, represented all the chiefs at the "Tuesday luncheons" in the White House where courses of action were considered.

Now, too, all reservations and objections by the individual service chiefs are noted on position papers forwarded to the National Security Council, sources said.

A significant indicator of the military resurgence in the Pentagon is the apparent downgrading of the systems analysis office, which, during the McNamara years had the power of life and death over key weapons and other programs.

Beef Cost Issue

Windsor Star

There's a lot of finger-pointing in the attempts to console consumers about the high price of beef. Each segment of the industry blames somebody else.

One claim, however, appears a fact. Farmers in 1949 were receiving 68.5 cents of every dollar consumers spent on beef. In 1968 it was 54 cents. This suggests that even if farmers now receive a larger percentage than in 1950 (which isn't proven) they likely are getting less of the consumer dollar than 20 years ago.

It takes more than three years from the time of breeding to provide a prime beef steer or heifer, the mother, calf and steer having to be fed and cared for during that time. It takes a relatively short time to kill and process the animal and channel the beef across the retail counter.

Above Law

Montreal Gazette

One of the disturbing trends today is the increasing number of people who insist that they have a right to break the law, but must not suffer any of the law's penalties. Dr. Claude Bissell, president of the University of Toronto, has noted how strong this attitude is among the hard core of the activists on the campuses. They demand, in effect, that they be considered above the law.

New York's Lottery Falls Short

Victoria Daily Times

During the two years of its operation, New York's lottery to aid education has fallen far short of the $30 million monthly returns forecast for it. On average it has yielded $5 millions a month and in February produced less than $4 millions. The failure to meet expectations, moreover, has continued in spite of an increase in sales outlets—now 12,600 against the earlier 4,200.

The shortfall from the rosy prospects visualized by proponents is not limited to the New York experience. The revenue from Montreal's variant is a case in point. The lotteries, however they are named, do produce funds for worthy purposes, but not what enthusiastic supporters anticipate.

The chance of winning in such operations is an odds - against proposition for the ticket purchaser — and the chance of the sponsor making what he hopes is not much better. New York, like other centres, has hoped to prove the relative ineffectiveness of what so many optimists consider a sure-fire way to find money in great volume.

Are There Too Many 'Generals' in Education?

The Globe and Mail

How many generals, at general's pay, do you need to run an army? A good many, according to Metro Toronto school trustees. They have seven platoons of top-drawer administrators, all duplicating each other, all pushing for the same salary level as the fellow in the next borough, all happily at home in earning brackets that must make most teachers wince.

At the top of the pyramid of affluence stand the directors of education, seven of them, all making over $30,000 a year. In fact, when the Metro school board last April raised its director's salary to the maximum $35,000, most of the borough boards hastened to move their directors all the way to the top figure.

But it is in the levels of officialdom just below the directors that the effects of this salary policy are really revealed: for counting all the superintendents, assistant superintendents, regional superintendents and superintendents of business; finance and plants, the people of Metro employ between 95 and 100 men making anywhere from $22,000 to $35,000 to keep the wheels running in all the bailiwicks, from little East York all the way up to Metro.

Take, as an example, just one category, that of assistant superintendent (or area supervisor, as the 30's called in North York). Etobicoke has nine, Scarborough seven, North York five, and East York one. Each is eligible for $25,000 in 1969. Added up, that means you are paying about $850,000 for assistant superintendents alone.

A close look at what the city pays its administrators is a worthwhile exercise for the taxpayers. There is of course the director at $35,000 (plus chauffeur-driven limousine). There is now a new position, associate director at $30,000. And the director has an executive assistant who makes $20,000, which is interestingly enough, just about the salary paid by the province to William Davis, the minister of education.

There are two comptrollers at $28,000, a solicitor at $27,500, plus the seven assistant superintendents at $25,500 and three full superintendents at $28,500.

No one would argue that a good man should not be paid what he's worth. But our fractured Metro government demands an army of good men and produces the keeping-up-with-the-borough-next-door syndrome.

What is needed, of course, throughout Metro, is amalgamation. With a single administrative system we wouldn't need all those generals (or have to compete with ourselves.)

Mr. Whitney Comments

Ontario Legislature Sittings

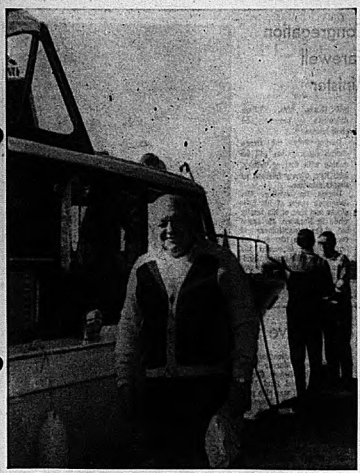
Norris Whitney, MPP for Prince Edward - Lennox, advises that the following is a copy of a letter he addressed recently to The Globe and Mail.

In regard to your recent article by Geoffrey Stevens, and particularly your editorial entitled "The Champs" concerning myself and another Member of the Legislature being asleep at the night sitting on Wednesday, June 25, I wish to make a few comments.

Throughout nearly 18 years as a Member of the Ontario Legislature, there has been nothing unusual about members of the different parties occasionally dozing or appearing to doze particularly during a night session. I have freely admitted that I did fall asleep for a few minutes during the night in question. However, I soon awakened and left the Legislature to go to my office on the 3rd floor and met Dr. Shulman on the elevator on that occasion. I rather suspect that he was on his way to the press gallery then, in order to borrow a camera, as he seemed somewhat surprised to see me. It has been suggested to me that it may well have been your Mr. Stevens who was in the gallery. Shulman suggested that these pictures might be obtained. In any case, I am by no means the only one in the Legislature who has taken and did not return to my seat in the Legislature until shortly afterwards. Consequently, the suggestion in your editorial that I was asleep in the Legislature from the time Dr. Shulman left until as you state he had returned from home with his camera is completely false and there are other Members in the Legislature who are in complete agreement with this statement.

Moreover, you neglected to mention that in addition to varied duties in the forenoons, and regular sessions from 2:00 to 6:00 in the afternoons, evening sessions had been held from 8:00 p.m. Monday night to 1:30 a.m. Tuesday, from 8:00 p.m. Tuesday until 2:40 a.m. Wednesday, and from 8:00 p.m. Wednesday night, the night in question — we sat until 3:00 a.m. Thursday morning. On each of these occasions I was present at the finish. You might tell the complete story while you are at it.

You are of course free to pay such tributes as you like, but there are those who believe that a Member's place is in the Legislature not chasing around Toronto in order to obtain a camera and film in order to endeavor to embarrass other Members during that time when the House is in session.



Shulman's Camera Safari

Hamilton Spectator

Some of Ontario's drowsiest Tories have been roused to indignation by Dr. Morton Shulman, former chief coroner for Metropolitan Toronto and now an NDP member of the Ontario Legislature. He's photographed some of these members snoozing in the Legislature.

The episode won't provoke more than a yawn from experienced parliamentary observers. Slumbering legislators are as familiar, and as functional, as the statues on the Queen's Park lawn.

But Dr. Shulman's camera safari, like absentee reports occasionally issued by vigilant newsmen, serve a purpose in the democratic process. They remind the folks back home that, sometimes, they're being represented by empty seats; that their voices in our parliaments sound suspiciously like snores.

Famed American attorney Milton Jacobowitz of New York City was stretching himself ashore by the Trent system when caught by the camera. He was aboard the Belleville based Lady Aiva II on a recent six day fact-finding trip from Lake Simcoe. The information gleaned from personal contact may help develop the popular inland route as a major tourist dollar source.

American Tourists Survey Trent Waterway Facilities

By ELMER BONTER
Staff Correspondent

TRENTON — The Trent-Rideau task force already has a number of interesting recommendations and suggestions on which to base a probe of the potential of the Trent inland waterway as a major Canadian tourist attraction.

An unofficial survey was compiled by a mixed group of Canadians and Americans following a six-day trip down the challenging system from Keswick on Lake Simcoe recently.

Boating enthusiast Donald Joss of Belleville and a crew chosen to obtain various viewpoints, gathered the information as they talked with dozens of bridge and lock operators and as many more veteran observers along the route. Headquarters for the fact finding undertaking was his 40-foot twin-engined cruiser Lady Aiva II on her way to Quinte waters.

The crew included three attorneys from New York — Milton E. Jacobowitz, former president of the Democratic Party in the Bronx, his partners Daniel Weiss and Frank Carroll, Mr. Jacobowitz, active in city, state and federal politics, had never heard of the waterway.

Mr. Carroll, an ardent golfer and gourmet spent most of his time ashore checking golf courses, restaurants and motels.

Copies of the survey released today were sent to municipal councils of centres situated on the system, all tourist associations and all members of the Joint commission making a study of the water link to Georgian Bay.

The consensus of the fact finders was that all pertinent information helpful to boatsmen travelling the waterways should be made available if the maximum benefits for all concerned are derived.

The most effective means of communication would be keyed maps drawing attention to all the facilities the waterway has to offer. For instance marinas marked MEP-7 would indicate the accommodation includes electric outlets, pumping station for sewage and seven feet of water depth at the dock.

The keyed maps would permit yachtsmen to sit down at night and plan the next day's trip in accordance with the time it takes the boat to run from point to point.

In this way it would be simple to make allowances for crew members wanting to play golf or stop at a particular place of interest enroute.

The Americans noted they found many excellent motels and restaurants. They found it hard to believe a motel on the Trent at Campbellford could serve "an excellent breakfast for 80 cents."

Confining to the Quebec and American members of the crew was that one eating place could serve an alcoholic drink with a meal, while another could not. They referred to this practice as "a decided detriment" to inducing many travellers to visit the cruiseway.

The fact finders had praise for the new maps of the system for sale by the Department of Transport. "They are excellent because they show all underwater obstructions and allow the yachtsman to leave the marked channel and fish where the water is deep enough."

It would be even more helpful to strangers if the new maps were to show a few favorite fishing holes in each lake and river and the species of fish likely to be caught, the report said.

The mark suggested should be in a distinctive color to catch the eye of the ardent fisherman and increase his desire for the water trip. The Americans felt approval of this recommendation would encourage more American yachtsmen to visit the waterways.

The survey stressed the need for additional dock facilities on the downstream side of Fenelon Falls lock for over-night berthing.

It called for electric outlets at the more popular government docks. Users of the outlets should be charged $2 a night and $1 if electricity was not supplied. The government was criticized for permitting boats to tie up to the dock without charge. The custom was termed as "unfair competition with private marinas."

The survey recommended that a joint federal-provincial office be set up for the purpose of advertising and promoting the waterways. The authority would be under the jurisdiction of the Trent-Rideau task force . . . which would be established to publicize the Trent, the Rideau and the Thousand Islands areas.

Through a concerted effort more yachts could be brought to the inland waterways. Each extra boat means an additional $500 spent in Canada the survey emphasized.

The Americans called for a government ban on the use of DDT along the entire Trent system. They enjoyed pulling fish from the still very clean water of the Kawartha chain and voiced the opinion it would be criminal if clean lakes became contaminated by the insect repellent.

In summing up, members of the fact finding expedition suggested a committee from the task force pay a visit to the system this year. The task force should take a trip by boat from one end to the other for a personal look at the installations and possibilities. It might be useful to include conservation chairmen and managers in talks on the days the force is passing through their authority in order to acquire details first hand. In the evening they could meet with chambers of commerce, municipal councillors, marina and golf club managers.

Belleville Week Blasting Off

Boom week in Belleville (Sept. 29 - Oct. 4), "Belleville Week," is blasting off but before the mayor's commitee can get into actual planning it must know exactly what city groups are willing to participate.

All municipal groups interested in participating should write to the Mayor's Committee for Belleville Week, care of Mayor J. Russell Scott's office, City Hall.

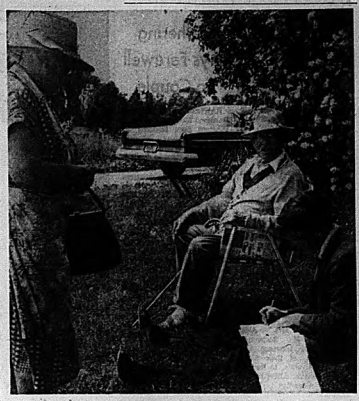
An exciting format for the week has already been agreed upon; six nights of activity at Bleecker auditorium with all groups interested included in one of the six days or nights.

Presiding Monday night (civic night) will be Gerald Hyde. Tuesday night is still open and Wednesday evening will be Downtown Businessmen's Association night with Douglas Woodley pulling the organizational strings.

Of course nothing is positively settled yet and there could be some changes as to the designation of the evenings. However Thursday evening has been proposed as industrial night with Jack McFarland acting as chairman.

Winding up the work week Friday will be Young Belleville night with Bruce Nickson acting as liaison officer. It was agreed that the chairman and committees should be composed of young people with Mr. Nickson acting only as co-ordinator with the Belleville Week committee.

Gerald Joyce will be chairing industrial commission night on Saturday.

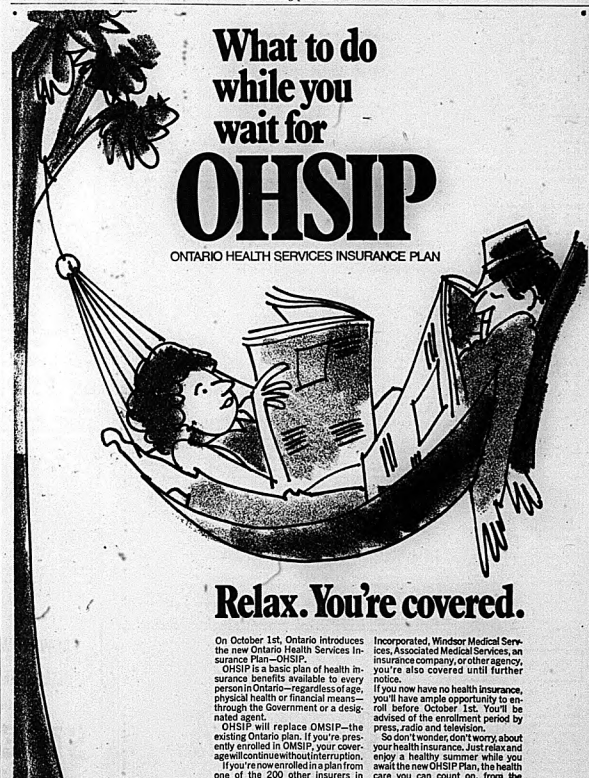


Suggestions have been pouring in for each night of the week and ideas like a week long downtown mall, corn on the cob evening at Zwick's Island, old-time fiddlers contests, antique car rally and dances are all being considered.

The committee intends to include something for everyone, from very young to very old, in the activities planned for the city's first Belleville Week.

Liberals Elect Executive

A recent meeting of the Ameliasburg Liberal Association closed with a new slate of officers and a promise of increased activity in the coming year.



The new executive is Leonard Bedford, president; Lyle Vandclief, vice president; Betty Sadler, secretary; and Walter Beevors, treasurer.

Census Taking in Ameliasburg

Fledgling assessor Warren Bongard of Picton suffered hot, sore feet on the afternoon of his first day taking census in Ameliasburg. His interview with William Bedford, 93, (in chair) and the elderly gentleman's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles Bedford, was naturally more comfortable in the sitting position.

OHSIP
ONTARIO HEALTH SERVICES INSURANCE PLAN

Relax. You're covered.

On October 1st, Ontario introduces the new Ontario Health Services Insurance Plan—OHSIP.

OHSIP is a basic plan of health insurance benefits available to every person in Ontario—regardless of age, physical health or financial means—through the Government or a designated agent.

OHSIP will replace OMSIP—the existing Ontario plan. If you're presently enrolled in OMSIP, your coverage will continue without interruption.

If you're now enrolled in a plan from one of the 200 other insurers in Ontario—such as Physicians Services Incorporated, Windsor Medical Services, Associated Medical Services, an insurance company, or other agency, you're also covered until further notice.

If you now have no health insurance, you'll have ample opportunity to enroll before October 1st. You'll be advised of the enrollment period by press, radio and television.

So don't wonder, don't worry, about your health insurance. Just relax and enjoy a healthy summer while you await the new OHSIP Plan, the health care you can count on, from the Ontario Department of Health.

Friends Honor Couple

TWEED — Mr. and Mrs. John Keller of Wilton, Ont., celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary recently.

Two hundred friends and relatives celebrated the event at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Scouten, daughter and son-in-law of the couple, in Wilton.

Married in 1909, Mrs. Kellar is the former Iva Pearl Bawn, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bawn. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kellar, of Croyden. Mr. and Mrs. Kellar have spent most of their married life on their farm near Wilton.

Congratulatory messages were received from Queen Elizabeth II, Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, the Hon. Robert Stanfield, the Hon. John Robarts, premier of Ontario and Douglas Alkenbrack, MP for Lennox.

Mr. and Mrs. Kellar were predeceased by two of their eleven children and have thirty grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren. All presented gifts to the couple.

Church Groups

ST. ANNE'S CWL

St. Anne's CWL, Point Anne held its last meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. Agnes Whalen. There were 13 members present and Msgr. Carley, Mrs. Helen Whalen presided. The business part of the meeting was dealt with. Mrs. Helen Whalen and Mrs. Mike Whalen had attended the CWL convention which was held in Kingston recently and gave an outline of the meeting.

Plans were made for the school children's field day and for a dance to be held in St. Joseph's Hall on October 24.

Meeting was then adjourned and a few hands of euchre were played. The hostess served lunch.

RAWDON — Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McConnell of Mount Pleasant were tendered a party in the church hall prior to their departure to reside in their new home in Stirling.

Orno Sharp was master of ceremonies for the program. Selections were read by Mrs. Percy MacMullen; Mrs. Archie Bailey; Mrs. Ross Jeffs; Mrs. Grant Hubble and Mrs. Milford Wrightman.

Debbie David and Janet Cousens and Gary Couch furnished accordion music. Mrs. W. C. Cox led the assembly in a sing-song with Mrs. Garth Joslin as accompanist.

Mrs. Herbert Smith conducted a contest. Lynn and Gregg Joslin sang a duet and Miss Bonnie Williams rendered a piano solo. Linda, Heather and Kenneth Hoard gave a vocal trio.

Raymond and Helen were given seats of honor, after which Mrs. C. Scott read an address of appreciation.

As a special remembrance the friends in Mount Pleasant Community honored them with a gift and Kenneth Weaver made the presentation. The recipients voiced grateful thanks and invited the group to visit them in their new home.

During the social hour, Mr. McConnell introduced Barry Taylor, the new owner of his farm.

Women's Institutes

(REDNERSVILLE WI)

The June meeting of the Redneresville WI was held in the Redneresville Church hall, with Mrs. C. McPaul and Mrs. H. Townsend as hostess. Mrs. C. Smith opened the meeting in the usual manner.

A committee, consisting of Mrs. E. Young, Mrs. C. McPaul and Mrs. S. Dawson were appointed to look after the room the group will be having in the log cabin at the Ameliasburg Museum.

Mrs. E. Young and Mrs. C. Vanclief gave reports on the district annual. Mrs. A. Cairns read a poem for the foster child. A donation of $25 will be sent to the MacDonald Institute Fund.

Mrs. A. Cairns then took charge of the meeting for the 4-H girls, and explained about the work the girls do. Later, the two clubs put on their exhibits and skits.

Several skits were put on, including a display in needlecraft and embroidery, with commentators Jean Hawley and Elaine Wetherall.

Mrs. C. Smith then gave gift certificates to the girls and the club leaders. The following girls had 18 projects: Evelyn Peck; Beverly Pulver; Linda Rose; Denise Rogers; Margaret Moran. With 12 projects (provincial honors), Vivian Rose; Linda Pulver, and with six projects (county honors), Valerie Dostatter; Lorie Dostatter; Barbara Peck; Jennifer Stanley; Brenda Townsend; Elaine Wetherall and Debbie Wees.

The club leaders of the Albury club were Mrs. E. Peck and Mrs. W. Bedford. At the Centre Victoria Club, leaders were Mrs. A. Cairns and Mrs. R. Cairns.

Refreshments were served and time spent on looking at record books and embroidery work the girls had done and had on display.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID PHILLIP HARRY

Harry – Fleming

St. Edmund's Church in Stoco was the scene of a wedding on June 28, when Helen Catherine Fleming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Justin Fleming became the bride of David Phillip Harry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Harry of Stirling. Rev. John Groeneweger performed the marriage ceremony and Mrs. Marie Keller of Frankford accompanied the soloist Neal Roote, also of Frankford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length A-line gown of bonded crepe with princess styling and tapered lace sleeves. A matching lace train extended from the bodice trim. A crown headdress of crystals and pearls held a four-tier veil and she carried a bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses.

Miss Sheila Labbie of Petherborough was maid of honor and wore a floor length princess styled gown of mint green crimplene featuring a round neckline and elbow length sleeves. Her headdress was a matching bow. Also attending the bride were Miss Justina Fleming, her sister and Mrs. Joyce McCrory, sister of the bridegroom. All were dressed identically to the maid of honor and each carried a bouquet of yellow centred white daisies. Miss Vicki Healey of Stoco was flower girl wearing a full length gown of mint green crimplene styled similarly to the bridesmaids. She wore a matching bow in her hair and carried a bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses encircled with daisies.

Leonard White was groomsman and ushers were Alvin Harry, brother of the bridegroom, Douglas McCrory a brother-in-law of the bridegroom and Michael Donahue, cousin of the bride.

The reception was held at the Royal Canadian Legion hall in Belleville where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a two-piece dress of lilac silk brocade with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted and wore a pink crimplene dress with white accessories and a corsage of white and blue tinted carnations.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and points west, the bride chose a mauve crimplene dress with white accessories and a corsage of orchids.

Upon return the couple will reside at Stirling R.R. 4.

Napanee Congregation Says Farewell To Minister

NAPANEE — Trinity congregation filled the church for their minister's, Rev. E. Irvine Johnstone's final service. He will soon be taking up new duties in Sault Ste. Marie.

The song service was in the form of an allegory, "the garden of prayer," which the minister himself had written. The presentation was completed by the addition of music.

Soloists during the service were Mrs. F. B. Mills, Mrs. Rene Switzer, Mrs. Bruce Finlay, the McLaughlin sisters, J. M. Caldwell, Dale Clake, William Aylsworth, Wesley Alkenbrack and Russell Grass. Mrs. William Aylsworth is organist and choir leader.

During July, the Grace church congregation will be uniting with that of Trinity, with Rev. Sidney Larman as supply minister.

During the service, Mr. Johnstone spoke of his happiness and that of his family while in Napanee. He spoke too, of the thoughtfulness and concern shown him and his family, and expressed his thanks for the many kindnesses shown them on the eve of their departure, and for the gifts from various organizations.

Field Day at Reserve

NAPANEE — Heather Grass carried off top honors at the field day activities held at the Quinte Mohawk school, recently.

She scored 100 points, compared to 90 scored by Iris Hill.

Awards were presented to the champions of each division. Mary Jean Carr-Brant was tops in the junior girls' division, while Richard Brant achieved honors in the junior boys' division.

Intermediate champion in the boys' section was John Brant. Best of the senior girls was Lynn Grass and best senior boy was Joe Hill.

The school committee presented awards to several pupils for perfect attendance — Kirk Leween; Rodney Maracle; Marilyn Brant; Christine Maracle and Paul Maracle. An award was also presented to Ellen Maracle, grade six for best all-round student of the year.

Mrs. H. M. Rathbun (Nora Sloddard) was the recipient of still another gift in recognition of her many years of teaching on the reserve.

She is retiring from duties which began in 1922 and have continued until now, with the exception of four years. A gift presentation was made the school staff.

The presentation was made by Mrs. Borden Elliott, who has also taught in reserve schools for many years.

Roman Catholic Nun Likes to Keep Busy

NEW YORK (AP) — Sister Adrienne Elise de Champlain sings, tap dances, plays the violin in a concert orchestra, teaches harmonica and does acrobatics.

The Roman Catholic nun also writes books, is soon to complete a computer technology course and is studying Hebrew.

And she has a fulltime job teaching eighth-graders at Saint Francis de Sales school in Manhattan.

Why does she do so much?

"I have an insatiable thirst for knowledge," says Sister Adrienne, who once dreamed of a show business career.

"The one thing I definitely didn't want to be was a nun. I didn't want to be locked up in a convent. But the thought came to me, 'What does God want me to be?' "

One of seven daughters in a close-knit French emigrant family that settled in Taunton, Mass., she entered the Holy Union religious order at the age of 11. As a young novitiate, she said, she wished she would break a leg and be sent home.

But when she took her final vows, she recalls, "I experienced a great peace. I knew this is what I wanted to do."

SHE IS CALM

"Since then there's nothing that has worried me. Even if I were on the stage and became so popular or were terribly rich, my peace is more tremendous. I guard it jealously."

Sister Adrienne, now in her late 40s, began playing with the Broadway Orchestra, a volunteer group, two years ago.

At her convent, Sister Adrienne occasionally entertains the nuns with tap dancing, a few handstands or back bends. Once she put on a big feathered hat and descended a staircase, while they sang Hello Dolly.

She is writing two books for children—one on the harmonica and the other a history of Father Jean-Baptiste de Brabant, founder of the Holy Union order.

She has a bachelors degree in education and a masters in religious studies. And in July, she graduates from the Institute of Computer Technology in New York.

Next summer, Sister Adrienne will study Hebrew in Israel on a scholarship. She now is attending classes at the Jewish Seminary at Hebrew University in New York. She wants to be able to read the scripture in its original form.

"The rest," she says, "is just a whole lot of hobbies."

Prince Charles Takes on Role as World's Men's Fashion Leader

LONDON — Not only is Prince Charles probably the world's most eligible bachelor, but he could also take on the role as the world's men's fashion leader. His sister, Princess Anne, has recently leapt into the limelight as heralding the return of elegance to the teenage fashion.

On present showing, however, Prince Charles is not likely to make any immediate strides in a race to become the first in fashion. In fact, like his father the Duke of Edinburgh, he believes in comfort first. The Prince apparently does not like very narrow trousers but will wear 16 inch bottoms. Again, like his father, he has the habit of putting his hands in his jacket pockets which is not good for the line of the suit. Either that or he clasps his hands behind his back — again a paternal habit.

History tells us that when his great uncle, the Duke of Windsor, was a dominant leader of fashion in the 1920s to 30s, he was of more mature age and it may be that when as Prince of Wales, having reached his majority, he will become increasingly more clothes conscious, particularly as he should then be able to afford a bigger budget for clothes from his stipend through the Privy purse. Also he will be much more in the public eye.

Not that the Prince is not already clothes-conscious, but while studying he does not need so many clothes. His favorite outfit at the moment is a sports jacket, a sweater and corduroy trousers. The sports jacket is backing style in a fawn houndstooth woolen and his slacks have straight tops. He likes both turn-ups and plain bottoms in his trousers and as such could well stimulate the tendency for turn-ups to come back for leisure wear.

In recent shooting parties he has worn a shooting suit, single-breasted, Norfolk style with big pleats at the back and yellow patch pockets, which could possibly have had some influence on the spread of popularity of the Safari suit. Prince Charles at the moment shows no liking for double-breasted suits.

For evenings, the Prince has been wearing an informal after eight dinner suit with side vents and a velvet collar. For special parties at Windsor and Balmoral he has the Windsor dinner jacket which his father inaugurated: It is a colorful garment in many ideal weathers with scarlet double-breasted collar and cuffs. At a recent wedding he was pictured in many newspapers in a grey herringbone morning suit with a black and white tie.

The Prince has a good slim figure for clothes, being 5 ft. 11½ inches tall, slightly shorter than his father. He has dark hair and blue eyes. His color preferences currently are browns and mid-blues which are in line with current fashion trends.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "How many times have I said you to change your party dress before you work in the kitchen? You've spattered frosting all over this good dress and I'll be his one who has to wash and iron it."

Mother: "Slip your dress off and see if you can wash that frosting out before the stain sets. If you can just wash the front, you won't have to press the whole dress before you wear it again."

Teen-agers will learn by their mistakes if Mother lets them take the consequence of their actions whenever it's logical and possible.

Successful Living

Problem Keeping Schedule

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: With two pre-school children I find my house is often a mess. I seem to be forever working at things but never getting much accomplished. My kitchen and bathroom floors are a bad color to keep clean and could be washed every day, as every mark shows.

A schedule doesn't seem to work as circumstances change change things. Any ideas you or reader have would be appreciated. — An Interested Reader

Dear Reader: And why doesn't a schedule work? Because the small fry upset the applecart! Or something just as frustrating.

Right when you are in the midst of the dishes Susie falls down and cries, and has to be comforted. Then Johnnie drops his apple core, spreads his blocks in your path, tracks dirt on the clean floor. Is that it?

Try another type schedule, with room left in for unforeseen upsets. At least sort out your days: Monday — laundry; Tuesday — ironing and bathroom floor; Wednesday — small laundry and kitchen floor; Thursday — baking and a hardwood floor; Friday — laundry. Or reasonable facsimile, with short-time tasks worked in around the others.

Train the kids to pick up their own clutter. .

One helpful mother of several helped us work out our Tips for Harassed Homemakers, which involves her kids ones in several departments of homemaking, and you can't beat that. (Available for 10 cents and a six-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

+ + +

Dear Doris: I'm a 15-year-old girl and I've never been kissed by a boy. I have a steady now but we've had a fight and another boy has asked me out on a date.

I'd love to go except that I'm scared stiff he's going to try and kiss me. Don't get me wrong: I'd love to be kissed but I'm afraid I'll goof it all up and he'll know I'm a first timer. — Unkissed.

Dear Unkissed: The gal who says no on a first date is the one a boy appreciates. No boy wants a girl to act experienced; smacks too much of the idea.

Kisses are an expression of affection: not a pay-off for a date. Keep your cool and he will like you better than if you act as though you were an old hand at casual kissing.

Dear Doris: Want another idea for a shower? Here's what my sister did for my shower.

Pictures were collected of myself and my husband from when we were much younger up to a few weeks before we were married. Any kind of picture. These were placed in a scrap book with wording underneath each picture. There was a section for myself and one for my husband.

Passing this scrapbook around to the ladies at the shower proved to be the highlight of the night. It also makes for very good remembering. — Passing It On

Dear Passing: It could be hilarious, especially if one were in a position to raid the family album for choice candid camera shots of the past.

Thanks for the idea.

Doris welcomes your comments and ideas. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

Ann Landers

Master—Not Hound Gets Pleasure from Call

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If anyone doubts that there are an awful lot of nuts people in this world, they ought to read your column for one week.

ANN LANDERS

The letter from that woman who telephoned her poodle long distance every night so he could hear her voice was the dumbest thing I ever heard of. She should have written him a letter. It would've been cheaper than a phone call and the dog would have gotten a lot more out of it.

Dogs recognize people by their scent. If the woman had run the stationery over her face a few times and handled the envelope, the poodle would have gotten the message. — DOG LOVER ALSO.

DEAR ALSO: I asked a poodle expert for his opinion and he said either way, it was no big deal for the dog. The master, not the hound, gets the pleasure out of the telephone calls.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Six months ago a friend of ours was placed in an impossible position and had to divorce her husband. Unfortunately, she chained her plane, returned home unexpectedly, and caught her husband with his secretary.

We all felt sorry for Bernice and have tried to include her as before. But she is becoming so pushy that our sympathy is turning to resentment. Bernice has cried on every male shoulder in our crowd. Last night she telephoned me at 6:00 p.m. and asked if she could share whatever we had for dinner. I said, "Of course." After we ate, my husband announced that he had a load of paperwork to do. Bernice looked stricken and said she needed to talk to him "privately." I went upstairs and left them in the den. They talked until 2:00 a.m.

This morning my husband was bleary-eyed and cross. At the breakfast table, in the presence of the children, he said, "Your friend Bernice is driving me loony and I don't want to get trapped by her again."

Shall I tell her bluntly that my husband has had it? — UP TO HERE.

DEAR UP: Apparently your husband has vocal cords because he told you that Bernice is driving him loony. Suggest that he use those vocal chords to tell her himself. In the meantime, you can help by not allowing her to manipulate. If she calls in the future to invite herself to dinner, pauties for a long time.

tell her, "So sorry - - - we have family plans."

+ + +

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you don't run a garden column, but so many people read Ann Landers that I'm sure someone who sees this can help me.

When I was a child in Washington, my mother raised some delightful sweet smelling flowers which she called jasmine tobacco. I adored the scent and would dearly love to know by what name those flowers are called out East. I've described them to two local florists and to several friends. No one here can help me. I'll bet if you print my letter, a reader will know the answer. — NOSTALGIC NANCY.

DEAR NANCY: I'll print the information if someone will supply it. How about it out there?

Showers Held For July Brides

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. Lee Beare with Miss Linda Beare as co-hostess in honor of Miss Peggy Foley, bride-to-be.

On arrival the honored guest was presented with a corsage of red roses and directed to the seat of honor decorated with streamers and wedding bells.

As Miss Foley opened the many lovely gifts arranged in an appropriately decorated wishing well, the co-hostess made a motif out of the bows and ribbons, after which Peggy expressed appreciative thanks to all.

Lunch was served by the hostess and a number of friends.

The staff of the French Beauty Salon was present for a double miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Pam Parm in honor of Miss Foley along with Miss Donna McGrath who is to be married soon.

Each was sealed in a beautifully decorated guest chair and during the evening a number of contests were enjoyed.

Both girls unwrapped a number of beautiful gifts for which they expressed sincere thanks.

At the close lunch was served which included an attractively decorated cake.

Miss Beth Weymark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Weymark of Belleville, graduated from the Toronto East General School of Nursing recently. She is a former graduate of Moira Secondary School. Miss Weymark will be presently taking up a position at the Belleville General Hospital.

A Request Recipe For Macaroon Cakes

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: . . . some of my best recipes have come from you . . . my mother-in-law is considered an excellent cook by many (including me) and I have often heard her quote you!

I recently purchased ½ dozen vanilla macaroon cup cakes at the - - - store and would dearly love to make them . . . with the picnic season coming up. These would go great with a piece of fruit for dessert — especially since they need no icing. They were made of a white batter with a bit of coconut throughout but the top looked like and tasted like a macaroon cookie. I am sure this was more than just a white cake batter with coconut in it . . . Mrs. F. J.

Answer: You girls who ask me to reproduce commercial products are being complimentary I know, but those recipes are commercial secrets and some of the ingredients are stabilizers not sold on the retail market. However, I bought a package of macaroon cup cakes and made an educated guess myself. Now you, and I made up the batter.

My cup cakes compared very well to the commercial product all my tasters said.

MACAROON CUP CAKES

(Yea 2¾")

2 large egg whites

¼ tsp. cream of tartar

½ cup white sugar

3 tbsps. light brown sugar

½ cup desiccated coconut

½ cup sifted but not sifted cake flour

½ tsp. vanilla

In beater bowl beat e g g whites with cream of tartar until foamy then add both sugars and beat until very stiff — about five min. Beat in coconut, flour and vanilla until blended. Line ten 2 3-4" muffin pans with ten 2½" fluted paper cups. Spoon batter into unbuttered liners filling nearly to brim. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 20 min., having pans standing at centre of centre shelf in oven. When baked, transfer to cake racks to cool.

Couple Celebrate Diamond Anniversary

TWEED — Mr. and Mrs. Percy Whiteman, residents of Kingston for the past forty-five years, celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary, recently, in the midst of family and friends at the home of their eldest son, Arnold Whiteman, Bay St., Kingston.

Mrs. Whiteman is the former Ruth Thompson, of Harlowe, where the couple are well-known. She and Mr. Whiteman were married May 29, 60 years ago.

The couple have six children, three sons and three daughters, four of whom reside in Kingston. One daughter lives in Galt, Ontario, and a son, Elmer, died in 1943. They have sixteen grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren.

Mr. Whiteman retired from Frontenac Floor and Wall Tile Company in 1963 after 22 years of service.

A wedding cake, baked and decorated by their youngest daughter, was a highlight of the "at home" celebrations. Some 125 guests called during the day.

Special messages of congratulations were received from Queen Elizabeth II, Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, Premier John Robarts, MLA C. J. S. Appa, and Mayor Valorie Swain.

Your First Class Dilemma.

Frankly, the menus on all our new DC-8 jet First Class Connoisseur Service flights of over two hours make it very difficult for you to make up your mind. But the dilemmas are delicious. Especially if your flight takes more than four hours. Having to choose between Canard à l'orange or Aloyau rôti and six desserts that include Soufflé à la Royale, Parfait à la menthe and Pêche au Brandy can be excruciating.

However, we make things as easy as possible. By giving you complimentary cocktails in our comfortable lounge. By offering you tantalizing canapés. By serving you fine imported wines and champagne. And by pampering you with luxuries like scented hot towels and rose petals in your finger bowl.

On Econoflights, too, Connoisseur Service is great. With Filet Mignon and Rock Cornish Hen competing for your attention. We've even added another entrée to choose from after you.

Connoisseur Service is yours to enjoy. And it's yours on Air Canada only. Ask your travel agent to arrange your reservations. Solving dilemmas was never like this. Delicious.

Penn Heavyweights Advance to Henley Final

HENLEY ON THAMES (CP) The University of Pennsylvania's heavyweight eight - oared crew, stroking at 39 beats a minute, beat Tideway Scullers, Britain's top eight, by almost a boat length today to advance to the final of the Grand Challenge Cup, the premier race of the Henley Royal Regatta.

Penn's time of six minutes 57 seconds for the one-mile 550-yard course on the River Thames was well off the course record of 6:16 set in 1905 by the West German Ratzeburger Rowing Club.

Penn, with Rick Crooker of St. Catharines, Ont., at the No. 8 position, took an early lead of just a few feet at the quarter-mile.

Approaching the three-quarter mile mark the Americans were half a length ahead. Soon then the British crew made a spurt and the gap was narrowed to just a few feet.

Then Penn raised its stroke to 39 from 36 and was three-quarters of a length in the clear at the finish.

Pennsylvania will meet the winners of the second semi-finals later today between Nereus of Holland and S. C. Einheit, the top-seeded East German eight from Dresden.

The Penn freshmen eights defeated Bedford Rowing Club of England by a length and advanced to the semi-finals of the Thames Challenge Cup.

The Thames Cup is second in importance to the eights only to the Grand Challenge Cup.

The Americans clocked 7:02.0.

British stroke Martin Beckett, 28, an engineer, said: "I still thought we could do it right up to the last 200 yards, but then Penn's spurt killed us."

Nereus Rowing Club of Holland sent Trinity College of Hartford, Conn., reached the final of the Ladies Challenge Plate for schoolboy eights.

Nereus scored a 3½ length victory in the semi-finals over Lady Margaret Boat Club of Cambridge, England. The Dutch Trinity College won by one-third of a length over Thames University of England in 7:15.0.

MIT WINS TOO

In the Thames Cup, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology also reached the semi-finals.

MIT had eliminated Toronto Argonauts Thursday. Today, MIT knocked over the Kingston Rowing Club of England by 2½ lengths in 7:25.0, well off the course record of 6:35.6 set by the Isis Boat Club of England in 1955.

In the Diamond Sculls, an East German and an American will fight for the top individual honor of the four-day regatta that ends Saturday when all the finals will be run off.

Hans Joachim Bohmer, 28, East German champion of the S. C. Dynamo Club, Berlin, defeated Bill Mayer, an American soldier from the Vesper Boat Club, Philadelphia, in the semi-finals.

Bohmer won by 1 2-3 lengths in a time of 8:40.0 and will meet Bill Tytus of Seattle in the final.

Tytus defeated Ken Dwan, 20-year-old Briton, by two-thirds of a length in 8:31.0.

Tweed and District News

TWEED — Miss Ella Booth of Thomasburg, is a patient in the Bellevile General Hospital, where she underwent surgery recently.

Mrs. Edward (Frances) Bosley, of Northbrook, was taken to Kingston General Hospital on Monday. She is the mother of Mrs. William (Bernice) Booth of RR 2, Tweed.

Mrs. Harriet Chapman and little son, Earl, of Chatham, New Brunswick, are spending a few weeks visiting her mother, Mrs. Susan Hawley of Northbrook.

Rev. and Mrs. William Crighton and family of Calgary, Alta., are visitors at present at the Pentecostal parsonage in Northbrook, guests of the latter's parents, Mrs. G. A. Boonbay.

Two infants were baptized recently at Holy Trinity Anglican Church, Reva, David Ernest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hertendy, and Sherri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brune, of Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Rodgers of Toronto acted as godparents for the Hertendy baby, and Carl Kaestener and Lorraine Kilford for the Brune baby.

A meeting of the ACW in Plevna was held at the home of Mrs. Iva Burtch, with a good attendance, and much business was attended to at this time.

The United Church Women met for their June meeting at the home of Mrs. Alma White, plans were made and fully discussed for a wedding dinner to be catered to by the UC in August.

The Red and Gun Club of Kaladar sponsored a bingo in Cloyne recently, which was a huge success. Proceeds went towards their building fund for a new clubhouse.

A surprise party was held in the form of a shower, for the junior member of the family, Mrs. Bennett, at Kaladar. Miss Bennett plans to be married in the near future to Mr. and she received many lovely and useful gifts.

The June meeting of the Women's Institute of Denbigh, was held at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Pitsch, on Thursday afternoon, with a pot luck supper. Roll call was answered by two scholarships for grade 8 pupils as in the past several years. Recently four of the WI members attended the annual district meeting at Camden East. Mrs. Grant Wilkes of Denbigh was elected district president for a three-year term at this time.

The United Church Women of Denbigh, held their June meeting with Mr. Bluph as their guest speaker. Also Mrs. Burtch was presented with a chip and dip set, while the congregation presented Mr. Burtch with a purse of money. Mr. Burtch is leaving soon to attend Saskatoon University. He will be continuing the services at a three-point charge at Pierson, Manitoba. Mrs. Burtch and the children will join him for the new home around the end of June.

Mr. John Schonauer of Fernleigh, is home again after a week as a patient in the Kingston General Hospital.

Gary Bowerman Takes First-round Lead in Manitoba Open

WINNIPEG (CP-STAFF) — It turned wet and cold at the $6,000 Manitoba Open golf championship Thursday, but Gary Bowerman of Belleville went to work with some hot iron shots to forge into a first-round lead with a four-under-par 68.

Water was still lying in many spots around the 6,800-yard Breezy Bend Country Club layout after weekend rains when another deluge bit just as the last of the 142 golfers were playing the 18th hole.

Officials are hoping the latest rain runs off and doesn't interfere with the start of the second round today.

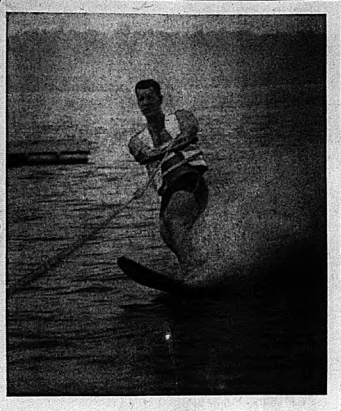
After today's round the top 60 and ties will go into the final 18 holes Saturday.

Bowerman, a Belleville native who recently sponsor who will pay his ex[illegible] credited his two-stroke lead to his booming drives and accurate iron shots to the greens.

The 28-year-old pro, who plays out of Maple Downs Golf Lodge[illegible] put[illegible] he faced was a 10-footer and the shortest was three inches.

He one-putted five greens and had four birdies as he came within one stroke of the course record.

Gordon Falk of Winnipeg, 21, tied with two professionals for second place with a 70.



The two pros who share second place with Falk, an amateur who was a member of Manitoba's Willingdon Cup team last year, are Bob Mitchell of Danville, Va., and Mike Reazor of Palm Beach, Fla.

Amateur Barry Chipka of Winnipeg and pros Gerald Morrissey of Winnipeg and Trevor Bateman of Montreal carded 71s, three strokes off the pace.

Eight players shot par 72s.

They are defending champion Alvie Thompson and Dave Clayton, both of Toronto; Ted Homeniuk and last year's top amateur, Nick Mickoski, both of Winnipeg; Len Harvey of Regina; Bobby Breen of Brampton; Moe Norman of Kitchener; and Larry Wheeler of Newport, Va.

Top money available to a professional in the tournament is $1,200. Amateurs are competing for the Harold Eidsvig Memorial Trophy.

Mrs. King Carries U.S. Hopes

Ashe was wiped out of the men's singles by Rod Laver, leaving it up to Billie Jean King today to win a singles title for the United States at the 1969 Wimbledon open tennis championships.

Mrs. King, 25, will try to equal a Wimbledon record that has stood for 39 years.

The little volleying specialist from Long Beach, Calif., needed victory over her old British rival, Ann Jones, to become the first woman since Helen Wills to win the Wimbledon singles crown four years running.

Miss Wills—later Mrs. Wills Moody—won it from 1927 to 1930 and went on to take the title four more times in the next eight years.

Mrs. King moved into the final Wednesday by beating American Rosemary Casals 6-1, 6-0.

Ashe was whipped 2-6, 6-2, 9-7, 6-0 by Laver, the top-seeded Australian, who will meet Australian John Newcombe Saturday in the men's final.

Newcombe got there Thursday by beating Australian Tony Roche, 3-6, 6-1, 14-12, 6-4. Roche was seeded second. Newcombe sixth.

Roche and Newcombe won a spot in the men's doubles final, beating Sobhi African's Bob Hewitt and F. D. McMillan 3-6, 6-3, 14-12, 6-2. Tom Okker of The Netherlands and Marty Reissen of the U.S. made it to the final earlier. The teams will meet today.

Americans Patti Hogan and Peggy Michel moved into the women's doubles final by beating the Australian pair of Terry Melville and Karen Krantzcke 4-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Their opponents in the final Saturday are top-seeded Margaret Court and Judy Tegart of Australia.

McLellan, Gregory Have Free Hand--Mara

TORONTO (CP) — George Mara, new president of Maple Leaf Gardens, said Thursday the new coach and the new general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs will be given "a free hand in running the team."

Mara was named president of the National Hockey League organization last week when Stafford Smythe, son of founder Conn Smythe, was removed by a vote of directors along with executive vice-president Harold Ballard.

Mara, 47, is president of William Mara Co. Ltd., a liquor and wine importing company, and a director of six other companies.

Even after a week in seclusion, he was reluctant to discuss the change of command at the Gardens.

"I wasn't being elusive," he said. "I just wanted to think a little. Is all happened so fast."

I had no idea the Gardens would get a new president. Even if I had anticipated that such a thing could occur, I certainly wouldn't have considered myself for the position."

Now that he is in, he foresees little interference with general manager Jim Gregory or coach Johnny McLellan in running the team and isn't certain what his own duties will be.

"At present, we have no plan or operation. There are no internal problems at the management level and there are certainly no differences between Stafford and myself.

"The executive committee of Maple Leaf Gardens, of which Stafford and Harold Ballard are members, will meet this week to map out plans for the future."

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Mara, who had a brief shot at professional hockey in 1945-46 with Toronto, New York and Detroit—Conn Smythe dropped him from the Leafs—was invited by Stafford to become a Gardens director in 1957.

He became one of the original members of the Gardens' hockey committee known as the Silver Seven.

Mara supported Punch Imlach's free-wheeling operation of the Leafs and feels "he did a good job."

The hockey committee was "more or less a sounding board for his ideas and until recently we went along with him in most instances."

"We clashed when he refused our reasoning that due to expansion the dual role of general manager and coach was too much for one man."

Campbell Attends IIHF Congress

TORONTO (CP) — Clarence Campbell will be on hand but Stafford Smythe won't when the International Ice Hockey Federation congress meetings open in Switzerland Saturday.

Smythe, deposed president of Maple Leaf Gardens, said he will not attend as planned because "there's really no need for me going since Campbell will be there anyway."

Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said: "I am going as an added starter and not as a substitute for Stafford Smythe—I want that clearly understood."

The official Canadian delegation to the meetings is composed of Charles Hay, president of Hockey Canada; Douglas Fisher, former NDP member of Parliament, and Gordon Juckes, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Earl Dawson and Fred Page of the CAHA are board members of the IIHF.

Campbell and Rev. David Bauer, founder of Canada's national team, will sit in along with two Canadian ambassadors in Europe and two members of the external affairs department.

Wiretaps Don't Help Clay's Cause

HOUSTON (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay has not shown that his conviction for refusing to go into the army was directly associated with conversations recorded by FBI wiretapping, the U.S. government said Thursday.

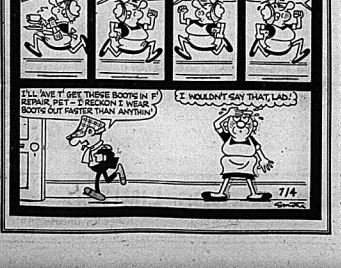
U.S. District Judge Joe Ingraham received a brief from U.S. attorneys asking that he enter a new final judgment of conviction in the case.

The case was reopened when the U.S. Supreme Court ordered a hearing to determine if wiretapping led to the conviction.

A jury in Ingraham's court convicted Clay in 1967 on charges of refusing induction into the armed services. Clay drew a five-year prison sentence and a $10,000 fine.

Ingraham is expected to rule on the matter sometime this month.

The hearing established that conversations between Clay and the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and other Negro leaders were wiretapped by FBI agents.



Clay, then heavyweight champion of the world, contended at his trial that he was a Black Muslim minister and a conscientious objector and should be exempt from the draft.

Ticats Cut Linebacker

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) — Defensive linebacker Wilbert Scott, a veteran of six Canadian Football League seasons, Thursday became the 12th player released from the roster of Hamilton Tiger-Cats by head coach Joe Restic.

Scott, 30, won a starting job with the Eastern Conference Tiger-Cats last year after he was released by Montreal Alouettes. The 225 pound linebacker played five seasons at Montreal and in 1966 earned a spot on the conference all-star team. A graduate of Indiana University, Scott played briefly with Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League before going to Montreal.

Firecracker No Sweat For Cool Suit Driver

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (CP) — Cal Yarborough held the pole position but was beginning to tense up, while outsider Joe Leonard began to express confidence in the final hours before the Firecracker 400 stock car race.

Yarborough, who gained the pole position with a speed of 190.706 miles an hour, pulled into the pits after a few warm-up laps and crawled out of his Mercury with a scowl in place of his normal grin.

When someone asked him if car trouble was causing his unhappiness the grin returned and he said: "No, just getting close to race time, I guess."

Leonard, a U.S. Auto Club driver making his first Daytona run, had handling problems with his car, but he said he was feeling a lot more confident.

His qualifying speed was a 181.220 in a Ford.

Meanwhile, to Paul Goldsmith, the Firecracker is "no sweat."

The veteran driver is the only top contender choosing to wear a cool suit, with ice water circulating through tubes in his driver uniform.

The other drivers didn't want to add the 50 pounds of cooling equipment to the two-ton cars for fear of increasing by a fraction of a second the time it takes to get around the 2.5-mile Daytona International Speedway.

"It may get 150 degrees in the car," Yarborough said, "but it won't be too hot to drive."

An expected crowd of 40,000 had the prospect of a race rivalling the record 187.247 m.p.h., established by Yarborough last year.

His 190.706 qualifying record — fastest ever on a closed course—set the stage for the hottest race possible, in competition as well as the forecast 91 degree high temperature for the day.

A warmup race was won early today by Pete Hamilton, leading driver in the U.S. Grand Touring series. It was his fifth win in his last six starts.

Hamilton, 26, recovered from a rear shifting problem in his 1969 Camaro that forced an unscheduled pit stop after only 24 miles.

He roared into the lead on the 24th lap around a 3.81 mile road course, lost it to Jim Paschal of High Point, N.C., for seven laps, but took over just past the halfway point.

Hamilton beat Tiny Lund of Cross, S.C., in a 1969 Cougar, his only close challenger at the finish, by three miles. None of the other 20 starters were within three laps of Hamilton and Lund.

The winner's average speed of 100.975 miles an hour was short of the record for the midnight ride set by Parnelli Jones at 105.633 m.p.h. two years ago.

Riders Sign Giardino

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders Thursday cut eight rookies from their training camp and announced signing of two players from their 1968 Grey Cup championship roster.

Linebacker Wayne Giardino signed for his third season with the Eastern Football Conference club and guard Ed Joyner for his second.

Giardino, a 196-pounder from Peterborough, played his college football at Florida State and was named EFC Rookie of the Year in 1967.

Joyner played with McMaster University at Hamilton in 1967 and was an instant success with Riders early in the 1968 season. However, a knee injury Aug. 22 kept him out of action for the rest of the season.

Among the cuts are guard Gus Reversberg from Sarnia Lakers and fullback Chuck Fairbairn from Ottawa Sooners. The others are graduates of U.S. college football.

Maverick Junior A Continues

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Operators of the Western Ontario Junior A Hockey League voted Thursday to operate again next season as a maverick league unaffiliated with the Ontario Hockey Association.

They agreed to begin a 56-game schedule Oct. 5 with the same five teams as last year —St. Thomas, Guelph, Brantford, Sarnia and Chatham.

Issues still unsettled after the 2½-hour meeting included whether to join the Canadian Hockey Association for a second year; an east-west final with the CHA, its breakaway counterpart in Western Canada; and ownership of St. Thomas Barons.

Oakland in Lead

Reggie Stopped But Athletics Beat Pilots

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Reggie Jackson, Oakland Athletics' outfielder who is threatening major league baseball's home run record, was held to a single Thursday.

But Lew Krausse, the winning pitcher, and Phil Roof, his catcher, both socked homers as the Athletics defeated Seattle Pilots 6-4 to take a one-game lead over Minnesota Twins in the American League's Western Division.

Oakland's lead was widened when Chicago White Sox stopped the Twins 5-4 on Bill Melton's 11th-inning home run.

In other AL action on Thursday, Detroit Tigers took over second place from Boston in the Eastern Division by beating the Red Sox 4-3, Cleveland Indians 7-2 and California Angels edged Kansas City Royals 4-3.

Krausse and Roof provided three runs for the Athletics with their second homers of the season. Two more were forced in on bases loaded walks and another Oakland run scored on a passed ball.

Jackson, who socked three homers Wednesday for a season total of 33, had a single and a walk in five at bats.

Krausse left the game in the sixth inning after Oakland built up a 6-4 lead. Relief pitchers Marcel Lachemann, Jim Roland and Rollie Fingers checked the Pilots as the Athletics posted their seventh win in nine games.

The win was costly for the division leaders as two players were knocked out of action for at least four weeks. Bert Campaneris chipped a bone on his index finger and Mike Hershberger suffered a shoulder separation.

Melton's 11th home run of the season, off Ron Perranoski in the 11th inning, ended Chicago's five-game losing streak and cut a four-game winning streak for the Twins.

Chicago opened up a 4-0 lead as Luis Aparicio drove in two runs with a single and double and scored twice.

The Twins, trailing 4-2, tied the score in the ninth inning when Frank Quilici and Rich Reese hit run-producing singles.

Detroit completed a three-game sweep of its series with Boston by scoring four times in the fourth inning after Carl Yastrzemski had put the Red Sox ahead 1-0 with his 22nd homer.

Bill Freehan tied the score with his 11th homer, off loser Ray Culp.

After an error, a walk and a bunt single by winner Joe Sparma, Mickey Stanley singled in two runs and Dick McAuliffe hit a sacrifice fly.

Lois Tiant pitched a four-hitter for Cleveland, two of the hits were Frank Howard's 27th homer and Mike Epstein's 19th, to stop Washington's six-game winning streak.

Expos Great.... But For Six Innings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Expos' pitcher Mike Wegener held Chicago Cubs hitless for five innings Thursday, but Don Kessinger spoiled the performance as the National League Eastern Division leaders rallied to defeat the Expos 5-4.

The no-hitter was broken when Kessinger clubbed a sixth-inning triple.

The Expos carried a 3-1 lead into the top half of the seventh inning, before a home crowd of 12,194 at Jarry Park. Kessinger returned to knock Wegener out of the game with a two-run double as the Cubs exploded for seven runs.

Billy Williams, who played his 900th consecutive game, drove across two more seventh inning runs with a single and Ron Santo completed the Cubs' rally with a two-run homer.

The victory kept Chicago 7½ games ahead of second place New York Mets, who crushed St. Louis Cardinals 8-1 behind rookie Gary Gentry's five-hitter. Atlanta Braves, the Western Division leaders, edged San Francisco Giants 5-4 and moved 11½ games ahead of Los Angeles Dodgers, who bowed to Cincinnati Reds 4-3 in 11 innings.

Kessinger, a leading candidate for shortstop on the NL all-star team, boosted his batting average to .296 with his 98th and 99th hits of the season. The switch-hitter, who began his fifth big-league season with a .239 lifetime average, appears certain to surpass his 1968 high of 157 hits.

He shares the league lead in runs scored, 60, with San Francisco's Bobby Bonds and his 23 doubles are three behind Matty Alou of Pittsburgh Pirates.

Trailing 3-1 in the seventh, Cubs filled the bases on singles by Willie Smith, Randy Hundley and Jim Qualls. A walk to pinch hitter Al Spangler forced home one run and Kessinger's double sent Chicago ahead 4-3, finishing Wegener. Williams' two-run single and Santo's 10th homer completed the rally against reliever Dan McGinn.

Dick Selma, who worked the first six innings for the Cubs, picked up his ninth victory against three losses.

Namath Does His Thing

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Football's Joe Namath did his first movie acting Thursday, then told a news conference:

—So far he finds the acting profession 'great.'"

—No comment on whether he'll play with New York Jets again, but he's throwing a football around "just in case."

—If he had to choose between equally remunerative careers in movies and football, he'd play football.

Namath, 25, retired last month after football commissioner Pete Rozelle told him he'd have to sell his part ownership in a Broadway bar because gamblers were frequenting it.

The crowded news conference was on a movie set from the picture Norwood.

Namath, who finishes with his role a week from Saturday, plays a marine corps buddy of singer Glen Campbell, who has the title role.

Upsets Abound in Commercial Loop

Belvedere Hotel and Black-Diamond Cheesemen, the bottom two clubs in the seven team Commercial Softball, halted the runaway flight of league-leading City Hotel and second place Stinson's Construction in Thursday night's Commercial loop doubleheader at Alemite ball park.

The Cheesemen used an 11th inning run to nip City Hotel 4-3 and move into a fifth place tie with Corby's Distillery in the opening game of the doubleheader.

Lyle Wannamaker's two-run homer keyed a four-run second inning outburst as Belvedere Hotel snapped out of a slump and defeated Stinson's 7-4 for their fourth win of the season.

Don Holoway recovered from a shaky first inning, in which he surrendered two hits and all three City runs, to set the Hotelmen down on a five-hitter. Holoway fanned seven and issued three free passes.

A two-run single by Jack Francis and a run-scoring base hit by Bill Goodfellow highlighted the Cheesemen's game-tieing three-run third inning rally and set the stage for a pitching duel between Holoway and City lefthander Bob Ethier who relieved starter Jim Nicholls in the third inning.

Ethier threw third strikes past eight men and issued but one free pass in blanking Black Diamond with seven innings of hitless pitching, but Black Diamond's lone hit off him and an error by shortstop Pug Kellar led to his downfall in the bottom of the 11th.

Dwight Rathwell singled to lead off the 11th, moved to second on a fielder's choice, to third on Kellar's error and scored the winning run on catcher Don Wood's fly to right field.

First baseman Jerry Hill collected the Cheesemen's other hit, a single, while Bob Growden with a double and single, Pug Kellar with a triple, Jim Nicholls with a double and Carm Milligan with a single accounted for City's five hits.

STINSON'S 4

Centrefielder Lyle Wannamaker wrecked Stinson's almost singlehandedly in Belvedere's 7-4 win over the Builders.

Wannamaker had a perfect night at the plate with a two-run homer, a solo homer and a pair of singles in four at-bats. In addition he scored three runs, including the winning run in Belvedere's two run fourth inning rally off Stinson reliever Bob Swan who took over from starter Al Carkner during Belvedere's five-hit four-run second inning outburst.

Righthander Wayne McConnell went the distance for Belvedere and limited Stinson's to five hits while fanning 11 and walking four.

Carkner and Swan were racked for 13 hits by Belvedere. They struck out three men and issued one free pass.

First baseman Rusty Smith with a triple and a pair of singles and right fielder Cliff Hinneman with three singles also had hot bats for Belvedere Thursday night.

Rusty Garvin, Bob Lloyd and Don Smith all singled for the winners while Neil Campbell socked a homer for Stinson's and Lyle Thompson, Ralph Plane, Larry Soule and Jim Sopha all hit safely for the Builders.

CLASSIFYING THE HORSES — Harry Burkitt analyzes performance charts and goes about his weekly four-hour task of deciding the lineups for the Quinte Riding and Driving Club's weekly harness racing meet at the Belleville Fairgrounds.

Harry Burkitt Has Difficult Task Classifying Weekly Harness Meet

STAFF — Harry Burkitt's job as a classifier for the Quinte Riding and Driving Club's weekly harness racing meet at the Belleville Fairgrounds requires him to "lend variety where possible and produce fair races in which each horse has a chance to cross the finish line ahead of the field."

Sounds easy? Hardly. With the exception of eight or ten horses, there is approximately only two-to-three seconds difference in time, over the mile course- between the 50-plus horses which race regularly at the Fairgrounds.

"I sit down with the list of entries and study the official charts to learn each horse's past performance," Burkitt said. "Then I try and group the horses together in groups of equal ability allowing everyone to do as good as they can."

"I expect that we'll have the best balanced card we've had all season Saturday night," Burkitt continued. "There are few outstanding horses and practically every horse in every race has a chance to win."

"Scratches stopped us from having a heat for trotters so we've got a handicap pace-and the fact which the poorest horses are lined up from the rail outwards in the most favorable positions," Burkitt commented.

Trotters leave the game slower, thus will start near the rail, but coming home a good trotter will outfoot a pacer of equal ability so that we should have an excellent race," Burkitt said.

"I've made a few changes for Saturday's 13-horse eighteard meet," Burkitt added. "Will-Loc-Ace, who won his heat last week in 2.12, has moved up to the featured eighth race and will run against Cash Princes, last week's feature winner."

"Hy Peter, who lowered his personal record by two seconds last week in winning the second heat will move up to the fifth race and two horses new to Belleville, but with good performance records, — Gold Putney and Zella Star — will also line up in the feature race," Burkitt concluded.

U.S. School Desegregation Deadline Dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration scrapped Friday arbitrary deadlines for complete school desegregation in favor of more flexible policies. But it held firm on the objective of full desegregation.

While abandoning the earlier-stated general requirement for full compliance this fall with federal standards, the administration pledged to step up court suits against die-hard districts unwilling to move toward integration.

A justice department official said suits are in the works attacking segregated schools on statewide and multi-district levels.

At issue is the interpretation by the Nixon administration of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. This provides the federal government may cut off aid to schools districts which it concludes have made no genuine effort to desegregate.

In last fall's election campaign Nixon hinted there might be a relaxation of the previously vigorous enforcement and there were wide reports of promises made to leading southern politicians, particularly Republican Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina.

One criticism of the civil rights act's provision for cutting off funds has been that it is usually exactly the people—Negroes and the poor—which the act intends to help who are hurt the most.

A 10-page statement said the administration is unequivocally committed to the goal of finally ending racial discrimination in schools, steadily and speedily, in accordance with the law of the land.'

The administration policy came in a joint statement by Attorney-General John N. Mitchell and Health Secretary Robert H. Finch.

Jail at Cornwall Termed 'Abominable'

CORNWALL (CP) — An Anglican priest Thursday started a one-man protest against what he described as "abominable and inhuman" conditions in the city's 135-year-old jail.

Rev. Ken Doe said in an interview prisoners are sleeping in a "monastic cave" and he plans to picket the jail during lunch hour once a week. He was carrying a placard which read:

"Grossman: Tear down this 135-year-old jail."

The sign was aimed at Allan Grossman, minister of correctional services.

Mr. Doe said the Ontario government has often talked about building a new jail, but the project has always been deferred because of a lack of money.

Cablevue Licence Approved by Board

OTTAWA (CP) — Licences for 63 cable television systems in five provinces were approved Thursday by the Canadian Radio-Television Commission.

Applications for these cable licences were made at public hearings of the CRTC last March in London, Ont., and last April in Ottawa.

In each case, the applicant held a transport department licence approved before April 1, 1968, the date when the CRTC took over cable licensing responsibility from the department.

The CRTC also approved share transfers connected with CHIC radio Brampton: CKNX radio and CIGN-TV Wingham, Ont.; CKOC radio Hamilton and CHCH-TV Hamilton.

In every case, the cable licence is for two years. The holder must apply for a renewal at the end of that time.

The CRTC announcement said the two-year licence period is in line with its policy statement of last May 14.

This said the commission would grant exclusive cable territories, free from "overwiring" by a computer, and in return the operator would have to cable up the whole of his territory—not just the lucrative, densely-populated sections — within a set period.

There also is a provision that the cable company must put Canadian stations first in the selection of TV signals it offers to subscribers.

The announcement Thursday covered 21 cable applications from Quebec, 10 from Ontario, and one from Saskatchewan, three from Alberta and 33 from British Columbia.

Among the Ontario list was Belleville and Trenton, Cablevue Belleville Ltd.

Campus Moderates Are Urged To Speak Against Violence

VANCOUVER (CP) — Campus moderates have a duty to speak up against the use of force, says newspaper publisher Stuart Keate, who retires this summer from University of British Columbia administrative work.

The greatest danger faced by universities is that the public will over-react to the violence of a few and "institute repressive measures which will violate all the principles universities have stood for through the ages."

He was speaking to a symposium on the role of the university in contemporary society.

Mr. Keate, who graduated from B.C.B. in 1935, said perhaps the greatest challenge faced by a university today is "to produce civilized sensitive men and women who can live with one another."

"These people will deplore violence at home as well as abroad. They will feel that the obscurities of our literature are minor and evanescent when compared to the obscenities of war, of starvation, and of big people pushing little people around.

"Let us simply agree that the university will never be the same again; that it is undergoing a massive transition on a worldwide basis; that it will probably get worse before it gets better, and that we must address ourselves to the present duty of meeting contemporary challenges."

Grape Industry Sues Farm Union For $75 Million

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — The California table grape industry has filed a $75,000,000 anti-trust suit against the AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee to halt the union's nationwide boycott efforts.

The suit, filed Wednesday in U.S. District Court here, claims a conspiracy to organize dissenting farm workers, coercion to boycott sale of grapes and conspiracy with retail outlets to prevent handling of grapes in markets.

The industry suit said these activities have resulted in damages of $25,000,000 and asks triple payment.

An injunction prohibiting further boycott activities is requested by the Central California Farmers Committee, Inc. of Delano and 81 individual plaintiffs representing all table grape production areas of the state. The suit is a class action on behalf of all California table grape growers and shippers.

Bright Persons Are Often Fired

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A young man I know who was graduated from college last month, got a job on Thursday and was fired on Thursday. His parents, with whom I had dinner the following night, were quite distressed at his fiasco.

From what I know of the young man, it seems to me that he was fired for being too good for the job, not for not being good enough. A bright person often has a harder time holding down an elementary job than a dull, unimaginative person.

Thomas Edison was fired from two of his earliest jobs. The first was as a telegraph operator. He became so interested in the machine and its workings that he tried to figure out how to improve it.

"But I forgot all about the messages that were coming over the wire," he later said, "and I left a lot of messages unsent or undelivered."

Then he took a job in an office where there were a lot of rats running around; and he dreamed up a contraption that killed them by the score — and also killed cockroaches. After a few days, the floor was covered with dead roaches, and they fired him for that.

Sometimes it may take years after leaving school for a man to find his proper niche in the world; and if there is undue pressure from his parents, or a premature marriage, he may never succeed in finding it.

The world is filled with disgruntled men laboring in uncongenial jobs — the unrolling stone often deeply resents the moss it gathers. Robert Benchley once remarked, only half jokingly: "It was 20 years before anybody realized I wasn't a writer — but by that time I was so successful I couldn't afford to give it up."

Then, too, unless the bright young person has a considerable amount of tact (and the two rarely go together), he is more likely than not to alienate his superiors — unless he swiftly learns that one of the ways to get along in the world is to consent to be right in things you already know.

Of course, many chronic job-looers are simply lazy or incompetent, like the butter-fingered lad who, after long unemployment, finally found a job in a chinaware house. The second day on the job, he smashed a large expensive vase, and was summoned to the manager's office.

He was told that the cost of the vase would be deducted from his wages each week until it was paid for — a total of $900.

"Oh, that's wonderful," the boy exclaimed. "I'm so happy. At last I've got a steady job!"

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For July 5

Your birthday today: This coming year will be known as your year of high adventure. Your plans will have to be revised abruptly, sometimes due to lucky breaks. Today's natives make faithful comrades, strong emotional natures, deeply concerned with religion or the lack of it.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): The long weekend continues with better success. People you had lost track of turn up. Get on with what has to be done.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Your hobbies can turn out to be profitable. Financial interests thrive. Go along with the lively action of the day.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): You should be socially busy. Your financial situation may improve from the advice of friends — just refrain from spending the anticipated gains before collecting.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): There are new people all around you — get acquainted. Travel conditions continue to be uncertain. Stay put if you can.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Stay with your own family and friends now. There are circumstances closing down, relations phasing out. Sales for younger people should not be neglected now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Keep a serene surface while all around you people move abruptly without reflection. Protect your cash from mishap.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): You will be happier if you just go along with your friends and relatives. Take a real holiday.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 — Nov. 21): Most of the things that worry you are beyond your reach today, and the rest of them would not respond to your touch anyway. Relax!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Your restless moves could be troublesome. Think it is what you are about, particularly if you are doing unaccustomed chores.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): It's a cheerful day and you can keep it that way, with very little said and done. Personal comments are not the chosen form.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Home and family affairs improve today. Co-operation is easy, short trips favored.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Bring any handy business acquaintance into your circle of friends and relatives for holiday activity.

Wash-in, Eat-in Protests Advertising Methods

TORONTO (CP) — A group of housewives staged a wash-in and eat-in outside the Ontario legislature buildings Thursday to protest what they described as misleading advertising.

The women, who call themselves Campaigners for Better Advertising, staged a washing demonstration to refute claims by various companies of superior cleansing powers of detergents.

A bedsheet smeared with ketchup was torn into several parts and then washed by seven volunteers using different cleansing agents.

The fabric washed with soap was declared the cleanest by a man who watched the demonstration.

The women also wanted to prove that boxed breakfast cereals all taste the same, but Jody Bryan, a 15-year-old youngster, outfoxed them when he correctly identified 17 out of 20 cereals fed to him while blindfolded.

Bernice Lever, co-ordinator of the women's group, said the cereal test was conducted improperly because Jody and other youngsters who took part were permitted to touch them.

The women also said that for nutritional value cereals provide, they are too expensive. They also want the practice of box-top gimmicks which appeal to children discontinued because they add to the cost of cereals.

BBC Shows How to Cut Pipeline

CARDIFF (Reuters) — Welsh television viewers Thursday night were given a step-by-step account of how to blow up a pipeline. Police called the film "totally irresponsible."

It was shown by the BBC midway through a four-day tour by Prince Charles, invested Tuesday as Prince of Wales. The visit has been plagued by bomb scares.

A senior police officer at Welsh police headquarters said the film was "like throwing a match into a petrol (gasoline) tank!"

The film showed a Welsh nationalist demonstrating how to blow up a pipeline by using two cans of gas.

'Extermination' Seen By Ontario Indians

Chretien Plan Called Insult

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the Union of Ontario Indians Friday say the federal Indian Affairs minister is trying to exterminate their race by wiping out the Indian Act.

The union, which represents about 100,000 Indians in the province, rejected Jean Chretien's recently-announced policy at a special meeting.

Mr. Chretien introduced in Parliament June 25 a white paper recommending ownership of reserves be given to Indian bands and asking provincial governments provide all services to Indians that are available to other citizens.

Other proposals recommend gradual elimination of the federal Indian affairs branch within the next five years and abolishing the Indian Act.

Wilmer Nadjiwan, president of the union, told the meeting: "The policy is an extermination sentence."

He said the offer will get rid of Indian lands and eventually of the Indian people.

Alma Green of the Six Nations Reserve near Brantford said: "You are insulting North American Indians when you ask us to become Canadian citizens. It was our country before you came."

Mr. Chretien, who attended Friday's meeting, said he is not in a rush to introduce this legislation."

"Indians themselves will decide for themselves if and when they want to phase out the Indian Affairs department. If they want to keep the lands as they are now, I don't care."

During the meeting, Mr. Chretien was accused of turning a deaf ear to recommendations made by Indians in consultation meetings held across Canada during the last year.

Buddy Sault of the Lakehead said: "We are growing tired of your lies and the treachery that is coming out of Ottawa."

Mr. Sault said he doesn't want to become a Canadian citizen as the white paper recommends.

"It tells me I'm not an Indian and you're trying to bring me up or down to your level.

"At this point in Canadian history, white people are searching for their identity. I don't have to, I'm an Ojibway Indian on my room and I'll die an Indian on my own land."

U.S. Troops Busy as Ever

SAIGON (AP) Despite the sharp decrease in North Vietnamese and Viet Cong military actions, United States troops are maintaining the same level of operation the U.S. command said today.

"It's the same as it has been for the past several months," a spokesman said when asked about American operations. "We're continuing to operate in our areas, to search out the enemy, to look for caches. We are at a full level of operations."

Battlefield communiques did not list any significant ground fight during the last 24 hours. Activity across South Vietnam dropped to its lowest level in more than a year.

The U.S. command said it had 12 operations of battalion size of larger currently under way, about the same number it has been conducting for the last six months.

U.S. officials have said they do not know whether the decrease in attacks and the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops to border areas is a signal that Hanoi wants to scale down the fighting or is just a pause to re-group and re-supply.

Only one significant rocket or mortar attack was reported in communiques.

Ten mortar shells hit a base camp of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division in the central highlands 345 miles northeast of Saigon. Some Americans were wounded but none was killed, headquarters said. No damage was reported.

B-52 bombers made four strikes against North Vietnamese troops maneuvering near the Cambodian border and 97 miles northeast of Saigon.

"Good news, Joe. We've taken the hill . . . Joe?"

Blowers Push Germs Away

Astronauts Interviewed In $5,718 Plastic Tent

HOUSTON (AP) — Seated in a plastic tent to ward off germs, the Apollo 11 astronauts talk to reporters today about their forthcoming moon-landing mission.

To protect them from colds, the flu and other bugs, the United States space agency spent $5,718 to construct the open-face tent for astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., and Michael Collins.

The tent, seven feet high and 12 feet wide, has several blowers in the back to push air outwards toward reporters, seated 50 feet away.

Plans for the mid-afternoon news conference call for the astronauts to sit at a table, about three feet deep in the tent in an auditorium at the Manned Spacecraft Centre. After answering questions for an hour about their moon mission, scheduled to start July 16, they plan private interviews with several reporters representing national media.

For the private question-and-answer sessions, the spacemen are to be isolated behind glass partitions in the lunar receiving laboratory, the air-tight buildout where they are to be quarantined for more than two weeks after they return from the moon.

The tent, air system and interviews under glass all are part of elaborate precautions taken by space agency doctors to reduce the possibility of the astronauts' catching any germs that could delay their launching — or perhaps confuse the medics after they come home from the moon.

If they catch a bug that does not develop into sickness until after Armstrong and Aldrin land on the moon, doctors may have difficulty determining if it is of lunar or terrestrial origin.

The astronauts are spending a final weekend with their families in their homes near the Manned Spacecraft Centre.

Nigeria May Use Air Force Outside Her Own Territory

LAGOS (AP) — A federal spokesman said today Nigeria has strengthened its air force and is ready to use it—outside Nigeria if necessary—to protect its skies.

Information Commissioner Chief Anthony Enahoro told a news conference the government is prepared to allow international observers to supervise federal inspection of relief supplies loaded at Lagos for Biafra.

But, he said, Nigeria will not tolerate any direct flights into Biafra, day or night.

"If a shooting war starts in our skies it is bound to have terrible consequences to the existing order of things in several parts of the world," he said. "I have no doubt about that."

Asked if that was a threat to neighbors who allowed relief agencies to fly to Biafra, Enahoro replied:

"It is no threat. It is an assessment. If there is an air war, it is not going to be confined to our skies. There will be repercussions, even outside our continent."

In response to a question about reports of the new Soviet MiG-19 with mercenary European Pilots joining the air force, Enahoro said: "I can confirm our air force is as of now stronger than it used to be. I am not in a position to give details."

Earlier in the war which enters its third year Sunday Nigeria purchased a fleet of older Soviet MiGs with some French and other jet trainers and some Ilyushin bombers.

At one point, more than a dozen warplanes were flying at once. Recently there have been numerous reports—all unconfirmed—of new sophisticated equipment having been added to the air force.

Biafra Relief Areas Urged

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart is expected to urge Nigeria today to let land on river corridors be opened quickly for food and medical supplies to reach Biafra. Qualified sources said Stewart was ready to press this case over lunch at his official country residence, Dorneywood, with Dr. Okoi Arikpo, the Nigerian commissioner for external affairs. Repeated pleading London from Biafra said the situation in the rebel territory is worse than it was last year when up to 6,000 persons a day were dying. Relief programs have become tangled up in the politics of the two-year-old civil war, and mercy flights have been halted in a dispute between the International Red Cross and federal Nigerian officials.

NAACP Head Opposes Black Separatism

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Delegates of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People conclude their annual convention today after being urged by Executive Director Roy Wilkins to reject separatism and keep pushing for racial integration.

"You are the army of integration," Wilkins said Friday night at the awards banquet of the NAACP.

"You are the only remaining organized army for the sensible solution of integration."

Referring to black separatist movements, Wilkins said: "Segregation has always meant inequality and if you are not out there in the big ocean, you are up the creek."

Despite what he called setbacks by the Nixon administration in school integration and voting rights, Wilkins urged the delegates; "You go home and roll up your sleeves and go to work."

Fake Bombs Found In Wales

CARDIFF (AP) — The school children of Wales gave Prince Charles an overwhelming welcome Friday that overshadowed more bomb scares.

The first came at Swansea, on Wales' south coast, where Charles had spent the night aboard the royal yacht Britannia. An anonymous telephone caller said the Swansea post office would be blown up. An attic-to-cellar search turned up nothing.

Security men making a routine check of a bridge near Aberbeeg found a suspicious-looking package. Explosive experts rushed to the scene only to find a hoax. The package was empty.

News Briefs

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The Windsor Utilities Commission, charging that sabotage was involved in a power blackout that affected 96 per cent of city streets, offered a $2,000 reward Friday for information leading to the arrest of those responsible. The blackout came as a strike of commission workers entered its third day.

Kenyan Mboya Slain

NAIROBI (Reuters) — Tom Mboya, Kenya's minister for economic planning, was shot and killed as he stood in a drugstore doorway in one of Nairobi's busy main streets today police said.

Although Mboya was taken to hospital immediately after the shooting he was dead on arrival, officials said.

Mboya returned to Nairobi Friday after a trip to Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, where he attended a meeting of the Economic Commission for Africa.

Mboya, 39, was stepping in Government Road, one of Nairobi's busy main streets, and had just left a drugstore when the gunman drove up in a car and pumped several bullets into him, eyewitnesses said.

As Mboya fell to the ground his lone bodyguard rushed forward.

But the car sped away.

People screamed and milled about as afternoon crowds ran toward the spot where Mboya fell.

Police arrived and attempted to cordon off the road, but the crowd pressed in around them. Half an hour after the shooting about 2,000 people were standing silently around the area.

All witnesses to the shooting were taken to police headquarters for questioning.

Mboya played a major role in the labor, political, constitutional and economic life of Kenya.

He held posts on African liberation organizations and Pan-African bodies, travelled widely and represented Kenya at world, Commonwealth and African conferences.

Mboya was almost unique within African politics in having no tribal support for his seat in Parliament.

Mboya, who represented a Nairobi district and was widely supported by Kenya's minority Asian population, also was the secretary general of the ruling Kenya African National Union Kanu party.

Quebec Labor War Possible

MONTREAL (CP)—Unless the Confederation of National Trade Unions settles a strike soon by 11,000 construction workers, the 300,000-member Quebec Federation of Labor will seek to attract the strikers to its ranks, the QFL said Friday.

The CNTU has had 6,000 men on strike in the Quebec City region since May 12 and another 5,000 in southeastern since June 12.

Main issues are higher wages and job security, including the question of compulsory hiring halls operated by the unions.

QFL president Louis Laberge said the CNTU must agree to resume negotiations for the strikers and settle soon.

He called the proposal his "final offer."

If the CNTU did not comply, the QFL would start its own bargaining and try to attract workers from the CNTU by negotiating a contract increasing their wages.

Restless Hippies Alarm Aspen, Colo.

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — A curfew was clamped on this year-round resort community early today after at least five separate dynamite blasts and a night of restlessness by an estimated 500 hippies.

Sheriff Carrol Whitmire issued a plea for help late Friday night after explosions damaged a city trash collection truck and three buildings.

He estimated the number of roving "hippie types" at 300 but Dick Ritchey, acting Aspen police chief, later placed the number at 500.

The four-man Aspen police force and the Pitkin County sheriff's force were bolstered by a 17-member posse from nearby Garfield County, four members of the Glenwood Springs police force, and six highway patrolmen. Six more patrolmen were standing by in Glenwood Springs.

The lawman, armed with shotguns, rifles and pistols, patrolled Aspen streets throughout the night.

District Attorney Martin Dumont, who lives in Glenwood Springs, arrived at 1 a.m. and issued a 2 a.m. curfew. Seven curfew violators were picked up and held in the city jail.

Eight persons, described by Ritchey as hippies, were picked up for "mysterious activities".

No charges have been filed in either of the incidents.

Building Swings Into High Gear In City

Summertime — and the livin' is easy.

Easy, sure, unless there's work to be done.

Summertime is also the time when the construction industry comes alive — when every town hums with the sound of work, private and public.

Belleville's no different — and since this is a boom year for industrial expansion the only difference is that the construction boom may be bigger.

It is in many ways. But certainly not for the city's public works. For unprecedented expansion this year goes hand-in-hand with local government austerity.

May 16 city council drastically cut public works expenditures.

The city public works budget was pared by $145,000 to $631,000.

Despite the unprecedented cutback there's still much public works to be done in the city — ranging anywhere from a bridge to a sewer detour.

Wound Up for Action

Investigators Check Trenton Police

TRENTON — The survey of the Trenton Police Department being compiled by two advisors to the Ontario Police Commission is expected to be released shortly.

Two former policemen have accepted jobs paying nearly $2,000 less than they were receiving as first class constables.

Meanwhile speculation is building up concerning the local police commission's decision to call for the probe after receiving the second resignation in less than a year from a first class constable on the local force.

Constable Roger Camp, with a first class rating, quit the force last fall and Constable Norman Mallory, also classed as a top law enforcement officer, asked for his release a few weeks ago.

Both the former policemen are still on the town's payroll, however, as employees of the local public works' department.

The mayor, a member of the local Police Commission, responsible for requesting the survey, terms it a "safety precaution to insure there is nothing serious underlying the two resignations."

"Resignations are to be expected," he explained. "Whether they are normal when experienced police officers resign, is what is being determined. The fact we have asked the Ontario Police Commission to make a survey does not imply there is dissatisfaction," said the Mayor. "The local Police Commission is interested in providing the most efficient protection possible."

Museum Recreates Early Tavern Scene

"Paint the town red."

Does that familiar phrase evoke thoughts of a museum? Not likely. But the truth of the matter is that Hastings County Museum holds the proof of the actual origin of that expression.

Located at 240 Church St., Belleville, the museum, operated by the county's Historical Society, is a "cabinet of curiosities." "Mrs. Simpson's kitchen"is one display that Bellevillians should be interested in, for Mrs. Simpson established the city's first tavern in 1798.

Although it was unusual for a woman to take up such a practice, she saw it as the only means to support her blind husband.

When the building was gutted by fire, the determined pioneer erected a second tavern in 1812 at the corner of Front and Dundas St. E.

The Canadiana furniture in the museum's recreated kitchen is the key to "painting the town red." Early settlers hated the sight of natural wood, and remedied the situation by applying buttermilk paint — a combination of buttermilk, whisky and red ochre dye. The result was a reddish-colored mixture that was splashed on every piece of furniture in the town.

The museum also houses the 325-piece Dr. William A. Paul lighting collection, a stationary display purchased by the city.

There are travelling displays as well, changed to keep in touch with the curriculum of area elementary schools. Throughout the year, an average of two student groups a day are given history classes. A carousel of 80 slides is usually shown, to give the children a glimpse of the past.

"The youngsters love it," commented Mrs. Mary Plumpton, curator of the museum.

Archive materials, written histories of the county, are in the process of being catalogued so that the public will be able to make wide use of the information the museum has amassed over the years.

One of the more impressive exhibits at the museum is the Couldery room, displaying several pieces of the Couldery art collection bequeathed to the city of Belleville in 1955 by Anna Salaman.

Mrs. Salaman's attachment to the "beautiful city" goes back to her childhood days, when she resided here with her parents, proprietors of the Docter's Hotel.

In the early 1800's, the Couldery couple came to Canada and took up residence in Belleville.

They became so attached to Anna, they adopted her and took her back with them to Ventnor on the Isle of Wight.

At their death, Anna was heiress to the Couldery estate.

She in turn bequeathed the estate to the city of Belleville in 1955, along with a substantial sum of money to cover the cost of housing the art collection.

At the present time negotiations are underway to secure the funds to build a new museum.

Stirling Girl Tops Scholars

Top student in Belleville high schools in Grade 13 examinations was Anne Watson of Stirling who attended Quinte Secondary School.

When results were announced Thursday, The Intelligencer reported Jane Macpherson of Moira Secondary School had the highest marks among students of Belleville schools.

Miss Macpherson, who resides on Lambert Drive, was the top student from Belleville, with 89.4 per cent, but Miss Watson's average was 90.7 per cent, highest of any student in Belleville schools.

Miss Watson is a graduate of the former Stirling-Rawdon high school and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Watson, Stirling.

Car-Truck Crash Hospitalizes Two

A transport truck and a car collided last night at the junction of Highways 14 and 62, causing $2,500 damage.

The car, driven by 40-year-old Ken Reid, of 14 Elmer St., Belleville, was headed east on Highway 14, when the accident occurred. The truck was proceeding north at the junction of the Foxboro bypass.

Also in the Reid car were Mr. Reid's wife, Mrs. Betty Reid, and their eight-month-old son, Kenneth.

The car was treated and released from hospital but Mr. and Mrs. Reid are still in Belleville General Hospital. Mr. Reid suffered lacerations and chest injuries, while Mrs. Reid was reported suffering chest injuries, lacerations and possible head injuries.

The driver of the truck was Fred Worsley, of RR 2, Woodville.

IN MEMORIAM

BATEMAN, Gordon Reid — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather who passed away so suddenly, July 5th, 1968.

Our loved one left us a memory,
And secret tears still flow,
What it meant to lose you Gordon,
No one will ever know.
He was gone before we knew it,
And only God knew why,
But keep a place for memory proved,
In those who love him so.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by wife Ruth, son Douglas.

HOWARD — In loving memory of my dear husband, Dave Howard who passed away July 5th, 1966.
And my darling daughter Doris passed away July 6th, 1966.
Two loved ones we have fallen,
And I am in quiet sorrow,
To my heart no one can measure,
Like a lonely dove I mourn.
It only save and Doris could come home,
Friends may think that I've forgotten,
When at times they see me smile,
But they little know the heartache,
My smile hides all the while,
And when I look at their pictures,
Dave seems to smile and say,
Keep your head up Mother dear,
For the three of us will meet again some day,
—Always remembered by your wife Maude and mother and son Larry.

COULTER — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Joseph Wesley Coulter who passed away July 5th, 1966.
Today recalls the memory,
Of a loved one we miss so much,
Dear husband and father,
But the love for him who lies sleeping,
Will never fade away.
—Ever lovingly remembered by wife Margaret, daughters Lois and Carmel and families.

GILLS — In loving memory of my father, Jesse Gills who passed away July 5, 1957.
Though on earth you are no more,
Still in memory you are with us,
As dearly as ever before.
—Sadly missed by daughter Florence and husband Raymond Bailey.

WHITE — In loving memory of a dear mother, Lucy White who passed away July 5th, 1964.
In my heart your memory lingers,
Always loved, always dear,
Sadly missed by Ruby Marcelle.

Ashram Under Way At Albert

Albert College is hosting the tenth Christian Ashram this weekend.

The Ashram is a type of "retreat" and was brought to this country from India by evangelist and author, Dr. Stanley E. Jones.

All Ashrams are interdenominational and interracial, the central theme being, "Jesus is Lord".

Approximately 100 people attending the local retreat, some of them from Quebec as well as the United States.

Speakers addressing the group included Rev. J. T. Seamands, Professor of Christian Missions at the Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Kentucky; Rev. John E. Hunter, United Church minister from Toronto and chairman of the Toronto Conference Evangelism and Social Services Committee; Bob Crawford, Ashram youth leader and principal of John Diefenbaker Secondary School, Hanover.

Mary Webster, Illinois, speaks as the Ashram's personal witness and has travelled extensively on behalf of the movement.

Along with prayer groups and family groups, a vacation school is conducted for children under the age of 12.

Special activities are also arranged for the 75 teens at the Ashram this weekend.

Director for the Ashram which lasts until 4 p.m. Sunday is Rev. Lorne O'Neil, United Church minister who has been with the movement close to eight years.

Weekend Sunshine Forecast

Those holidaying Americans who have stuck out the poor weather for the past two days should be getting some sunshine before they return south of the border.

Although cooler air will be moving into the Quinte area this afternoon from across the province the skies are expected to clear this evening, giving residents and visitors a sunny, but cooler Sunday.

Weather this afternoon will remain cloudy, warm and muggy until the cool air hits and few thunderstorms can be expected.

Winds are south to south-westerly at approximately 20 miles an hour but they are expected to shift to north-westerly this evening at 15 to 20 miles an hour.

High forecast for today is 80 degrees with an overnight low of 55. Sunday should bring out the sun with high temperatures in the low 70s.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cunnington

With Pottery, Promotion

Couple Boost Quinte's Isle

PICTON — Combining the ex - actor who once worked with Elizabeth Taylor with the artist who suddenly went "potty" produces probably the most interesting couple in Prince Edward County. Joanne and Ray Cunnington recently settled in the county with common ambitions — to establish a pottery and to promote Prince Edward as an ideal spot for vacationers and retired couples.

Their ambitions have started to life. Last Saturday marked the opening of the Old Schoolhouse Pottery, R. R. 8, Picton, where Mrs. Cunnington will conduct classes for summer visitors wishing to try their hand at pottery.

Ray Cunnington, commissioned last winter by Prince Edward County Council to boost the county through newspaper articles in Canada and the United States has just returned from promotion trips to Toronto, Montreal, Buffalo and Rochester.

Before coming to Canada with his wife in 1953, Ray Cunnington worked in England as a public relations man dealing with film publicity. His interest in films stemmed from the fact that he had at one time studied acting.

Mr. Cunnington's work with Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer Studios and the J. Arthur Rank Organization brought him in contact with stars like Elizabeth Taylor.

Miss Taylor was 17 years old when Ray Cunnington first met her. The young actress was in England working on her second picture, having completed National Velvet.

"She really does have the most fantastic violet eyes," recalled Mr. Cunnington.

When Ray Cunnington left England to come to Canada he hoped to write film scripts. Arriving in Montreal he started work as a writer for a documentary film company, served a stint as company director, then moved up to operate a company of his own for a time.

Eventually Mr. Cunnington entered the field of advertising in Montreal and has remained in it for the past ten years. He and his wife came to Prince Edward last fall, settling in Bloomfield.

Joanne Cunnington, a vivacious woman who first studied art in Keighley, England, began her work with pottery in Montreal.

At MacDonald College she studied this timeless art for six years, later teaching it at craft centres in Montreal.

She has exhibited her work in Canada on numerous occasions, winning the President's Award for best earthenware at the Canadian National Exhibition in 1965.

One of the pieces she displayed in the Canadian Pavilion at Expo '67 was purchased by the Confederation Art Gallery for its permanent collection.

Recently a panel of judges accepted two pieces of her work for exhibition at the Royal Ontario Museum in a showed called Craft Dimensions, opening in September.

Visitors to The Schoolhouse Pottery can see Joanne Cunnington at her potter's wheel, moulding jugs and vases for the kiln. Each one is original in design.

Ray Cunnington is absorbed in his wife's work and looks forward to the day when local enthusiasm will necessitate an addition to the pottery.

A man who expresses concern for those around him, Ray Cunnington remarked, "I am genuinely interested in this county."

"Now being a country man I find the attitude of the country folk very sane and helpful. The people have been most courteous and kind since we came here," he added.

Speaking of his current project to promote the county Mr. Cunnington said, "My plan is to try to increase the basic population of this area since population is the determining factor in wealth, political pull, and, in most cases, the tax base"

The county, Mr. Cunnington feels, should appeal to older couples who might find it ideal for setting up small businesses to supplement their savings.

Before choosing Prince Edward as their home the Cunningtons travelled through many parts of Ontario. When they drove into the county the couple realized that their search for the perfect place to settle was ended.

Reflecting on his decision to settle here Ray Cunnington remarked, "It has occurred to be that in the cities public relations men keep competing to sell quite worthless things. In this county there are so few public relations men to sell such a worthwhile place as Prince Edward."

Mr. Cunnington has accepted a teaching position at Loyalist College in Belleville next fall, where he will instruct in communication arts.

His talented wife Joanne is already receiving visitors at The Old Schoolhouse Pottery, an indication that local residents and tourists are attracted by the fascinating craft of moulding things from clay.

American Markets Supplied With Snapping Turtle Meat

Every summer thousands of amateur fishermen take to the lakes and rivers of Ontario but for many fishing is a serious business.

Approximately two million each year in the Bay of Quinte pounds of fish are caught and southern Lake Ontario.

The Bay of Quinte Fisheries on Bridge Road buys fish from commercial fishermen who come from all over southern Lake Ontario to market them.

Bruce Cooper, manager of the Fisheries, says there are three major markets, Toronto, Montreal and New York. The largest of the three is New York where Canadian fish are very popular and always in demand.

At the moment there is a demand on snapping turtles and the local fishery is trying to fill the orders. Michigan has placed a ban on the capture of the turtles because it is their breeding season but the demand for the turtles has remained the same.

As a result the market has switched to Canada and for the next few weeks while the ban in Michigan is in effect, the Belleville fishery is supplying as many of the turtles as possible.

Children bring in the most when they find them basking on rocks and other places in or near the water. Traps are available but the children like to catch them by hand and other unorthodox methods.

Snapping turtles are used for their meat and are the main ingredient in turtle soup.

The Bay of Quinte Fisheries sells the fish to retail outlets who are located throughout Ontario as well as in places such as Detroit, Chicago and New York. They also handle the local retail business by supplying the area with fresh fish of all types.

Packing is done at the fisheries by using wooden crates and ice to preserve the catch. Only fish which are to be sold locally are cleaned and filleted while the others are packed whole.

Deep water fish such as th whitefish and trout are slowly disappearing and smelts are replacing their dwindling number, and becoming predominant.

Course fish such as carp and eels are the main type of catch that the fisheries handle but the large variety is still obvious from the large number that is sold by the Fisheries.

One of the snapping turtles at the Bay of Quinte Fisheries warns back the photographer with a show of its famous jaws, capable of inflicting a serious wound.

Hasty Pees End Week of Training

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment is returning home today after a week of militia training at Camp Petawawa.

The regiment left for the camp Sunday to take part in training in bridge-building, night patrolling, and field firing with live ammunition.

All the Hasty Pees' activities are part of the intensive training taking part at the camp this week by the Mobile Command Reserve.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment is one of 24 units from other Ontario centres who are working to reach regular force combat standards.

Living in a giant telt city within easy travelling distance of their training areas allows troops maximum time for actual training in automatic weapons, night manoeuvres and demolition.

Professional instruction by regular force officers and NCOs, combined with previous training at their home training centres, makes it possible for the men to achieve a high degree of skill.

Medical doctors, nurses and other professional people from communication and engineering fields all contribute their skills to round out the effectiveness of the Mobile Command Reserve.

Northern Develops Switch Device

A new private branch exchange telephone switching system has been developed by the Northern Electric laboratories in Belleville.

The automatic system, coded SE-2, is designed to serve large organizations which need a switchboard system to handle numerous extensions and is now installed on field trial at Northern's North York plant in Toronto. Production units are scheduled for delivery in the fall of 1969.

The SE-2 private automatic branch exchange (PABX) is the most recent electronic-mechanical switching system developed for Canadian and export use.

It was designed recently from a 40-extension or station line system to a maximum 200-line station-line system.

A basic feature of the new system is the small table-top attendant's console or control panel, which consists of a telephone handset, several rows of push buttons which light up when service is required and a rotary or push button dial to route incoming or outgoing calls to the desired extension or trunk line.

Also, dial transfer and dial hold options are designed into the system to enable users to transfer a call to another extension by dialing the new number and to put one call in a hold position, dial another for consultation and then return to the original call.

The basis for the small size and speedy operation of the new SE-2 PABX is the minibar crossbar switch, which makes a maximum number of connections in a minimum amount of time and space.

APPOINTMENTS

GEORGE THOMPSON — CHARLES BUCKLEY

The appointment of George Thompson (left) as Bell Canada Manager in Belleville has been announced by Bell Vice-President J. A. McCutcheon. Mr. Thompson succeeds Charles Buckley (right), who becomes District Manager, Ottawa Hull. Born and educated in Brockville, Mr. Thompson served with the Royal Canadian Navy before joining Bell Canada in 1947 as a Business Office Representative in Cornwall. He was Bell Manager in Smiths Falls and later in Ottawa prior to becoming Supervisor-Methods, Central Area Commercial, the position he held at the time of his appointment as Manager in Belleville. Mr. Buckley received his Bachelor of Science from the University of Ottawa in 1950. That same year he joined Bell as a salesman in the Marketing Department. Since then he has held various posts in the Company's Commercial and Accounting Departments. Both men assume their new duties July 7.

Island-Hopping

Head east from the village of Stella on Amherst Island and after a few miles the visitor comes upon the home where Daniel Fowler (1810-94) farmed and painted over a period of 40 years after leaving his native England.

Now the home of the E. R. Bach family, the house has an English atmosphere about it, a well-preserved home with an old-country setting among trees with fine lawns and the added charm of a view of the lake and mainland.

Fowler had studied law, then turned to painting and worked under English water colorist J. D. Harding. After travels in Europe he taught painting in London. In 1843 he came to Canada for health reasons, settling on Amherst Island. He farmed for 5 years but a visit to England in 1857 renewed his interest in painting which soon occupied most of his time.

His paintings were marked by strong technique and bold use of color and they found a ready sale. Elected to the Ontario Society of Artists in 1872, Fowler was also a charter member of the Royal Canadian Academy. His water color Hollyhocks can be seen in the National Gallery in Ottawa.

Islands are intriguing places and not least Amherst. The former Fowler home is one of the interesting facets of the piece of land a short ferry trip from Millhaven. There is prosperous farm country with fat cattle and sheep herds, as well as historic churches and that sense of away-from-it-all that most of us find so agreeable. Certainly it must have been beneficial to artist Fowler; he lived to the age of 84.

In Stella there is a building that once was a smithy and a short distance away there is a war memorial bearing twelve names, one of them — a member of the Filson family — who gave his life in the Boer War, some 70 years ago. It is like many a small Canadian community with a bank and a general store and a park and as well kept as any.

It is typical of the rural charm — plus a view of the lake — that the visitor will be able to enjoy in increasing measure if the day comes when Amherst is a link in the proposed chain of bridges linking Prince Edward County with the New York mainland.

Wolfe Island is the other stepping stone. Ferries at present link it with both the Canadian and U.S. mainlands, the latter approached on the Ontario side through a glorious curtain of trees near the Canada Customs building, the latter more like a country club complete with lounges than a place of government.

Sizeable though they are, both Amherst and Wolfe surprise with the sight of cars and trucks and even Department of Highways graders doing their thing. A common experience may be occasional meetings with others from the ferry, like the two Englishwomen in a Volkswagen, one a Kingston-area resident, and you see their vehicle disappearing into the distance on an Amherst road, in absolutely the opposite direction to yours, only to meet up with it again, at the other end of the island.

Wesley Westfall is something like that, those two islands have it. And if the bridge links become a reality they will become even more travelled.

Russia Fights Pollution

So Russia has problems with pollution too. Well it would be a surprise if they were free of it, particularly in a nation whose industrial production increased 113 per cent (second to Japan's 245 per cent) between 1958 and 1967). Interesting though are their methods of curbing pollution; they appear to be thorough, as an article elsewhere on this page suggests.

Mr. Guzhenko of Russia's Ministry of Merchant Marine had some other significant facts for the Hamilton officials. He said Soviet scientists are conducting research on the feasibility of building hydrofoil ships for Russia's trade routes.

Hydrofoils travel at speed on wing-like devices that lift the craft out of the water. According to Mr. Guzhenko Russia has hydrofoils which can carry 1,000 tons of freight, but they carry mostly passengers, at speeds of up to 80 m.p.h.

This is an astonishing prospect. Ocean-going hydrofoils of necessity would be much larger vessels, perhaps even nuclear-powered to enable them to cover long distances.

Meanwhile, with so much navigable water in this region it is surprising hydrofoils (or as we suggested recently hovercraft like those used to span the English channel with passengers and cars) have not been introduced. They could be used, for instance, to revive the service across the lake to Rochester, N.Y., or for pleasure cruises, or both.

Western MPs' Pilgrimage to Darkest Quebec

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The "Rover Boys," as they have become known, — four decidedly unilingual prairie Conservative MPs — have returned from their explorations of Quebec, as full of tales of adventure as ever were the daring lads of boyhood fiction.

The Fearless Four — Jack Horner of Alberta's Crowfoot constituency, George Muir of Manitoba's Lisgar, Bert Cadieu of Saskatchewan's Meadow Lake and Harry Moore of Alberta's Wetaskiwin — have all been outspoken opponents of the Official Languages Bill.

Outspoken to the extent that they stood up and were counted against it in the votes — while some other Conservatives, equally opposed to the language measure including a few from Ontario and the Maritimes, ducked the issue by dodging out behind the lobby curtain.

These Rover Boys have so failed to endear themselves to the "new wave" in the Conservative party that those sections of the Eastern Canadian press which consider themselves leaders in liberal-minded sophistication have labelled them "Cowboys" and "Yahoos."

So, having been duly warned that Our Heroes are regarded by the self-proclaimed political intelligentsia as dangerous buffoons, picture them, as members of the perambulating Commons Agriculture Committee, wandering wide-eyed into French Canada on their yeast-to-coast junket.

Feeling as they do about language "rights" or "non-rights," as they may regard them, they made a pilgrimage of sorts to Quebec City and the Plains of Abraham "to see," as they reported on their return to the Capital, "where all the trouble started."

Their guide, in the service of the Quebec Provincial Government, minister then for American tourists, and could not understand what he obviously considered their obsession with General Wolfe.

They wanted to see the exact spot where Wolfe had come ashore.

"He came in from down there," the guide told them, pointing below to a paved road to what history now knows as Wolfe's Cove.

"Sure had a good road, didn't he?" observed George Muir, deadpan.

"But it was not paved then," the guide, just as straight-faced, hastened to report.

Encouraged by the interest of these "Americans," the guide launched into a sort of history lesson for his charges, much of it new or at least different than the way they had learned it in their schoolbooks back on the Prairies.

One of the new touches was the confident report that General Montcalm "could have won" with any kind of a fair role of Matey's dice.

"Montcalm could have won — how do you figure that?" asked George Muir.

Well, explained the guide earnestly, Montcalm just did not get the breaks.

He was six miles away when the British came in from the cove and started scaling the heights.

By the time the garrison's officers got word and raced him back by horse, "the British were hiding in the forest which covered the field of battle," recounted the guide.

"Trees, what trees!" asked Jack Horner. "First plains I ever heard of with a forest on them."

At that juncture, Bert Cadieu cut in to recall that, while Montcalm may have been late getting back from six-miles away, he reached the scene of action "in time to get killed."

That was so, conceded the guide, but Wolfe, too, was killed.

"Then you can't call it even," George Muir, thinking how the years seem to change history, "won the war?"

The guide, soberly looked over each of the four "American tourists" in turn, then told them:

"It is not over yet."

Could be the guide had heard about a previous pilgrimage Jack Horner had made to the Plains, and was sort of taking revenge for Montcalm with a bit of needling himself.

Last time Jack Horner, with Harold Danforth, Conservative MP for Ontario's East Toronto constituency, came to Quebec City, he left one up.

Noticing ladders fastened to the face of the cliffs, he had asked the guide for an explanation and was told they were there for some repair work.

"Wolfe use them when the English stormed the heights?" asked Jack Horner.

"Of course not," said the guide, "they were put up just the other day."

"Better leave them there," Jack Horner told him. "They will be really handy for us when we return."

"What makes you so sure this lake is polluted?"

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

July 5, 1969 . . .

Cecil Rhodes, the empire-builder, was born in England 116 years ago today—in 1853—and went to South Africa for health reasons at the age of 16. He made a fortune in diamond mining and then went into public life to implement his dream of a chain of British colonies from the cape of Good Hope to Cairo. He became prime minister of South Africa but was forced to retire after the Jameson Raid, when the investigating committee found him guilty of grave breaches of duty in politics and business.

Regina's Plan

The Problems Of Public Transport

The Globe and Mail

The public transit authority in Regina has observed a fairly commonplace phenomenon in the daily rhythm of its operations. Its passengers tend to bunch up in those parts of the day when people are going to work or coming home. At other times, the buses are running with just a handful of passengers — not an economical proposition.

Regina has hit upon a remedy that may seem wildly radical to members of the Toronto Transit Commission: they will cut fares by 50 per cent in the off-hours. Thus the adult fare will drop from 20 cents to 10 cents for journeys made between 9.30 and 11.30 in the morning, and between 1:30 and 4 in the afternoon.

In Toronto, we have another way of dealing with the problem. If a service is suffering from uneconomical use, the fare is kept where it is but the frequency of the service is reduced. The power of negative thinking has been demonstrated in a number of instances, among them the suspension of evening services along the University Avenue subway and the recent decision to lengthen the intervals between Bloor subway trains.

It could be argued perhaps that Toronto, after all, has taken a step in the right direction by the decision to allow certain old age pensioners to use public transit services at specially reduced rates. (This is not restricted to any particular times of the day.) However, this is not really comparable to the scheme being brought into use in Regina because the decision, taken by Metro Council, was one in which any TTC lonee would be underwritten by Metro. This is, in effect, an economic welfare gesture as far as the TTC is concerned; every adult will continue to pay full fare.

If the commission can be persuaded that the enticement of passengers is forthcoming and that the general idea is to run a useful transit system, we might yet see adoption of the Regina plan right here in progressive Toronto

Mail With A Smile

The Globe and Mail

Eric Kierans was on the road again last week talking about how things are down at the post office. "Remember?" he urged his audience, "remember a few years back when the letter carrier would deliver the mail once every day with your mail," or what's a large part was of a personal nature, "and would also leave a smile and a greeting." Nowadays, however, most of the time he leaves at the door bills, accounts, advertising material, and this is a true reflection of the world we live in."

At last! The real reason why we've cut back to five - day mail service. You are, Mr. Kierans, all heart!

More Airports For Arctic

From the Ottawa Journal

The Indian Affairs and Northern Development Department has announced a $16,616,000 program to build ten airports at remote settlements in the Northwest Territories and the Yukon. Work will begin this month on 3,300-foot strips at Pangnirtung and Eskimo Point. Over the next eight to 10 years Cape Dorset, Igloolik, Old Crow, Whale Cove, Fort McPherson, Aklavik, Pond Inlet and Chesterfield will also get the 100-foot-wide gravel runways.

The airstrips will, according to the Minister, Mr. Chrétien, provide year-round transportation to isolated communities and improve medical, education and other services in the North. The airport construction, paid for by the federal Government is complete, the strips will become the responsibility of the territorial governments.

Chrétien says every effort will be made to employ Indians and Eskimos at the construction sites and hopes that these men will be trained to take over maintenance after completion. At an average per airstrip of $560,000 and a development official's estimate of a $21,000 yearly average budget to maintain each strip, they will certainly help boost the areas' economies.

Marine Official Visits Canada

What Russia Has Done to Control Pollution

Hamilton Spectator

The number two man in Russia's Ministry of Merchant Marine sailed the slime-green waters of Hamilton Harbor and talked about how the country was fighting to control water pollution.

And while pollution isn't specifically under the jurisdiction of his ministry, T. G. Guzhenko feels it is a universal problem and everyone should try and do something about it.

"We have developed a number of measures to clean up our ports, especially," he said through interpreter Gregory Belkov, a staff member of the National Research Council in Ottawa. "For instance, all industries at our ports have types of water purifying devices on their property."

We also have special boats, patrolling our harbors. If a ship spills oil, sewage or any kind of collective waste, these boats skim it off the water and carry it to a purifying plant. The waste is screened and sent back into the harbor."

Mr. Guzhenko was interviewed aboard the MV Seaport, the yacht owned by The Hamilton Harbor Commissioners, which flew the Hammer and Sickle for the occasion. The first deputy minister led a top-level delegation of Russian merchant marine officials aboard the ship for a tour of harbor installations — one of several sites the delegation is visiting on a 10-day tour of Canadian marine facilities.

Also aboard were the harbor commissioners, Hamilton industrial executives, civic officials, Mayor George Harrington of Burlington, MPs Lincoln Alexander, Colin Gibson and John Morrison and Gordon Steaso, assistant deputy minister, marine, of the Canadian department of transport.

The group got a firsthand look at pollution. Floating litter covered the surface of the harbor and a brisk wind carried coal dust from the steel companies across the water to the Seaport.

"We have new laws requiring municipalities and industries to have their own water purification facilities," Mr. Guzhenko said. "Before an industry can begin operation, it must prove its waste products will be properly treated."

Before these laws were passed, he said, it was cheaper for an industry to pay a fine than to install pollution abatement equipment.

"We have a regular testing service now," Mr. Guzhenko said. "If the water is polluted more than the allowable, the company can be made to stop operating until it stops polluting."

The new Soviet anti-pollution laws put emphasis on the company management. If the director or manager of a plant "becomes obstinate" about complying with the law, he can be charged with a criminal offence, punished from his job, or personally fined.

"We have stopped the pollution," Mr. Guzhenko said. "Now we are letting nature clean up the polluting that was done previously."

Change Slow Church Faces 'Agony'

NEW YORK (AP) — Roman Catholic Bishop James P. Shannon, who recently resigned as auxiliary bishop of Minneapolis-St. Paul, says rigid resistance to change is carrying the church toward "greater and greater agony."

But he says that the resistance is ultimately "doomed to failure." And he makes clear that he favors sticking with the church through the ordeal.

"A new spirit of life, joy, change, growth and freedom has been set loose among the people of God in our day," he says. "No one can stop it. Many are trying. Their efforts can only prolong the agony . . . but cannot reverse the trend."

Bishop Shannon, who said he resigned because he opposed Pope Paul's ban against contraception, says he feels change is "painfully slow."

They are "so slow that many concerned Christians are leaving the institutional church, unwilling to wait for the new dawn. . . ." he writes in the current issue of The Priest, a monthly magazine for priests.

At the same time, others are "working very hard" to block the reforms. "A move is clearly under way within the Catholic Church to roll back the renewal in church life inaugurated by Vatican II."

But he says neither the quitters nor those seeking a bygone status quo will determine the church's future. Those who leave, he observes, "forfeit the right and power" to carry on the work for renewal.

Bishop Shannon, one of the leading intellectuals in the American hierarchy, says fidelity to Christ demands change and flexibility" and involves a creative tension "which modern church machinery merely stifles."

"It is hard for the church to give up her old habits of control, secrecy, certitude and rigidity in favor of less certitude, more experimentation, less rigidity and a willingness to play a hand in life's game.

"The average member of the Christian community today and a surprising number of its official leaders are still convinced that change is wrong. . . ."

Because of this, he says, the present church travail "may be just the beginning." He foresees "an extended period of greater and greater agony" until the church accepts the need for continual, creative change.

The bishop now is teaching literature at St. John's College in Santa Fe, N.M.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mrs. Allan Wells has been appointed a member of the Stirling Library Board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mrs. Gordon W. Bailey.

Frank E. Stapley and Mrs. Flossie Dunkley are patients in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Tucker have returned home recently from a month's vacation in the western provinces.

Mr. and Mrs. John Svoboda attended the graduation of their son Edward Svoboda, who received his Bachelor of Commerce, honors, from Queen's University, Kingston.

The Stirling Recreation Council have arranged a Youth Club for the Village. A committee will carry on during the summer and it is planned to elect officers in the fall if the venture is successful. The meetings will be held at the Stirling Community Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Summers, and family, of Ottawa and Jim Summers of Sudbury, spent last week with Mrs. Dorothy Summers.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Roy, Windsor spent the weekend with their mother, Mrs. Harry Clarke. Mrs. Roy attended a nurses' class reunion in Belleville.

Robert M. Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bell, recently received his Master's degree in Business Administration. He is employed with a Toronto firm.

The Stirling Branch of the Canadian Legion held their Decoration day service at St. James R.C. Church with Rev. J. F. McGarvey in charge. Sgt.-at-arms Blake Faulkner was in charge of the parade and color party. At the cenotaph Legion president Wieger de Jong laid a wreath on behalf of the Legion.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Camm recently attended the golden wedding anniversary of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bolson.

Mini-religions Are Reaction Against Age's Rationalism

NEW YORK (AP) — In a world of mini-cars, miniskirts and mini-rebellions, the environment today also is producing an assortment of mini-religions.

That's the term a New York publisher applies to various devotional organizies now showing up in American culture. Church scholars and sociologists say the trend sheds some light on odd new strains of religiosity.

"It's a reaction against scientific rationalism and a search for non-rational ways of coping," says Dr. Nelson Weiss, research associate of the Centre for the Study of World Religions at Harvard University.

Referring to the variety of curious religious-like manifestations now current, which depart from conventional faiths, Melvin L. Arnold, president of Harper & Row, said in a recent meeting of religious publishers: "Mini-religions may be exerting more influence today than traditional religions. Perhaps we may have been focusing too narrowly to look at assaults on religion meant only the standard religious denominations."

He noted the rising popularity of astrology, spiritual mediums, the widespread use of psychedelic drugs, the cult of violence, and the heavily-accented cult of sex.

"We are inundated and drowning in what the Greeks called the religion of Eros," he said of the contemporary sex obsession.

Rev. Andrew M. Greeley, a Roman Catholic sociologist at the University of Chicago, says the modern American generation, in revolt against scientism, is so intrigued by the sacred that it is "on the way to becoming superstitious."

"The popularity of witchcraft and astrology, contemplation and mysticism, vegetarian diets and the tarot cards shows how obsessed with the sacred some of the younger generation really is," he writes.

A church historian, Rev. Dr. Martin E. Marty, of the University of Chicago school of divinity, also ticks off a list of some of the proliferating cults in "the world of private visions and precision," saying: "America, 1969, has millions of advocates, devotees or half-believers in astrology, the cabala, drugs, ESP, fortune-telling, horoscopes, I Ching, Karma, LSD, mysticism, nirvana, occultisms, peyote, quietism, reality therapy, séances, Scientology, Theosophy, the void, witchcraft, xylomancy, yoga and Zen."

In addition, there are "126 nationalisms, the religions of communism and free worldism, of Black Power, of left and right."

Dr. Marty told the meeting of the Religious Publishers Group of the American Book Publishing Council.

Demorestville

DEMORESTVILLE — Mrs. Henry Sallans spent a few days in Belleville with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wannamaker and Lori.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Hulsenga, and family of Scobaria visited Mr. and Mrs. George Jones.

Moral Re-Armament Now 'Up with People'

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — The Moral Re-Armament movement in the United States now is operating as Up With People, Inc.

From its headquarters in Tucson, Ariz., it has dispatched three troupes of young singers to tour Europe and spread by song and association the anti-Communist ideology of brotherhood fostered for nearly half a century through the worldwide organization founded by late Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman and known as MRA.

J. Blanton Belk, son of a Virginia Presbyterian minister, directs Up With People as he has headed the U.S. branch of MRA since the organization began blossoming after the death of Buchman's successor, English journalist Peter Howard. From Belk's satellite headquarters in Los Angeles, Up With People has been publishing a magazine, Initiative, advocating practice of the M R A philosophy? "Absolute honesty, absolute purity, absolute unselfishness and absolute love" to bring about world brotherhood.

MRA still exists in the United States as a corporate, but nonoperating, structure, say Michigan sources closely associated with the movement.

An advocate says "nothing has changed in the philosophy with the shift to Up With People.

Executives of the movement at both the Tucson and Los Angeles offices were not available for comment or explanation of the change.

M R A's international headquarters are at Caux, Switzerland.

The touring singing groups are a development of the "Sing Out" concerts by young people this once were highlights of the impressive world assemblies which MRA conducted at this summer island in the Straits of Mackinac between Lakes Michigan and Huron.

The MRA movement grew from the Oxford Group that was founded in Britain in 1921 by Buchman, a Lutheran minister. For its world assemblies here, MRA invited world political and religious leaders to lecture. Many others, including presidents, premiers and potentates, sent messages to the assemblies. The assemblies, Belk said into people not people into a movement."

The last big international gathering here was in 1965.

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

ONE SHINING YEAR

"A world without knowledge is no world." — motto of University of Wales.

* * *

The new Prince of Wales, Prince Charles, focuses the eyes of the world on a lovely country beloved by all Welshmen.

"For me," recalls a Belleville woman of grandmotherly years, "I relive again one year, long ago, when as an exchange teacher from Canada, I went to London, where I caught a train at Paddington Station which took me to a small station near the Welsh border. The Welsh village where I was to teach, was three miles away.

"Bus runs every other day on week days,' said the station agent.

"This was an off day.

"Pressing a 'thank-you-for-keeping - my - luggage - until-sent-for' on a now none too willing agent, I set out, still wearing a pair of spiked high-heeled shoes, upon my walking marathon. I soon was in my glory, and later wrote my parents:

"'I felt like Alice-in-Wonderland. Or perhaps Gretel—Handseless; and instead of a forest with the candy house, here was a giant cake frosted with mint-green Turkish delight turf and meadows, irregularly trimmed with clover, green Rock Candy hedges, a licorice road twisted past chocolate-dipped, thatched-roofed, sugar-spun cottages decked with flowers of variegated gumdrops and lollypop holly-hocks. Even the sun was a lemon-drop sinking half way down the smooth lollipop lake scene sky, flecked with mounds of whipped cream clouds. No fog here!'

"Exaggeration? Not a bit of it.

"After many bends and turns, I stopped unexpectedly on the road. There just before me was a low, grey stone church, covered with ivy and surrounded with its white tombstones and dark yew-trees. All was enclosed by a circular hedge. But also enclosed was a school-house! This, then, was the school where I would teach. In rows by meadows, sheep grazed. Hills were seen over the way, and just farther along the road were several roof-tops of houses of the village where I would stay.

"The pastoral loveliness, the pleasant natures of the children, the interior peace of the village, the gentle laughter of this ancient people who somehow have remained ever young I have never been able to fully describe. But how I loved it. Of the years of my youth, it still stands out as one shining year." She pauses and then says:

"Prince Charles, we understand, began a year's study of the Welsh language, along with a term (April - June) at Aberystwyth University College, a constituent college in the University of Wales. I am reminded of a Welsh music-teacher (who along with other colleagues was sent to remote areas to teach music in schools by the combined efforts of the Department of Education and the Department of Music of the University, which complemented the Nation al Eisteddfod to foster poetry, music and art of their race). She invited me to visit her in Aberystwyth — a fine seacoast town compactly strewn along a beautiful beach. Upon visiting the magnificent Welsh sized University College by the ocean, she said:

"'All Wales is proud of her University. Aberystwyth College was first opened in 1872. Its success led to creating two others: one in the north at Bangor, the other in the south, at Cardiff.

"This was fine, yet something was missing. None of the three was a degree-granting university. There was a national outcry and in 1893, this was granted, when the Charter for the University of Wales (which combined the three colleges) was approved and sealed by the Privy Council. The year 1896 was memorable, for the Prince of Wales was installed Chancellor of the University of Wales; and the late Queen Alexandra, then the Princess of Wales, received the degree of Doctor of Music. The Prince of Wales telegraphed his mother: — "I am delighted with this pretty place." . . . and our narrator concludes:

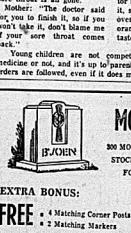
"Such are my memories and thoughts now that Prince Charles is the new Prince of Wales."

Sunday School Picnic

CHURCH OF THE REDEEMER
DESERONTO

DESERONTO — Again this year the Presbyterian Church of the Redeemer held its Sunday School picnic at Lake Ontario near Kingston.

The attendance was the best ever, the weatherman co-operating to give a fine day. There were plenty of parents to assist the teachers, Mrs. Blake Moore and Mrs. Kay Hood and Janice Klaver.



A pot-luck picnic lunch and several games all added to the enjoyment of the day. Several gifts and awards were made. A prize went to the oldest person, Miss Lesly Moore, the youngest, Robert Jones, Jr., son of Rev. Robert Jones and Mrs. Jones.

A presentation was made to Miss Sylvia Klaver, a bride-to-be of late July.

A prize for having perfect attendance went to seven-year-old Lorie Cole. Nine other pupils were given awards for having missed only one Sunday.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Child: "I don't need any more of that medicine. My sore throat is all gone."

Mother: "The doctor said for you to finish it, so if you won't take it, don't blame me if your sore throat comes back."

Young children are not competent to judge if they need medicine or not, and it's up to parents to see that the doctor's orders are followed, even if it does mean a fuss.

Mother: "I know this medicine tastes bitter, but the doctor says you should take all of it, so you will get completely over the infection. This orange juice will help take the taste away."

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Henderson, of Belleville, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Linda Mae, to Leslie Owen Calhoun, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oval Calhoun, of Cobourg. The marriage will take place August 16, at 4 p.m. in Christ Church, Belleville.

WEDDING

KINNEY — CLARKE

TWEED — St. John's United Church, Tweed, was the scene recently of a wedding, when Elaine Donna Clarke, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Clarke of Tweed, exchanged vows with Burns Stanley Kinney, son of Mrs. Ruby Kinney and the late Austin Kinney of Andover, New Brunswick.

Rev. Howard Y. Kennedy officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Church organist, Fred Porter rendered appropriate nuptial music and accompanied the soloist Mrs. Clive Kingston.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length bridal gown of paloma satin, featuring princess styling, long lily pointed sleeves, wedding ring collar, a wide panel of Guipure lace trimming the front of the gown from neck to hemline, and a matching cathedral train. Her headpiece, a four-tiered veil with scalloped edge, was held by a cluster of organza flowers, encrusted with crystals and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Glenda Kehoe, wore a floor-length gown of buttercup silk chiffon, lace yoke, empire styling. A self bow trimmed the back, matching headpiece of buttercup petals with silk illusion veiling, she carried a bouquet of white daisies and yellow roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Margaret Clarke and Miss Jeanne Miller, were attired identically to the matron of honor and flower girl Cindy Kehoe was attired identically to the bridesmaids and carried a basket of white daisies. Ring-bearer was Danny Nugent. Bernard McDonald attended the bridegroom, while Myles Clarke, brother of the bride and Charles Watson, uncle of the bridegroom were the ushers.

For the reception held in the church parlors, the bride's mother welcomed the guests wearing a light blue shantung sheath dress with a lace coat, and white accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Charles Watson, assisted, wearing white lace over taffeta, white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

A wedding dance was held in Actinolite Hall in the evening.

Leaving on a wedding trip to the Maritimes, the bride wore a pale green dress, white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. Upon their return they will reside in Hamilton.

Will Model For 16th Year at CNE

TORONTO (CP) — Jean Williams, 39, says she can only "chunk across the stage" these days but she was elected Thursday for the 16th year to be a model at the Canadian National Exhibition this summer and joining her for a second year will be her daughter, Wendy, 19.

Mother and daughter were two of the 14 models picked from 151 contestants by three judges.

Mrs. Williams says the CNE is "the only show I audition for" and admits she feels nervous every time she tries out.

"I just can't swirl and do all the movements one does. I just chunk across the stage."

The job pays a block sum of $600 for 19 days of steady work preceded by three days of fittings, two of rehearsals and a press preview.

Meissen Porcelain Still Commands High Prices

The Meissen factory was the first in Europe to p r oduce porcelain successfully in imitation of imported Chinese ware. The pattern illustrated is often known as onion. It originated at Meissen in 1722 as a copy of a Chinese original which actually pictured alternate peaches and pomegranates in the border. The pattern was much copied by other factories and is still on the market in variations. R o y a l Copenhagen manufactures an later or Arnsdorfle version.

The Meissen factory developed in part to assist Augustus the Strong of Saxony recoup losses incurred in his war with Sweden. He engaged Ehrenfried Tschirhausen, a researcher in porcelain and glass, and Johann Bottger to work in a laboratory to develop a porcelain rivalling the Chinese originals.

Bottger was an alchemist engaged in finding the mystical philosopher's stone t h a t would change base metals into gold. He studied in Berlin and acquired a considerable reputation. Frederick the 1st, King of Prussia, became interested in him, but Bottger fled to Wittenberg to avoid being shut up until gold was found.

Augustus the Strong heard of Bottger and had an escort take him to Dresden where he suffered the fate he fled Berlin to escape. For the rest of his life he was a virtual prisoner. In 1705 the King directed Bottger to assist Tschirhausen in his porcelain experiments and even provided a physician to look after Bottger's health.

Experiments proceeded and by 1708 a porcelain body had been discovered. Tschirhausen died and Bottger continued alone in 1710 producing a glaze suitable to the porcelain base. It was made out of a white clay used as fire brick for time to powder hair. It came from the property of Hans Gichtorr and was about 100 years "Schnorr's Earth" was used at Meissen.

Bottger died in 1719 before the fruits of his discovery were realized. His secret was more valuable than gold. Under stone. The formula of the porcelain body was confided to one arcanist whose sole duty was to maintain the secret.

The formula for the glaze was confided to another arcanist. In this way Augustus hoped to control the secret of porcelain.

Other factories, notably Severes, obtained the secret and manufactured with varying success. In 1724 Meissen began marking their pieces with a crossed sword mark taken from the arms of Saxony. The mark became the most famous in Europe and was quickly copied in the hope that ware thus marked would be mistaken for Meissen.

Marks similar to Meissen continue to be used by Potschappel since 1875, Plaue-on Havel 1817, Bohne or Rudolstadt 1854 and Wolfsohn of Dresden 1843. The name Meissen itself has been used by Ernest Teichert since 1884 to stamp his general wares.

The Meissen factory still uses the crossed sword mark, though changed.

Meissen, old or new, is valuable. Many of the imitations are valuable as well. Much early work was re-issued in the last century and a great deal of it was faked. Even so, the crossed swords and the magic name of Meissen command high prices.

Ann Landers
Children Should Work In Return for Allowance

DEAR ANN: Why are modern parents so foolish? Hoy can they expect their children to know the value of a dollar bill when allowances are handed out regularly and nothing is expected in return. Not even a "thank you."

When I see my grandsons growing up to be loafers it makes me sick. Yet I don't dare say anything because it's not my place.

Please wake up the parents, Ann. Tell them to insist that their kids work after school, and on Saturdays and during summer vacations. They'll be better men and women for it. — OLD TIMER.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR TIMER: I agree that kids should work, but do you know how hard it is for a teen-ager to find an after-school job, or summer work only? The labor laws were written many years ago to protect kids against exploitation in sweat shops. These laws should be changed. Today kids need to work as a matter of self-respect. They need to expend their energies in useful and productive ways. But in most states there are all sorts of restrictions on hiring minors.

So don't put the blame on the parents, Grandpa. There's more to this problem than meets the eye.

* * *

DEAR ANN: My wife Ethel just asked me if I was queer She then handed be a column about men who wear women's underwear. It so happens that I have been wearing Ethel's panties for a long time.

Now hear this: When I was in World War II I ran out of shorts. The ship's service store was sold out. In desperation I went to the WAVES counter and bought white cotton panties of the largest size. They proved to be so much more comfortable than the broadcloth shorts that I never went back to the men's counter after that.

When I married Ethel I explained this whole thing to her and we never had any discussion about it until now. Of course I've had to be careful in the locker room at the Y for fear of being ridiculed, but I've kept my secret.

Am I queer because I put comfort ahead of conformity? What do you think? — CHARLEY.

DEAR CHARLEY: I think that somewhere in s men's store you could find shorts that are comfortable. If you wanted to, that is.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work hard all day and like to get to bed about 9:00 p.m. My wife has fallen into a habit of going over to the neighbir's house after I've gone to bed and sitting there till midnight or even later. The neighbor's husband is in Vietnam. I never gave it a thought until I saw a couple of movies about women liking each other in an unnatural way. Now I worry that something funny might be going on.

My wife is a wonderful mother and our marriage is good, except for this one thing. What are your ideas? — B.H.

DEAR B.H.: A wife who is so lonely that she needs to go to the neighbors every night for company is in a bad way. Why don't you suggest that she invite friends in a couple of evenings a week — or go to a movie or visit someone? Your marriage needs a transfusion and it's up to you to provide it, Bub.

100 Attend Hawley Picnic

DESERONTO — The recent Hawley family picnic brought together approximately 100 family members, along the Bay of Quinte, at the home of Howard Hawley and Mr. and Mrs. Rockwell Hawley.

Relatives came from as far away as Seoul, Korea, and the Grand Bahama Islands — who had planned their holidays to coincide with the picnic.

Mrs. Rockwell Hawley remarked that since six years ago, the event has become an annual one. Each year, a committee is appointed to supervise, this time headed by Mrs. Bill Tuckett of Peterborough.

During the afternoon, the children enjoyed games. Later, all enjoyed lunch, smorgasbord style.

After dinner, gifts were presented to the oldest woman present — Mrs. James Hawley, Toronto, who is 79, and to the oldest man, Charles Hoselgo, Cobourg, 81.

Howard Hawley gave a talk on family relationships. He has made a study of the genealogy of the family.

Rev. Morley Hawley, missionary in Korea, has almost completed his year's furlough in Canada, and, with his wife and family of four, two born in Korea, will be leaving July 10 to take up his work again.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hawley and their family of three from the Grand Bahama Island spend their vacations in Canada with relatives in various parts of Canada each year.

Successful Living
Report on Standing on One's Head

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Many thanks for your pamphlet on how to quit smoking. After digesting it thoroughly, with a cigarette in my mouth, I have decided it's infinitely easier to stand on my head. However, who knows, perhaps one of these days in a fit of coughing (and a moment of madness) I shall decide to join the ranks of the smug minority and give up the whole dirty business in favor of head-standing.

Yes, I do the head-stands regularly, and will try to answer your questions:

A. I'm sure I was exaggerating when I said five minutes. I expect I could stay up that long if I had to, but I've really never timed myself. I just stay there until I feel my eyes pop and my face turn purple then I right myself.

B. Do I think it's good for me? Yes I do. It gets the blood slushing through my lazy brain so that I feel more alert, and I'm sure it drains some of the guck out of my lungs.

C. Yoga? Never studied it at all. But I think I might like to some time.

D. What do I do up there upside down? I click my heels and do the splits and think beautiful thoughts and plan what to have for dinner and dream up lead lines for commercials, and sometimes, I watch television. Upside down, it's almost an improvement. — Jean Paul

Dear Fellow Journalist: Is it the muscular strength that it gives to your brain (with apologies to Alice) that makes you write that way? Once a friend said my sister Mary wrote as if she were standing on her head, and now I know what she meant.

* * *

Dear Doris: I was all set to get my daughter's hope chest, when my sister-in-law told me it's the boy friend that buys it the Christmas before they are married.

That's a new one on me! — Wondering

Dear Wondering: Fiddlesticks! Time was when every girl was given a hope chest by her parents, long ahead of any suitors turning up. Recently, it has been an acceptable gift from a steady — to show serious intentions.

Just the same, parents are still doing it. A girl starts hoping when she starts dating and fond relatives love having a hand in helping her accumulate linens, silver, and other hopeful items. Go ahead and give her something to put them in.

Bread Recipe for Three Loaves

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: The recipe for Bread Sponge Method which was published in the early 60s . . . my poor clipping is faded, discolored and taped together; if it weren't for the fact I know the recipe almost by heart I'd never be able to bake that wonderful bread again . . . Mrs. C. P. S.

ANSWER: This new copy will get you off to a fresh start.

WHITE BREAD

(Sponge method—makes 3 loaves

Sponge:
2¼ cups lukewarm water
3 tbsps. sugar
2 envelopes granular yeast
3 cups sifted all - purpose flour

Stir sugar into lukewarm water in a bowl. Sprinkle with yeast and let stand 10 min. Then stir well. Add flour and beat until smooth. Cover with a damp cloth. Let rise in warm place free from draft until light and spongy — about 1 hr.

Remaining Ingredients:
1½ cups milk — (Scalded)
3 tbsps. sugar
1½ tbsps. salt
4½ tbsps. shortening
6 cups (about) sifted all-purpose flour

Scald milk, then stir in sugar, salt and shortening and cool to lukewarm. Stir sponge down. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture. Stir in flour. Turn out dough on lightly floured board or canvas. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl; brush top with melted shortening. Cover. Let rise in warm place free from draft until doubled in bulk — about 1¼ to 2 hrs. Punch down dough, turn out on lightly floured board or canvas. Divide into three even parts; cover and let rest 15 min. Shape into 3 loaves. Place in greased bread pans (standard loaf size). Brush lightly with melted butter or margarine. Cover. Let rise in warm place free from draft until centre is slightly higher than edge of pan — about 1¼ to 2 hrs. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 35 to 40 min.

Hayward Days Are No More

By GEORGE H. CARVER

HAYWARD LONG REACH (Fiction) — A gentle breeze rippled the surface of this once internationally - famous waterway — one of the flighty unlimited hydroplanes.

A few white - wings bobbed slightly on the sun - glinted water. Powered craft of the Prince Edward Yacht Club down - throttled to almost a purr, scarcely disturbed the peacefulness of the scene.

Woodsy animals atop the upswept shorelines bowed green - clustered heads in foliage grace.

And somewhere up there along the misty sidelines, it seemed the ghosts of the Supertests and other famous international hydroplanes with Bobby Hayward, Pops Cooper, Wild Bill Cantrell, Bill Muncey and others looked down with nostalgic approval.

The story of this beautiful ribbon of bay of Quinte waters is a saga of glory and tragedy.

For the glory and tragedy were the invisible outriders that, five years ago, accompanied a famous world nautical racing symbol to the place of its origin.

On or around Dominion Day 1964, for the first time in its 41-year-old history, the famous Harmsworth Trophy, symbol of world hydroplane supremacy was returned to its British trustees for lack of a defender.

The Canadian Boating Federation made the gesture that left Canada the only undefeated retired champion of the Supertests and other famous international hydroplanes with Bobby Hayward, Pops Cooper, Wild Bill Cantrell, Bill Muncey and others looked down with nostalgic approval.

The history of this world famous racing trophy is studded with names that are legendary in sporting circles.

Her famous pilot Bobby Hayward, rated one of the top unlimited drivers of all time, lost his life in a sensational crash on the Detroit River in 1963 while driving an old ex sister "Miss Supertest II."

Apple-cheeked Bobby Hayward made Harmsworth history in 1959 when his daring driving propelled the famous trophy from its American defenders on the joune-crested waters of the Detroit river.

Won by Gar Wood in 1920 the Americans had held the trophy until Hayward and Canada forced the change of "residence."

Hayward and the incomparable "Miss Supertest III" put Picton and Prince Edward County's now famous "Hayward Long Reach" in global sports headlines when they successfully defended the championship in 1960 and 1961.

The impact of Hayward's sudden demise led perhaps directly to the withdrawal of Canada from Harmsworth competition.

Colonel Gordon Thompson and son Jim Thompson of London, Ont., who designed, built and sometimes drove the "Supertest" boats, felt the tragic passing of Hayward keenly.

They announced the retirement of the world champion "Miss Supertest III" and their own retirement from the field of unlimited hydroplane racing.

The marked superiority of the Canadian champion in design, speed and power plant could not be matched by American interests. There was no challenge in 1962 when Hayward met his unfortunate end.

In 1963 in deference to and respect of the memory of the gallant Canadian driver, his boat and his sponsors, the Americans refrained from using the customary challenge.

However with the retirement of "Miss Supertest III" and with a small flotilla of new and most powerful hydroplanes, they entered a formidable team in 1964. Canada naturally was forced to default. There were no challengers.

I cannot recall any subsequent challenges for the Harmsworth. It will remain in England, I assume, until a nation accepts the U.S. challenge and a new champion named.

A movement was started in 1965 to organize world competition of seven-litre boats. These sleek Lilliputians of nautical racing had rapidly gained popularity in the United States, Canada and other nations.

Theirs was not the full-throated roar and the arching fifty-foot rooster tails of the unlimiteds. They were the water sprites of the family that skim the surface with purring drone.

At that time Canada had several of these boats one of which, owned in Quebec, took first measure of the U.S. champion at a meet in California.

The Canadian Boating Federation in that year made an unsuccessful attempt to have the Harmsworth Trophy Committee adopt a rules change that would have the seven litre entrants be unlimited as trophy competitors.

Bobby Hayward's epitath? "Greater love hath no man ..."

NORMAN ARTHUR PENNINGTON

A longtime resident of the Quinte area, Norman Arthur Pennington died this morning in Belleville General Hospital.

Born in Manchester, England, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Norman Pevington, the deceased passed away at his residence at 24 Valleyview Crescent.

He is survived by his wife, the former Shirley Kilpatrick, and his two children, Garfield N. and Mary Ann, both at home.

Mr. Pennington formerly resided in Foxboro where he was a member of the Foxboro United Church. He had been an employee of the Corby Distillery Company for the past 19 years.

Mr. Pennington served with the Ottawa Cameron Highlanders during World War II and saw action in France, Germany, England and Holland.

The funeral service will be held Monday from the chapel of the John R. Bush funeral home to Foxboro cemetery for interment. Rev. Alexander McDowell will officiate.

Bowerman Slips to Second in Rain

WINNIPEG (CP) — Bad weather plagued the Manitoba open golf championship Friday for the second day as 142 golfers fought to make the cutoff for the last 18 holes of the $8,000 tournament today.

The rain and gusty winds didn't bother Bill Mitchell from Danville, Va., who came up with his second two-under-par 70 to take the lead in the 54-hole event.

Mitchell, who finished 10th in the U.S. Open, leads a field of 65 into the last round at 140.

Belleville native, Gary Bowerman, 28, a pro from Maple Downs Gold and Country Club in Toronto, lost his first-round lead by carding a one-over-par 73 Friday.

Bowerman, who shot a 68 Thursday, had a 141 total and a second place tie with Mike Rosser of Palm Beach, Fla., who had rounds of 70-71.

Canada's reigning amateur champion, Jim Doyle of Winnipeg, Friday duplicated Bowerman's earlier round of 68 over the 6,800-yard, par-72 layout.

Doyle had gone two over in the first round, leaving him at 142, two strokes off the pace.

He collected five birdies Friday, but went one over par on the 18th to miss tying the course record of 67.

Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver also staged a comeback, firing a 70 to follow his opening-round 73. He stands alone at 143.

The cutoff for the final round was 155.

Play at the Breezy Bend Country Club was suspended for two hours Friday because of rain.

Some of the first-round leaders had disastrous rounds Friday.

Amateur Gordon Falk of Winnipeg, in with a 70 Thursday, blew to a 77. Trevor Bateman of Montreal slipped to a 77 after a 71.

Defending champion Alvie Thompson of Toronto came up with his second round of 72 for a 144 total and is tied with Bill Wright Jr., of Edmonton, Bobby Breen of Brampton, Ont., and Len Harvey of Regina.

Canadians in Alps

Open Hockey Lobby Under Way

CRANS-SUR-SIERRE (CP) — Canada's hockey representatives today will attempt to sway European delegates at the International Ice Hockey Federation's annual meeting in this Swiss Alpine resort to take the amateur-professional labels off hockey.

The Canadians, a 14-man delegation including government representatives, are lobbying for an open world tournament in line with world tennis competition. World hockey in the past has been solely for amateurs.

The Canadians will make a proposal to this effect sometime between the opening of the IIHF meeting today and its adjournment July 12.

The lobbyists are led by Earl Dawson of Rivers, Man., president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association; Charles Hay of Toronto, president of Hockey Canada, and J. L. de Lisle, the Canadian ambassador to Switzerland. They are hoping to gain the needed support from European delegates.

They arrived here late Friday afternoon and held a two-hour summit meeting later the same evening. The wives of the Canadian contingent also will lobby for the open tournament proposal.

"We are hoping to convince the Europeans that they are playing against second-rate competition when they play against amateur teams from Canada and the U.S.," Dawson said.

An open competition would mean that any country would be allowed to use any native-born player regardless of his amateur or professional status. It would mean, in the case of Canada, that the country probably would be represented by a team of National Hockey League all-stars.

Such rules, if adopted, could not be sanctioned under the present International Olympic Congress code of ethics during Olympic years.

"But we are not concerned with that aspect at present," said Rev. David Bauer, founder of Canada's current national team — all amateurs.

"If we can return Canada to a world power in hockey through open competition during the next three years, it would focus attention on the program and national pride would follow," Father Bauer said.

"We will then have top amateurs willing to forgo the glory and financial gains of professional hockey long enough to represent Canada at the Olympics."

"I think the open competition would create a chain of events, including emphasis on high school hockey that could be subsidized by the federal government," he said.

Also here as supporters are:

Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL; Gordon Juckes of Winnipeg, secretary-manager of the CAHA, and Fred Page of Vancouver, a past-president of the CAHA.

Don't Stop Now!

Fortunately for Trenton's Jeff Howard, a crucial birdie putt kept going on the third playoff hole to win him top honors Friday in district qualification for the Ontario Golf Association junior championship. (Story on page 10).

Santo Does Dunking

Gibson 'Showered' First Time Since '67

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ron Santo of Chicago Cubs had the last word in a confrontation with St. Louis Cardinals' pitcher Bob Gibson Friday as the Cubs defeated the National League champions 3-1 in 10 innings.

Gibson struck out Santo three times during the regulation nine innings.

But in the 10th, Santo drove across a run with a single and knocked Gibson out of a game for the first time since 1967.

Santo's hit followed a double by Billy Williams that broke a 1-1 tie. Until Santo gained revenge for the three strikeouts, Gibson built up a record of 56 consecutive games without being knocked out of the box.

The Cardinals are in fifth place, 13½ games behind the Eastern Division leading Cubs.

In other NL action, Montreal Expos won twice, 8-5 and 7-3, over Philadelphia Phillies; New York Mets clipped Pittsburgh Pirates 11-6 and 9-2 to cut the Cubs' division lead to seven games, San Francisco beat Atlanta Braves twice, 7-6 in 10 innings and 7-3, Cincinnati Reds turned Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1 and Houston Astros blanked San Diego Padres 4-0.

The two 10th-inning runs for the Cubs broke up a pitching duel between Gibson and Chatham, Ont., native Ferguson Jenkins.

Jenkins collected his 11th win of the year, against five defeats. He struck out 10 batters and scattered seven St. Louis singles.

Don Kessinger, who tripled and scored the Cubs' first run in the third inning, started the winning rally with a single, stole second base and advanced to third on Glenn Beckert's bunt single. Williams then dropped a double into centre field and Santo finished off Gibson.

BOB GIBSON

The Cardinals, who have lost seven of their last nine games, scored their only run in the fourth from a walk and singles by Curt Flood and Vada Pinson.

Right-hander Larry Robertson of Montreal pitched a complete game for the first time in the major leagues and ended Philadelphia's winning streak at nine games, allowing six hits. The Expos completed their sweep with a four-run eighth inning rally in the second game.

Bob Bailey hit a two-run single to break a 2-2 tie and Coco Laboy doubled in two more runs.

Bailey and Mack Jones paced the Expos' first game attack with two runs batted in each.

Light-hitting Al Weis led the Mets' assault against Pittsburgh with a double in the opener and a bases-loaded triple in the second game.

Shoot Monday

Aussie Rivalry Gone from Bisley

BISLEY, England (CP) — A strong contingent of Canadian marksmen sharpened its shooting eye Friday in preparation for two weeks of tough campaigning against Commonwealth shots in the annual National Rifle Association shoot.

Canada has 50 riflemen entered officially—plus one independent—against about 1,500 members of eight teams from the United Kingdom and abroad in the meet that opens Monday.

Canada's traditional rivalry with Australia will be missing this year. The Aussies do not compete regularly because of the expense of sending a team. Uganda also has dropped out this year.

However marksmen will be here from England, Northern Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Jamaica, Kenya, Zambia and the Channel Islands.

Since arriving here about a week ago, the Canadians have been working hard to master the tricky ranges of this Surrey County encampment, beset by fickle winds and mirages.

Tigers Use Cash and Carry

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With Norm Cash and the weatherman as a 1-2 punch, Detroit Tigers held onto second place in the American League's Eastern Division Friday.

But the real fireworks were in the Western Division where Minnesota Twins celebrated the July 4 holiday by bombing Oakland Athletics 10-4 as Harmon Killebrew, Rod Carew and Leo Cardenas blasted homers.

The outburst out the Athletics' first-place lead over the Twins to four percentage points with two games to go in the three-game series.

Cash singled Detroit's 4-1 victory over Baltimore Orioles with a three-run homer and then rain ended the contest after 5 2-3 innings. It also washed out the second game of the scheduled doubleheader.

But the Tigers have a long way to go if they still expect to catch Baltimore, for despite the victory, they still remain 10 games behind the Orioles.

Boston stood 11 games behind Baltimore with a 7-4 victory over Washington Senators after the Red Sox dropped their seventh in a row, 5-1, in the opener of the doubleheader.

Cash's homer came in the first inning off Baltimore loser Mike Cuellar before a thunderstorm delayed play for 68 minutes in the third inning at Detroit.

Frank Robinson hit a homer in the fifth for the Orioles, but the rain finally settled the issue after a 46-minute wait entering the bottom of the fifth.

Mickey Lolich won his ninth consecutive game as the Tigers made it four in a row.

Ann Jones Draws Royal Approval In Addition to Wimbledon Crown

WIMBLEDON, England (Reuters) — Ann Jones captured the Wimbledon women's singles title for Britain despite an injured leg Friday with a thrilling victory over Billie Jean King of the United States before 15,000 fans.

Mrs. Jones, 30, lost the first set but came back to upset the favored Mrs. King in the All-England open tennis championships. It was learned later that the Queen will make her a member of the Order of the British Empire Tuesday for her contribution to tennis.

The Queen was kept from the Wimbledon finals by a cold, but Princess Ann was on hand to see Mrs. Jones end the three-year reign of Mrs. King as singles champion.

Today, John Newcombe of Australia will try to prevent fellow-countryman Rod Laver from winning his fourth Wimbledon men's title.

Mrs. Jones won 3-6, 6-3, 6-2 over Mrs. King in a battle between two professionals. The British woman scored an impressive three-set victory Wednesday over Margaret Court of Australia.

Mrs. Jones, the first Briton to win the Wimbledon women's singles since Angela Mortimer turned the trick in 1961, picked up first prize money equivalent to about $3,900. Mrs. King won about $2,000.

Mrs. Jones's cup was full after 13 tries at winning the title. She reached the semi-finals 11 times prior to this tournament and lost in the final to Mrs. King two years ago.

She said afterward she had done it despite a leg injury. She said she strained a leg muscle during the match with Mrs. Court.

Newcombe and Tony Roche of Australia took the men's doubles crown by breaking Marty Riessen's serve once in each set for a 7-5, 11-9, 6-3 victory over Riessen, of the U.S., and Tom Okker of The Netherlands.

Mrs. Jones and Fred Stolle of Australia will meet Roche and Judy Tegart of Australia in the mixed doubles finals today. The women's doubles final will pit Miss Tegart and Mrs. Court against the U.S. pair of Peggy Michel and Patti Hogan.

Pyramids Okay in Egypt, Taboo in Canadian Football

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Football 1969 starts today with Ottawa Rough Riders visiting Montreal Alouettes in an exhibition game at the Autostad.

And while it will be the same old game, the kicking, blocking, clipping and pyramiding rules have been changed.

The pyramid—in which one player could spring onto the back of another to knock down the ball—is out.

The old rule book said of clipping—"blocking a player from the rear shall be illegal."

It still is, but this year's edition of the Canadian Football League rules also states:

"Clipping means blocking an opponent other than the ball carrier from the rear in such a manner that the player charges into the opponent's back in fails across the back of his legs.

"The application of a penalty is determined by the initial contact which must be observed by the official and shall not be called if, in the judgment of the official: A—the block occurs in the scrimmage zone between the tackles and within two yards on either side of the line of scrimmage, or B—the initial contact is made on the side of the opponent, or C—the opponent could see the blocker approaching and could have avoided the block."

The CFL rules-makers also revised the "pulling-on" statutes to state "pulling occurs when a player runs into, throws his body against or falls upon a ball carrier after the play has been terminated by the sounding of an official's whistle."

Previously, it was a matter of official judgment. Now that all the officials have whistles—only the referee was armed with one when the rule was originally drafted—all players will know immediately when the play is officially dead.

But it is in the matter of kicking that the greatest changes have come.

Under the old rules, any team lucky enough to recover its own kick-off usually had to scrimmage the ball from the point of recovery.

Now, while the ball still must travel the required 10 yards from point of kick, the kicking team may block any number of men any distance for the man who recovers.

When you combine this with the new rule concerning the free-training line, it could make for more after-touchdown trickery.

Under the old rules, there had to be a minimum of six players on the restraining line and they had to be stationed between 10 and 11 yards from the kick-off line.

Now there is no minimum requirement but no member of the receiving line can be closer than 10 yards to the kicking line.

"Now," says CFL statistician Greg Fulton, "if even a team is down two touchdowns and gets one back it will be an obvious situation for the on-side kick."

The punting rule has been amended in a move that could give the team in possession a wider choice on third down.

Under the old rule, anyone on the kicking team could move ball.

This year, only two players will be permitted to go—the one closest to each sideline, be he a flanker or an end. Everyone else holds up until the ball is actually kicked.

"How do you defend that third-down punt now?" Fulton asks.

"Do you double-team the two moving men to give the punt-runback man a better chance to make yards?

"If you do, you take the chance of being caught by a run or a passing play—I think you will see more fake kicks."

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Lee Roy Yarbrough's road from the also-ran of 1968 to the big money man of stock car racing in 1969 is paved with experience and teamwork. "It takes around a year for any crew to get to working good together," Yarbrough said Friday as he basked in the glory of his third big payday at Daytona International Speedway after winning the Firecracker 400. The $22,175 pay cheque brought Yarbrough's winnings in National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing's grand national events to $130,341 this year. He is easily within striking distance of the record annual earnings of $136,735 collected by Cale Yarborough last year.

GLENEAGLES, Scotland (AP) — Defending champion Bob Loufek of Moline, Ill., won the international seniors' golf tournament Friday with a 78 for a four-round aggregate of 298. Second was Joel Goldberg of Kalamazoo, Mich., who turned in 76 for a 297. Dave Goldman shot a 74 to finish in a tie for third at 298 with Curtis Person as Americans took the first 10 places. Ted Ort 10th with 300 were Jack B. Nash of London, Ont. Hunt Cluh and R. T. Morton of the U.S. Each shot a last round 77. Sandy Sommerville of London Hunt finished at 308 with a last-round 87. Don Anderson of St. Thomas was at 309 fi.

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Officials were to try again today to get in the second round of the weather-plagued Buick Open golf tournament. A series of violent thunderstorms forced cancellation of the second round Friday. The schedule now calls for 18 holes today and a 36-hole windup on Sunday. The weather forecast was for more thunderstorms today on the waterlogged, 7,001-yard par-72 Warwick Hill Country Club course.

Merchants Win First on Road

BRANTFORD (CP—Staff) — A second five-goal performance by Robbie McCarthy for Quinte Merchants highlighted the faltering Belleville team's third win of Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior A season Friday night — a 14-12 verdict over the powerful all-Indian Brantford Warriors.

McCarthy's contribution towards the Merchants' first road win of the season is even more remarkable when his age is taken into consideration. The Peterborough youngster is only 14, and has six years of junior lacrosse eligibility remaining.

The other five-goal night for McCarthy came in the Merchants' 16-4 home win over Bramalea June 26. He is currently the leading scorer for the Peterborough TeePees — the Merchants' OLA junior affiliates.

Ray Powers and Bernie Burns each collected a pair of goals for the Merchants, whose record is now 3-11.

Single goals went to Roger Wood, Jim Guerin, Mike Self, Howie Stevenson and Paul Jones. For the Warriors, Rod Campbell's hat trick showed the way, with veterans Charlie Thomas, and Bill and Jim Squires scoring two each. Doug Wilsie, Jean Genereux and Gil Bombary each got one.

Next home game for the Merchants is scheduled for Tuesday night against the Brooklin Redmen, who have beaten Belleville in their previous four encounters.

Site of the game will presumably be the Belleville Arena.

Merchants' management — plagued by poor home gates — have indicated they may be forced to leave Belleville. A trial game in Trenton against Huntsville Thursday night drew barely 100 spectators.

Pair of 71's Pace Provincial Pack

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bob Skura of Kitchener and Tim McCutcheon of Peterborough each fired 71 on different courses Friday to assure themselves berths in the Ontario junior golf championships July 29-30 at Thornhill.

The two 18-year-olds were among 155 junior golfers who competed in qualifying rounds at 17 courses.

Official entrants in the championships will be announced by the Ontario Golf Association next week after taking into consideration scores fired Friday and ratings of the courses.

Skura, playing at Galt's Waterloo country club, shot par on the 6,119-yard course, one stroke better then Tim Bauer, 17, also of Kitchener.

McCutcheon, playing at Peterborough, started off badly when he shot two-over par on the first hole, but then recovered to finish one over for the course. He shot even par on the back nine holes.

Jim Hovey, 16, of Oshawa, came second with a two-over-par,74.

At Sarnia, Rod MacDonald, 16, and Bob Andrews, 17, both of Sarnia, each shot four-over 74.

Gary Gibson, 17, of Hamilton, was another top golfer, scoring a par 72 on Hamilton's Glendale Golf Course. Other high-scoring golfers on different courses included Ed Worthington of Hamilton, Bill Huizer of Niagara-on-the-Lake and Dave Smith of Brantford, all with 73 and Kelly Roberts of Trafalgar, and Barry McTaggart, 15, of Huntington, fired a one-over 73 at Streetsville. Dave Falgar and Harold Schrader, 15, of Kitchener scored a three-over-par 74 at Galt.

Howard Tops Quinte Qualifiers With Birdie on Third Extra Hole

By MALCOLM JOHNSTON
Staff Sportswriter

Jeff Howard of CFB Trenton may be involved in many a sudden-death playoffs in his future golfing career, but he'll likely remember his first one Friday for a long while.

Howard made his first qualifying attempt as a junior a successful one Friday when he recovered from a sliced tee-shot on the first extra hole to sink a three-foot birdie putt on the third hole of a sudden-death playoff and win the Quinte district qualifying round for the Ontario Junior championship.

"I was very nervous on the first extra hole but I tried to play as well as I could," Howard said, "I didn't think I'd play this well today but when I saw that three-foot putt I knew I better not miss it."

Howard's birdie put broke a three-way deadlock with 17-year-old Scott Knapp of Napanee and 18-year-old Bruce Burger of Port Hope, who along with the 16-year-old CFB golfer had shot six-over-par 77's in the regulation 18 holes on the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club course to force the sudden-death playoff.

Knapp and Burger parred the third extra hole to finish in a tie for second place. All three golfers had parred the first extra hole and recorded bogeys on second extra hole before Howard put his tee shot on the apron of the third extra hole. The first hole at the Bay of Quinte course — and chipped to within three feet of the pin to set up the short birdie putt.

Bantam Doug Ridley of Belleville enjoyed the widest margin of victory in any of the three age categories (junior — for 16, 17 and 18-year-olds; juvenile for 14 and 15-year-olds; and bantam for those 13 and under) when he toured the course in 93 strokes to finish eight strokes ahead of second-place finisher Joe Edwards of Belleville and nine strokes in front of third-place finisher Mark Westfall of Trenton.

A trio of Trenton golfers swept the top three spots in the juvenile competition. Jim Parker's 87 was good enough for first place and one stroke better than Phillip Hamilton's 88. Raymond Dixon came in third.

The top qualifier in each age class was awarded a trophy, donated by Mann's Beverages, the tournament sponsor, and also a set of three golf balls.

Friday's winners will have to wait until today to see how they fared compared to other golfers competing in similar qualifying rounds across the province, but it is expected that the 77's turned in by the junior leaders will win them a spot in the 1969 Ontario Junior Championship.

In all 26 golfers — 16 juniors, seven juveniles and three bantams — competed in Friday's qualifying round over the par - 71, 6,119 yard course.

There were only four other entrants — all juniors — from the Bay of Quinte Country Club. Bill Hurley topped the quartet with an 86, and Dave Thompson turned in a 90 while Bert Loveless and Gord McCreary each recorded 91's.

BOWLERS'S SUMMER LEAGUE

Unfortunate 13 — 2, Spillers 1; Hellcats 1, Chargers 0 (forfeit over); Queen's Motor Hotel A and B's 1 Dum Dums 2; Bisons 2, Lovelies Bowling and Jet's 1.

Women's High Scores — A. Bowker 337; G. Pearce 335; M. Ward 302; K. Moreau 295.

Men's High Scores — J. Fraser 387; R. Long 364; J. Fraser 374; R. Peats 333.

Prescott Batting Pair Bear Watching by Joyces

Two Prescott batters — outfielder Art Pearce and first baseman Jerry Devaney — will receive very special attention from Belleville Jaycees' coach Jim Whyte and his pitching staff Sunday evening at the Fairgrounds when the Belleville Joyces play host to the Prescott Beavers in a 7 p.m. Eastern Ontario Baseball Association Senior game under the lights.

The pair, when customarily occupy the third and fourth spots in the Prescott batting order, have sparked the Beavers to an even split with the league - leading Joyces in four meetings between the teams so far this year.

Pearce lined up with the Joyces in the Peterborough tournament last week and gave ample evidence of his batting prowess. He stroked three hits in four plate appearances and missed a fourth hit when he failed to touch first base while running out a double.

Devaney's record also speaks for itself. He was particularly effective during the Joyces' first win over the Beavers, Saturday, June 14th, in Prescott, collecting five singles in five at-bats and driving in a pair of runs as the Beavers 6-3 loss.

After dropping a 9-5 decision last Saturday to the Leaside Maple Leafs in the opening game of the Peterborough tournament to decide Ontario's representative in August's Canadian championships in Halifax, the Joyces will now focus their attention on the EOBA senior race.

They currently lead the league with a record of seven wins and three losses, and have won three straight league games — two over Prescott by scores of 10-3 and 15-5 and an 11-6 verdict over Kingston.

A win in Sunday night's 7 p.m. game would give the Joyces five victories in six games in front of the hometown crowd and also insure the team of at least a split in their six - game season's series with the Beavers.

Quinte Quartet Entered

Betty Ingram, one of last year's semi - finalists, heads a quartet of Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club competitors entered in the 54th Ontario Ladies' Amateur Golf Championship at Cookville.

Mrs. Ingram, the Bay of Quinte Club's Ladies' Champion in ten of the past 11 years, will tee off at 9.52 a.m. Monday at the Credit Valley Golf and Country Club.

Eva Corbe will tee off at 12.07 p.m. and Anne Acton will follow her at 12.15 p.m. The fourth local competitor, Betty Walmsley, will tee off at 1.15 p.m.

The Belleville quartet will be among 96 golfers from across the province seeking championship honors. Mrs. Ingram's advancement to the semi - inals last year was the best performance ever by a local competitor.

Zwick's On Target Again

It didn't start out like a good weekend for anything let alone the fine art of archery, but damp footing isn't enough to postpone the Ontario Target Championships.

About 50 entrants were expected to congregate today and Sunday at Zwick's Island, scene of last week's final round of the Ontario team elimination shoot.

Foremost among the participants will be Belleville's Carol Armstrong and Lindsay's Don Jackson, the defending Canadian champions who will lead the Ontario contingent to the national championships July 14-17 in Victoria.

Boat Has No Brakes!

Pleasure Boat Operators Should Forget Car Handling

By STAN DAVIES

When you're zipping along in a boat on a wide open stretch of water it's amazing how much it handles like a car. But in the confines of a narrow channel or in the process of docking, particularly under the stress of a little panic, it's amazing how much it doesn't.

For instance, a car won't go sideways, but a boat will; a car stops quite abruptly, but a boat has no brakes; and most important of all, a car in turning pivots around a point at the rear, but a boat pivots around a point up near the bow.

This latter difference means that in turning, a car swings its front end, but the boat turns by swinging its rear end. This action of swinging the stern is more apparent in small outboards than it is in large inboard boats, but in both cases it is the biggest single factor to take into consideration when docking.

When coming in to dock, the bow is laid alongside the wharf or pier and the stern is allowed to swing into place under the gentle action of the engine or motor.

And in getting away from a dock, it is much safer to put the engine or motor in reverse and pull the boat astern, well away from the dock, before going forward. Consider what happens if one should just drive away from a position alongside a dock wall. When the wheel or tiller is turned in an effort to point the bow out and away from the wall, the stern swings and crashes into it.

It is not at all uncommon to see outboard boats with damage and scratches along the sides at the stern caused by the operator driving headlong away from the berth without a thought to the swinging action of the stern.

But back to the other dissimilarities. Because a boat has no brakes, putting the engine in reverse gear is the only mechanical way of slowing. So when coming in to dock, come in slowly, because it takes time to shift into reverse and for the backward thrust of the prop to be felt.

In normal operation a car doesn't travel sideways. If it does the action is called a skid and is considered very dangerous. Yet most boats skid a little every time they make a turn. The faster the turn, the greater the skid. So, in close quarters don't turn very fast or you might skid into another boat.

A PLANING HULL SKIPS EASILY, CUT SPEED IN CROWDED WATERS.

This is very true of small fast outboards that have relatively flat bottoms. They skid very easily.

Boats with more draft, like big cruisers with V-bottoms, or sailboats with weighted keels or centre boards make very little sideways motion. But don't assume that they don't make any. Because they do, and it has got many a skipper into trouble.

But of all the differences between the action of a boat and a car, the greatest is in backing up. It's not so bad in outboard boats because the motor swivels and pulls the stern in the direction you want to go, but in some single screw inboards it's almost impossible to turn when backing up. Usually this difficulty occurs in only one direction depending on which way the propeller rotates, but it can be a serious problem.

So let me urge every boater when he first handles a boat or takes over the controls of a strange one, that he gets the "feel" of it in stopping, turning, docking and backing up. Knowing precisely the boat's limitations will be a big help in an emergency.

Walter Safety says, "Investigate conditions BEFORE entering the water, and always swim with a buddy."

This Camper Comes From Cobourg

By MALCOLM JOHNSTON
Staff Sportswriter

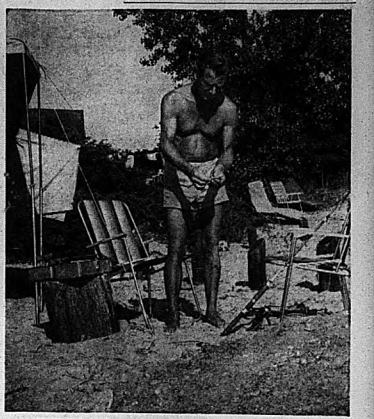
Now that summer is here and the camping season is in full swing, many Quinte area residents are frequent visitors to the Outlet Provincial Park near Bloomfield.

There are 482 regular camp sites at the Outlet, but one site in particular — number 127 — has a special occupant.

He is Doug Francis of Cobourg and if you described him as a regular camper you would be guilty of a gross understatement.

Doug and his wife Irma spend every weekend from early April till October as well as much of their holidays at the Outlet and have been doing so for the past ten years.

"The park has so much to offer", Francis said, "There's white, salty sand that's not muddy, sunshine, shade, swimming, fishing, a couple of miles of rolling sand dunes — everything that you could possibly desire in the way of nature — it's simply very beautiful and wonderful".



Mr. and Mrs. Francis tented when they first started coming to the Outlet regularly, but now they have a tent-trailer. "There are families here for tents, tent-trailers and even heavy trailers", trailers", Francis added. "The campsites are large and there's running water available".

"I think the park staff headed by superintendent Bob Davison have done an excellent job. They've improved the park every year and they're most helpful if you have any problems", Francis continued.

"It's become quite a family park in the last few years and the swimming is excellent. The water here in the inlet is six to seven degrees warmer than out in Lake Ontario, and there's no danger for the small children because they has a staff of lifeguards here and the water is quite shallow until you get a long ways out from the shoreline", Francis concluded.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis are not the only area residents to take advantage of the centrally-located Outlet provincial park.

Superintendent Bob Davison reports that the park is three-quarters full on normal weekends, and completely full on long weekends. To accommodate the large number of campers on busy weekends there are 30 overflow sites at the Outlet and 50 more at nearby Sand Banks provincial park.

LEISURELY LIFE — A deeply-tanned Doug Francis — who has been tagged with the title 'Mr. Camper' by park officials — prepares his gear for an evening of fishing after spending a leisurely day basking in the sun on the sandy beach at Outlet provincial park near Bloomfield.

Tweed Trout Take 'Fair'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

To fish is to conquer.

The muskie is the pinnacle. He frequents mysterious waters, challenging.

He's there in dark water, beneath the stumps; he's in the shallow water beside the weeds, and he's in the deep when you're trolling.

He's hard to catch. In fact, few people really fish the muskellunge, the pike-faced brute who tears people's lines.

This week the department of lands and forests reports success in muskie waters for those who fish the big pike.

Best fishing for muskie has been in the Kenora area although North Bay has shown some improvement.

Pickerel and pike are also biting well but most trout species are now demanding more skill. Speckled trout will be found in quiet pools and fast rapids while lake trout have dived to deeper waters.

Reports from the department's eastern district:

Kemptville — Ottawa and Rideau rivers, fair to good for pickerel and pike.

Lindsay — Balsam, Pigeon and Sturgeon Lakes, all species good. All trout fair in Haliburton area.

Tweed — Lake trout fair in Kaminiskeg, Limerick and Eagle lakes.

Good sand play starts with proper positioning at address. The sole of the clubface should be square to the hole. The stance and body are opened so the clubface can be held open behind the ball without losing the square position.

Dear Diabetes Cannot Be Cured Insulin Just Controls It

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My doctor says that there is no cure for diabetes. I thought that if one takes insulin regularly and sticks to the proper diet that the condition is curable. What is meant by "cure" anyway? — Mrs. N.

Answer: Your doctor is scientifically correct. "Cure" as related to any disease, should be called health care. For example, in considering tuberculosis, we usually say it is "arrested" rather than cured. (There's the possibility of re-infection.)

What your doctor means by incurability of diabetes is also evident: if one stops taking insulin or gets careless with his diet, it's likely that symptoms will return and sugar and blood be filled with too much sugar. (The inability of the pancreas to produce sugar remains. Therefore, we can't really say that we can cure diabetes.)

I suppose doctors could say that one is cured of acute appendicitis after the patient recovers from the operation. (Appendices do not grow back to cause more trouble.) Likewise a man can be cured of pneumonia after the attack is over and the lung and its coverings (pleura) return to normal.

We can say that a patient has recovered from an attack of coronary thrombosis (but not cured, because the underlying coronary artery disease remains).

Likewise, pernicious anemia can be controlled but not "cured" with the use of liver extract or vitamin B12. Curable is an elastic word that means many things to many people.

For Mrs. K.: Here is a simple, yet often effective, method for overcoming some cases of stubborn rectal itching. Keep the rectal area unsoiled by cleaning with soap and water after bowel movements. For example, I advise such patients to take their morning shower after and not before evacuation. As I said, a simple method, but often tremendously effective.

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Doctors don't seem to agree at all on what is do for the patient who has had her uterus removed. Some say the patient will be upset. Not all are upset. — Mrs. C.

Comment: Here's the scoop — each patient is a problem unto herself. Not all are upset and the same.

I have known hysterectomy patients who never look a bit worse after operation and felt better. Yet, I have known four others who never had an operation who required — and felt better — hysterectomy.

Your doctor will have to make the decision. Don't be influenced by what your neighbor's doctor orders. In fact, some patients should not take hormones after hysterectomy because of pathological findings which interdict their use. But I'd like to add I do not agree with doctors who say, "No patient of mine will ever take hormones. I don't believe in taking its course." If there's no contraindication to their use, I don't see why a woman suffering from hot flashes and nervousness should not have hormones to bring her comfort.

'Damage in Thousands Done By Storm Along Lake Erie

AMHERSTBURG, Ont. (CP) — Town police estimate the fierce wind storm Friday night which tore through the southern half of Essex County and along the shores of lake Erie left thousands of dollars in damages in its trail.

The storm left streets in the waterfront town of Colchester and Amherstburg—15 miles apart—jammed with fallen trees and a smashed auto. It brought down hydro lines and blew away barns. Basements and roadways were flooded by rainfall of up to six inches and the storm smashed hard at cash crops on farms in the area.

There were no reports of deaths or serious injuries.

The high winds also battered northern Ohio, killing at least eight persons and injuring hundreds before sweeping across Lake Erie to Ontario.

In its course, 200 pleasure craft on the lake were imperilled and a United States Coast Guard officer reported: We're just trying to pull the people from the water as fast as we can."

From the Canadian Coast Guard station at Amherstburg, search and rescue craft were called out to pick up at least a dozen persons whose boats were driven aground on islands in the Detroit River.

One Amherstburg woman was injured when winds collapsed her booth on Bob-Lo Island just offshore. The woman, Mrs. Norman Wilson, was treated at hospital before being sent home.

Damage ranged from the bizarre to the disastrous. A Colchester bait-merchant saw a tankful of minnows die when a power-failure stopped pumps used to circulate fresh water. At the home of Colchester Police Chief Gordon Marontate, the winds tore off half the roof and blew away his barn and dog.

Constable Robert Long of Colchester South Township reported that at one point his cruiser was lifted off the road while lightning danced beneath it. He compared the experience to a ride on a roller-coaster.

Mrs. Long said the damage in Colchester was impossible to imagine. This being the July 4 weekend in the U.S. the whole area is just jammed with tourists, some of them with brand new sports cars that have been smashed by falling trees."

From the east, the high winds let up before hitting Leamington and missed the vulnerable camping grounds of Point Pelee park. Waves on Lake Erie, however, smashed at cottages owned by Canadian and Michigan residents.

Eight Die In Ohio Storm

CLEVELAND, (AP) — At least eight persons were killed and hundreds were reported injured Friday night as a series of thunderstorms slammed into northern Ohio, felling trees and power lines and battering boats on the wind-tossed waters of Lake Erie.

The storms brewed in southern Michigan and passed in successive over Lake Erie into Ohio, hitting the Toledo area in the west at about 8 p.m. and a smashing eastward beyond Cleveland into the morning.

Three persons were killed by falling trees and two Cleveland men were electrocuted by downed power lines.

The U.S. weather bureau reported six persons killed in a tornado near Maumee, but the figure was believed to include at least some victims already recorded.

The U.S. Coast Guard said some 200 boats capsized in lake Erie as the storms sweeped in on unwary holiday boaters. The coast guard said over of its rescue ships pulled five persons from the lake and a merchant ship rescued eight more.

COMMUNICATIONS CUT

Coast guard officials said no drowning had been reported as of early today, but said communications with remote areas of the state had been cut off by storm damage.

Split in Social Democrats Threatens Italian Coalition

ROME (AP) — A split in Italy's squabbling Social Democratic party confronted Italy with a major political crisis today and threatened the center-left coalition that has governed the country for the last six years.

The breakdown came after Foreign Minister Pietro Nenni was unable to heal a rift between the party's moderate and left wings over relations with Italy's Communist party. Nenni resigned as party president but remained in the cabinet.

However, four other Social Democratic cabinet members already have resigned and the resignation of Premier Mariano Rumor's government is expected within a few days.

Rumor and his Christian Democrats formed a coalition government with Nenni's Social Democrats and other factions last December in an alliance that the two parties have maintained since 1963. The departure of Nenni's Socialists leaves Rumor without a parliamentary majority.

The crisis comes at a time of student unrest across Italy, strikes that have crippled public services and an abrupt rise in the cost of living.

The fall of the Rumor government probably would lead to new parliamentary elections and a search for a new and broader coalition. The Communists would probably gain strength but would have little hope of escaping the place in the government they lost in 1947.

The Social Democratic split climaxed a two-month power struggle within the party between Nenni and Deputy Premier Francesco de Martino.

De Martino and his group, backed by a majority of provincial party organizations, published a document calling for closer ties with the Communists at the national, regional and municipal levels.

Nenni and his supporters said the document would open the way for the Communists to control the party and the government, and threatened to quit the party if it was approved.

Four days ago, Nenni begged his party colleagues to compromise on their ideological views for the sake of the party and the country.

He warned that new parliamentary elections would deal the Social Democrats a crushing blow, with Communists gaining votes on the left and Christian Democrats picking up votes on the right.

Nenni offered a proposal calling for a transition from capitalism to socialism by peaceful means, but rejecting any alliance with communism.

Friday night, the Social Democratic party central committee turned down the proposal by a 67-to-51 vote. The losing faction walked out of the meeting and shortly afterward announced the formation of what they called the "Unified Socialist party."

Schreyer Expected To Take Office Soon

WINNIPEG (CP) — Ed Schreyer is expected to be sworn in as premier next week to get Manitoba's first New Democratic Party government since, to Saturday with a summer session of the legislature.

The province's cloudy political picture is expected to clear as a news conference called for 2 p.m. CDT Monday by Premier Walter Weir, whose Progressive Conservative forces suffered a surprise beating by the NDP in the June 25 general election.

Political observers, including Mr. Schreyer, predict Mr. Weir will announce his resignation.

The Tories' last hope of picking up a decisional strength through the counting of absentee hospital and mariners' ballots faded Friday when seven constituencies with close races submitted their complete figures.

They left, unchanged the election night standings of 28 NDP members to 22 Conservatives in the 57-member legislature. Liberals elected five, Social Credit and Independent one each.

What Premier Weir dissolved the legislature May 22 to head into an election disaster nobody foresaw, standings were Conservative 31, Liberals 13, NDP 12 and Social Credit one.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For July 6

Your birthday today: Your path through the year ahead is full of negotiations and adjustments, as you literally pick your way through toward the life situations you want. Bridges catch fire as you come to them rather than being there for you to burn behind you. Today's natives are good at figuring, writing or selling, but seldom for very long.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Your self-discipline improves your chances of enjoying life with the people you care about. Stay clear of those who test your patience.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Do what is expected of you this morning, then make a getaway-from-it-all vacation of the rest of the day. Put your memory to an exercise: review what you have done in the past six months.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): This day you can probably do much as you please except there's very little to do. Nobody is ready to co-operate.

CANCER (June 21 — uly 22): You are quite visible to your community today — so take your share of the consequent expression of faith and customs gracefully. Then seek new acquaintances.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): This is an odd Sunday in which nothing develops as fully as you would like. You are urged to meditate. Relationships thin out a bit. Short journeys are better postponed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Your personal homefront needs all your attention today, but not strict supervision. Be flexible on the day. Make tentative plans for the week.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): This is a placid day. Cater to the whims of a longtime, very congenial associate. Mull over the coming week and its activity; get yourself into proper perspective.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Settle back and let everybody else speak out. Listen carefully and learn many subtle things that will come in handy later.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Nothing goes according to plan. The tendency is to take action on half the story. Put some time into your favorite pastimes. Relax.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — an. 19): This Sunday it may dawn on you that you do ask quite a bit of your family, friends, and associates. Let up a little today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Your hopes are high and the later hours are easier. Abandon any set quota of things to do, go on a relaxed course. Reading and serious study can be very productive.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): The less complex your course today the better. Take care of your obligations without fuss. Then spend some time alone. Romantic ideas are better put off!

For July 7

Your birthday today: A year of free opportunity opens out ahead. Long-deferred ambitions, if diligently pressed, can flower into success on very short notice. The latter nine months of the year are a time of consolidation. Relationships begun now tend to be lasting although never exactly tranquil. Today's natives frequently have talents in economics, finance.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Assign your priorities to your various tasks; put important things first and get right after them. Stay in high humor, and everything else falls into place.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Your energies are restless today, and you may be susceptible to a sad story. Romantic interest stirs more easily this evening.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): This is a fun day if you don't take yourself too seriously. Fun and group activity may be more expensive than anticipated. Romantic interests thrive.

CANCER (June 21 — uly 22): Make an active profitable day of it with an early start. There is much satisfaction in co-operation now. The evening can work out well for some sideline, too.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Your success today depends more on how well you manage personal contacts. Signing papers is better done in the morning. You are likely to hear from distant places.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Changes can be made more readily now: ask for whatever you have in mind. Partnership ventures are favored. Your approaches are likely to come up casually in conversation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): If you will watch the precise details of whatever contracts you make today, everything goes well with only a little effort. Romantic and family interests flourish.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Clear off unfinished transactions. Pay off petty debts and bills. Settle outstanding differences.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Today holds promise of the unexpected in several directions; yours follow suit. You may be in a mood, your directions may be faulty if traveling, or your emotional impulses may be very strong.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Domestic issues, home affairs seem complicated. Women are likely to prevail in any difference of opinion as to what has to be done. Keep things simple (from choice of breakfast food on through).

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Use care in any financial activity and postpone any speculative purchases. The day goes well in both respects. Short trips do not contribute to your income but may bring much enthusiastic satisfaction.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Informality is the only good approach now. Spend the day a t or near the water if you can. Younger people are interesting and may bring luck your way. Lending money is unlikely to work out now.

Metro Body OKs Expansion

TORONTO (CP) — The Metropolitan Toronto executive committee Friday unanimously endorsed extension of the Metropolitan boundaries to include 118 square miles east of the Metro region.

The decision, that would add Pickering Township, the village of Pickering and the town of Ajax to Metro, was taken at a meeting attended by civic representatives of the three municipalities.

Metro Chairman William Allen told the representatives the decision will be considered at a special session of the Metropolitan Toronto council later this month or early in August.

Extension of the boundary would require provincial approval and amendment of the Metro Act. The endorsement took place the same day a provincial-municipal committee met to begin study of a proposed Oshawa regional government to include Oshawa, Whitby, Ajax, Township, Ajax and the village of Pickering.

Pickering Township Reeve John Williams said joining an Oshawa regional system would force the province to pour millions of dollars into the pot to sustain the area."

"It would be a tremendous burden to the city of Oshawa while the impact of our joining Metro would be insignificant."

Tweed

TWEED — Mr. Wesley R. Hamilton, principal of Tweed-Hungerford District High School, and Mrs. Hamilton, left today from Montreal by plane, on an extended two-tour trip of at least five weeks. They will be touring the British Isles, and another tour will take them through Central Europe, and they expect to be back to visit Rome, prior to their return to Canada. Other places they will be visiting are Switzerland, Germany, Italy, Austria and France. They are anticipating a wonderful holiday.

Murray Spencer, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Spencer, Catherine Street, Tweed, will receive a $2,535 scholarship from the Clarkson Institute of Technology, Potsdam, New York, U.S.A. This scholarship is renewable for four years. Murray will be enrolled in an Economics course at Clarkson.

Opposition Speakers Endorse Languages Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The official languages bill drew strong opposition support Friday as debate entered third reading in the Commons.

Lead-off speakers Melvin McQuaid (PC—Cardigan) and David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) gave it full endorsement.

"We want to see this bill work," said Mr. McQuaid. If administered, it would certainly contribute to the unity of the country.

The bill passed the report stage without a vote but some Conservatives cried "no division" to signify their opposition to it. Seventeen Conservative MPs broke away from the party several weeks ago to vote against the principle of the bill.

Jack McIntosh (PC—Swift Current-Maple Creek) again Friday refused to vote as four Conservative amendments were defeated.

Mr. McIntosh said each time he opposed the principle of the bill and therefore would take no stand on the amendments.

The bill would make English and French the official languages of the federal administration of the country. It also would create bilingual districts in the country, where federal services would be available in both languages.

Mr. Orlikow said many Manitobans were told the bill would make French compulsory but this "garbage" had been unsuccessful in the recent provincial election campaign. New Democrats, who won most seats had been the only party to support the languages bill, he said.

Mr. McQuaid and Mr. Orlikow blamed Prime Minister Trudeau personally for people's lack of understanding of the legislation. He was guilty of "gross neglect" in not getting out and selling it.

Mr. Orlikow asked where the Prairie representatives in the cabinet—Agriculture Minister Olson, Supply Minister Richardson and Labor Lang, minister without portfolio—had been.

State Secretary Gerard Pelletier apparently had been ineffective in a speech-making tour of the West and Justice Minister Turner had only seen western premiers, and not the people.

Mr. Turner was praised by the opposition for his handling of the bill, but NDP Leader T. C. Douglas detected an "iron fist" behind Mr. Turner's charm and urbanity.

If the bill was administered with the "ruthless arrogance" with which amendments were rejected, it would have a divisive effect.

Conservatives and New Democrats fought to have the bill amended to provide that the annual report of the official languages commissioner be sent to a Commons committee but this was rejected by the government.

The debate resumes Monday. The Senate, which will handle the languages bill next, has adjourned until Tuesday.

A debate on the rules is likely to carry Parliament late into next week before its summer recess.

Bank of Canada Cannot Roll Back Interest Rates by Force

OTTAWA (CP) — The Bank of Canada has progressively reduced the rate of growth of the banking system for the last 18 months in an effort to stem inflation, but cannot roll back high interest rates by force, Governor Louis Rasminsky of the Bank of Canada said Friday.

In his second day of testimony before the Commons finance committee, Mr. Rasminsky answered with a flat and unelaborated "no" to a suggestion by Alistair Gillespie (L—Toronto Etobicoke) that Canada should be able to insulate itself from world-wide money conditions.

Mr. Rasminsky said the basic problem to halting inflation is to slow down the rate of spending and borrowing. The demand for goods and services has to be cut back to a level consistent with what the country can produce in order to achieve price stability he said.

Charging high rates of interest on loans was a way of rationing the present tight supply of funds available in the financial system.

Robert Kaplan (L—Toronto Don Valley) asked why the government cannot give directives to the banks on how they should distribute available loan funds.

Mr. Rasminsky said the Bank of Canada doesn't have the power to do so. The government itself would have to set the priorities, and administer such directives through the Canadian system of branch banks would be difficult.

The nine chartered banks with which the Bank of Canada deals represent only part of the credit system as a whole. During 1968, chartered bank business loans rose $650,000,000, while business financing from all sources—including issues of stocks, bonds, foreign investment, and loans from no-bank financial sources —rose $2,500,000,000.

Mr. Rasminsky said he is not one of those economists who believe that the amount of money in the financial system is a simple answer to all economic problems. If it were, the Bank of Canada could simply decide how much money there should be, "set the thermostat and go off on a holiday."

Currency in circulation and privately-held chartered bank deposits totalled $27,667,000,000 last month. This money supply had grown 16.1 per cent during 1967, 13.3 per cent during 1968, and 10.3 per cent between mid-1968 and mid-1969.

The rate of increase has been steadily diminished—nine per cent from last September to the present, 11.2 per cent in the first half of 1969—and in the last three months the total money supply was reduced by 2.6 per cent.

During 1969, he said, the federal government was a big borrower—$1,521,000,000—in the financial markets to cover the federal budget deficit and other needs, including foreign exchange. If the central bank had not permitted the money supply to grow then, interest rates would have risen even higher than they did.

Jacques Trudel (L—Montreal Bourassa) asked whether interest rates could not be rolled back and perhaps pegged at five per cent. Mr. Rasminsky said he did not know by what mechanism a rollback could be achieved. The federal government had constitutional authority only over banking. There are other financial intermediaries under provincial jurisdiction.

Post Office Held to Blame For Unrest of Its Employees

OTTAWA (CP) — The post office is blamed in an official judgment published Friday night for sour relations with its employees.

Part of the text of an adjudication on employee grievances criticizes the post office as an establishment which still adheres to the 19th century master-and-servants precepts."

W. Sidney Martin of Winnipeg, chief adjudicator for the public service staff relations board, says in rulings dated April 30 and May 15 that the post office acted in an autocratic and high-handed manner in implementing new work systems early this year.

The May decision says letter carriers retain the rights they held before the February introduction of five-day-week urban mail delivery, including the much-debated right to be transported back to delivery routes after lunch breaks on paid time.

Parts of the texts of the two rulings were released by the Letter Carriers' Union of Canada.

In an accompanying statement, the union said it had received copies of the rulings only Friday—"when Parliament was about to recess for the summer"—although the decisions were dated April 30 and May 15.

"Since all the decisions favor the unions, one might wonder if the delay was meant to protect Communications Minister Eric Kierans from embarrassing questions in the House," the union statement says.

The union is hoping that the post office heads will take note of the fact that in his decision, the adjudicator has repeatedly shown his criticism of unilateral decisions made by the employer which are not conducive to industrial peace in the post office."

Officials of the communications department were unavailable for comment Friday night.

Hearings were held early in April on employee complaints arising from work systems connected with reductions of urban mail delivery to five days a week from six and introduction of so-called straight-through delivery, whereby carriers sort their mail once a day instead of twice.

Among other issues, complaints arose about the manner of changing the system and the rights of the carriers to be transported on paid time between their routes and postal stations on lunch breaks. Also at issue was employee complaints about lack of lunchroom or wash-up facilities on some routes.

The articles of the collective agreement were violated in some degree and the spirit of the agreement has been misapplied and misinterpreted by the post office, says the May 15 ruling on details of the work system.

Therefore, the ruling adds, carriers who choose to do so regularly have the right to return to postal stations for lunch break on an off-duty basis and be transported back to their routes afterwards on paid time.

Ruling on the general manner of introducing changes, the adjudicator says "the employer, by its unilateral conduct, must assume the primary blame for the failure of the consultative process" agreed with the unions in the work contract.

It would appear staff relations director C. D. Harper, although experienced and competent, "has not got the authority to bring 20th century employer relations concepts in an establishment which still adheres to 19th century master-and-servant precepts."

Commenting that the management decision on the five-day week system was made before presentation to the unions involved, the adjudication says overtures for consultation with the employees then became "a meaningless sham."

Stock Prices Doing Rebound

By KLAUS JONAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock markets rallied this week, interrupting their shattering six-week slide.

Observers say the markets' strength this week could indicate a technical rally combined with the usual summer rally.

They say the markets may have reached the bottom and could be beginning a basing-out period.

Growing concern over the unavailability of money, rising interest rates and increasing inflation had depressed prices to their lowest levels since last September.

Markets dropped 16 of 21 trading days in June.

However, volume remains light.

Analysts said the lack of trading activity indicates that institutions—mainly mutual funds—are still staying out of the markets, possibly because they are unsure that the rally will hold up.

They said that conditions which touched off the slump still exist and could be weighing heavily on investor confidence.

New Bill Subjected To Bitter Assault

Five Firms Dynamited

MONTREAL (CP) — Five bomb explosions within 45 minutes early today caused "considerable damage" to five buildings housing construction company offices on Montreal Island.

Police said the five dynamite bombs were planted at the entrances of the buildings. The blasts occurred between 5 a.m. and 5:45 a.m.

There were no injuries in any of the explosions although it was reported that 14 persons occupied one of the buildings, belonging to Spino Construction Co. Ltd.

The most powerful blast occurred at Dominic Supports and Forms Ltd., a concrete casting company. Windows were shattered in a five-storey office building across the street and the entrance to the company offices was in shambles.

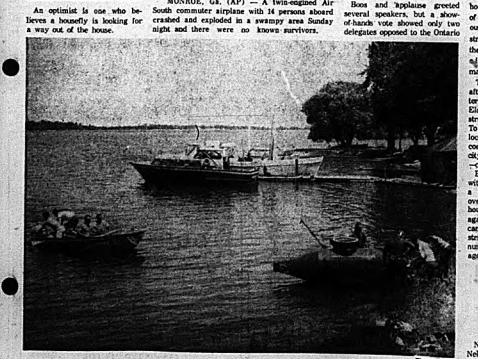
The third north-end blast occurred at 5:15 a.m. at the offices of A. Janin Construction Co.

A police spokesman said the blasts could be heard from more than a mile away.

Twenty minutes later, a fourth blast rocked the offices of Wakeree Construction in suburban St. Leonard. Police said the explosion caused "heavy damage."

The fifth dynamite bomb exploded at the entrance of Secant Construction Co. offices in suburban Anjou.

The explosion was the latest in a series of blasts aimed at construction company offices in Montreal and Quebec.



Last June 21, a bomb caused an estimated $45,000 damages in a building containing the headquarters of the Caldrix company in Quebec City.

Five days earlier, a homemade bomb damaged the roof and porch of the Fitzpatrick Construction Co. in the west end of Montreal, injuring one passerby.

The province's two biggest labor groups recently have been engaged in a bitter verbal war over union representation.

Launching A Mini-Sub

Frank Lukashal's mini-sub spent two hours submerged in Brighton Bay yesterday as a test. After coming back to the surface, Mr. Lukashal said the development program for the submarine would now be in its final stages. (For story, see Page 2.)

Church Pays 'Reparations'

NEW YORK (AP) — Black militant James Forman received a "reparation" cheque for $15,000 Sunday from a church in Greenwich Village. He told the congregation that the United States government was attempting a "frame-up" against the leaders of the organization that seeks $500,000,000 from religious institutions. "I am convinced the Nixon administration is going to try to indict some of us on extortion or conspiracy charges," Forman said.

Maine's Indians Set up Tolls On Major Highway

INDIAN TOWNSHIP, Me. (AP)—Maine's Indians have figured out a novel way to protest, and seek indemnity, for "land taken from us without any compensation" more than 150 years ago.

Tribal leaders said they will set up toll booths Monday in that section of the U.S. Route 1 that runs through the Passamaquoddy Reservation in the northern Maine area.

Toll charges will be $1 for autos and $2 for trucks during the "non-violent demonstration," they said.

The governors of the tribe's two Washington County reservations Saturday issued a statement in which they criticized the Maine Legislature for failure to appropriate enough funds for the state department of Indian affairs.

Majority Votes To Shut Pounds

TORONTO (CP) — Charges and counter-charges sparked a stormy meeting of the Ontario Humane Society Saturday as delegates overwhelmingly rejected the government's new animals-for-research legislation.

The 150 delegates endorsed the executive's decision to get out of the dog-catching business in the 25 Ontario communities served by the society. They also voted to oust any affiliate which turns over animals for research provided under the terms of the new bill which has received first reading in the legislature.

That resolution brought a warning from the Toronto Humane Society—one of 25 affiliates of the provincial society—that it has no intention of closing its shelter.

During the course of the meeting, delegates heard charges:

—That auditors had termed some of the society's accounting procedures ineffective and had refused to "express an opinion" on last year's financial statement which showed a $120,244 deficit.

—That the provincial organization and its feuding Toronto society had "bugged" each other's meetings.

—That the provincial society was hypocritical in providing blood from some of its branches to revive dogs used in heart research at Toronto hospitals so that animals "could" suffer again.

That provincial department of labor inspectors raided 11 provincial society shelters looking for infractions of rules governing hours or work and working conditions, but ignored more than 400 other pounds because of society opposition to the government's research bill.

In an interview Sunday night, Labe Minister Dalton Bales confirmed that inspectors were checking shelters, but denied they were harassing the society. He said the inspections were the result of complaints and had nothing to do with the bill.

There were "certain cases where we felt there have been breaches of employment standards" which govern such things as hours of work, minimum wages and vacation pay, he said.

Boos and applause greeted several speakers, but a show-of-hands vote showed only two delegates opposed to the Ontario society's decision to get out of the pound business. But delegates from Toronto, Oakville, Ottawa and Kitchener-Waterloo abstained from the vote.

Lt.-Col. L. P. Grant, president of the Kingston Humane Society, said Kingston was 100 per cent against the "obnoxious bill."

Mr. Capes said the deans of medical schools in the province who have publicly defended the bill "are our real enemies," along with Deputy Agriculture Minister Everette M. Biggs, whose department is responsible for the legislation.

The new government bill would require all municipal pounds to release unclaimed animals for use in research and teaching. It is a revision of Bill 72, which raised a rumpus earlier this year with a proposal that all animal shelters be required to turn over unclaimed animals for research.

The catch in the revised version, as far as the society is concerned, is that every animal shelter operated by a humane society in Ontario holds an official control contract and is therefore a "pound" under the act.

Toronto Carpenters To Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's tangled construction industry became a little more tangled today as 4,900 carpenters voted to strike.

The men, members of Toronto council of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, have been locked out of 11 major commercial construction jobs since May 2 by the Toronto Construction Association, an organization of major contractors.

The lockouts were ordered after 2,000 members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers went on strike against the association. To retaliate, the association locked out 13 other unions and commercial construction in the city—estimated at $2,000,000,000—came to a halt.

But the association settled with the electricians by offering a $1.71 wage increase hourly over previous rates of $4.70 an hour. Lockouts continued against other unions and the carpenters' decision to go on strike today brings to five the number of unions on strike against the association.

Viet Cong Raids Post

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong forces today blasted their first ground attack in a week, blasting their way into a U.S. military headquarters with grenades and dynamite bombs.

The attack 120 miles northeast of Saigon killed six Americans and wounded 18.

U.S. headquarters said "damage to material within the camp was moderate," but field reports said three or four armored personnel carriers were blown up and destroyed and at least one was damaged.

Tribal Clashes Flare After Mboya's Murder

NAIROBI (AP) — Small clashes between Luo and Kikuyu tribesmen flared Sunday in the wake of Tom Mboya's assassination and a government minister warned tribal warfare threatens Kenya.

Finance Minister Odero Jowi, who became the leading Luo in government with Mboya's death, said: "This is a tribal situation. We are going to have to fight hard to contain it. We have made appeals to our people for calm and order."

The Kikuyu, largest and most powerful tribe in Kenya, are led by President Jomo Kenyatta. The Luos had been led by Mboya, 38, minister of planning and economic development.

A Kikuyu who came to Mboya's house to view the open coffin was attacked by part of the wailing crowd of Luo mourners. When police tried to intervene, a stone-throwing mob forced them to leave the grounds.

Tribal disturbances in two other cities were quickly broken up by police. Two persons were reported injured and seven arrested in one clash.

Every available policeman was on duty through the country with an officer posted at every street corner in Nairobi, as the police pressed their nationwide hunt for the man who killed Mboya as he left a pharmacy in downtown Nairobi Saturday.

A police spokesman said there was "nothing new to report on our investigation." He was unable to give a description of Mboya's attacker or the car in which he fled.

Mboya was a popular political icon both at home and throughout the world where he often represented Kenya at conferences.

It was announced Sunday that Mboya's wife Pamela had received a telegram from Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., whose husband was assassinated in the United States in April, 1968.

Mrs. King's message said: "Your loss is one that I feel deeply and personally. The sorrow and grief is intensified by the knowledge of how much is yet to be done in the great cause of liberating black people the world over."

Hoover Says Chinese Spies Busy in U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist China has singled out the United States as its No. 1 enemy and is working to tap needed scientific information here by any means, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says.

"The potent threat to our national security posed by Red China still exists," is the way Hoover phrased it. "In fact, the blatant, belligerent and illogical statements made by Red China's spokesmen during the past year leave no doubt that the United States is Communist China's No. 1 enemy."

Hoover's warning was delivered behind closed doors last April to a House of Representatives appropriations subcommittee. His testimony was released today.

"This bitterness towards the United States and other Western countries—even the Soviet Union—is a factor in Red China's ambition to equal other major powers economically, militarily and, especially, in scientific endeavours," Hoover said.

This goal, Hoover said, has resulted in Chinese Communist intelligence activities here — overt as well as covert—to get needed material, particularly in the scientific field.

The FBI chief said one clandestine effort was thwarted in 1967 when an effort was made to send electronic equipment to Hong Kong by way of Canada.

He said some of the 300,000 Chinese in the United States could be susceptible to recruitment by China, either through ethnic ties or because of relatives in China.

He noted that up to 20,000 Chinese immigrants could enter the U.S. each year "and this provides a means to send illegal agents into our nation."

Rockefeller Completes Trip, Will Prepare Report to Nixon

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller completed a 38,721-mile Latin-American survey for the Nixon administration Sunday and is expected to give the president his recommendations on a new policy next month.

Informants said President Nixon may unveil a new policy during a Latin-American economic conference in October.

The Rockefeller report will cover impressions and opinions gathered by the New York governor and 21 experts who accompanied him to 20 nations, ranging from Brazil to Barbados in the Caribbean.

The mission skipped four Latin countries—Cuba, which has no relations with the United States; and Peru, Chile and Venezuela, which asked Rockefeller to postpone or cancel stops there because of volatile internal conditions.

Many of the countries Rockefeller visited suffered riots, demonstrations, bombings, gunfights and acts of terrorism. Eight persons, were killed during his tour, but most of the deaths were not directly attributed to anti-Rockefeller demonstrations.

Rockefeller returned from Barbados Sunday.

Besides his policy recommendations, Rockefeller also is expected to urge setting up special government machinery to implement the new Latin-American policy and make it viable.

Holiday Spirit Prevails

American Visitors Turn Quinte Area Green

Picton resident Timothy Fielding walked into the lounge at the Prince Edward Yacht Club Saturday evening with a $10 Canadian bill.

After having a drink and using the $10 bill to pay for it he walked out of the club with nine dollars and change in American money.

"Why?", he asked club steward Robert Wood.

"Because there are so many Americans here that we've run out of Canadian money," came the answer.

That's the way it was in the Quinte and Prince Edward areas over the weekend as hundreds of Americans, coming by boat and by car crossed the border to celebrate their July 4 holiday in Canada.

Neither the Prince Edward nor the Bay of Quinte Yacht Clubs had any berths to spare.

Another incident took place at a service station in Prince Edward county when a couple drove up to purchase some gas.

Before paying for the fuel with a $20 American bill they enquired about the exchange.

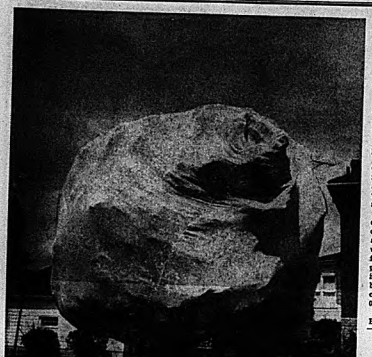
"Exchange," said the operator, "not this weekend. We just give you your change in American."

And in Sandy Cove at Massassaga Point near Belleville 15 American boats were moored to celebrate July 4.

A dixieland band under the direction of Joe Burchill was hired by the group and they played on board one of the boats for three hours Saturday afternoon while sailors on board the other boats danced the afternoon away.

At night the boats put on a fireworks display.

It's no wonder that marinas and yacht clubs up and down the Bay of Quinte reported they were full to capacity all weekend long.



At the Carrying Place swing bridge, which all boats travelling the Murray canals pass 188 boats went through since Thursday, July 3.

Many more power and sailing vessels came to the area from the east.

Commodore William Bonnell of the Bay of Quinte Yacht club reported the docks were just about filled to capacity all weekend with at least 25 vessels at all times.

The Picton club had 15 boats at all times and Dawson's marina in Deseronto reported more than 50 visiting boats moored all weekend most of them from Rochester.

Although the weekend was just great for sailing for most of the three days, when it came time Sunday afternoon for the GQYC's annual Big Bay race the wind almost completely disappeared and the boats virtually limped around the course.

Expansion Costs Cut

School Site Said Money Saver

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Construction of a $3,000,000 secondary school between Trenton and Belleville will save ratepayers about $1,000,000, county board of education chairman James Clarke has predicted.

"The building of this school on the school lot at Bayside is the first physical result of amalgamation of small individual boards into a county system," he said.

"Without creation of the county board, Centennial Secondary School in Belleville and Trenton High School would each have been in line for $2,000,000 additions. By putting up a $3,000,000 building on a site about half way between the two schools, the county board has saved $1,000,000 in capital costs.

The architectural firm of Bolgen and Heinonen of Don Mills has been chosen to design the $3,000,000 comprehensive secondary school slated to open at Bayside in September, 1971.

The same firm designed the addition to Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc, now under construction.

Mr. Clarke, said the board hopes to call tenders for the Bayside school early in 1970.

The composite school will accommodate 1,200 students in academic vocational and occupations courses. It will serve the population between Trenton and Belleville and the area north of that section of the county.

Although the target date for completion of the new school is September 1971, the board is hopeful some classrooms will be completed and ready for use before that date.

Land costs do not figure in the price of the school. The 127-acre site was already in the hands of the board on Jan. 1, 1969 — a legacy from the Sidney board. The land was deeded to the Sidney trustees in 1831 by the Lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada in the name of King William IV "for the encouragement of learning among our loving subjects."

At one time it was suggested as a site for Loyalist College before its location west of Belleville.

For Bird Watching Only.

Here's one for those who play guessing games. It's not a mammoth plastic rose. Nor a mushroom from the Land of the Giants. A '70 model car under wraps? No. If you said however, it was the way W. Jerald Anderson of R. R. 1 Belleville used yards and yards of cheese cloth to outwit the birds to insure he gets all of the trees' cherry crop this year you'd be giving the right answer.

Education Still Disputed;

No Budget for Wellington

WELLINGTON — Wellington Reeve Robert Boyce announced this morning that his council will not set a tax budget at tonight's council meeting.

"We didn't pay the third of our requisition made this year by the County Board of Education and due on June 30," stated Mr. Boyce.

"They could have found a solution to this before now," added the Wellington Reeve. The "they" he refers to are officials in the Ontario department of education.

Mr. Boyce is one of four township delegates who went at Queen's Park to protest the Prince Edward County Board of Education tax rates.

Others were: Harold Harrison, North Marysburg; Keith Brummell, Athol and Allan Ralley, South Marysburg.

Wellington faces an 80% increase in education tax over the 1968 figure. North and South Marysburg each received a 75% increase in their levy over last year's figures and Athol a 65% increase.

The delegates returned to Prince Edward following a two hour discussion with Ontario department of education officials.

Wellington Reeve Boyce said at that time officials told them there was no possibility of an error in the board of education's figures for three of the four municipalities represented. South Marysburg was offered no hope of a reduction. Time has passed and no word has been received from Toronto.

Said Mr. Boyce today, "I have spoken with Norris Whitney and he is sure we will know more this week."

In the meantime, Wellington is not setting a budget.

"Ordinarily, our council would have set its budget tonight," said Mr. Boyce.

Mr. Boyce described the Prince Edward County Board of Education as "a very conscientious group of people."

Jack Ireland Promotes Area

Jack Ireland, president of Belleville Chamber of Commerce, will appear on a Peterborough television station Tuesday to publicize tourist attractions in the Belleville area.

The tourist promotion program, under the sponsorship of the Lake Ontario Regional Development Council, is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. on channel 5, CHEX-Peterborough.

During his 15-minute segment, Mr. Ireland will show slides of places of interest in and around Belleville, including Zwick's Island, Corby Park and Hastings County Museum.

Brooke Bond Marks Construction Start

A steel-placing ceremony Wednesday afternoon will mark the official start of construction of the Brooke Bond Canada Ltd. food-processing plant, in Belleville.

Fred Patterson, president of Brooke Bond, will officiate at the ceremony in Belleville's industrial park. The event, marking the construction start by the contractor, Dominion Bridge Co. Ltd. will take place at 2:30 p.m.

A reception and dinner will follow at 5:30 p.m. at the Quinte Valley Motel. Mr. Patterson will address the invited guests.

Submarine in Final Stages

By ELMER BONTER
Staff Correspondent

TRENTON — A Trenton diesel mechanic resumed underwater testing of his one man submarine in clear water in Brighton Bay off Presqu'ile Point yesterday.

After spending two hours submerged — much of the time sitting on the bottom of 18 feet of water — Frank Lukashal, 40, who lives at 146 King Street said the development program would be in its final stages.

The designer and main force behind the undertaking which started as a dream eight years ago said he expects to have his tiny submarine perfected later this year.

Then he hopes to begin cashing in on the idea for the many hours and numerous difficulties he has been forced to endure in the long development process.

Anyone doubting there is risk involved would be first wise to imagine the person probing some murky depth of undefined fear long period in the 25 cubic feet of steel and steel hull provides. It's not an experience recommended for persons with certain phobias.

For Frank Lukashal, however, underwater work, especially the testing of his "Sea Explorer, is a second way of life.

He has to respect a number of limitations and the small amount of air available to him once the transparent bubble over the cockpit is sealed for diving. He can stay down for four hours before the level of carbon dioxide would become dangerous.

Of course he carries two tanks of compressed air in the event it was impossible for him to reach the surface after his oxygen source had been depleted.

The Lukashal miniature submarine in production would cost around $1,000 to buy on the market according to the developer.

And it may be available in the not too distant future because the builder has enquiries from several interested parties ready to help his cause once the stamp of approval is put on it. I don't think I'll have any trouble raising the finances for its manufacture," Mr. Lukashal said.

A fellow worker from Trinidad is going to share credit for any success he enjoys.

Lenny Bates, 26, who is also a diesel mechanic working at the same plant in Toronto serves as the engineer for the project. He came to Canada to study for an hydraulic engineer at the University of Toronto and society employment to pay for the course.

In the last yesterday Lukashal and Bates were concerned with the performance of their improved electric motor which provides the thrust. They learned the 12 volt battery was not heavy enough for the results desired. They decided to replace it with a unit with double the output.

Pounds Ordered Closed or less direct control over the operation of 21 branch societies, but much less over its 23 affiliated societies.

Four of the affiliates—Toronto, Ottawa, Oakville and Peterborough—also abstained as he recorded as abstaining from the resolution to cancel pound contracts.

General Manager Tom Hughes and President Basil Capes urged affiliates to dispose of their large holdings and operate small shelters if they were all they could afford, without pound contracts.

They said legacies and donations to humane societies have not been given with the expectation of delivering animals alive to laboratory research.

But Garth Macdonald of the Oakville society said:

"If do not believe that you are doing the animals a favor by . . . turning them back to collection by someone with little concern for their welfare and who wants to sell them as quickly as possible to make as much money as possible."

Robert Whiten of the Quinte branch, including Belleville and Trenton, said pounds with no interest in humane treatment will make no effort to find homes for unclaimed animals.

Tempers ran high. Joe Charbonneau of Niagara Falls called the Ontario society "hypocrites of the highest order" for permitting animals in its Peel County branch shelter to be used as blood donors for research animals at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children.

Mr. Hughes said the society's policy, adopted in 1967, does not oppose the use of animals in research if they are spared unnecessary pain and suffering and are obtained from proper sources.

He said blood is taken only from animals which must be destroyed and only under terminal anesthesia. He also said the humane society agreed to cooperate because the hospital had been buying healthy dogs as a source of blood.

Playgrounds Now Open

PICTON — "What can I do Mom?" the favorite question of most children during summer vacation, was answered in Picton this morning.

The town's five playground parks opened for the summer today with an expected total enrolment of about 1,000 youngsters. Young people from 5-15 will be eligible to attend the playground in their district.

Playgrounds include Queen Elizabeth School park; Fairgrounds park, the Angus Le-Heup Delhi Athletic Field park and the Rotary Centennial park.

Each one is under the leadership of two playground supervisors. These leaders have just returned from a special course at the Roblin Lake Salvation Army Camp where 140 leaders from eastern Ontario gathered for instruction.

Teachers' Turn To Hear Lectures

Thousands of county pupils are free of the classroom for the summer. Now it's the turn of their teachers to put in a stint at the receiving end of the learning situation.

About 40 per cent of the county's 1,000 teachers are enrolled in summer courses to improve their qualifications or refresh their knowledge of fast developing subjects.

If the summer course taken by a teacher will result in an increase in his salary schedule, the board often subsidizes the cost. According to L. F. Reid, superintendent of staff with the county board, 60 teachers are now on course on this basis. Included in the number are five or six teachers whom the board asked to take the one-week family life course at Sheridan College in Toronto in August. These teachers will form the nucleus of the staff required to teach the new family life section of the health and physical education curriculum.

Both the public and separate school boards plan professional development courses this winter. Each course will be open to teachers from both systems.

The Hastings and Prince Edward separate school board will offer a course in language arts and the county board will offer a course in elementary school science.

These courses are given at no expense to the boards — the tuition fee of about $100 paid by each teacher enrolled covers all costs.

The science course sponsored by the county board will be given in Madoc and will consist of four-hour sessions every Wednesday for 25 weeks.

Loyalist Enrolment Goal 500

The 345 registered enrolment at Loyalist College last year is expected to jump to close to 500 when the term opens in September, Registrar William E. Ellis announced today.

The applications are coming in steadily and we are also receiving a number of applications from students outside the four-county Quinte area. Students from Quebec, Western Canada and the United States are already seeking admission to the local community college, he said.

The big jump in total enrolment will result from both a larger intake of the first year students and the phasing in of the third year in technology programs and business at the college. Loyalist first began classes in September 1967. This will be the first year the college has operated all years of three-year diploma programs in technology and business.

Business programs and communication arts courses seem to be the most popular courses offered by the college, the registrar said.

We've been saying "mileage is our business." Now we'd like to prove it to you.

This is one of our new Shell Mileage Calculators.
We've put them in most Shell stations—to help you check your mileage.

Go farther on every gallon

Pull into a Shell station and tell the dealer you want to try a Super Shell mileage test. He'll give you a mileage certificate and explain the steps.

Note: We recommend that you measure your mileage a number of times over 500 or 1000 miles—not just one tankful.

After your first mileage check, listen to your dealer's suggestions.

There are at least 32 factors that affect mileage. Foremost is the way you drive. Your spark plugs, air filter and tire pressure are also important.

Because something as simple as the weather can change gasoline consumption, we suggest you always measure your mileage over 500 or 1000 miles for a good mileage check.

Super Shell for good mileage

Once everything is right with your car, then Super Shell can really show off. It is formulated with five ingredients which help you go farther on every gallon.

You'll get good mileage with Super Shell. You'll get even better mileage with the help of your Shell dealer.

And we can show you with our Mileage Calculator.

Beef Prices

While meat distributors are busy defending the high cost of steak on the grounds that the farmer has not had a price increase in nearly two decades, it is the height of arrogance to suggest it should be increased still further.

Yet that is the word from Walter L. Miller, president of the Ontario Farmers' Union. In Guelph last week Mr. Miller said the union will take "every action necessary," including withholding cattle, to increase the price of beef. He claimed the market could support prices close to four cents a pound higher "without putting the consumer in a difficult position."

Of such statements and attitudes inflation is perpetuated, even now when Bank of Canada Governor Louis Rasminsky is saying there may be "some glimmer of light" in the battle against spiralling costs. Some paradox!

A few cents here and a few there throughout the whole economy lie at the root of inflation. Of course where beef is concerned Canadians have to eat. We will to boycott the item. As a nation of beefeaters most of us will pay whatever is asked.

That being so, though, and with other inflationary trends in mind we should not be surprised if Mr. Rasminsky's faint glimmer of light flickers and finally dies.

Seat Belts

Seat belts in cars are for wearing, in the interests of safety, yet the truth of the matter is that the majority of motorists do not wear them. By failing to do so they increase the hazard to life and limb should they be involved in an accident.

At a recent seminar in Toronto, Dr. W. R. Ghent, chief of surgery at Hotel Dieu hospital in Kingston, and associate professor of surgery at Queen's University, reported that 500 Ontario motorists who died in automobile accidents last year would be alive today had they worn seat belts. Thousands more would have escaped serious injury.

Dr. Ghent's statistics of some injuries are occurring through the use of seat belts, but mainly because of improper use. Bruising of internal organs may happen when the lap belt is worn high, instead of low and positioned around the thigh and pelvic area. Shoulder belts must not be worn too tightly or loosely.

Many of these injuries are occuring, he said, because "many restrained people are surviving crashes who otherwise have been died . . . Most of these injuries are survivals."

By "restrained," Dr. Ghent was referring to persons wearing their seat belts. He said the belts are of little value in crashes occurring at four or five mph, or at 120 mph. However they are of the utmost importance between five and 40 mph where the majority of collisions occur.

The statistics speak for themselves. Seat belts, when worn, can mean the difference between life and death.

Kids Have Fun

Summer facilities for the young people of Belleville have been improved still further with the provision of extra equipment by the Kinsmen Club at their Dundas Street park.

This, along with the supervised playground activities and those at Zwick's Island ensure that a large number of youngsters have somewhere to go and have some fun when school is out.

Indeed the kids are luckier than the rest of us, because they can swim at the Dundas Street and Zwick's Island pools. There is one at Parkdale too.

An outdoor pool for teenagers and adults would also be a boon in Belleville, for the lake and provincial park beaches cannot be relied upon. If they are not actually polluted, they are nevertheless stirred with rotting fish and that is a deterrent to many.

Success at Last

Not since 1961 when Angela Mortimer was the victor, has a British girl won the singles title at Wimbledon. Thus it was a happy day Friday for Ann Haydon Jones who beat three times winner Billie Jean King of the United States 3-6, 6-3, 6-2. It was a lucky 13th attempt for Mrs. Jones, twice a beaten finalist and eight times a semi-final loser. One unhappy feature of the encounter was the partisanship of the crowd who blotted the British passion for fair play by cheering every lapse made by Mrs. King. This proved embarrassing for both players. In Saturday's men's final Rod Laver recaptured the title he won two years running in 1961-62, beating fellow Australian John Newcombe.

Nigerian Curbs on Red Cross Flights Draws Reaction

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Nigeria's hardened decision to restrict mercy flights into Biafra suggests that the more numerous federal forces are gradually losing confidence that they can win a battlefield victory against the rebellious territory under existing conditions.

The federal forces deny that they are attempting to starve the Biafrans into surrender. They maintain that flights carrying food and medical supplies will be allowed into Biafra once they are inspected on federal territory by federal authorities.

But Gen. Yakubu Gowon and his men know that Biafra's leader, Col. Odeumegwu Ojukwu, would rather see his people starve than submit to restricted mercy flights under federal supervision and inspection. In fact, Ojukwu has previously countenanced starvation under similar curbs, which set off emotional responses that finally forced Gowon to relax his transport policy.

Gowon argues that the new curbs are essential to prevent the use of mercy planes as clandestine arms transport, though there are indications that arms are slipping into Biafra through other channels from neighboring countries sympathetic to the Biafran bid for complete independence.

In any case, the federal side is well supplied with British, Soviet and other arms and has such a vastly larger army that federal complaints of clandestine arms shipments to tiny, besieged Biafra contain the element of ludicrous protest. Time and again, Gowon expressed confidence that the Biafran defenders would soon be eliminated only to find that every federal victory has been countered by an enemy that refuses to lie down.

In a two-year struggle against the secessionists, the federal side has also been embarrassed by growing world sympathy for the defenders; the vigorous offensive by the Red Cross and church leaders to bring relief to the sick and the starving.

In his latest decision to restrict mercy shipments, Gowon has again aroused world interest and attention. The International Red Cross has indicated that it must fly nearly all its operations in Nigeria because of the federal restrictions. Church leaders have pledged to continue to push aid—even if this means night flights threatened by radar-controlled federal anti-aircraft fire.

But the emotional response does not end there.

Britain, supporting the federal side with arms, is likely to find itself on the firing line to press Gowon to ease his curbs. The United States, pressed by domestic church leaders, is likely to strengthen aid for the Biafrans and thereby find itself increasingly involved in an issue tangled with a web of international intrigue.

The new French president, Georges Pompidou, may also be forced to make a decisive move. Former president Charles de Gaulle had expressed clear sympathy for Biafra. Pompidou's position had been more obscure, but world sentiment may increase his attachment to the de Gaulle position.

Britain's Financial Dilemma

Regina Leader Post

There has been varied reaction in the British press to Britain's undertakings to the International Monetary Fund. The chancellor of the exchequer, Mr. Jenkins, asked the IMF for a loan of 417 million pounds sterling to repay past debts and in return promised to continue restrictions on spending in Britain and specified a target of a 300 million pound surplus in balance of payments by next spring.

The Daily Telegraph of London said targets of this kind have been handled around all too often before. What really matters is to get the trend right beyond the point of surplus in balance of payments.

Unpleasant as it might be to face the prospects of a continuing squeeze, at a risk even of a check to industrial growth, the alternative prospect of being under the bailiff's control can be even more distasteful.

The London Times said the surplus figure is not a forecast. It is a target and commitment. The chancellor and his Labor government have no room to manoeuvre if things start to go wrong, either with the International Monetary Fund or within their own general election timetable. The most important factor, however, is the rate at which world trade will continue to expand during the next 12 months and here the outlook is dominated by whether the United States continues to run a trade deficit.

The Financial Times said targets have been missed before and the present outlook for world trade is so uncertain that there are obvious disadvantages in being committed to a figure of any kind.

The Manchester Guardian said it is clear that Washington will have a bigger say in British economic management than in the past. One disturbing way in which the IMF is treating British economic priorities is revealed by the apparent commitment given by the government not to impose import controls. It is quite wrong that the British government should not only be told what size of payments surplus to reach, but how to reach it. Bankers have their economic priorities but these need not, and in this case should not, be the priorities of the British government.

The Daily Express said that, like a penitent schoolboy, the chancellor of the exchequer gave a promise of good behavior to the IMF. It is a humiliating performance from a government whose leader vowed he would never go cap-in-hand to International bankers.

The Sun said it is very humiliating that the chancellor should have to borrow again and promise the lenders that British will be good. But the lenders are entitled to ask for guarantees. It is their money Britain will be living on. There is only one way to avoid repeating this exasperating experience — get out of debt.

Women Top Sarnia's 'Courteous Driver' Plan

Ontario Department of Transport

Who's most likely to be the more courteous driver, a man or a woman?

In Sarnia, Ont., it was the women who won out — at least during the month of May.

Sarnia police unwittingly provided more ammunition to those who contend that women make better drivers last month, when they decided to present a special award for courteous driving each week, in an effort to encourage safe driving practices on city streets.

It took almost two weeks to find their first courteous driver, a situation Sgt. Brown of the Sarnia police termed, "disgusting."

"It's amazing how much you see when you're really looking . . . things that aren't generally charged," he said.

The first prize-winner was a woman — Mrs. Nancy Thomas of Sarnia. So were the next two prize-winners — Mrs. Betty Jean Hellwig of Sarnia and Mrs. Eileen Cox of Petrolia, carried off prizes during the first three weeks. The one male driver to win an award was a motorcyclist — 19-year-old Bill Hunt of Sarnia, who was driving his 1200 c.c. Harley Davidson at the time he was noticed by city police.

In one case, police followed about 16 male drivers on city streets before coming upon a courteous driver — a woman. Press people accompanied police on their search for the courteous driver. Sgt. Brown commented that it was a good thing they did or they might not have believed the results.

In all cases, the prize winners practiced good driving behavior, signalling intention to turn, yielding the right of way to pedestrians, slowing down for school areas or construction work.

The police decided to make the weekly awards to encourage safe driving following a report from Sgt. Brown which showed that traffic injuries had doubled in Sarnia during April, jumping from 13 in 1968 to 33 this year.

University Enrolment

Ontario Government

In the current academic year, over 92,000 young people are enrolled in Ontario universities and affiliated colleges: some 25, in colleges of applied arts and technology; 6,000 in Ryerson; 9,500 in teachers' colleges; and nearly 10,000 in schools of nursing — for a total of 142,500. In the 1969-70 academic year it's expected the post-secondary enrolment will increase by a least 20,000 to a total between 160,000 and 165,000. This will represent one-third of Ontario's young people in the 18-21 age bracket, compared with less than one-fifth only five years ago.

Vitamin Supplements Maintain Health of Astronauts

By JOAN HOLLOBON
In The Globe and Mail

Astronauts on their way to the moon this month will take vitamin supplements because a Toronto scientist found out why their predecessors were being dangerously anemic.

Dr. David Turner is associate scientist at the Research Institute of the Hospital for Sick Children, assistant professor of biochemistry at the University of Toronto and consultant to the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration. He told the annual convention of the Canadian Society of Laboratory Technologists yesterday the U.S. space program has had few medical problems.

Two problems, however, caused concern. One was a loss of calcium and magnesium from bones, similar to that seen in bedridden patients. Giving the astronauts an exerciser cured that.

The blood problem was more serious. When astronauts who circled the moon last Christmas Eve were examined, doctors found they had lost between 20 and 30 per cent of their red blood cell mass.

Loss of up to almost a third of the red cells, which contain the oxygen - carrying hemoglobin caused severe fatigue in the astronauts.

Dr. Turner suggested the blood cell destruction was caused by a combination of two factors: the pure oxygen used in the capsule and lack of Vitamin E in the diet.

Vitamin E, or tocopherol, is an anti-oxidant. It prevents a chemical reaction called oxidation, in which oxygen combines with and oxidizes the fatty component in the red cell membrane.

Once the cell's jacket is disrupted, the cell shrinks, becomes distorted or breaks up entirely.

Dr. Turner theorized that in a 100 per cent oxygen atmosphere the tendency to oxidation would be increased. The men would therefore require even more tocopherol in the blood to protect the red cells than they would in a sea-level atmosphere of only 20 per cent oxygen. If food did not supply sufficient Vitamin E to replenish the supply, red cell would be increased.

When physicians measured the tocopherol in the astronauts' blood plasma, they found that it was tremendously reduced. A study of their food showed that the freeze-drying process used to prepare the dehydrated meals destroys the nutritional content, so that it lacked Vitamin E and, indeed, all vitamins.

On the last mission, astronauts took vitamin supplements and no red cell destruction occurred, Dr. Turner said.

Blood samples will be taken from astronauts when they return from the moon and sent to Dr. Turner for further research in fat metabolism.

BBC Drops A Patriotic Song

Chicago Tribune

The British Broadcasting corporation decided not to close its television fare tonight "Deutschland Uber Alles" and the third stanza of "God Save the Queen (For years and years arise, scatter his enemies and make them fall"). There may always be an England but unless things take a turn for the better the English may find themselves singing "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen."

Maybe we shouldn't poke fun at Britain's problems, though. If we don't do something pretty soon about Washington and our Washington bureaucracy, we'll be looking for new words to replace "America the Beautiful" and "Sweet Land of Liberty."

LEO BRUCE BURLEY

The funeral for Leo Bruce Burley was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Saturday morning.

Canon R. B. Wright conducted the service in the chapel and also said the graveside prayers in Belleville Cemetery.

The bearers were Cameron McKenzie, Jack Ward, Al Johnston, James Tebworth, Robert James and Gerry Downes.

VINCENT JOSEPH HUGHES

Suffering a heart attack, Vincent Joseph Hughes, 374 Coleman Street, died in his sleep at his cottage on Stoco Lake on Saturday in his 60th year.

Mr. Hughes was born in Belleville, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hughes and had been a resident of Belleville all of his life. He was employed by the Ontario Hydro and had worked for that company for 40 years.

He was a member of St. Michael's church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Lillian Edwards, one son, Dennis Edward Hughes, of Tweed and two daughters, Mrs. Fred (Mary) Squires, Trenton, and Mrs. William (Theresa) Lott of Belleville.

Also surviving are two sisters Mrs. Frank (Agnes) Howard, Mrs. Wayne (Annie) Lott, both of Belleville and 13 grandchildren.

Mr. Hughes is resting at the George O'Brien Funeral Residence. Requiem mass will be celebrated at St. Michael's Church on Tuesday, July 8 at 9 a.m.

Interment will be in St. James Cemetery.

MRS. JOHN BONHAM

NAPANEE — Mrs. John Bonham of 296 East St., Napanee, was found dead in her home Saturday afternoon. Death is believed to have occurred Thursday evening from natural causes. She had seemed much the same as usual when seen during the day Thursday, and had assisted with a bit of gardening in the Allan Macpherson house gardens, of which she was in charge.

A friend called early Saturday morning and discovered two daily newspapers on her doorstep, and there was no answer to her knock. She informed the owner of the apartment, who investigated and found her dead. Coroner D. C. McVicker of Deseronto ordered a post mortem in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. Bonham, formerly Marion Howard Brown, born in Brockville, taught high school in Windsor many years and there she married John Carleton Bonham.

Both had been very active in both the Napanee and Kingston historical Societies since moving to this area from Windsor in 1958. They resided in the Bay Bay area, and Mrs. Bonham moved to Napanee two years ago, following her husband's death the previous year.

She was especially interested in the Allan Macpherson House and its restoration, and was the corresponding secretary of its board of management.

The funeral service was held this Monday afternoon, July 7 at two o'clock in St. Mary Magdalene Church, Archdeacon W. L. Simmons officiating. Burial will be in Oak Cemetery in Copetown Tuesday morning at ten o'clock.

Mrs. Bonham is survived by her sister, Mrs. Carl Sherman (Helen) of Brockville; her brother, James Brown of Pennsylvania; two daughters, Mrs. H. B. Meanwell (Elizabeth) of Toronto and Mrs. K. K. Frans (Anne) of Stoney Creek; and eight grandchildren.

She was in her 72nd year.

LORAL CLEMENT

The funeral for Loral Clement was held from the White and Morris Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon.

Rev. William Hendry conducted the service in the chapel and also the committal rites at Deseronto cemetery.

The bearers were Harold Unger, Roe Bradshaw, Vernon Boonhower, Arthur Hill, Keith Sharpe and Arthur Allen.

ANDREW GRAY
Rochester - Belleville

In ill health for the past year, Andrew Gray, 80 East Grecian Gardens, Rochester, and formerly of Belleville, died at his home on Sunday in his 86th year.

Mr. Gray was born in Belleville, a son of Mrs. Agnes Gray and the late Andrew Gray and had resided in Rochester for eight years. He formerly resided in Belleville, where he was employed as a CNR engineer.

He was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Imelda Drummey; three sons, Andrew, Gray, Whitby; Kenneth, Ottawa; Lawrence, Rochester; and one daughter, Mrs. Donna Haley, Whitby.

Also surviving are two brothers, James Gray, Kingston and Earl Gray, Nelson, B.C.; two sisters, Mrs. Thomas (Elizabeth) Helm, Belleville; Mrs. Lawrence (Molly) Hogan, Kingston and six grandchildren.

Mr. Gray will rest at the John R. Bush Funeral Home with visitation from Tuesday evening. Service will be held in the chapel on Thursday, July 10 at 1.30 p.m.

Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery with Rev. Laurie Sutherland officiating.

ALFRED I. CONNORS

The funeral of Alfred L. Connors was held Friday afternoon with service conducted in the MacKenzie Funeral Home in Madoc by Rev. V. Toner.

A graveside Royal Canadian Legion service under the direction of Branch 363, Madoc, was conducted by Padre J. A. Thompson.

The bearers were Thomas Ross, Jack Scruton, Ralph Neal, Donald Ash, Arthur Parson and George Neilson.

Interment was in Lakeview Cemetery, Madoc.

HAROLD ALEXANDER FRANKS
Ottawa — Millbridge

MADOC — Suffering a heart attack at the home of his sister in Eldorado while on vacation, Harold Alexander Franks, 27 Glen Avenue, Ottawa, died suddenly in Belleville General Hospital on Saturday in his 66th year.

Mr. Franks was born at Millbridge, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Franks and had resided in Ottawa for 23 years. He formerly lived in St. Catharines. He was a member of the RCAF during the second World War and after discharge joined the National Defence Department and retired in 1966. He was a member of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch No. 585, Ottawa.

He was a member of the United Church.

Surviving are two daughters Mrs. L. (Phyllis Anne) Stewart, and Mrs. L. (Athelma) Coles, both of St. Catharines. His wife, the former Anna Lyons, died some years ago.

Also surviving are one brother, Wilfred J. Franks, retired deputy commissioner of the Ontario Provincial Police and formerly of Belleville; three sisters, Mrs. S. (Blanche) Sandford, Eldorado, Mrs. A. (Hazel) Young, Peterborough and Mrs. L. (Margaret) Blackburn, Eldorado, 10 grand children and one great grandchild.

Mr. Franks is resting at the MacKenzie Funeral Home. Service will be held in Eldorado United Church on Tuesday, July 8 at two o'clock.

Interment will be in Eldorado Cemetery with Rev. W. M. Sedgwick officiating.

Conservation Lauded by Minister

Hundreds of people lined the field at the O'Hara Conservation area on Saturday as the official opening of the pioneer house at O'Hara Mill took place.

Around 400 cars were parked in the area at only time according to a count by one boy scout and others kept arriving, if not to see the opening to view the whole conservation area and picnic and fish.

Honorable George Kerr, minister of the department of energy and resources for the province of Ontario was the main speaker.

"Because of the geometric increase in population, several problems are being created."

The first one, according to the minister, is overcrowding but the destruction of man's own environment and history is another big problem, he said.

"Conservation authorities are concerned about the destruction of environment and history and it is projects like this that are preserving rather than destroying."

The minister congratulated those who were involved in the restoration of the O'Hara Conservation area and was thanked by Ald. Robin Jeffrey from Belleville.

Other guests on the platform were A. S. L. Barnes, director of the conservation authorities branch; Clarke Rollins, MLA for Hastings riding; Dr. R. T. Potter, MLA for Quinte riding; Senator George White; Mayor J. Russell Scott from Belleville; Hastings warden Donald Rodgers; Madoc reeve Allen Ketcheson and V. N. Stymo, museum advisor of the department of tourism and information.

Heisz New Manager

Frank E. Heisz has been appointed manager of the Bank of Montreal's branch at North Front and College streets. Formerly assistant manager at the main Belleville branch he succeeds Albert A. Kroetsch who has been named manager of a branch in Scarborough.

Mr. Heisz joined the B of M at Teeswater in 1955. After serving there and at Hanover, he became assistant accountant at a Kitchener office in 1958 and accountant at Orillia four years later. He came to the main Belleville branch as accountant in 1966 and became assistant manager last year.

He is treasurer of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, co - chairman of this year's United Appeal, and a minor hockey coach.

Succeeding Mr. Heisz as assistant manager of the main branch is R. M. Barber, who was previously accountant at the Tweed branch.

WEDDINGS

CORNELL — BARANIESKI

St. George's Anglican Church, Trenton, was the scene of a summer wedding when Ellen Jeanette Baranieski, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Baranieski of Trenton, became the bride of Bruce Wilson Cornell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cornell, Kingston. Rev. Dean Fleming of Kingston officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an empire style gown of white satin with floor-length train and three-quarter length sleeves. Her full-length veil was gathered to a pearl headpiece. Her bouquet was a cascade of white roses.

The maid of honor, Joan Baranieski, sister of the bride and the bridesmaids, Madeline Forbes, Carole Lavergne and Nancy Cowan, sister of the bridegroom were dressed alike in floor-length A-line dresses of coral peau de soie with matching veil headpieces. They carried bouquets of coral and white carnations.

The flower girl, Sharon Lynn Baranieski, niece of the bride wore a floor-length gown similar to that of the bridesmaids. She carried a basket of orange and white carnations amid sprays of Babies breath.

The bridegroom was attended by Morton Morris of Kingston and the ushers were Peter Annis, James Cornell, and Douglas Cowan.

The reception was held at Trenton Country Club. The bride's mother wore a pink lace over taffeta dress with matching finger tip jacket, white hat and accessories and a corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a beige suit, a hat of beige and orange and beige accessories. Her corsage was orange carnations.

For their wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride chose a linen A-line dress with a short jacket, set off by orange and beige accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornell will reside in Kingston.

SIMPSON — ROSEVEAR

TWEED — Lynda Jane Rosevear and Lieutenant David Lilburn Simpson were married recently at a candlelight service in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Kingston.

Rev. David Sinclair (formerly a Tweed pastor) officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William John Rosevear, Tweed. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Lilburn Simpson, of Victoria, British Columbia.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Mary Scanlin as maid-of-honor. Karen Muller, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Lieutenant Bruce Welling. Camp Borden, and ushers were Constable Don Miller, RCMP of Sudbury, Ont., brother-in-law of the bride and Joseph Day, Kingston.

Following the reception held in the Church Hall, the bride and groom left on a trip to Quebec City.

PREVENTS DAMAGE

MONTREAL CP — Columnist Charlotte Bronstein advises all picture-hangers to mark the position of the hangers on the wall and apply two strips of tape in a cross over the pencil marks. When the nail is hammered in, the tape will prevent the plaster from crumbling.

NOBES — MOLLOY

Centenary United Church was the scene of a recent wedding when Mary Rita Anne Molloy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murney Molloy, Belleville, was united in marriage to John Jarman Edgar Nobes, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Nobes of R. R. 2, Belleville. The officiating clergy selections was Mrs. John Sager of Montreal, sister of the bridegroom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a street length dress of pale blue crepe with a white lace overlay coat. Her shoulder length veil was caught in a rose headpiece. She carried mauve orchids centred on a white Bible.

Maid of honor Miss Stephanie Molloy, sister of the bride wore a street length dress of pale pink iwth pink lace sleeves. She wore a pink flowered headdress and carried a bouquet of tinted pink mums. Bridesmaids, Miss Nora Molloy, sister of the bride, and Miss Kathy Finkle, cousin of the bride, were attired the same as the maid of honor.

Junior bridesmaid, Miss Nancy Molloy, sister of the bride, wore a yellow crepe dress with lace sleeves. She wore a yellow flowered headdress and carried a bouquet of yellow tinted mums.

Flower girl, little Miss Mary Finkle, cousin of the bride, wore a yellow cotton dress with a full skirt and a round collar. She wore a yellow flowered headdress and carried a bouquet of tinted yellow mums.

Best man was Robert Nobes, brother of the bridegroom and ushers were Roy Nobes, brother of the bridegroom and Patrick Finkle, cousin of the bride. Ring bearers were Paul and Philip Molloy, brothers of the bride.

For the wedding reception held in the bridegroom's parents, Mr.and Mrs. Mac Nobes, the mother of the bride received wearing a sheath dress of beige a Terracotta green lace dress with white accessories and a corsage of white orchids. Assisting her, the mother of the bridegroom chose a beige crimplene dress with orange and white accessories and a corsage of orange mums. Barry Flindall, of Toronto, was the master of ceremonies.

For a wedding trip to Niagara Falls the bride donned a peach colored dress with white collar. She wore white accessories and a corsage of mauve orchids.

Upon their return the couple will reside at RR2, Belleville.

McKEE — CONBOY

TWEED — Following their recent marriage in June 28th, 1969, in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Herbert McKee left on a wedding trip to Western Canada.

The bride is the former Ruth Marilyn Conboy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Conboy of Sharbot Lake and was given in marriage by her father.

Reverend Max V. Putman officiated at the ceremony.

Attending the bride was Miss Elva Conboy, of Perth, maid of honor; Miss Mary Buchanan, Kingston, and Miss Myrtle McKee of Stella as bridesmaids.

His was attended by Robert McKee of Kingston as best man. Keith Conboy of Sharbot Lake and Donald Parks of Kingston were ushers.

A reception was held in St. Andrew's Hall, following the wedding ceremony.

Miss Carol Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elliott, Corbyville, recently graduated from the Oshawa General Hospital School of Radiological Technology. Carol is a graduate of Quinte Secondary School, Belleville.

WOMEN of THE MOOSE

Regent, Bernice Pridle; Jr. Regent, Connie Pridle; chaplain, Olive Patrick; recorder, Nell Shandrow; treasurer, Gladys Keegan; guide, Sheila Keegan; assistant guide, Nell Burke; Argus, Phyllis Hammett; Sentinel, Mildred Ford and pianist, Dorothy Potter.

The following were chairmen: Edna Pringle, Jewel Asselstine, Jean Gilmarr, Evelyn Woodcock, Loretta Dennis, Bessie Poste, Lea Welch, Joyce Stewart, Bessie Poste.

The Chapter extended a vote of thanks to the LOOM for the supper prepared.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

MARRIAGE NOTICE

BUSHILL — DELEURNE— Rev. R. A. Crooks officiated at the wedding ceremony on Friday, July 4, 1969, when Vian Delevrne was united in marriage to Burton Bushill. Attendants at the ceremony were Mrs. Gloria Roborough and Mr. Monty Alyea.

* * *

A family get-together was held at the residence and home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pickell, 185 Foster Avenue, when Mr. and Mrs. James Hay, aunt and uncle of the hosts arrived from Edinburgh, Scotland. The visitors were later joined by a son Bill Hay from San Francisco and their daughter Christine Luker and family from Forest City, Arkansas.

* * *

Previous to her marriage, Mrs. Carman Nobes (nee Rita Molloy) was entertained at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. M. Johnston, the bride's grandmother, with Miss Judy Johnston as hostess. They were also tendered with a shower by the Centenary Community.

Enjoy Garden Party

OTTAWA (CP) — Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener's granddaughter was one of many young people in the crowd of more than 5,000 persons at the annual garden party at Rideau Hall Friday.

Karen Rohr, 17, of Providence, R.I., accompanied her grandparents through one of the largest crowds ever to spill over the park-like grounds surrounding the Governor-General's greystone mansion.

The pretty, blonde teen-ager, wearing a lacy white dress with puffed sleeves and a pale blue sash, took her turn posing for pictures and shaking hands as the vice-regal party made its way to a small, striped marquee.

Miss Rohr is the daughter of Dr. Donald Rohr, a history professor at Brown University, and his wife Jonn, eldest daughter of the Governor-General and Mrs. Michener.

Mrs. Michener, wearing a high blue silk turban, a matching sheath dress and off-white accessories, stopped to smile at one of the tiniest guests.

In fact, two-year-old Judy Gitzi and her mother, Mrs. E. M. Y. Gitzi of Ottawa, had their pictures taken with Mrs. Michener at the suggestion of the Governor-General's wife.

Makeup with 'Natural Look'

NEW YORK (AP) — North American women will be creaming, coloring, powdering and painting their faces more than ever this fall, all in pursuit of what cosmetic manufacturers somewhat inaccurately call the "natural look."

All of the major manufacturers of hair and beauty products who showed their newest ideas to fashion editors at recent designer presentations here agreed that women should try to look as though they are wearing little makeup.

Eye shadow colors will be skin toned-browns and pinks are the favorites of most manufacturers. Lipstick colors will be slightly darker, but will not feature the flame-red shades of earlier decades. Rouge — usually called blusher these days — will be pinker.

"We like the makeup-no makeup look," said a spokesman for Charles of the Ritz, whose cosmetics' colors are based on fall shades.

SIMPLY STYLISH — These two youthful dresses by R&K Originals of New York are stylish and shapely, yet simple. At left is a skimmer with slot seam detailing and inverted pleats in 100 per cent polyester. At right is a simple shirtdress with front zipper. The jaunty wing collar is reflected in the pocket flaps. The dress, also of polyester, is worn with a rayon print tie. (CP Photo)

'Too Much Liquor at White House:' Jackie's Memo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Excerpts of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, memo reveal her concerns as wife of the late president with too much liquor at the White House, the number of electors, newspaper women "harpies," and a comedian's references to her children, says the Knight Newspaper Syndicate.

In a copyright story by Vera Glaser and Mahlon Brewer, under a direction to the White House staff to refill half-empty cocktail glasses "when a group people do get hepatitis" was the former Mrs. John F. Kennedy's way of tossing off a quip.

In one note, she said "I have never sent out one memo that I would have minded the world seeing . . . the worst thing I have ever said is about the Archbishop of Canterbury's wife." This was not disclosed, however.

"Liquor often flows too freely here," she wrote the White House housekeeper, "and I find it as abhorrent to hear a reception tufting into drunken laughter as I do to hear jazz crashing through the East Room.

"No one should ever get drunk in the White House; so will you see that at stage affairs and official receptions—especially by the judiciary—liquor flows much more slowly."

In writing to Mrs. John Mowlockle in Paris, one of her fashion "scouts," she made one of her frequent mentions of trying to economize in this area:

"You are so sweet to write me such a long letter about all the heavenly clothes in Paris. . . . However, by some strange mercy of the gods, I have a very light social season this spring—also, trunk loads of clothes left over from India last year, and for two trips to Brazil which we never took.

"So I am really going to economize the one thing I can," she said, adding that one especially appealing suit could be borrowed from her sister, Lee Radziwill, if necessary.

Aferring to the month period she spent $15,000 on clothes, the memos showed:

After she and the president watched comedian Vaughn Meader on television, she wrote to aide Pam Turnure:

"JFK says it's okay if you call him Meader which is probably safer than writing, and say that Mrs. Kennedy finds it in appalling taste that he should make money out of a five-year-old child," referring to the comedian's satires.

"Tell him I don't care what he says about us—but, the fact that he dares mention my children's names to make himself an extra dollar, I don't like that —I would just like him to know that I consider him a rat as far as the children are concerned."

In another memo, she said: "JFK was a bit disturbed last night about the press ladies" at a White House function. "They hang around and make everyone nervous. . . ."

Changes in press around rules should come from iPerre Salinger, she said to Pam Turnure. " . . . as if it not fair to pit you against the harpies. Also, they might take it better from a man."

Mother: "If you're all set to spend the whole day playing and swimming, forget it. I need a vacation, too, and I'm going to make all of you pitch in and help with the work while we're here at the lake."

Plan ahead of time so the chores on a vacation trip will be a co-operative enterprise, rather than something imposed by an exasperated mother.

Mother: "It will be a good vacation for all of us if each person will help tidy up the cottage and get the meals while we're at the lake. Let's decide now which job you each would like to do."

Successful Living

Mom Who Stutters Has Lonely Life

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I feel awful. I stammer. I read a book "How To Overcome Stuttering" but I still need some kind of guidance. I live miles from any specialist; have two girls and a wonderful husband. I'm afraid the girls are going to be unpopular as I was if I don't take them to visit friends and get them so they will get used to people.

When we were first married five years ago, my husband and I visited and very few would return the visit, so we quit. I feel the reason they don't come to see us is that either I sit and say nothing or if I do say something I sit there and stutter. When the conversation lags I do try my best to say something to keep it going. My husband has never said anything to me about it — whether he liked the situation or not, etc. He is so patient with me.

The doctors say I don't need a psychiatrist and just shove tranquilizers into me. I must do something for my girls' sake and my husband. I do want to be with people desperately. — Stuck for Words

Dear Stuck: You simply have to keep trying — and I know it isn't simple at all.

Shy people, retiring people, stutterers — all find their solution in practice. Humans are social and weren't meant to live solitary lives; we need one another.

Would it help to talk out loud to yourself when you are working around the house? Try to say each word clearly and distinctly. Talk it out with your husband and have sessions reading aloud to him.

One stammering mother bravely accepted the job of church unit secretary. Read minutes, made announcements; learned to laugh at her own mistakes and everybody loved her for it. And she improved.

So can you.

* * *

Dear Doris: Last week a few of us oldsters went to a dessert luncheon at the home of a semi-invalid friend who can't be on her feet much. She served us French vanilla ice cream topped with sliced frozen strawberries and plain (store) sponge cake. Piping hot tea of course.

Then we settled back to talk. But she produced some unique entertainment: four of the very old school readers. There was a Third Book, two Fourth Books — one very old, and a Fifth Book Reader c 1882!

You should have heard us — reciting or reading poetry we'd forgotten we ever learned — and declaiming prose. We had a wonderful time and next week we're going back again, only this time we're taking box lunches like we used to do at school. All our hostess has to do is give us tea.

Maybe you'd like to pass this on. — Ruth S.

Dear Ruth S.: What fun! Can I come next time? I'm in the "Somebody's Mother" and "How They Brought The Good News From Ghent to Aix" era.

Dear Doris: I would like to know if you have any material on how to dance. — An Interested Reader

Dear Interested: I have a leaflet called "Dance Helps" which suggests some dance variations for the purpose of helping a party to get going. But if you want to learn special steps, the place to go is a music store or a library. Then get a few of your friends together and begin twirling around in your own living-room, to the tune of a record player.

Wife Gives Reasons For Year's Cheating

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this, but no clue as to where it came from. My letter could have been written by at least five million women. Let their husbands guess.

TO THE MAN I MARRIED: You have accused me of cheating on you. I've denied it because you have no proof and I figure nothing can be gained from a confession. But now I'm ready to admit that your suspicions are right. I've been seeing another man for almost a year. Here's why:

ANN LANDERS

The romance went of our marriage long ago. You decided that frills, such as kindness, consideration and decent manners, were a waste of time. You let me know my feelings didn't count. If you chose not to come home for dinner, I was expected to "catch on" by 9:00 p.m. and eat alone.

When I found lipstick on your shirts I was supposed to believe it was red marking crayon. You refused to go to church with me because you said you could worship God better on the golf course than with a bunch of hypocrites.

It's been years since we had a real conversation. You are either too busy or too tired to talk. You've made me feel like a drag, a bore, a nuisance and finally, a nothing.

Last year I met a man who made me come alive after I was sure I had died inside. He finds me interesting and attractive. His marriage is as bad as mine, but he is trapped, as I am, by children, social pressures and financial obligation.

So, my dear husband I am not leaving you, but I am cheating every chance I get and it is keeping me sane. Furthermore, I am healthier and happier than I've been in a good many years. — YOUR WIFE.

* * *

DEAR WIFE: You didn't ask for advice so I won't offer it. Here's your letter with no comment.

* * *

DEAR ANN: A few years ago I loaned a friend $200. He promised to repay me with interest when he graduated from college.

A few month later he was called into the Army. I felt that so long as he was in the service I would not remind him of his obligation.

When he returned he avoided me. I ran into him at the home of a mutual friend. He was embarrassed and said, "I haven't forgotten about the loan." I replied, "Good! I can use the money."

That was a year ago and I haven't seen a dime. Even $10 a month would look good. What should I do? — SHORT.

* * *

DEAR SHORTY: Write or phone the fellow and ask how soon he can start to make monthly payments against the $200. As a matter of integrity he should take steps to honor the commitment, no matter how modest the payments.

* * *

DEAR ANN: Your answer to A.C., the student, was lousy. You told him to "keep plugging away." Why? Are grades that important? I know at least a dozen squares who've never missed the dean's list but they are ignorant when it comes to things that matter. You hoobed, Ann. — ADAM'S APPLE.

* * *

DEAR AD: A.C. was on the verge of flunking out. I advised him to keep plugging. This was hooking?

Perfect Potato Salad Which Serves Six

By MARY MOORE

Mrs. R. O. wrote: ". . . I have seen and eaten potato salad where the potatoes stay nice and white. Mine always turn grey and yellowish. Help! What am I doing wrong or not doing that I should be?"

I made my best potato salad this morning and for Mrs. R. O.'s sake made sure the potatoes remained white by using new potatoes and parboiling them and adding two tbsps. vinegar to the water in which they were cooked and they did turn out pure white.

So for Mrs. R. O. and countless numbers of you who will be preparing potato salads this summer here is the elastic recipe for

PERFECT POTATO SALAD
(Serves 6)

6 med. large new potatoes pared and halved
2 tbsps. vinegar
½ cup finely chopped chives (or ¼ cup finely chopped green onion)
2 hard-cooked eggs chopped
2-3 cup chopped pared cucumber
2-3 cup finely chopped celery
2-3 to 1 cup genuine mayonnaise (see recipe tomorrow)
½ tsp. salt

NOTE: If you do not care to pare potatoes they may be scrubbed and cooked in their skins.

Scrub and pare potatoes and cut in halves. Cover with boiling water, add vinegar and boil covered till nearly tender. Do not overcook. Drain and cool. (Peel if cooked in skins.) Cut into 1-3" cubes. Turn into a large bowl and add chives (or green onion), chopped hard-cooked eggs, cucumber, celery, mayonnaise and salt and gently mix. Chill covered until serving time.

NOTES: 1) If necessary this salad may be made 24 hours in advance and chilled, covered. 2) Variations: You may add ¼ cup cooked new green peas or and ¼ cup finely chopped parsley.

Test Battle Between North and South Vietnamese Rained Out

DAK TO (AP) — The "test battle" between South and North Vietnamese troops around Dak To and Ben Het has drowned in monsoon rains, U.S. observers, anxious to see how the South Vietnamese Army can perform on its own, say the results were frustrating-ly indecisive.

No U.S. infantry fought in the two-month battle that began in the Dak To valley early in May, swirled south across the hills, and then clamped hard around the Ben Het special forces camp late in June. Division-sized forces were pitted against each other. The South Vietnamese had U.S. air and artillery support.

Both sides have been making victory claims and, under the rules in Vietnam, both have some validity. But the only sure winners are the dentists.

Great sheets of water shifting in from Laos blacken the afternoon skies and shiver through the triple-canopied jungle. Hip-deep mud bogs tanks, trucks and slows even the most nimble-footed North Vietnamese porter. By the end of June, the South Vietnamese were just waiting in the rain for the North Vietnamese to go home. They did.

The North Vietnamese initiated the battle by slipping two infantry regiments, backed by a regiment of mixed artillery, into the Dak To valley early in May. They had been in Dak To before, but this time they discovered their old American antagonist had gone.

The enemy move into Dak To was a seasonal phenomenon.

The decision to make it a test was made in Saigon.

While no U.S. infantry came to help, other American forces did. U.S. engineers kept the roads around Dak To open until they were blasted off them; U.S. transportation units ran trucks through to Ben Het; American helicopters carried food and ammunition to South Vietnamese troops and carried out the wounded; U.S. artillerymen provided enormous firepower, and U.S. B-52 bombers dropped an estimated 15,000 tons of explosives during the battle while fighter-bombers flew numerous close support missions.

An estimated 60 Americans died in this Vietnamese test, and nearly 300 were wounded. But the spotlight was on the South Vietnamese performance. Americans interviewed during and after the action gave this assessment of how they measured up:

The South Vietnamese got seriously mauled, but no worse than the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade at Dak To in 1967.

Ex-convict She Was Helping Accused of Murder of Co-ed

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A 28-year-old repairman has been accused of the shooting death of a University of Michigan co-ed, the seventh young woman slain in the area in less than two years.

Sources close to the investigation said the man was released from the Southern Michigan prison, six months ago after serving a sentence for rape.

Police Chief Walter Krasny said the shooting victim, Margaret Phillips, 23, had been counselling the man, Earnest R. Bishop Jr., on how to improve his life. She was doing it "on her own," Krasny commented.

He said Miss Phillips also had "more than a casual interest" in the six previous slayings and had interviewed several persons on the subject. Two of the killings occurred while Bishop was in prison.

Miss Phillips was shot in her apartment early Saturday. She died Sunday without regaining consciousness.

Four policemen arrested Bishop as he left his apartment building Sunday night.

The man, small and thin, had been working as a refrigeration repairman, police said.

Prosecutor William Delhey said Bishop, booked by police on an inforbual charge of premeditated murder, will be charged formally in court today.

Miss Phillips, a slim five-foot-four graduate student in sociology, was found by a neighbor and fellow student, Judith Rubin, who shared a kitchen with the victim.

Miss Rubin heard the gruff voice of a man, followed by shots, and hid in her own room until he left.

Miss Phillips, shot in the head and one hand with a .22-calibre pistol, was clad in blouse and slacks.

The Detroit News said Bishop was sentenced in Detroit June 9, 1959, to 10 to 20 years on a rape conviction.

The News said he began his sentence at Southern Michigan prison near Jackson June 12, 1959, was paroled sometime after Sept. 21, 1966, was returned to the prison May 12, 1967, and released again Dec. 27, 1968.

Shortly before the arrest, Krasny said police had released Sunday an untrue report in their attempt to trap a suspect.

The false report was that the girl had mumbled "two words" in her hospital bed.

Krasny said he issued the false report to see whether it would arouse "any reaction." Asked whether it did, he replied: "I don't know."

Holiday Over, Apollo's Crew Back Training

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Relaxed after a holiday weekend with their families, the Apollo 11 astronauts today begin their final days of training for next week's blastoff toward a landing on the moon.

Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins planned a full day of sharpening skills in trainer spacecraft at Cape Kennedy following an early morning flight from their Houston, Tex., homes.

The three moonmen spent the U.S. Independence Day holiday weekend with their families near the Manned Spacecraft Centre at Houston discussing the dangers of landing on the moon.

"They want to know every detail of what we're going to do and how we're going to do it," Armstrong said in an interview.

Aldrin said his wife Joan "perhaps has more concern for my peace of mind than for any danger that might befall me."

Collins, who will orbit the moon alone and act as lifeguard for his two colleagues exploring below, said his three children—Kathleen 10, and Ann 7, and Michael 6—"are really too young to appreciate the implications of this flight.

"I got the three of them together and tried to explain the historic import. They sort of listened and nodded and only one question from my boy who wanted to know, 'Who's driving?'

"They are really too young to have a feel for it."

At the launch pad, crews today planned to check for leaks on spacecraft engines, Sunday, they finished repainting the outside of the Saturn V's upper stage after the old coating—needed to protect a percold fuel from the sun—was found to be peeling.

Apollo 11 is to blast off at 9:32 a.m. EDT July 16, with Armstrong and Aldrin landing on the moon July 20. The next day, Armstrong is to leave the lunar module landing craft and make man's first step on the lunar crust.

Storm's Toll Climbs to 26

CLEVELAND (AP) — Twenty-six persons were known dead and at least six missing as a search continued today for victims of weekend storms in northern Ohio and Lake Erie.

Floodwaters were reported receding in nearly all areas.

Bodies of five members of a Wooster family missing since Saturday were found Sunday night, leaving four others missing in that city. Also missing were a milk truck driver in Ashland County and a Sandusky man swept from a bridge Saturday.

Coast guard officials said nearly all of 160 holiday boaters still unaccounted for Sunday night were believed safe ashore.

The coast guard cut its search force from 11 planes and more than 50 vessels to two helicopters and 12 vessels Sunday.

The Vermilion River crested Sunday afternoon after rising 13 feet above flood stage, forcing the evacuation of several hundred persons in Vermilion, a town of 6,000.

In Norwalk, waters reached depths of 15 feet Saturday after a reservoir broke. Still on duty were 150 National Guard troops, enforcing a curfew from 9 p.m. until 5 a.m. for the second night.

The city of 15,000 remained without power or water.

Henley Has Appeal for Strawberry and Champagne Set

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (AP) — "The Royal Henley Regatta is dead—R.I.P.," someone had scrawled on a wall.

That was on the last day of the 1968 world rowing meet. Most Henley followers seemed to agree with the sentiment.

The quaint old England was determined to stay in the 19th century. It didn't really matter who was winning the races. What was important was to be there, drink champagne and eat strawberries.

About 20,000 fans lazed on the river bank, or sat back in their punts as sweaty oarsmen plowed through the spray and the sunshine to win a trophy.

Last year only nine overseas crews attended because the dates clashed with other engagements.

"The one mile, 550-yard course doesn't conform with the international 2,000 metres racing distance and only two crews can compete at a time on the swirling river Thames.

But this year they came back in record numbers. There were 47 overseas entries, including 20 from the United States.

Why?

The University of Pennsylvania's senior coach Joe Burk who has been coming to Henley for more than 30 years, saw his crew go down in a fighting finish to the East Germany squad S. C. Einheit of Dresden in the Grand Challenge Cup. Henley's main event for eights.

"It's so different here. There is something that other regattas just don't have. I hope to be back again," Burk said.

Adolf Samborski, director of sports at Harvard University, is another Henley veteran.

"Perhaps it's the crowds and the atmosphere," said Samborski.

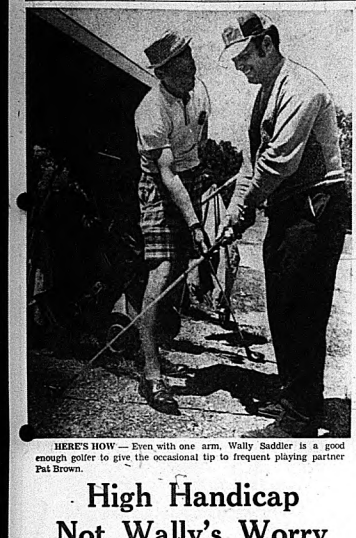
"Back home the crowds are often far away. There they are breathing down the necks of the crews and that does something for you."

Dresden finished Saturday in six minutes, 28 seconds—only 12 seconds slower than the record set by West Germany's Ratzeburger crew in 1965. Penn, with Rick Crooker of St. Catharines, Ont., rowing in No. 6 position, finished three-quarters of a length behind.

Hans Bohmer from the Dynamo Club, East Germany, defeated American Bill Tytus by three lengths to win the Diamond Sculls. Bohmer completed the one-mile, 550-yard course in the fast time of eight minutes, 44 seconds.

Britain's Leander Cadets beat University of Pennsylvania's lightweight eights in six minutes, 41 seconds to win the Thames Cup.

Washington-Lee High School won the Princess Elizabeth Cup for schoolboy eights for the second successive year. The U.S. team edged Britain's Emanuel School by two-thirds of a length in seven minutes.



A Dutch crowd four entry, DSR Laga, took the Prince Philip Challenge Cup by half a length over New Zealand's Hutt Valley Rowing Club.

Urs Bitetzi and Urs Frankhauser of Switzerland took the Silver Goblets for pair oars with a win over Britons Roger Wait and Mike Sweeney.

The Wyfold Challenge Cup for coxless fours was won by London Rowing Club which defeated Tident Rowing Club, South Africa.

HERE'S HOW — Even with one arm, Wally Saddler is a good enough golfer to give the occasional tip to frequent playing partner Pat Brown.

High Handicap Not Wally's Worry

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

There's just too much enjoyment in golf for Wally Saddler to be concerned about things like handicaps.

Oh, sure, he's got an 18 — "officially recognized by the Royal Ontario whatchamacallit," as he says — but all that mathematics takes the fun out of the game.

The 45-year-old Bellevillian's other handicap bothers him even less — the fact he was born with one arm.

It doesn't make him nervous when he tees off before the clubhouse crowd for one of his regular four weekend rounds.

It only sometimes keeps him from breaking 100 at his favorite Interwar Club stamping grounds near Brighton; but then Wally's only been playing golf about three years.

And it absolutely NEVER gives him an excuse for a poor shot.

"Actually, this game's all in your mind," Wally winks. "Tie one hand behind your back and you could play as well as me."

His sense of humor and spartan patience make Wally a favorite playing partner. The strongest four-letter word he utters on the course is usually "Fore!"

He plays for par, hits greens of 500-yard par-fives in three shots, and, in short, plays golf better than most who have been at the game barely three summers, with one OR two arms.

"I really went at golfing seriously the second year I played down in Kitchener," Wally recalls. "I was president of a local club down there. That summer I played 18 holes 248 times — I kept track."

If anything, the sprightly Mr. Saddler looks on his physical handicap as an advantage in his golfing endeavors.

"I'm more relaxed than most people I play with," he observed. "I don't worry about hitting the ball harder than anyone else."

His game of golf is the result of much practice and a lot of thought.

He said his longest putt of the day was a 90 footer with others from as far as 40 feet out.

Vollmer, who congratulated Reasor afterwards for his sensational work on the greens, received $750 for his second place finish.

Gary Bowerman of Toronto, who grabbed the lead after the first round with a four-under-par 65, dropped to rounds of 73 and 72 to finish third at 213 and pocketed $600.

Three players shared fourth place with 215, including amateur Jim Doyle of Winnipeg who captured the Harold Eidsvig Memorial Trophy awarded to the low amateur at the Open. Doyle is reigning Canadian amateur champion.

Second-round leader Bobby Mitchell of Dunsville, Va., soared to a 75 in the final round after going into the last 18 holes at four under par.

Defending open champion Alvia Thompson of Toronto played consistent golf with rounds of 72-72-71 for his 215. Both he and Mitchell received cheques for $900.

Cliff-hanger Rings Up Manitoba Cash for Reasor

WINNIPEG (CP) — Mike Reasor and a gallery of about 200 stood transfixed at the 18th green for one agonizing moment as Reasor's ball hung on the lip of the cup during the Manitoba open golf championship.

When it finally dropped, the cash register rang for Reasor to the tune of $1,200, top money in the $6,000 Open which concluded Saturday at the Breezy Country Club.

Reasor, 27, a professional playing out of Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., took advantage of the first day of sunshine Saturday to card a four-under-par 68 in the final round for a 209 total in the 54-hole event.

Of all his shots, none was more important than that last putt 15 feet from the pin.

Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver had finished the last round earlier than Reasor and had gone to the clubhouse with a final-round 67, tying a course record and giving him 210 for the three days.

Reasor needed a par on the 18th hyard, par-four 18th to avoid a playoff and win the Carling Cup and top money.

After pulling his second shot, to the fringe of the green he chose to use his putter, drawing up 12 feet short of the cup. It was a long, crucial putt, but he had been making them all day.

"I must have made about 40 miles of putts coming in," said the native of Seattle who had played in three U.S. tournaments before stopping off at Winnipeg.

Bowerman Sets Tour Point Pace

WINNIPEG (CP) — Gary Bowerman of Toronto has accumulated 29.5 points in the first two open championships to take the unofficial lead in the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association tour.

A native of Belleville, the 28-year-old club pro moved into the lead after capturing third place in the Manitoba Open, second of seven opens on the tour.

The tour ends in Quebec City later this year in a tournament open to each Canadian winner of a championship plus those gathering top points.

Phil Giroux of Montreal, top pro in the Ontario open, finished well down the list in the Manitoba championship but still holds second high points of 21.

Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver, who pocketed second money in the Manitoba event, has 20 points.

Other leaders:

Alvie Thompson, Toronto, 19.5 points; Ken Fulton, Montreal, 17.5; Moe Norman, Kitchener, 17; Wilf Homenuik, Dauphin, Man., 15; Trevor Bateman, Montreal, 15; Bill Wright Jr., Edmonton, 15; Bob Panasiuk, Windsor, Ont., 13; Gary Pitchford, Toronto, 12.5; Bobby Breen, Brampton, Ont., 11.5; Bob Cox, Vancouver, 11.5.

Delegates Leave Door Ajar For Open World Hockey Play

Ahearne Plan Wins Acceptance

CRANS-SUR SIERRE, Switzerland (CP) — Division A of the world hockey championships was turned virtually into open competition today by advancing the dates for reinstatement of amateurs to Feb. 10 of the competing year from Aug. 31 of the previous year.

The change was accepted by a 20 to 20 vote of delegates attending the annual meeting of the International Ice Hockey Federation.

"It was a compromise by the 10-member IIHF executive council," said Douglas Fisher of Ottawa, a member of Hockey Canada, which now operates Canada's national team in the world tournament.

"We (Hockey Canada) were asking for a straight opening tournament. This, in effect, will be open competition but not exactly what we were after."

The compromise was a slick piece of footwork by J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne of London, president of the European body of the IIHF.

Canada had submitted two proposals which were scheduled to be presented today. Fisher said his group had wished to first ask for open competition and, failing this, they would ask for the Feb. 10 date of reinstatement.

Ahearne, incoming international president and chairman of the meeting, introduced the Feb. 10 reinstatement proposal first, however. The amendment was accepted by secret vote.

Earl Dawson, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, then asked that Canada's proposal for open competition be deferred to after the mid-day break.

"You see the acceptance of the Feb. 10 date for reinstatement makes the open tournament proposal unnecessary," Dawson said.

"We (CAHA) will meet with Hockey Canada at luncheon and discuss the matter. I really cannot see why to make the second proposal now."

The chance of reinstatement dates simply means that any country can enter a team of professional players in the world tournament's A pool providing reinstatement has been asked by Feb. 10, approximately a month before competition.

Previously a professional was disallowed to be reinstated more than six months before the tournament.

He would not apply in an Olympic year. The International Olympic Committee will not accept reinstated professionals.

The six-country championship pool will be played next March in Winnipeg and Montreal.

U.S. May Abandon Tourney

CRANS-SUR-PIERRE, Switzerland (AP) — Lack of a place for players to compete when they reach college age may force the United States out of the 1970 world hockey championship.

"We just don't have any players available," Tom Lockhart of New York City, President of the U.S. Amateur Hockey Association, said in an interview.

The U.S. finished sixth and last in the world championships A division at Stockholm last March and dropped into B Division for 1970.

Lockhart said about 50,000 boys are registered with the U.S.H.A. Almost 90 per cent of them between the ages of 14 and 16.

"Suddenly when these boys turn 16 they have no place to play," Lockhart said.

"It was a team of former college players that won us the world championship at Squaw Valley in 1960," Lockhart said.

Wimbledon Matches Becoming Marathons

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The Wimbledon tennis championships have always been a test of endurance as well as of ability, but never so much as this year. And they don't promise to get much easier.

By the time Rod Laver of Australia had beaten John Newcombe of Australia 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 Saturday for the men's singles title, 28 sets in the men's singles had gone 20 games or more. The men's singles and doubles all run to the best of five sets, and there were no 10 minute breaks halfway through, as in most big tournaments.

But despite the no-break rule, the long matches meant a lot of games were played in fading light. A number of matches had to be halted in the evening and completed the next morning.

Ken Rosewall, who returned to Wimbledon last year after 11 years playing professional, said competition in this year's championships was twice as good as it was in the mid-1950s.

"In my amateur days, plenty of countries had one good player," he said. "Now they have several with plenty of youngsters coming along.

"This means you don't get the easy matches all the time and it's certainly an endurance test to reach the latter rounder"

The women's singles title went to Ann Jones of England who upset Billy Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., after pulling off a surprise win over Margaret Court of Australia in the semi-final.

Mrs. Court won the women's doubles with Judy Tegart also of Australia. They defeated Patti Hogan and Margaret Michel of the U.S.

Mrs. Jones and Fred Stolle of Australia won the mixed doubles, defeating Miss Tegart and Tony Roche of Australia.

Roche and Newcombe thrashed Tom Okker, Netherlands, and Marty Riessen of the U.S. for the men's doubles title.

THE CAR BUYER'S PROBLEMS:

WHY DOESN'T EVERYONE GET GOOD SERVICE?

Jim Patterson

The heart of the car selling business is service. Without good service, a car buyer soon comes to regret his purchase through a series of unsatisfactory or major grievances.

The result is that the manufacturer usually loses the buyer to another make, the dealer loses a repeat customer and the buyer himself loses the ownership and driving satisfaction he had paid much to achieve.

Why, then, is good service not universal since it is so beneficial? The answer is cost.

New car preparation, for instance, requires several hours of work by a skilled mechanic (providing no serious fault is encountered) before the car is ready for delivery to the customer after factory shipment.

The cost comes out of dealer profits. If a dealer wants to shave $50 off the purchase price to undersell his competition, eliminating the new car preparation is a good place to start.

A quality dealer in business for 41 years analyzed his service revenue and costs for the past year and found that, exclusive of parts sales, his loss in the service department was slightly higher than the amount the customers spent. His experience is not uncommon.

Good service, however, will continue to be supplied by good dealers to keep good customers loyal. That's the only way it pays more than it costs.

Ted Finally Tips Hat

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams, voted the greatest player in Boston Red Sox history, finally doffed his cap Saturday at Fenway Park.

Williams, manager of Washington Senators, received a standing ovation when he jogged from the dugout and took off his cap to receive a trophy as the Red Sox honored their all-time greats.

The Hall of Fame slugger refused to tip his cap during his brilliant playing career from 1939 through 1960.

Honored with Williams as members of Boston's all-time all star team were Hall of Famers Joe Cronin, now president of the American League, and Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove, a 300-game winner now 69 years old.

Expos' Waslewski Wins With 96-Minute One-Hitter

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Moves from National League Baseball pennant contenders to expansion teams apparently have not discouraged pitchers Gary Waslewski and Dick Keeley. Both produced one-hitters Sunday as their teams gained doubleheader splits.

Waslewski of Montreal Expos whipped through Philadelphia Phillies in 96 minutes, facing only 27 batters. The Canadian team collected a 5-0 win after dropping the opener in Philadelphia 13-2.

Keiley loosed a complete game for San Diego as the Padres posted a 1-0 win over Houston after the Astros won the opener 3-2.

While the two NL expansion clubs, both mired in last place in their divisions, won the two leaders suffered double setbacks.

St. Louis Cardinals dumped Chicago Cubs, Eastern Division leaders, 4-2, and 6-3. Atlanta Braves, holders of first place in the Western Division, fell 3-1 and 5-0 to San Francisco Giants.

In other NL games Sunday, New York Mets outscored Pittsburgh Pirates 8-7 and Cincinnati Reds clubbed Los Angeles Dodgers 8-1.

Saturday, San Diego outlasted Houston 9-8, Atlanta bounced San Francisco 7-1, Montreal tripped Philadelphia 6-4, St. Louis clipped Chicago 5-1, Los Angeles edged Cincinnati 6-5 and the New York at Pittsburgh game was rained out.

Waslewski, 27, acquired last month by the Expos from the Cardinals, also drove across two runs against the Phillies, his first in the major leagues, with a seventh-inning double. The pitcher, once a member of the International League's Toronto Maple Leafs, starred for the American League's Boston Red Sox in the 1967 World Series before being traded to St. Louis.

He gave up a fifth-inning single by Rick Joseph and walked Deron Johnson in the eighth. Both baserunners were erased in double plays as Waslewski gained his first victory of season and first shutout in majors.

The Phillies shelled Bill Stoneman, who earlier this year pitched a no-hitter for the Expos, and two relievers for 13 runs in the first four innings of the first game.

Tony Taylor paced the winners' 16-hit assault with a triple and three singles.

Kelley, a 29-year-old southpaw picked up from Atlanta in the expansion draft, limited the Astros to five walks and an infield hit by Denis Menke in the second inning, for his first victory since June 4. Ed Spiezio's pinch single delivered the game's only run with two out in the ninth inning.

Bill White scored three runs and rookie Steve Huntz knocked in two with a bases-loaded single as the Cardinals tripped the Cubs in their' opener. Steve Carlton had a shutout going until the ninth, when he needed relief help from Joe Hoerner.

Twins Sweep Three To Pull Away from A's

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seattle Pilots gained from misfortune Sunday and Minnesota Twins relied on their power hitters as both clubs posted important American League baseball victories.

The Pilots lost the services of first baseman Mike Hegan and centre fielder Tommy Harper from first-inning injuries in a game at Kansas City, But Don Mincher and Steve Hovley filled in and delivered key hits as the Pilots won 9-3 over the Royals.

Third baseman Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota Twins, who leads the major league in runs batted in with 82, floated a two-run homer to lead a five-run seventh inning rally as the Twins overcame Oakland Athletics 7-6.

The Twins completed a three-game sweep of the Athletics to win a showdown for first place in the six-team Western Division. Seattle is retained third place in the same division for the expansion club, 1½ games ahead of the fourth-place Royals.

In other AL action Sunday, Washington Senators blanked Boston Red Sox 5-0, New York Yankees downed Cleveland Indians 4-2, Detroit Tigers ripped Baltimore Orioles 5-4 and California Angels downed Chicago White Sox 2-1.

Saturday, Minnesota thrashed Oakland 13-1, Baltimore bumped Detroit 9-3, Washington beat Boston Red Sox 6-2 but lost the second game of the double-header 11-4 to the Red Sox, Kansas City stopped Seattle 6-4, Cleveland defeated New York 4-2 and Chicago dumped California 7-3.

Seattle platoons Mincher at first base with Hegan and with left-hander Bill Butler pitching for Kansas City Sunday, it was Mincher's turn to rest. But Hegan pulled a leg muscle running out a first-inning grounder, and when the Pilots took the field Mincher was the first baseman.

Mincher promptly disrupted the lefty-righty strategy by tagging two towering 450-foot homers and a double to drive in four runs.

Harper ran into the fence chasing Mike Fiore's first-inning fly ball and it took five stitches to close the cut over his right eye. Hovley took over and delivered three straight hits, scoring one run and driving in another.

Killebrew unloaded his 22nd homer of the year as the Twins caught the Athletics with a seventh-inning rally.

Oakland grabbed a 6-2 lead, three of the runs scoring on Danny Cater's homer. But Minnesota bounced back in the seventh. Leo Cardenas was hit by a pitch, He scored on a wild pitch and Cesar Tovar's single. Graig Nettles walked, a pair of infield outs and Tony Oliva's single scored two more runs before Killebrew connected.

The three-game sweep moved the Twins two games ahead of Oakland.

Denny McLain became the American League's first 13-game winner as Detroit hung on to beat Baltimore. Consecutive fifth-inning homers by Dick McAuliffe and Tom Tresh broke a tie and gave the Tigers their fifth victory in the last six games.

Hill Starts Puffing Way to Tour Titles

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Dave Hill is playing less and enjoying it more.

"My wife had been telling me for years that I'd been working too hard at it," Hill said Sunday after making the Butch Open his second tour victory of the season. "I didn't pay any attention to her."

"But after the last tournament last year I was a wreck, mentally, physically, emotionally. So I gave my clubs to a neighbor and he locked 'em up in his garage. Wouldn't give them to me no matter what. I didn't play for two months.

"And I came back this year playing like I'd dreamed of playing."

Hill dropped 25 pounds to 140 and found it was nerves. So he increased his smoking to about two packs a day.

He went through almost three packs during the 36 holes of Sunday's double round, made necessary when Friday's play was rained out.

He stayed one stroke back of second-round leader Lee Elder in the morning round, each with a 71, then stormed in with a two-under-par 70 for 277, 11 under par on the 7,001-yard, par-72 Warwick Hills Country Club course.

Hill finished two strokes ahead of Frank Beard, who had a closing 71 for 279. Homero Blancas, twice tied for the lead, had a 72 for 280 and third place.

Dan Sikes, 71, scored 281, and Terry Dill had 71 for 282.

Elder scored in an 80 on the last round and dropped into a tie for eighth place, good for $2,518.

Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., closed with a three-under-par 69 and retained first place in the same division for the expansion club, 1½ games ahead of the fourth-place Royals.

In other AL action Sunday, Washington Senators blanked Boston Red Sox 5-0, New York Yankees downed Cleveland Indians 4-2, Detroit Tigers ripped Baltimore Orioles 5-4 and California Angels downed Chicago White Sox 2-1.

Saturday, Minnesota thrashed Oakland 13-1, Baltimore bumped Detroit 9-3, Washington beat Boston Red Sox 6-2 but lost the second game of the double-header 11-4 to the Red Sox, Kansas City stopped Seattle 6-4, Cleveland defeated New York 4-2 and Chicago dumped California 7-3.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Don Meredith, who carried Dallas Cowboys to the brink of two National Football League championships, Saturday announced his retirement from pro football. Meredith's announcement ended a pro career that took him to the height and depths of popularity with Dallas fans. In his nine years as a pro, he attempted 2,308 passes and completed 1,170 for 17,199 yards and 135 touchdowns — a 50.7 per cent completion average.

TORONTO (CP) — Jockey George Gibb, 33, one of Canada's leading riders this year, died suddenly at his home Saturday. Cause of death was not known. Gibb, born in Bristol, Conn., was the fourth leading rider at Fort Erie this spring and had ridden 26 winners.

CALGARY (CP) — Jack Wiley of Vancouver wrapped up the high over-all top prize in the Canadian trapshooting championships Sunday. Wiley broke 747 of 800 targets in the four-day event to win the closed title for the second time. He is also a former Canadian singles champion.

CLERMONT-FERRAND, France (Reuters) — Scotsman Jackie Stewart won the French Formula 1 Grand Prix by almost a minute over team-mate Jean-Pierre Beltoise Sunday and consolidated his substantial lead in the world drivers championship. It was Stewart's fourth grand prix victory this season and stretched his lead to 20 points over the reigning world champion, Graham Hill of England, who came sixth. Stewart has now 36 points from five of the 11 championship races.

Four Tracksters Earn All-Ontario Berths

STAFF — The summer track season is still young, but a quartet of Belleville Kinsmen Track and Field Club athletes proved on the weekend that they are ready to take on all comers throughout the province.

And the four athletes — three girls and a boy — earned the right to do just that at the Central Ontario bantam and midget track and field championships at Toronto's Birchmont Stadium.

All four, Marie Brain and Dawn Yateman in the bantam girls class, Kim Sturgess (midget girls) and Dennis Bowman (midget boys), placed in the top three in one or more events at the Toronto competition and will represent Central Ontario in the All-Ontario track and field championships in Sarnia, Friday and Saturday, July 18-19.

Marie Brain was the pacesetter with three first-place finishes, including a record-breaking leap of 18' 11¾" in the long jump. She won the 100-yard dash in 12 seconds and the 22-yard dash in 26.7 seconds.

Dennis Bowman was not far behind Marie Brain with a pair of firsts and a third in the midget boys competition. Bowman took the triple jump title with a leap of 41' 2½", the long jump event with a leap of 19' 9" and placed third in the 110-yard hurdles.

Dawn Yateman took the bantam girls high jump with a 4' 10" performance, while Kim Sturgess placed third in the midget girls' high jump with the same height.

Yateman also placed fifth in the finals of the hurdles while fellow bantam Regyna Armonas failed to place in heats of the 60 and 100-yard dashes.

First-year midget Kaarina Jokinen made a strong showing but failed to qualify for the All-Ontario meet. She placed third in her heat of the 100-yard dash and fourth in the semi-finals, sixth in the long jump and fourth in her heat of the 220-yard dash.

Murray Dales played fourth and fifth in heats of the mid get boys 220 and 100-yard dashes, while David Rutherford competed in the midgit boys long jump, triple jump and 880 and Peter Locke in the midget boys' 880 and mile.

Ross Geen Paces Carmel Win

A three-hit nine strikeout performance by rookie righthander Ross Geen paced Carmel to a 17-2 ECHA Pewee "C" win over Colbourne Sunday.

Geen also swatted a pair of doubles to pace Carmel's 10-hit attack. Ray Murphy, Peter Tammon and Bill Arthurs also had two hits apiece for the winners.

Losing pitcher R. Rutherford with two singles and Bruce Moore with a safety accounted for the only Colbourne hit off Geen.

NOW THAT'S A MOVING TARGET! — Steve Lightfoot has nothing left to shoot for as fellow Belleville Archery Club members John Widdicks and Floyd Armstrong remove target butts following Sunday's Ontario target championships at Zwick's Island. However, Lightfoot had enough good arrows previously for second-place honors in the intermediate boys' freestyle competition.

Bring on Nationals

Carol Wins in Last Warmup

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

National champions — let alone two-time national champions are hard to please.

Take Carol Armstrong.

Belleville's double winner of the Canadian Women's Archery Championship had just topped the field in Sunday's Ontario target titles at Zwick's Island — her last warmup before defending her title in next week's nationals in Victoria.

"Sure, the wind was bad today, but it might be bad in Victoria too," Carol complained. "My scores were far below what I've shot before."

Despite her dissatisfaction, Carol's 1,871 of a possible 2,520 points gave her a healthy 123 point margin over Toronto's Honor Leitmacher in Sunday's women's compe tition.

Meanwhile, Lindsay's Don Jackson — defending dominion men's champion — shot a 1,977 total to pace the men, and in doing so set a new national record of 971 for the "Canadian Round" — a 1,060 point maximum target round shot at non-metric distances.

Even with his record-setting performance, Jackson finished a mere 24 points in front of Kitchener's Elmer Ewert.

A pair of Belleville Archery Club members — Lloyd Hogan and Steve Lightfoot — finished one-two in the intermediate boys' freestyle event, Hogan's 1,952 total giving him a 49 point edge.

Ottawa's Paul Lavidette took men's Epre bow honors with a 1,486 to a 1,455 by Newmarket archer Art Berry.

Following Sunday's action, names were released of archers eligible for Ontario Archery Association steady to attend the July 14-17 Canadian Championships in Victoria.

In addition to Belleville's Carol Armstrong and husband Floyd, who will act as coach for the Ontario archers, the 11-member provincial contingent will include Don Jackson (Lindsay), Elmer Ewert (Kitchener), Les Bolt (St. Clements), Louis Van Meyl (Galt), Tom Mack (Hamilton), Otto Lehmacher (Toronto), and Anne Peltier (Windsor).

Shannonville Widens Gap By Shading Plane's 4-3

League-leading Shannonville scored a pair of runs in the bottom of the last inning Saturday night to edge second place Plane's Concrete 4-3 and open a five-point gap in the South Hastings Baseball League standings.

Meanwhile fourth place Latta began to make a move by scoring a pair of weekend victories, 4-0 Saturday night over the cellar-dwelling Reserve and 12-7 Sunday over third place Read.

Starter Bill Barberstock and reliever Larry Lewis, who came on in the fourth inning and was credited with the win, limited Plane's to five hits while fanning five men and walking three.

Losing pitcher Bob Chappell allowed six hits, walked four and struck out a pair over the six inning distance.

Bud Hill stroked a double and single for Shannonville and Larry Marshall knocked a sixth inning single. Bill Barberstock, Dave Lewis and Junior Brant also hit safely for Shannonville.

John Twelves with a double and single and Bob Moon, Ted Abrams and Pat O'Connor with singles accounted for Plane's hits.

Righthander Keith Dickey hurled a three-hit shutout and three third strikes past 11 batters Saturday for his second win in two appearances this season as Latta blanked the Reserve 4-0.

Wayne Kemp with a double and Dwayne Horton, Doug Chisholm, Terry Cassel m a n, Doug Geen, Keith Dickey and Roydon Ritz with singles accounted for Latta's hits off Reserve pitchers Don Pringle and Dave Maracle.

Both clubs scored four runs in the first inning Sunday, but Latta went on to score in five other innings and post a 12-7 decision over third place Read and move within three points of the losers in the five team South Hastings League.

Doug Geen and Bob Smith split the pitching chores for the winners. The pair scattered eight hits, walked five and fanned 11. Harold Pascoe and Frank Farrell shared the mound chores for Read and gave up 12 hits and five free passes while striking out one batter.

Wayne Kemp with a double and two singles and Bob Smith and Bob Jarrell with three singles each paced the winners at the plate. Pete Enright stroked three singles for the losers and teammate Larry Coffee had two base hits.

Ingram Warms Up

Betty Ingram of Belleville warmed up for today's first round of the 54th annual Ontario Ladies' Amateur Golf Championship by shooting an 87 to capture the second low gross award Saturday in the Peterborough Golf and Country Club's Ladies' Field Day. Cookie Cartwright topped the field with a low gross of 83, while Carol Dawson of Kawartha took first low gross honors with an 84.

Where There's Smoke ...

Jean Smoke and Norm Wilson prevailed over 29 other couples Sunday to capture the low net award in the annual Belvedere Cup Mixed Two-ball Tournament at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club.

The winners carded a low net of 68 in the 18-hole handicap tournament in which the man and woman averaged their individual handicaps to arrive at the team handicap.

Lil Taylor and Phil Dyble were runners-up in the tournament in which the partners take alternate shots on each hole and tee off on alternate holes.

Belleville's Betting Railbirds Welcome Don Heath's Weekly Visits

Don Heath might not be a welcome sight for other drivers at Saturday night's Fairgrounds harness sessions, but the bettors will roll out the red carpet for him.

Heath — the former city employee now managing an Oakville arena — again cornuted to the Quinte Riding and Driving Club's weekly meet Saturday., reining J. J. Dale home in front of the first-heat pack for half of a $258.80 daily double payoff before 857 railbirds.

Owner-driver Don Johnston of Campbellford made some headway, bringing Tiger Tim in out of the seventh position to win the fourth heat in 2:12.2 — a full two seconds under his previous best mile clocking. The eight race card.

Hugh Wemp had a double going of his own. Wemp's stablerace win behind Mistie Way and eighth-race first with Single De Best made him the only double heat winner of the night. Single De Best went in 2:10 for Wemp, fastest mile of the evening.

Good weather and a fast track, helped push $17,799 through the part-mutuels.

Merchants Drop No. 12

Belleville's Quinte Merchants continue to run into difficulties on the playing floor as well as at the box office.

Sunday the Merchants, who have failed to draw much support from local fans, dropped their 12th game of the season, this one by a score of 13-10 to the Huntsville Hawks.

Sunday's loss in Huntsville followed a 12-10 road win in Brantford Friday night and leaves the Merchants record at three wins and 12 losses in 15 Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior "A" games to date.

Rich Anthony, Larry Jones and Jim Guerin tallied a pair of goals each for the Merchants Sunday while Greg Marchen, Rob McCarthy, Jack Armour and Harry Stevenson scored one apiece.

Ken Thompson led the Huntsville attack with three goals and teammates Harry Maynard, Ivan Thompson and Mike Greeves notched two goals each.

The Merchants next game is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Tuesday night at the Memorial Arena against the Brooklin Redmen.

SAFETY '99' NYLON HIGH TRACTION
CANADIAN TIRE
BETTER THAN A 70-00 TIRE
We're not talking through our hat. We used to make tires of $70. quality, selling them at our usual trade-discounted prices. But we stopped because hardly though they were (and costly to make), they weren't all that great — except on ladies station-wagons or light trucks. Even those tires we promoted had to be rigidly maintained. The slightest under-pressure caused them to burn themselves up. And who has money like that to burn?
So we developed a better tire: Safety '99' Nylon High Traction which has proved a superior value for average passenger cars. In fact, almost indestructible — even with abuse. It won't snap. A fat like breeding a thoroughbred. We put extra muscle where it counts — to turn out a tougher, faster tire. And we used Dupont Nylon — the filament that's stronger than steel yet soft as a cushion for your riding comfort.
It's a big tire — maybe an inch taller than most others. More bite in the tread — to put real teeth into the expression "you can count on a classic" tire traction — to give you a good grip on a slippery strip. We think it's quite a tire.
So do the owners of more than a million Safety '99' Nylons. They have proved to their own satisfaction that it's winter, summer, all-year-round value. It's a good feeling to have that kind of faith in a tire. We have. So much that we back it with a long money-back guarantee.
But what about polyester? — you may ask. True, it does give better mileage but the ride is a bit harder too. Even the much-touted glass-belted polyester, the ultimate in mileage-gaining, is not as consistently-cushioned a ride as nylon or standard polyester — although it does smooth out as you accelerate and could prove to be the tire of the future. Gives one pause to ponder.
Whatever you decide, do investigate before you invest. Your Canadian Tire stocks them all. We'd welcome a little 'tire-talk' with you.
FREE INSTALLATION — for Safety '99' Nylon High Traction Tires. Tire valve with static wheel balance, $1.00
TIRE GUARANTEE
ROAD HAZARD INSURED for as long as you own title. Replaced even if destroyed. You pay only reg. list amount of tread wear.
24 MONTH "NO WEAR 60%" GUARANTEE: If tread wears out anytime up to 15 months a new tire at 15 years, 20 months a new tire at 8 years. One extra spare.

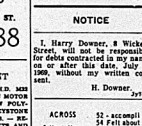
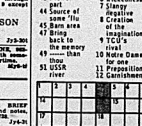
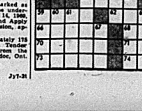
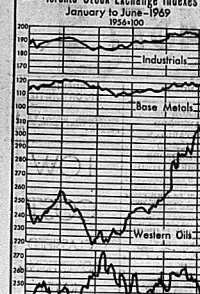
Saturday's Puzzle Solved:

7/7/69









Only Oils Gain

The first six months of 1969 — particularly June — were not good ones for most sectors of the Toronto Stock Exchange. Only western oils managed to finish ahead of the game, closing Monday at 236.1 compared with 248.35 at the end of 1968. Comparative figures for the other sectors (1968 year-end figure bracketed) are: industrials 177.44 (188.93); golds 217.10 (235.64) and base metals 107.26 (113.56.) (CP Newsmap)

The Library Corner

Elephant Toast, by T. Morris Longstreth

Fifteen-year-old Keets didn't really want to go to camp, not even this new one advertised as the "crazy with a difference." However, the food was terrif c. and after Keets accidently bought an elephant for a nickel at an auction sale, Camp Chesunquick really was a camp with a difference!

Gone-Away Lake by Elizabeth Enright

When Portia and her little brother Foster went to spend the summer with their cousin Julian, they were surprised to find a swamp that once been a lake. Even more surprising was a row of weeping, deserted houses. A good summertime mystery is the result.

The Grizzly, by Annabel and Edgar Johnson

David could barely remember his divorced father and to such memories as he h ad were ones of fear. So he was not looking forward to a weekend fishing trip. The story revolves how an accident with a grizzly caused David and his father to draw closer n understanding.

Heraee Higby and the Seltzelfle Pitch by William Heuman

An absolutely hilarious baseball story about a boy whose interest is science. There are fascinating results when Horace plays baseball for the first t me.

House's Vineyard, by Charlotte MacLeod

Hannah (known as Mouse) was delighted to spend a summer with an aunt in Martha's Vineyard. But her happiness was shattered when Susan arrived, the unhappy daughter of divorced parents.

Smuggler's Island by Hal G. Sixteen-year-old Korn Dawson had found himself in trouble once too often. Offered the choice of Juvenile Detention or an arduous summer job at an isolated medical n ric in Mexico. Kern chose the latter. The summer proved more eventful then he had expected a n when it ended Kern had done some growing up.

Strange Summer in Stratford by Norah A. Perer

Jenny was appalled at t h e thought of spending a whole summer in Stratford Ontario while her father wrote a book about the Shakespearean festival. As she become acquainted with some of the actors, her interest grew and when story found herself involved in a mystery her summer was complete.

Summer at Buckhorn by Anne Rowe Wright

Mother Mourns Old Days When Baby Won Bed Rest

STOP KILLING YOURSELF
By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: The good old days! When we could hysterics in bed because we didn't feel well. Now the doctor is the first to say, "Out Out!"

There was a time when a woman who just had a baby could lie in bed for a week at least, waited on hand and foot. These days she is up-and-about before the end of five days of relaxation. Don't you think it's being overdone? — Mrs. B.

Dear Mrs. B.: I think you mean. It's like being disturbed when you're trying to get those few delicious extra winks of sleep after the alarm has gone off.

Getting out of bed can be a chore. But there are times when the doctor has to be the hard taskmaster. Experience has taught us we must be unrelenting.

Here is an elderly man allowed to lie in bed for a week or two after a major operation. He's in danger of getting thrombosis, pneumonia, bone-loss, kidney stones and many other complications. That's why he has to get him out as soon as we can.

Here is a young woman who has had her first heart attack. To get her circulation going so she won't have blood stasis in her veins, thereby some complication like phlebitis with severe embolic lung trouble.

Here is a man who has had a coronary attack. Years ago we would have kept him quiet for weeks on end. Today we know too many came down with attacks of phlebitis and lung complications. They lost body tone unnecessarily. Now we get them up as soon as we can.

And for similar reasons, Mrs. B., the patient who has an apprehendectomy is up within days. Gone are the days when boxes of candy and books pile up in his hospital room. The doctor gets his patient out early because the bed can be enemy as well as friend.

* * *

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I've had headaches on and off for years. I know you can't diagnose by mail, but would you venture a guess? What's the probable cause? — Mrs. W.

Comment: I'd make a blind wager that nine chances out of 10 you have migraine or muscle contraction headache. Either may be due to tension, but as you know, migraine is more likely to be hereditary.

Only a wild guess? Not so wild. Nevertheless, I wouldn't sign my name to it. What you need is a physical and emotional overhaul by a competent physician.

* * *

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I've had a number of cases of flu this last time I was at a football game. It was so exciting that a man collapsed with a coronary heart attack just two rows in front of me. Does' ch's happen often at sports events? — Mrs. C.

Comment: Often enough for a medical team to stand by at games played at University of Nebraska's 67,000 seat stadium at Lincoln, according to Stephen W. Carveth, M.D., these are the volunteers standing by on the "field": team at Bryan Memorial Hospital: two to four coronary-care trained nurses, two cardiopulmonary technicians, one electrocardiography technician, and a cardiovascular surgeon.

And all the stadium there are Red Cross volunteers with walkie-talkies. Boy Scouts and ambulances stationed at strategic locations. Two ambulances stand by. The team has saved at least five lives in the last three seasons.

For Mr. P.: You may be suffering from "jogger's bed." In some it's due to repeated pressure of the bed against sides-stalk or street in those who overdo. The treatment is, of course, to temporarily desist from jogging. Now jogging has come of age. "Jogger's heel" joins the company of baseball finger, tennis elbow and swimmer's ear.

'Art Appreciators'

After an afternoon well-spent searching for a book at the Corby Library, Gus Twigg and library assistant Debbie Dundas take time to view Ross Longul's art exhibit on display until July 12.

Outdoorsy-Type Artist Paints, Creates Cartoons

Ross Longul, 24-year-old practising artist residing in Guelph, describes himself as the "outdoorsy type", travelling extensively throughout Ontario, searching for landscapes to paint.

He now has a one-man show at The Corby Library in Belleville, centering on this "love of the land" which he attributes to his life in Sudbury.

"Landscape has always been high on my interest," commented Mr. Longul.

"I like to express my feeling of the land, to paint the internal energy rising out of the trees, for example."

Although Ross Longul works both in oils and acrylics, he favors water colors because of the "spontaneity and luminous quality" they produce.

"I'm moving from pure realistic interpretation and so I make use of the 'lauve' style, which stresses color and shape."

The young artist first became interested in painting in elementary school, winning a scholarship in grade 8 to enable him to enrol in art classes.

Although his interest in art was high, he decided to work at other jobs for a couple of years, "trying to find myself."

While working in a mine, Longul found himself drifting into cartooning, sketching cartoons on cuties the mine was shipping to Europe.

In the hope of getting closer to the cartooning world, he enrolled at the Ontario College of Art in Toronto.

Mr. Longul started out by selling individual "spot" cartoons and now has a market in trade magazines and newspapers.

At the present time, he is working on a comic western which he hopes to have ready some time this winter.

In addition to the portraits, landscapes and cartoons, Ross Longul also finds time to engage in a little sculpturing — "junk sculpturing", that is. "I pick up pieces from the junk dealer and put them together" he said.

When asked his opinion of modern art, he replied, "Modern art has been presented, is here, and will be here until the public likes it."

"It takes a lot of understanding on the part of the observer. Liberal, representative work is the easiest to understand."

For that reason, the artist feels that "you'll never get rid of easel painting."

"When you paint, you try to express yourself and bring out the you in your painting. Painting is like writing in a way. Your vocabulary is your line and a line can say so much."

Mr. Longul feels that the public must be "re-educated" so that it appreciates the artist.

"Nothing frustrates an active, sincere and productive artist more than to see someone buy a picture in a dime-store just to cover up a crack in the wall," he said.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices on the Toronto Stock Exchange moved fractionally lower in mid-morning trading today.

The market has risen six consecutive days.

Volume was extremely light as it has been during the rally.

However, advances outnumbered declines 160 to 130.

All group movement was fractional with real estate issues leading the decline.

Revenue was delayed at the open to match orders.

The company indicated in a prospectus filed with the Ontario Securities Commission that it was having borrowing difficulties.

Revenue said it is negotiating regarding the possible sale of its holding in Seaway. Revenue and a subsidiary hold about 290,000 Seaway shares.

Revenue opened one hour after the market opened at 5½, down 1⅛, on 40,000 shares.

Seaway lost 1⅛ to 12⅞ and a Revenue subsidiary, Victoria Wood 1 to 11½.

Inco was down ⅜ to 40, Massey ⅛ to 19, Bell ¼ to 46¾ and Barkero ¼ to 10⅝.

Dome Pete rose 3⅛ to 98½, Great Northern Capital 1 to 12¼ and Sherritt ¼ to 15¼.

On index, industrials were down .05 to 182.89 and base metals 1.13 to 109.51. Western oils gained 1.38 to 271.31 and golds .45 to 224.36. Volume by 11 a.m. was 726,000 shares compared with 774,000 at the same time Friday.

Sands of Time Pop Group Off on Tour

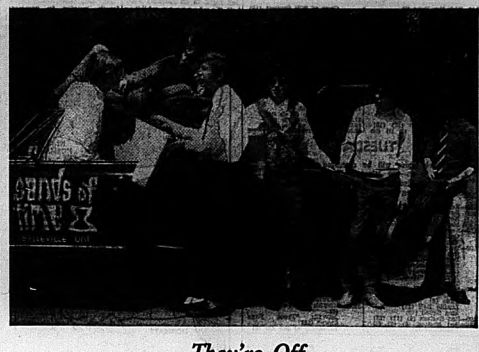
They're off on another tour. One of the area's better-known pop groups, the Sands of Time has just completed arrangements for a tour of the Western Provinces.

The band, made up of five students, Eric Baragar, 18, Tim Campbell, 18, Mike Gostler, 17, Steve Smith, 17, and Dave Corsley, 15, are billed as the youngest group ever to tour Canada. This refers to the tour the band made two years ago to the eastern part of the country.

The Western sweep will begin on Saturday when they leave for Saskatoon. From there they will move on to Edmonton, the Okanagan Valley, and finally the Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver. The tour is expected to end by August 23 and net the group $7,000.

The first Canadian tour took the band to Halifax, Fredericton, St. John's and numerous other smaller places throughout the east.

The boys will drive to Saskatoon where they will meet their trailer which will be sent ahead by rail along with their $10,000 worth of electric equipment.



The band started in 1963 and has grown in popularity over the past years. Their manager, Ken Williams, said, "We are a teeny-bopper band. We play anything from the Beatles to the Bee Gees." Their program includes imitations of the top ten and two original songs.

After the tour is completed the Sands of Time have two television shows to do in Windsor, numerous college dances, and the one event that they are looking forward to the most—the Governor Generals' Ball in Toronto.

The Ball in Toronto will take place in November and many well-known dignitaries including Prime Minister Trudeau, will be in attendance.

September holds a number of engagements in New York for the boys as well as a recording date. The group will be recording when they return from the west in the hope that Columbia Records will like the brand of music they play and offer them a contract.

The group will be roughing it because the agencies that have hired them do not offer accommodation. As a result they will be spending many nights in their tent in the local campsite spots, wherever they may be.

They're Off

The Sands of Time, a local pop group pack the car with luggage for their Western tour which will include Saskatoon, Edmonton and Vancouver.

Rough Riders Waste No Time Resting on Grey Cup Laurels

MONTREAL (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders, defending Grey Cup champions, struck early and then coasted to a 26-20 win over Montreal Alouettes Saturday night in an Eastern Football Conference exhibition game.

Quarterback Russ Jackson threw touchdown strikes to halfback Vic Washington and end Margene Adkins before the first quarter was half over to set the pace of the game.

He also connected in the fourth quarter to newcomer Darwin Gonnerman, a fullback from South Dakota State University, for the Riders' third touchdown.

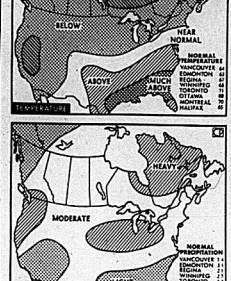
Dependable Don Sutherin, last season's top remaining leader with 112 points, converted all three Ottawa majors, added a fourth-quarter 24-yard field goal and a first-quarter single on an attempted three-pointer that went wide.

Bill Van Burkleo counted a 63-yard single in the second quarter to complete the Ottawa total.

The Riders led 12-0 after the first quarter and 16-0 at the half.

Quarterback Carroll Williams, starting his third year with the Als, threw a six-yard pass to flanker Mike Gray in the third quarter and a 23-yard aerial to flanker Tom Cameron with 17 seconds remaining in the game for two Montreal touchdowns.

Centre Basil Bark also scored for the losers when he pounced on a loose ball 25 yards from the Ottawa goal line in the fourth quarter and rambled across unhindered after Dan Dever, an Ottawa deep man, had dropped a Montreal third-down punt.



Gino Fiorentino was good on only one of the three converts he tried and backup quarterback Dave Dickenson added a 62-yard single into the Ottawa end zone in the fourth quarter for Montreal's other point.

The winners had 11 first downs to 17 for the Als. Ottawa had rolled gained seven through the air, nine on the ground and one on penalty. The Riders passed for nine and rushed for only two.

Total offence showed the Riders gaining 334 yards to 261 by Montreal, although the Als' attack was almost equally distributed between their ground and passing attack. Ottawa gained 169 yards on the ground.

Jackson completed 11 of the 18 passes he threw for 270 yards and three touchdowns. Williams was good on seven of 15 for 62 yards and two majors. Both had two intercepted.

Weather Cool

Most Canadians appear to be in the same boat with regards to weather, according to the 30-day outlook issued Monday by the U.S. Weather Bureau. Temperatures are expected to be below normal with moderate precipitation. The main exception is in some northern areas of Eastern Canada, where much below average temperatures coupled with heavy rain are expected.

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching—Gary Waslewski, Montreal Expos, and Dick Kelley, San Diego Padres, fired one-hitters against Philadelphia and Houston respectively. Waslewski faced the minimum 27 batters in pitching the Expos' only single by Rick Joseph and Kelley limited the Astros to a second-inning infield single by Denis Menke.

Batting—Don Mincher, Pilots, drove in four runs with a double and two homers after replacing injured Mike Hegan in the first inning as Seattle whipped Kansas City Royals 9-3.

Lions Caught In 23-10 Stampede

CALGARY (CP) — Fullback Ted Woods ran for two touchdowns Sunday to lead Calgary Stampeders to a 23-10 victory over British Columbia Lions in a Western Football Conference exhibition game.

The Stampeders, defending WFC champions, celebrated the city's first hog call of summer in more than a week with a touchdown on their second play from scrimmage. Woods scored over from five yards, out after Barry Keeling had thrown a 40-yard pass to Terry Evanshen.

Calgary kept moving, fashionably. A 71-yard drive by Young caught Pete Ohler's seven-yard pass for the Lions' lone touchdown in the third quarter. Ted Gervela collected B.C.'s other points with a convert and a 40-yard field goal.

Keeling, her apparent to the departed Pete Liske for the Calgary first-string signal-calling job, threw an eight-yard pass to Gerry Shaw for Calgary's other touchdown. Ron Robak added the kicked two converts and a 28-yard field goal as the Stampeders made quarter leads of 14-0, 17-0 and 23-7.

For the 9,950 fans on hand, it was a different kind of ball game than most of all the football players, as both coaches substituted freely to get a look at all their prospects. Calgary had 46 players dressed, B.C. 45.

The yardstick story was more thrilling than the action on the field indicated, showing B.C. with a net offence of 266 yards, just 18 fewer than the Stampeders gave.

Calgary's five quarterbacks attempted 22 passes, completed 10 for 169 yards and had three intercepted. The Lions' three signal-callers attempted 22 passes, completed 11 for 177 yards and had four intercepted.

Calgary did all the fumbling, dropped the ball three times and losing it twice.

The statistic faces did most of the running on the soft, damp field, with Woods' 36 yards in eight carries leading the way. Jim Evenson's 57 yards on 11 carries the best for B.C.

In the individual department, Keeling threw eight, and completed six for 93 yards, the longest a pass by Bill Redell collected for Calgary with eight completions from 11 passes. Dave Ross caught five for 64 yards and Evanshen four for 66 yards.

In the air for B.C., Young caught six passes for 56 yards. Other three 13 times and completed eight for 93 yards. Paul Brothers completed four of eight for 36 yards and Hank Ilesich a four of eight for 38 yards.

Stirling

STIRLING — The new Edward Street Manor nursing home was opened recently with Mayor Lloyd Blue of Madoc in charge. Supervising nurse, Mrs. Everett Sine heads the staff, the home will accommodate 20 patients and is arranged with spacious rooms, a lounge and a library. The building was formerly the rectory for St. James' Catholic Church.

Mrs. Ralph Carlisle is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Charles Conley will observe his 80th birthday anniversary this weekend.

Mrs. Alan Bishop, Lockport, New York, spent a few days last week with her mother, Mrs. Gordon W. Bailey.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cosbey, Chester, New York, visited a former neighbor, Mrs. Annie Searles at Oak Lake last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pearce, who have resided for the past eight years on the Glen Ross property, were tendered a farewell party at the River Valley school house, previous to their departure, to reside at Burlington. Ward Scott was master of ceremonies. Music was provided by Mrs. Dwight Conley and her brother, Norman Rosebush. Selections were read by Gordon Conley and Mrs. Ralph Bush. A vocal solo was given by Douglas Pryer. The presentation of a lamp by Mrs. Ward Carr. The recipients voiced appreciative thanks and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Stormy Petrel of Parliament, Jean-Francois Pouliot, Dies

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Que. (CP) — Jean Francois Pouliot, an outspoken Liberal who crossed the Commons floor in a conscription dispute with Mackenzie King and returned to the fold in the St. Laurent era, died Sunday in a long illness. He was 78.

Often regarded as 'enfant terrible of both the Commons and the Senate, he served Parliament 44 years, 31 as an MP for Temiscouata.

The fourth-generation politician will be buried here Wednesday.

Mr. Pouliot once told school kids in a panel discussion that the Speaker is "the man who says 'order' whenever I stand up."

His relief targets during his years in the Commons were senior civil servants. "Bureaucrats," he called them, and "dangerous men."

He opposed conscription in 1944 and broke from Mackenzie King's ruling Liberals to sit as an independent until Louis St. Laurent assumed power in 1948.

Even after the Second World War, he suggested—before St. Laurent's day—that King retire.

Mr. Pouliot was the most vocal member of the Commons from the year he was elected in 1924 until his appointment to the Senate in 1955.

He retired in 1968.

Once he referred to another MP as a drum—"very noisy but empty." To underline his objection to Parliament handling divorce cases from Quebec and Newfoundland, he said:

"All parties who come here for divorce shall be sterilized before divorce is granted."

Agnes MacPhail, Canada's first woman MP, called Mr. Pouliot the most polite and charming man in Parliament—"When he is not murdering someone in the House of Commons."

But Mr. Pouliot put it this way:

"I try the smooth way first, and if I do not succeed, I speak louder. They think I am angry, but they do not realize that at times I am only indignant."

Either indignant or angry, he once stayed from Parliament for a month before withdrawing —under Speaker's orders—a remark he made about R. B. Bennett.

After his first election victory in 1924, he was re-elected in the eight following general elections. His longevity in Parliament exceeded even that of Senator C. G. (Chubby) Power who served 40 years.

He was the author of text books on Quebec parish law and on the administration of church power. And in 1937, he was special correspondent for Montreal La Presse at the coronation of King George VI.

Survivors include his wife and a son, Francois.

Brome Planning Organization Of Civil Protection Squads

KNOWLTON, Que. (CP) — Residents of Brome County were assured Sunday that steps will be taken to provide the area with a better security force to resist goon squads who have been terrorizing the county for three weeks.

An official of the Quebec civil protection service told a meeting that the government organization is prepared to help organize a citizens' emergency force. Glen Brown, Liberal member for Brome in the provincial assembly, said he would seek new legislation to provide the area with a larger permanent police force.

The civil protection service trains and supervises civilian volunteers to help police and firefighters in emergencies.

The meeting, chaired by Mr. Brown, was attended by 12 mayors from the Brome County council and about 50 citizens seeking better protection in the county's 55 miles southeast of Montreal.

Sarto Roy, head of civil protection in Sherbrooke, said the people could help themselves by getting together in civil defence units. The service was ready to begin training volunteers and providing equipment within a week to help curb the violence.

About 30 prisoners working on construction projects in the county have been threatened with violence or have had equipment destroyed and projects damaged by roving goon squads armed with chains, tire irons and baseball bats.

In addition to the civil protection service, Mr. Brown said he will ask the Quebec government to provide Brome with a larger provincial police detachment and seek legislation changes to allow municipalities to appoint their own policemen.

He said the two largest towns in the county, Knowlton and Sutton, have only one police officer each. At the height of the violence a week ago, there were only five provincial policemen and one patrol car available in the county.

An appeal to the justice department last week resulted in 100 provincial policemen being sent into the area. Half of these are on patrol at all times now and no further incidents of violence have been reported since.

Mr. Brown said a telegram to Prime Minister Trudeau asking for help had been referred to Solicitor-General George McIlraith who will study the possibility of RCMP intervention in Brome in case of more outbreaks.

The trouble broke out June 12 after Eastern Townships construction workers affiliated with the Confederation of National Trade Unions joined workers in the Quebec City and Rimouski areas in a strike to back demands for higher wages and greater job security.

Many contractors in Brome County continued work with non-union workers, but most were soon stopped by the goon squads. Several persons working on their own property were also threatened or attacked.

Master Brake Cylinder Can't Last Car's Life

By RAY STAPLEY

A reader writes:

"Just 12 days after buying a three-year-old reconditioned car, the brakes suddenly failed. As I approached a traffic light, I attempted to step in the usual manner, but the brake pedal dropped down to the floor and I rolled right through the intersection. Luckily, the roadway was clear and I finally stopped by gearing down and using the parking break.

"The car was towed back to the dealer, where it was discovered that the brake fluid had drained out of the master cylinder and repairs were covered under warranty. This car was supposed to have been thoroughly examined prior to my taking delivery, but when I challenged the dealer he politely told me that such a failure was unpredictable.

"If, in fact, the master cylinder was inspected during the check-up, how could it possibly fail without warning?" — Mrs. J. R., Toronto

According to my accident investigation files, the number 1 sudden master cylinder failure occurs in skidding. In the past few days I have checked out two serious accidents which resulted from this type of failure.

Regardless of the age of the master cylinder, the following procedure is the most common method of checking the unit. During a routine visual external check if the master cylinder is full of fluid and there is no evidence of external leaks in the unit, it is usually given a clean bill of health. But, deteriorated internal components could cause a sudden and complete brake failure immediately after this cursory check.

To establish the exact condition of this unit it must be removed and taken apart. But, never have I seen suggested intervals as to just when this should be done. I cannot emphasize too strongly the risk involved by ignoring the maintenance of this unit. Regretfully, in too many instances it is overlooked after it has been safely rebuilt the car and driver still exist.

The point is that the master cylinder cannot last the life of the average car. It wears, just as a tire wears, but worn tire treads are visible, whereas wear inside the master remains unseen. I have seen worn brake linings replaced as many as six times while the master cylinder remains untouched.

Under normal driving conditions, I recommend that the master cylinder be overhauled or replaced every second time the brakes are relined. When the vehicle has been subjected to extremely severe braking conditions, it is wise to replace it during the first reline.

External brake fluid leaks are not the only cause of failure. Here is a test every motorist can make. While parked, press on the brake pedal for a minute or two, using the same pressure as during a normal stop. Don't press too hard. If the pedal drops slowly to the floor, it indicates serious internal wear — fix it fast.

Today We Buy Images

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

While I was visiting New York this spring, a famous clothing store went out of business after more than 70 years of existence on Fifth Avenue. It surprised the customer, but it came as no shock to people in the clothing business, who had predicted it years ago.

What happened simply was that the store had lost its identity, and today, in business, identity is the single most important element. Not the location, or the product, or even the service — but what the business stands for in the public mind.

We have turned from a product-conscious society to a symbol-conscious society. We do not buy a "thing" as much as we buy what that thing seems to represent. The greatest physical plant the world has ever known is, ironically, devoted to turning out psychological satisfactions more than material ones.

The store that closed had lost its secure niche in the public mind. In trying to keep up with the times, it had changed, but not enough. In its desire to become all things to all people, it became nothing. In the end, its image was so diffused that customers found no satisfaction in shopping there, even though the quality was high.

Automobiles, of course, are the classic example of our image-buying mentality. There is very little difference between one Detroit model and another; indeed, the "cheaper" cars now have so many optional comforts that they can cost more than some "expensive" models.

But, except for a minority, cars are not bought for the practical reasons the public thinks they are. These are usually rationalizations for getting a "good image" of yourself behind the wheel of whatever car best fits your fantasy of self-realization. Psychologists and designers are far more crucial to the success of any model than the engineers.

This is why buyers are so fickle; a generation ago, a man used to buy the same make of car over and over again; today, he switches furiously, if a new symbol seems to suit his private picture of himself. This loss in "brand loyalty" has given advertising its profound influence; in a fluid society, change becomes the only way of keeping up."

The Ad Men on Fifth Avenue did not know how to change enough, or in the right way. Its products were still good, but its label had lost the old magic. What has happened in modern mercantilism is that the "presentation of self" has taken precedence over the presentation of products, and all business has turned into a form of show business.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For July 8

Your birthday today: A cycle begins of energy and initiative on your part. Matters which you have given up as hopeless suddenly become feasible. Neglected connection become alive and productive. Romantic interests at times must wait. Today's natives are generally profound students of human nature but seldom make known their findings.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Seek a new opportunity for investment of either time or money today. Advice given or taken from partners may not could raise more troubles than it solves.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Check your information as you go; the details are rather confusing today. Concentrate fully on worthwhile effort.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Aside from an odd sort of humor and a streak of impracticality in your plans the day turns out very well. By attending to one thing at a time you can escape complications.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): In this pleasure-seeking day you are more than willing to leave off some of the routines. Do not be surprised at finding strange coincidences happening around you.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Your motto today is "go-it-alone." Partners with a new vexing matters gives your intuition time to find simpler solutions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): You are too specific for today's changeable conditions. Your loose schedules, missed connections and the like. Even mechanical devices are inclined to malfunction.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): A slow start in the morning turns more favorable as the hours pass. Put aside domestic issues and take care of business while the opportunity offers. Travel is not favored now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Your tendency is toward disagreement over practical, financial arrangements. Never lose sight that you may be in error.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Be prepared for lively, unexpected moods from fellow workers. Travel, even commuting, manages to go astray. Your temper has no proper role in forming your decisions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Today brings movement, change, new contacts with people of differing opinions. Neglected interests can come back suddenly in importance.

AUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Parents and older people in general possibly create hindrances or concern today. Home life becomes happier, arrangements more to your liking.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Prepare for some criticism and personal improvement goaded by it. Exercise your powers of perception and consider how your career effort is organized.

Elaborate Quarantine Arranged for Moon Visitors on Return

NEW YORK (AP) — Maybe — a small maybe—the astronauts who strike on the moon two weeks hence will bring home some horrendous moon "bug" or virus totally unknown to earth.

As a precaution the three astronauts, scheduled to depart the earth aboard Apollo 11 July 16, will be quarantined in special, elaborate quarters upon their return.

The moon rocks they take home will be treated just as gingerly.

It is all part of an insurance policy, costing perhaps $10,000,000, against the slim chance of loosing some dangerous new infection upon the earth.

Recent evidence suggests the probability of life on the moon is not zero, says Dr. Leroy Augenstein, a Michigan State University biophysicist. "Thus, we cannot afford to take the chance we might be wrong. This is a decision that involves the entire world."

The two astronauts who walk on the moon will leave their boots and gloves on the moon and the lunar module itself will be shot into orbit around the sun once it ferries the men back to the mother ship.

Homeward bound, they will stow their moon rocks in plastic bags. Filters with vacuum clean the air in the returning spacecraft. When they land, special biological protection suits will be dropped into their craft, after the hatch is opened.

The astronauts also will put on masks that filter their breath. Emerging, they will sterilize their new suits with a liquid agent, and frogmen will sterilize the spacecraft, its hatch sealed again.

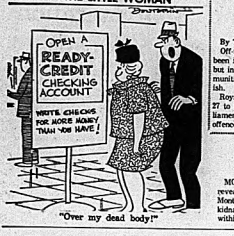
Taken by helicopter to the aircraft carrier Hornet, the men will enter a sealed van and thus start their quarantine. The carrier will take the van to Pearl Harbor, from which it will be flown to Houston's lunar receiving laboratory, built at a cost of $8,000,000.

Entering the laboratory through special doors that keep them from contact with the outside world, the astronauts will wait out their quarantine along with doctors, technicians, cooks, stewards and other personnel already confined there. It is spacious, provides dormitories, bedrooms, exercise facilities.

All wastes, including the air, in the laboratory will be treated by steam sterilization and chemicals as they exit through special portholes.

Special checks are being run to determine just what microorganisms and astronauts will be carrying in their bodies and just what organisms are aboard the spacecraft before departure, so doctors can identify those which simply made a roundtrip to the moon, as against any that possibly were picked up from the moon.

Moon rocks, brought back in sealed metal boxes, also will be quarantined in special vacuum chambers.



Elaborate tests will begin with pulverized rock to see if it makes germ-free mice sick. Rocks will be tested against a variety of plant, human tissue cultures, 28 types of plant life, Japanese quail, shrimp, oysters, guppies, roaches, flies and a variety of other life forms for 30 to 50 days, all to answer the question: "Are they hazardous?"

The spacecraft will be quarantined, too, with special nutrient cultures dropped into it to see what, if anything, grows on them.

Scientists who contend this system is not safe enough protest mainly that the hatch will be opened at sea, so that spacecraft air or astronautic breath might during some five to 10 minutes' time or more allow moon organisms to escape into the ocean, a fertile bed for life.

Some urge the spacecraft be picked up, unopened, onto the carrier to seal this possible leak.

Space officials reply this could be too dangerous for the crew—the spacecraft might be dropped into the sea.

Off-track Betting Shops Operate Despite Law

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Off-track betting shops have been illegal for the last 10 days but in a number of Ontario communities they continue to flourish.

Royal assent was given June 27 to Bill C-197 passed by Parliament to make it an indictable offence to lay a bet for a paying client. The bill was designed to close betting shops set up this year after discovery of a loophole in the Criminal Code.

Several shops across the province were open Saturday, their owners claiming they hadn't been notified of royal assent, others admitting they were waiting for the local police to give the word.

Police Chief Finlay Carrell of London said he wasn't going to take any action against two shops still open Saturday until he had instructions from Attorney-General Arthur Wishart.

The duty officer on the Metro Toronto police gambling squad said no official word had reached the squad and he knew of no plans for a crackdown on any shops that try to open today.

An official of the attorney-general's department said the bill has received ample publicity to allow Crown attorneys to move without formal notification.

Meanwhile, some police forces are beginning to apply gentle, reminding pressure. In Windsor, police found that two of three local shops were closed Saturday and informed the third it was illegal and would have to close immediately.

The one shop operating in Peterborough closed Saturday after paying off bets made Friday night. An observer said police were watching "to make sure no bets were being taken."

In Toronto, however, one operator, Ed Lauzon, said he and others "will get together with petitions and pressure and make somebody listen to us."

Crippled Montreal Man Flees from Kidnappers

MONTREAL (CP) — Police revealed Sunday that a crippled Montreal-area millionaire was kidnapped June 23, but escaped within a day. One man has been charged and a Paris couple is being sought with Interpol help.

The kidnapping of Georges Deslauriers, 55, was made public after police arrested and charged one of three persons suspected in the kidnapping.

Michel Henri Dupont, 22, pleaded not guilty to kidnapping and is being held without bail until his preliminary hearing.

Three suspects broke into Mr. Deslauriers' home in nearby St. Hilaire on the night of June 23, police said, and removed him to a ninth-floor apartment on Montreal's Sherbrooke Street.

Then the kidnappers sent a note demanding $200,000 from his family.

But Mr. Deslauriers, who walks with the aid of crutches, managed to escape June 24—St. Jean Baptiste Day—when left unguarded for several minutes.

Called 'Chicken', Workers to Strike

TORONTO (CP) — The followers of Bruno Zanini—about 1,400 members of the Canadian Concrete Forming Workers' Union—have voted to strike today to show their employers they are not "gutless chickens" and to have rewritten a five-year agreement their leader signed last fall.

Mr. Zanini, who last month persuaded his workers to form an independent union rather than be transferred to the Toronto Local of the Laborers International Union, told them at a meeting Saturday their employers have refused a union draft for a revised agreement.

Police Back President

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives from police associations in Montreal, New York, Washington, Rochester, N.Y., and St. Paul, Minn., joined 200 Toronto policemen Saturday in support of Constable Sydney Brown, charged with discrediting the Toronto force.

Constable Brown, president of the Metropolitan Toronto Police Association, was charged by Chief James Mackey after the constable's picture appeared in the June edition of a Toronto magazine. The picture showed Constable Brown posing in uniform, holding a beggar's cup to dramatize the long dispute with the Metro police commission over wages and conditions.

Barred by the Police Act from petitioning in support of their president, the 200 policemen—about a 10th of the force—met Saturday to "consider his conduct" and unanimously passed a resolution stating that they were in no way critical of his actions.

The contract Mr. Zanini signed last year provides pay rates ranging from $2.85 to $3.35 an hour for a 48-hour week. The most recent union demands are for a 45-hour week, wage increases over a three-year span to bring the lowest rate to $4.27. Told the employers had labelled them "chickens" who were afraid to strike, the meeting of 700 concrete formers voted Sunday to strike.

Mr. Zanini, however, is under attack from Gerry Gallagher, president of Local 183 of the Laborers Union, who told a simultaneous meeting of 125 workers that Mr. Zanini has failed his workers and left them at the mercy of employers. Mr. Gallagher said he would carry on an inter-union fight with Mr. Zanini until all the men in the field are brought under the umbrella of the five-union Council of Concrete Forming Trade Unions.

Soviet Warships Being Followed Off Nova Scotia

HALIFAX (CP) — Three modern Soviet destroyers, sailing south on a course parallel to the Nova Scotia coastline, were being shadowed today by the Canadian destroyer St. Laurent.

Aircraft from Canadian Forces bases at Greenwood, N.S. and Summerside, P.E.I. were also watching the Soviet ships, which are about 200 miles from shore. A defence department spokesman here said the surveillance was routine.

Following a report Sunday from the Soviet news agency Tass that a squadron of Soviet ships was on a training exercise in the central Atlantic and en route to Cuba, sources here speculated that the three destroyers might be accompanying the squadron south.

Tass said the squadron—five ships and two submarines—was to arrive in Cuba July 20 to "pay a friendly visit."

The three destroyers off the East Coast were of the Kynda class. Although the Canadian destroyer was close behind them, it was not believed any signals were exchanged between the Canadian vessel and the Soviet ships.

The St. Laurent had sailed from here Saturday to assist in the surveillance operation, which had been carried out by long-range patrol planes from Canadian bases at Greenwood and Summerside for a number of days.

In Ottawa, a Canadian Forces spokesman said Saturday the action was not unusual. He said similar action has been taken frequently on both the Pacific and Atlantic coasts.

Orbiting Monkey Refuses to Work

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Bonny, the 14-pound astromonk, was reported normal and alert Sunday in his eighth day of circling the earth—and still goofing off.

He failed to perform successfully his assigned tasks, such as pushing certain buttons to get a food pellet reward, said a spokesman at the Ames Research Centre here.

Meanwhile he took all the free food given him during the preceding 24 hours—23 pellets—and drank a normal amount of water, but when the green light went on for a "job" he just sat there.

Mid-east War Pace Becomes Quicker

Bonny Lands, Then Dies

HONOLULU (AP) — Astronomk Bonny died suddenly at midnight Monday night, 12 hours after the monkey landed in the Pacific following 130 orbits around earth in a space capsule, the U.S. space agency reported.

It was sudden," said Brad Evans, public information officer for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. He had been in fair condition just before."

The 14-pound monkey, exhausted and bored, was brought back to earth more than three weeks early and splashed down in his biosatellite some 25 miles off Kauai, Hawaii.

Observers described the space monkey as limp but alive when flown by helicopter to Hawaii's Hickam air force base.

NASA officials said an autopsy was ordered immediately in the biosatellite laboratory trailer where the monkey had been under intensive care since the touchdown.

Evans said it is still too early to call the mission a failure, saying "it depends on what data have been already received."

Before death, a team of 15 doctors, veterinarians and technicians worked over the little primate in a portable medical van, and a doctor had reported his heartbeat is 68 per minute and steady."

X-ray Threat Is Slim

SUNSPOT, N.M. (AP) — A solar astronomer says he believes the possibility of the Apollo 11 astronauts being exposed to a deadly shower of rays and protons from a solar flare while on the moon is slim.

Dr. John Evans, head of the U.S. Air Force's solar observatory here, said in an interview:

"The very tremendous solar events that could give lethal doses of protons on the moon are rare. Only about a dozen of these have been observed since 1948.

"The chance of them occurring in the next two-week period would appear slim."

Dr. Evans and his colleagues don't think the astronauts will have any problem with flare eruptions, but a Slovak scientist disagrees.

Stefan Pinter, heliogeophysicist of the observatory at Hurbanovo in western Slovakia was quoted June 28 as predicting solar flares intense enough to harm the spacemen.

Astronaut Must Select Touchdown in Minutes

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — "We'll have a view of the landing area from about 8,000 feet, two to three minutes before landing - - - We'll be continuously observing it for its suitability, namely a smooth touchdown point and absence of large craters."

That's how Astronaut Neil Armstrong described the final moments of the daring descent to the moon he and Edwin Aldrin Jr. are to make July 20, four days after Apollo 11 is launched.

The planned landing area is a three-by-seven-mile oval in the Sea of Tranquility.

"As we come down lower and lower we'll be able to evaluate the landing site better," Armstrong said in an interview. "If required, we will alter that landing point either farther ahead or off to the left or right, or perhaps a little short of where the machine is being directed automatically.

"Then, as we come through the 500-foot level or thereabouts, we'll probably take control of the attitude manually and fly it to the touchdown point.

"As we reach the hover point, we'll probably have a minute and a half or so of fuel which will permit us to go a relatively good distance, perhaps 1,000 feet if we choose."

Arabs' Stage Raids

By The Canadian Press

Arabs and Israelis clashed in the air and on the ground Monday and United Nations Secretary-General U Thant warned he might have to withdraw UN observers from the Suez Canal because of "open warfare" in the area.

As the pace of fighting increased, differences between Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir and Defence Minister Moshe Dayan on crucial political issues threatened a rift in the ruling Labor party.

The Israeli Army announced in Tel Aviv that Israeli troops killed 18 Arab infiltrators in the canal area and in Jordan Monday night. It denied Egyptian claims that the Israelis suffered heavy casualties.

Cairo radio said the Egyptians hit Israeli positions in company strength, overran a camp, killed 30 Israeli soldiers in a "violent battle and ambushed and destroyed two Israeli Army command cars and one tank."

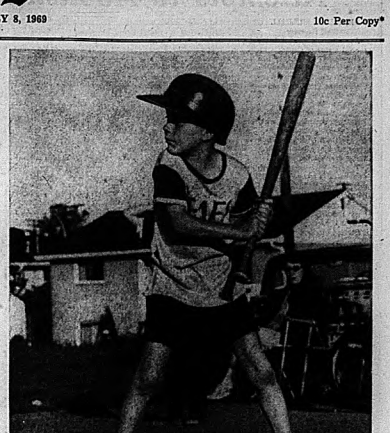
It said the commandos returned to base with one dead and five wounded.

In Amman, a Jordanian spokesman claimed an Israeli ammunition dump was destroyed by Jordanian artillery, one vehicle was set afire and one Israeli gun position was destroyed along the Israeli-Jordanian ceasefire line during a 50-minute artillery duel Monday night.

Both sides claimed kills in air battles Monday. The Israelis said their jets downed two Egyptian MiGs over the Sinai Desert, while Cairo radio claimed one Israeli plane "plunged into the sea."

In New York, Thant told the Security Council the Suez violence was the most "complete and sustained" disregard of a UN ceasefire order.

The secretary-general said the more than 90 observers "cannot be expected to serve as what amounts to defenceless targets in a shooting gallery."



The Israeli - Egyptian exchanges could lead to more general hostilities in the Middle East, Thant said.

The latest hostilities came as political sources in Tel Aviv saw a 50-50 chance that Dayan might bid for the prime ministership as head of his own party.

Prime Minister Meir walked out of a meeting of Dayan supporters in a huff Monday night after being heckled.

"A split would be a disaster for the nation," Mrs. Meir, 71, told the Haifi group of the Labor party at the meeting called to discuss whether Dayan's backers should break away and form a new party.

Dayan has yet to commit himself, for he never has expressed any desire to unseat Mrs. Meir, but he must make up his mind by the Dec. 25 deadline for declaring new parties.

Casting A Shadow

Pint-sized Ricky Wright peers out through the shadow cast by his oversized batting helmet as he awaits pitch during West Hill tyke minor softball league action Monday night at King George School. Unfortunately for Ricky, he and his Leaf teammates didn't hit much more than their shadows when they swung and dropped a 33-5 decision to the Wings.

No NHL Players Allowed

Canada Can Use Nine Minor Pros Next Year

By STERLING TAYLOR

Crans - Sur - Sierre, Switzerland (CP) — The International Ice Hockey Federation today granted permission for any country to use nine professional players and as many reinstated amateurs as necessary for the 1970 world championship A pool.

The only stipulation is that not one member of the Canadian team can play actively in the National Hockey League during the 1969-70 season. The nine pros can, however, have played for minor professional teams in that season.

Charles Hay of Toronto, chairman of Hockey Canada, which operates the national team, said his group hopes to use nine minor professional players and as many reinstated amateurs as it can find for the world tournament in Winnipeg and Montreal next March.

We are disappointed that we did not get support for our proposal of an open tournament," he said. But under the circumstances this is success in a sense."

For Earlier Story, See Page 10

The IIHF delegates Monday had granted Canada the right to use an unlimited number of reinstated amateurs providing they were returned to amateur status by Feb. 10, 1970.

This did not mean that a player could play professionally up until Feb. 9 and be reinstated.

Our rules stipulate that a professional player can only apply for reinstatement after being away from professional hockey for 12 months," said Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL.

This morning the Canadian delegation proposed that they also be allowed the use of 12 certified professionals on the 1970 team.

J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, European president of the IIHF and meeting chairman, entered a counter-proposal that nine professionals be allowed.

The proposal for 12 professionals was defeated 33 to 18 after more than two hours discussion.

The proposal for nine professionals was deadlocked 25 to 25 on the second ballot and Ahearne, as chairman, cast the deciding vote in favor.

Hay said he has no conception of who might play on Canada's 1970 team.

First Americans Evacuate Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — Twenty-four Viet Cong rocket and mortar attacks were reported today as the first American troop contingent pulled out of Vietnam. No major ground fighting was reported.

But the deputy foreign minister of the Viet Cong's provisional revolutionary government warned that the current lull in the fighting is only a stagesetter for an offensive more violent and inclusive than any undertaken by the revolutionaries so far."

U.S. and South Vietnamese headquarters said seven of the attacks during the night cause casualties or damage, and only one of those was directed against an American unit. Ten rocket and mortar rounds exploded in an area where U.S. 25th Infantry Division troops were camped for the night 27 miles northwest of Saigon. A few Americans were reported wounded.

Le Guang Chanh, the Viet Cong deputy foreign minister, predicted an end to the fighting slowdown in an interview with the Egyptian newspaper Al Gumhuriyya on the eve of his departure from Cairo to take up his new post in Vietnam. He has been head of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front mission in Cairo for three years.

The 814 men of the 3rd Battalion, 60th Infantry, 9th Division, today became the first unit to withdraw from Vietnam as part of President Nixon's announced pullout of 25,000 U.S. troops this summer.

They flew to Seattle aboard nine transport planes.

NDP's Schreyer Will Become Manitoba Premier Next Tuesday

WINNIPEG (CP) — Ed Schreyer, 33, is a week away from being sworn in as premier of Manitoba, heading the first New Democratic Party government in Canada.

Premier Walter Weir announced Monday he will hand over the reigns of government to Mr. Schreyer next Tuesday.

Mr. Weir, leader of the Progressive Conservative party, told a news conference he had visited Lt.-Gov. Richard S. Bowles and told him of his plans.

"I have consulted with his honor the lieutenant-governor and advised him of my intention to tender the resignation of the government, effective July 15." Mr. Weir said.

"I will be meeting with Mr. Schreyer to arrange for an orderly transfer of government into the hand of the new administration."

Mr. Schreyer, who calls himself a social democrat, rarely links the NDP with the CCF, its forerunner that governed Saskatchewan 20 years before it was toppled by Ross Thatcher's Liberals in 1964.

Mr. Schreyer, Manitoba's youngest MLA when first elected at 22, has never lost a political fight since. He came from Ottawa three weeks before the June 25 Manitoba vote and engineered one of the most startling political upsets in Canadian history.

The NDP sweep of 28 seats in the 57-member house, toppling five cabinet ministers in March, confounded most political observers who had forecast re-election of the Conservative administration.

Conservatives won 22 seats, Liberals five and there was a Social Credier and an Independent elected.

When Mr. Weir dissolved the legislature May 22 in quest of a mandate for his personal leadership and his government's policies, the standings were Conservative 28, Liberal 13, NDP 12, and Social Credit one.

Mr. Schreyer, who did not resign as MP for Selkirk until his leadership was "in the bag" at the June 7 party convention, termed as "fair enough" Mr. Weir's allowing a week for the changeover.

He said Manitobans can look for a session of the legislature before Aug. 1 after a "cram course," by his caucus to familiarize themselves with various departments.

Mr. Weir would not comment on what his party's attitude will be toward a reduction in medical care premiums, labelled by Mr. Schreyer as the first legislation of a summer session.

Chief Earl Hill Speaks Out

Attempts to Abolish Indians' Status Contrary to Decency

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Any attempts to abolish the special status of Canada's Indians would be contrary to "all principles of common decency." Chief Earl Hill of the Tyendinaga Mohawk Reserve warns.

Indians look upon themselves as not only Canadian, but North American citizens, says the chief, who has hitherto refrained from publicly entering the current controversy over Indian affairs.

The chief says he was earlier reluctant to comment on the dispute until he had informed himself on all the issues — including consultations with other Indian bands in the Six Nations Confederacy.

Present federal proposals would place Indians under the jurisdiction of provincial governments, he claims.

This would be a grave mistake, says Chief Hill.

"To take away the Indian status would be not only a greater mistake but against all principles of common decency."

"According to the United Nations human rights charter no country can force citizenship on any group of people. We're North American citizens and don't consider ourselves citizens of Canada only.

To make us first-class Canadian citizens — as it has been called — would be forcing on us a citizenship which we do not desire."

Such a move, he indicates, could have complicated economic effects for many Indians — including Tyendinaga Mohawks, a number of whom now work in the United States.

Were they to become Canadian citizens, this could mean they would either have to return home or seek work permits or U.S. citizenship to continue their occupations south of the border.

Indian bands were not informed by the federal government of proposed new legislation.

Consultation meetings held earlier between government reserve representatives were a farce and a complete waste of time and money," charges Chief Hill.

"No heed was taken as to the wants of the Indian people. And, as far as I can see, no steps were taken towards the results indicated as necessary from these meetings."

The chief also was critical of "non - Indians who can come freely to a few of the reserves and decide what to do to solve the Indian problem — and this is taken as gospel (by government)."

"When better decide what are problems and what are not problems than the people who are themselves involved?

Indian people now are talking for themselves instead of being told what to do, like children," he says.

But now "the government wishes to take away this voice and make them "first-class citizens."

Are they afraid now that we can talk we are going to start asking questions . . ?" queried the chief.

One major question could be the legality of Indian treaty lands surrendered to white settlers.

Such surrenders should only have been made with the consent of the majority of Indians in a band. Some, however, could have been processed by Indian councils without a plebiscite.

"The government claims that our treaties are now too old to honor. If these are too old are not some of the Indian leases too old to honor—leases which were made for 999 years well over a century ago."

(One such lease was granted settlers in the Shannonville area and is still existent.)

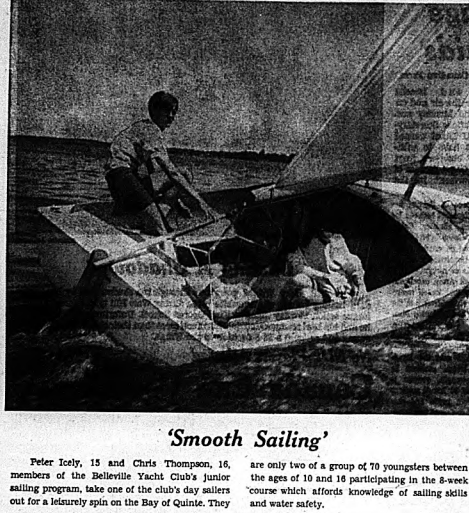
Are the present gentlemen in government not honorable enough to keep treaties which their forefathers made?" asked Chief Hill. Are they afraid not to let us speak and question our own rulings?

"We lived under a dictatorship for over 99 years. Now we'd like to have a little to say, instead of further dictating in our lives."

Canadians have been so preoccupied with the French-English nationality issue they have forgotten the Indian, claims the chief.

The Indian has taken a back seat in this English-French controversy, as it should have been an Indian-English-French controversy."

Yet early settlers of both nationalities relied greatly on Indian help in peace and war.



"Yet these same people are ready to take away what little rights the Indian has left," charges Chief Hill.

He queried whether citizenship would end discrimination.

"Will this change the color of his skin . . . will this make him (more acceptable) to the non-Indian? This will simply take the place the Indian calls home — a country of his own."

"We worry so much about people in foreign countries being told what to do by larger and stronger countries. We stand hurray when these underdogs stand and "fight," said Chief Hill.

"Can't we see what's happening in our own country? Do you think these underdogs will take it sitting down?"

Irate Citizen Blasts Murray Council

Council Chambers in Murray Township rang with heated words when an irate citizen, William Ellis, of the Pine Ridge sub-division demanded council retract the lies that the township clerk, Angus Gunter, had released to the news media.

A local paper had carried a story stating that Mr. Ellis was a member of the ratepayers' executive and that he had written a letter to the council on stationery of the firm where he works.

Mr. Ellis denied both statements and said they were lies.

He wanted council to have the retraction printed in the same paper. "The letter in question was written by a Mr. Ross on stationery of the ratepayers' association" said Ellis. The full contents of the letter were not revealed except that it invited council to meet with the association. Douglas Tufford, vice-president of the ratepayers' association, said he had heard that the letter was discussed on a street corner in Trenton but not brought out at a regular council meeting. He indicated that the business of the council should be brought out at the table and not in public.

Mr. Ellis also stated that he was not permitted to read the minutes of previous council meetings. He went on to quote sections of the municipal act that gave him that right.

Clerk Gunter disagreed, "Parts of the minutes are not open to the public". He said that other sections of the act proved this. Ellis would have been permitted to see the book if he had indicated the section he was interested in.

At this stage of the meeting Councillor C. MacDonald asked Ellis why he had been bothering council for the past two years. Mr. Ellis ignored this and asked again that the lies printed be retracted. Council felt that no retraction was needed.

Shortly after this Mr. Ellis left the chambers.

Third Jailbreak For Paul Mikulis

Paul Mikulis, 27-year-old Montreal convict recaptured at Carnaffow after a prison break last year, has escaped again.

Mikulis broke out of maximum security at St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary Saturday night with two convicted killers.

All three are described armed and "extremely dangerous" by police who are still pressing a massive manhunt in the Montreal area.

Mikulis was returned to the Montreal Jail June 14 last year after his dramatic recapture at the home of an elderly Cannifton woman.

With a companion, Real Pavron- 20, he made a daring escape from St. Vincent de Paul — turning up several hours later at the home of Mrs. Percy Akey after temporary pursuit by Belleville provincial police.

Mrs. Akey and her sister, Mrs. Annie Akey were held captive by two men, one of them carrying a sawed-off shotgun, until they were outwitted by the women.

Mrs. Akey managed to alert relatives who telephoned the home and provincial police converged on the scene.

Mikulis was serving 15 years for armed robbery when he logged his latest escape—his third breakout.

He broke jail with Gordon Geraghty, 36, and Claude Martin, 37, after the trio overpowered a guard, scaled the walls and later fled a family from an automobile on a nearby highway.

Geraghty was serving life at hard labor after a 1963 murder conviction.

Martin was convicted of capital murder in 1966 and his sentence later commuted to life imprisonment.

Reading Room Opens

NAPANEE — The reading room of the Lennox and Addington Historical Society opens to the public Tuesday, from two o'clock until five, with Mrs Myrtle Russell in charge. Each Tuesday from now on it is hoped that the room will be available for the use of students doing research work, and for the general public.

The reading room is situated above the public library, and has a separate entrance on Robert St. A notice will be placed on the door when it is open.

Much valuable material has been collected over the years and during the past 15 years sporadic attempts have been made to organize this material and make it available to the public. During the past year the work has been speeded up, spearheaded by Mrs. N. A. Hutchison, president of the society. Miss Myrtle Russell and her sister, Jean, have done a great deal of the work, and have been assisted at times by others, including Mrs. Peter McKinnon, Mrs. George Price, Mrs R. O. Fretts, Wayne McLean and Mrs. Lorne Graves.

IN MEMORIAM

CLEMENT — In loving memory of our dear father Stewart J. Clement, who passed away July 8, 1968.

Ten years your memory lingers, Always tender, fond and true. There's not a day, dear Father, We do not think of you.

—Lovingly remembered by Daughter-in-law Dorothy, Frances Lindsay, Dorothy Jupp, Marion Lee, Norma Nolan, Mary and Harvey.

JOSLIN — In loving memory of a dear father-in-law and grandfather Pte. Frank Joslin who passed away July 9, 1968.

This month comes with regret, It brings back days we won't forget.

Still asleep without goodbyes, But our memories of you will never die.

We miss you more than anyone can know.

As each day passes, our emptiness will grow.

The years go by and will wipe away, But the ache in our hearts will always stay.

—Thoughts and memories—from daughter-in-law, sons-in-law, and grandchildren.

JOSLIN — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Pte. Stanley Joslin who passed away July 9, 1968.

One year sad was a very sad day, Memories are all we have left to share.

We know he was going to heaven, So we're not sad.

We honest and prayed with all our might,

He would be with us to the day, But God loves us and takes them away.

And now at last he is with God, And what a lovelier place than heaven can be.

—Always remembered by loving wife Audrey and family.

FRIZONE — In loving memory of a dear mother Florence May Frizone who passed away July 9th, 1964.

We do not need a special day, To think of you dear mother, For the days we do not think of you are few.

Are very hard to find.

—Sadly missed by son Charles H. Frizone.

Peter Icely, 15 and Chris Thompson, 16, members of the Belleville Yacht Club's junior sailing program, take one of the club's day sailers out for a leisurely spin on the Bay of Quinte. They are only two of a group of 70 youngsters between the ages of 10 and 16 participating in the 8-week course which affords knowledge of sailing skills and water safety.

Around The "Cat"

By CDT

The Belleville Lawn Bowling Club secured another entry in the zone finals to be held on the local greens on July 26, when "Jerry" Hyde, Sr. won the singles title for the district. He defeated Ken Peacock of the Trenton Club in one of the best single matches ever played on the local greens. It was followed by a large gallery and the title of battle changed hands many times before a decision was reached. The winning skip must score 21 points first to become a winner.

Mr. Hyde has purchased a new set of bowls that are somewhat heavier than the regular bowl at 14 15/16 inches. They require a little more weight to throw but are a little harder to dislodge.

There were 19 entries in the competition from Kingston, Trenton, Stirling and Belleville.

On Thursday afternoon the women's section had an afternoon of bowling and ten rinks tied for top score. Reta Lloyd and Betty Vince tied with a rink of Flossie Coleman, Lil Mascaro and Win Smith as skip. In second place was a rink of Edna Ketcheson, Irene Trudeau with Thelma Fitzgibbon as skip, while in third place was a rink of Cleta Gilbert, Edna Jackman and Jessie Hunter as skip.

follow law officer yesterday.

Constable Lorne McLinton of the Belleville city police died last Thursday of a heart attack while vacationing at Bob's Lake in North Hastings county.

After the requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Charles Gadsby at St. Joseph's church, a procession formed which included uniformed members of the city police, OPP, the red tunic clad RCMP and members of the Armed Forces. The honors at the graveside were said by Rt. Rev. F. A. Carley.

The procession was led by three Provincial police motorcycles who in turn were followed by a column of policemen. As it moved it marched a lone drum beat out the slow pace and the strains of a sole bagpipe added to the sombre occasion.

The procession also included a large number of automobiles of friends and relatives which formed a lineup over a mile in length.

Traffic down Bridge St. was halted to allow the mourners to pass without a halt.

Tribute Paid Police Officer

Mr. McLinton is survived by his wife Elizabeth, sons Robert and Burton and one daughter Bonny Lynn.

The bearers were police constables W. Armstrong, J. Boulter, L. Hall, R. McAlpine, S. Morgan and W. Stephenson.

Library Consolidation Possibility

PICTON — Town council is awaiting a reply to a letter sent to the director of the Provincial Library Service for information on the possibility of the consolidation of the school library and public library services.

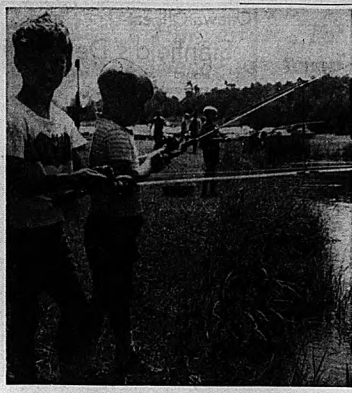
Councillor James Bird met with the Picton Public Library board early last month and presented a request from council that this board enter into discussions with the County Board of Education on the consolidation of the school and public library services.

Reported Mr. Bird, "As a representative from council I presented our views and they caused "some consternation" among the public library board members."

Mr. Bird added that after much discussion the board felt the only thing to do was to research The Public Libraries Act further. The Library Board is governed by this act and it is mandatory for it to operate a main library under the act.

Accordingly, the board feels that it cannot enter discussions with the County Board of Education unless there is either a change in the legislation or express approval for such discussions from the provincial government.

The Library Board and council are waiting for a reply on this matter from the director of the Provincial Library Service.



"For a step of such magnitude we must proceed cautiously," stressed Mr. Bird, speaking of the proposed consolidation.

Picton Circus Coming

PICTON — The Picton Recreation and Parks Board is sponsoring the Beatty three-ring circus, which is scheduled for two performances at the Prince Edward Centre, Thursday, July 10 at 2:30 and 8 p.m.

Features for the two hour shows include the world's largest herd of performing baby elephants; the world famous Karraky troupe of numbers direct from Italy; Bongo, the almost human gorilla; oodles of poodles, albino ponies, plus an army of clowns, acrobats and trapeze artists.

People are urged to buy tickets early, as large crowds are expected and there are no reserved seats.

Fatality Hits City

A two-year-old boy who darted into the path of a car on the street in front of his home last night became Belleville's first traffic fatality of the year.

Darren Lentini, of 79A Emily Street, died in Belleville General Hospital this morning of severe head injuries he sustained when he ran into the path of a car driven by Norman C. Bulter of McDonald Ave. in the city. The accident occurred at 6.30 Monday night.

Education Tax Levy Request Ignored

PICTON — Town Clerk Andrew Jarvis sought council's opinion last night concerning two letters requesting a portion of the education tax levy from the town.

A letter from the Prince Edward County Board of Education asked that by June 30 one third of the tax levy be transferred to them. This portion of the total levy is $82,600.

Mr. Jarvis contacted Ernest Sheetz, chairman of the county board, and told him that his interpretation of the bill was first to levy, secondly to collect, and thirdly, to transfer funds.

"Since we didn't collect we can't transfer, so I ignored the request," said the clerk.

"We don't want to borrow $82,600 at the current interest rates," commented Mr. Jarvis.

He had also received a letter from the Hastings and Prince Edward County Separate School Board asking for payment of their levy in three instalments.

Mr. Jarvis reported that he treated this letter in the same manner as the first.

"Twenty five per cent of our tax levy has been collected so far," announced the town clerk.

Council's advice to the clerk was summarized by deputy reeve Donald Thompson:

"When we find that all the other municipalities have borrowed or contributed their share, then so should we."

Picton Council Briefs

PICTON — Town council last night passed a by-law to equalize the assessment of local municipalities within Prince Edward County.

Picton's equalized assessment figure is $21,329,239., representing 20.94 per cent of the total for the county's ten municipalities. Last year the percentage figure was 21.25 for Picton.

Observed Town Clerk Andrew Jarvis, "The percentage is down but the assessment is up."

Town council last night agreed to erect a stop sign on Mortimer Street, north of Bridge Street upon the recommendation of Picton Police Chief George Pitt.

Remarked Mayor McFarland, "This is the first time in 18 years that I've had a letter of recommendation from the Chief of Police."

Local veterinarian Robert Clapp has applied for a $12,500 building permit for a small animal hospital in Picton.

The animal hospital is to be built on Main Street East on a vacant lot nearly opposite to the fairgrounds' entrance.

Town Council approved this request at last night's meeting.

Leonard Tripp has been appointed fire chief for the town of Picton at an annual salary of $6,200.

Mr. Tripp has been acting fire chief since April 15, following the resignation of fire chief Duane Foshay.

Vandalism in Picton Concerns Town Council

PICTON — "How can we keep up with the rising vandalism in this town? This question was placed before town council by Picton's recreation director Wayne Ring following the report of a broken fountain in front of the post office.

"This seems to be the "in" year for wrecking things," said Mr. Ring who told council the fountain had been repaired seven times. It has now been shut off.

The recreation director added that every effort is being made to supply local youth with enough programs of activity to keep mischief at a minimum.

Mr. Ring said that about $300 damage had been done in the Rotary Park by young vandals. Fixtures in the washrooms were broken and the walls damaged.

Recently the community centre was entered during the night and about $400 damage resulted. A pay telephone and a soft drink dispenser were smashed by the intruders.

Flags have been stolen from Queen Elizabeth Park, the grounds of the Legion Hall and from the lawn of a private citizen.

Councillor Harold McLoughlin moved that floodlights be installed by the Public Utilities Commission near the washrooms at the Angus Le Heup Delhi Athletic Field to ward-off vandalism. This motion was carried by council.

Fishing at the Mill

Donald Cook of Belleville decided he'd rather fish at the opening of the pioneer house at O'Hara Mill Saturday than listen to speeches, so he did. The idea caught on because it wasn't long before his brother, Kevin, (background), took up his pole too.

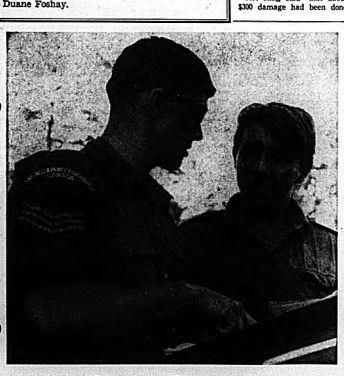
Industry Possible for Camp

PICTON — Mayor H. J. McFarland last night announced to town council that he hopes to have definite information on the future of the balance of Camp Picton "within the next ten days."

"I have to inform you that I am not in a position to tell you what will happen to the rest of the army camp at this time," stated the mayor.

"But as soon as they have the appraisal, which they hope to get tomorrow, and as soon as I get it, I can start doing business to attract one very large industry that's interested and maybe another," said Mayor McFarland.

The mayor indicated that the industry, if it locates here, could employ from 300 to 600 workers who would fill the vacant homes in the camp.



"The government," declared the mayor, "has been working with us 100 per cent." He commented on the co-operation between the Liberal and Conservative parties.

Burning Hours Not Sensible

PICTON — Former Picton councillor Randolph Clapp revisited the council chambers last night, bringing with him a protest.

"I am the only representative here but I am not alone in a protest against the hours during which the quarry is open for burning brush," said Mr. Clapp.

He objected to the fact that the town quarry is open only five days a week, closing each day when working hours end.

Mr. Clapp emphasized that this made it impossible for the working man to take brush to the quarry before it closed.

"It doesn't make sense that there is no place in town where you can get rid of something burnable," he remarked.

Reeve Bernard Hepburn replied that the quarry was locked under his direction because a great deal of garbage and unburnable trash was being deposited there.

"But I agree with Mr. Clapp 100 per cent," said Mr. Hepburn. He added that he felt the town foreman could detail a workman to supervise the quarry on Saturday mornings between 8 a.m. and 12 p.m.

"This was a handy dump for a lot of people other than the ratepayers of Picton, commented Mr. Hepburn.

Bridge Links

Bridges are in the news these days. There is the Dundas Street bridge now under construction in Belleville and there are those bridges that at the moment Mayor McFarland of Picton sees only in imagination linking Prince Edward County with New York State at Cape Vincent, via Amherst and Wolfe Islands.

So while we are on the topic it is pertinent to give a thought to the venerable Bay bridge linking Belleville and Hastings County, and this part of the world generally, with Prince Edward.

The bridge is some 70 years old and while it serves its purpose it has the serious drawback of being a swing bridge which renders it inoperative to road traffic when boats require passage. Down the years there has been many a traffic tie-up on both sides of this link across the bay.

Perhaps it is time some thought was given again to construction of a bridge similar to the one at Desoronto that would provide an unrestricted flow of traffic. For one thing industry is growing apace in both areas. Tourism is also increasing, and for that reason too road communications should be improved by the addition of such facilities.

The Bay bridge may be adequate, but that is not enough these days. The delays and traffic tie-ups that occur on the Bay bridge have been a feature of the local scene for too long. Not only are they inconvenient, they could constitute an emergency for anyone in a hurry or for police, fire and ambulance services.

Irish Visitor

A recent welcome visitor to these parts was Maureen Dillon representing the Young Farmers' Clubs of Ulster. One of eight visiting Canada from the United Kingdom under the junior farmers' youth exchange plan, Miss Dillon was guest at a Bloomfield-area farm.

Miss Dillon's home is near the village of Moira in County Down and she is the second young exchange visitor from Northern Ireland in recent years. In 1965, Hilda K. Neill of Dervock, County Antrim, stayed at a farm near Belleville.

Coming from near Moira it was natural that Miss Dillon should want to see the pride of Belleville, the Moira River. Well we hope she overlooked the scruffy appearance of its banks and was not unduly baffled by the peculiar local pronunciation of Mo-I-ra, with emphasis on the "I" rather than Moira as in Moyra which is the way they pronounce it in Ulster.

That Miss Dillon has a ready Irish wit was clear from her answer to a question on irrigation. "In Ireland," she said, "most of our irrigation comes from above." Indeed if she were here for our recent monsoons she would have felt right at home.

On one issue though we must take issue with the Irish visitor. "We don't have these in Ireland," she said while taking a swat at a mosquito during a chat with one of our staff. Throughout the world there are nearly 2,500 species of mosquitoes and while St. Patrick may have banished the snakes he clearly overlooked the bugs. Yes, we have had some experience with Irish mosquitoes, or midges as they are called there.

Maybe it is just that the Canadian breed are more noticeable. Perhaps they try harder here, for the "benefit" of visitors.

Prince Is Home

Now that Prince Charles is safely over his visit to Wales there will be general relief that the massive security curtain proved effective. Certainly no chances could be taken in view of the continual threats from Welsh terrorist organizations bent on disrupting the investiture ceremony at Caernarvon Castle and perhaps even threatening the Prince's life.

It is a long time ago — 1936 — when Edward VIII was King for a brief time before abdicating to marry Mrs. Wallis Simpson, but we seem to recall an incident that caused a flurry at that time. It might even have been at the Coronation of Edward, now the Duke of Windsor, who himself was crowned Prince of Wales in 1911.

At any rate there were the crowds in London and as Edward passed through them a man armed as we recall with a revolver was arrested very close to where the Prince was. The incident made headlines.

Always, when Royalty or other national figures are present and thousands are watching, there is the threat of incidents from persons of unsound mentality. The United States is sombre testimony to this. And when in addition there are threats from extremists then the task of the security people becomes even more complex.

Stanfield's Devastating 'Welcome Home' to Mitchell Sharp

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The parliamentary trophy of what might be known as "The Golden Forked Tongue" has to be awarded for this Session to the "Quiet Man," Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield.

It must be given him, Conservatives insist, and some Liberals grudgingly concede, for his blistering "welcome home" from Stockholm of External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp.

While he discounted it — in some beautifully indecisive phrases — everyone on Parliament Hill, including the Liberals, were convinced Sharp had gone to Stockholm to chase that elusive will-of-the-diplomatic-wisp, Red Chinese recognition of Canada.

And never, in this first year of Prime Minister Trudeau's government, was anyone made the butt of such scalding scorn as his external affairs minister when he came back, in empty-handed humiliation.

Not that everyone, including a lot of Liberals, thought recognition by Red China was all that great, but poor Mitchell Sharp so had his heart set on it.

The ridicule in which he was publicly subjected in the Commons was all that more devastating because it was inflicted on him by that unlikeliest of parliamentarians, the gentle-voiced, gracious-mannered "Quiet Man" who has been making a thing of understanding and co-operating with the government.

The Stanfield acid was so deep - burning that Mitchell Sharp, who by this time should have become inured to embarrassment, squirmed painfully, as if in actual physical suffering — which, perhaps, he was.

Mr. Stanfield had heard his report on the empty mission to Stockholm, and opened up with the scathing observation that neither Confucius nor Hans Christian Anderson could have come up with such a fantasy.

"It would be safe to say," went on the Opposition leader bitingly, "that no Canadian minister has been the object of such international derision since the prime minister came back from London" and what Mr. Stanfield had scorned as "his zero performance."

The Conservative leader was unelected whether Mr. Sharp was "more to be pitied than laughed at, or more to be laughed at than pitied."

The external affairs minister's account of his failure of a mission, he went on, aptly could be entitled "Gullible's Travels."

Then he contrasted Mitchell Sharp for "keeping a straight face" in telling it the way it was not, when Liberals all around him were having a terrible time hiding their grins of both amusement and embarrassment.

Mr. Sharp, he gibed on, had been treating Stockholm, Oslo, Copenhagen, Helsinki to the "same brand of double talk" the Canadians have been hearing about cutting the Armed Forces while keeping the faith with NATO.

"That kind of talk has been farce enough at home, but when without the minister putting his incredible show on the international road," he continued.

Then he accused Mitchell Sharp of failing on his face while trying to grandstand.

The external affairs minister, in the belief that his diplomats had sewed up a recognition deal with the Communist envoys from Peking, had rushed to Sweden to take the bows.

He recalled how, before flying out to Stockholm, Mitchell Sharp had "dropped hints on every conceivable occasion" that he would be happy to meet the Red Chinese, and then on arrival in Sweden had kept talking of this anticipated joy supreme.

"But alas," Mr. Stanfield mocked him, "the external affairs minister's eagerness was equalled only by the Red Chinese ambassador's indifference."

"If he wanted to see anyone at all, it was strictly Occidental."

Mitchell Sharp, he concluded sadly, had done "the best job yet," at home and now abroad, "of making Canada seem a country of fools."

John Diefenbaker, in his best days as Conservative leader, never carved up Mitchell Sharp or any other cabinet minister with more exquisitely cruel skill.

If it was not just a "one - day stand," Robert Stanfield could be on his way to driving the Liberal ministers out of their skulls.

'Fence Mending Needed'

Government and the Public Service

Editor,
The Intelligencer

The result of the Provincial election in Manitoba should give the Conservative Government in Ontario something to think about.

As a public servant of the Province of Ontario (and there are 40,000 of us) it is my opinion that the Government would do well before the next election to do some "fence-mending" regarding the rank and file of the public servants of this Province.

I think that I can give a qualified opinion because I am active in the Civil Service Association of Ontario and have met many public servants through out the Province.

The almost 100 percent opinion is that it is about time that "the tail stop wagging the dog" and that the elected representatives have a firmer and stronger hand in the decision making of the Civil Service Commission and of the Deputy Ministers of the Ontario Government.

It is an undisputed fact that many of these decisions lack provincial uniformity and create many injustices which cannot be solved by present legislation.

Unless a change does take place regarding the above situation before the next provincial election, there will be many votes (both from public servants and their families) that would normally be Conservative that will go to another party and that party will most likely be the NDP.

Garbage Disposal Japanese-Style

Brockville Recorder and Times

The ingenious Japanese have come up with a method of garbage disposal that will find acceptance in Canada and other countries hard pressed for ways of getting rid of gigantic piles of refuse. The Japanese have put the garbage to use.

According to an item in Heavy Construction News, a Canadian periodical, a unique Japanese garbage disposal system has been devised that produces near-solid, asphalt-encased, two - ton cubes for sanitary landfill and the construction of retaining walls. It is now being introduced into Canada.

The system consists of giant presses which compact nonorganic garbage into cubes, wraps them in wire mesh and then transfers them into a tank of liquid asphalt. After water cooling, the asphalt blocks are almost unbreakable and leakproof. A single press produces a two-cube every seven minutes and can process 100 tons of garbage in eight hours.

It may be possible, with the new process, to eliminate more than one problem facing cities such as Winnipeg. Under the new system, huge piles of refuse will disappear and huge piles of asphalt blocks will take their place. With such blocks to replace sand bags for dikes, it should become an easy matter to prevent the Red river from ever flowing its block lined banks.

Adventures in Asia

Dutch Scouts Follow Route of Alexander the Great

by Bert Roe'ofsen in UNESCO Features

Student members of the 10th Scout Group of the Dutch town of Hilversum, "De Argonauten" (The Argonauts), are setting off shortly for Central Asia in the footsteps of Alexander the Great. They will travel to Eastern Iran, the Hindu Kush mountains in Afghanistan, possibly to Samarkand and Bukhara in Soviet Uzbekistan, and finally to the Indus valley and Lahore in West Pakistan.

The aim of their venture is to get acquainted with the civilizations of Asia, and to establish personal contacts with young people. They will report their experience by writing articles, taking photographs and color slides for museums and educational institutes and making sound recordings. Thus they hope to raise all the money needed for the trip by their own activities.

This is not the first undertaking of this kind by the Argonauts. Ten years ago the group realized that it should "live up to its name" and started a Greek program, including the organization of an exhibition on Greek art, which eventually grew into a three weeks' cultural festival, aptly named, "Hellas in Hilversum". It comprised performances of classical plays and modern folk dances, lectures and panel discussions, a Greek "agora" (market) and a shop-window competition. Thousands of visitors from all over the country and even from Greece attended.

During the summers of 1960 and 1962, some ten Argonauts, senior and rover scouts of sixteen age, took part in explorations in Greece—one in the wake of the legendary Argonauts who were united in search of the Golden Fleece, and another one to investigate the ancient story of Theseus and the Minotaur. The expenses of both trips were covered by publicity activities and lectures, and two books were published afterwards.

Their wonderful Greek experience stimulated the group to go further afield. In 1965 they decided to travel to Western Asia, following the tracks of the great Macedonian, king of the 4th century B.C., known as Alexander the Great. During three hot summer months two girls and eight young men journeyed in two station-wagons along the Greek and Turkish coasts to Syria, Lebanon, and Jordan, then through Iraq to Iran (Persia). In Teheran they turned westward and travelled home through inner Turkey and the European countries.

It was a fascinating journey, more than a holiday trip or a mere historical exploration, according to 39-year-old Dr. Pieter L. Hafner, nicknamed "Jason" after the crew-leader of the ancient Argonauts.

They admired the glorious ruins of Ba'albek and Palmyra, Petra and Persepolis, but also talked with nomads in the Lebanon, roaming Kurds in Turkey and students in Iran: thanks to some linguistic study they could at least communicate. They breathed the incense of many churches in Jerusalem and of beautiful mosques in the holy cities of Iraq. They got lost in a grey desert near Abadan on their way to resplendent Isfahan "nesf-e-jehan", "half of the world".

After that the Argonauts worked hard to balance their financial account. They managed to reach the break-even point a year after their trip and started to earn some money for a new one by organizing performances of their slides-and-music programme for many clubs, institutions and societies. Their photo exhibition was on display in several Dutch museums and art galleries, and numerous schools in the Netherlands now use the filmstrips on various Asian countries prepared by the Argonauts.

We are just an average scout group," Dr. Hafner says. "Any group of youngsters might undertake what we did. All you need is a bit of imagination, a good deal of energy, enthusiasm, and above all the right team spirit and willingness to devote one's efforts to a common goal. All of us are students, three are professional writers and photographers among us — but we try to do what everyone can. This certainly takes time and a lot of work and study. We have been busy preparing ourselves for this trip for several years."

This summer the Argonauts will journey in two different ways. One party, consisting of five members — two girl students, two young men and Jason himself — will by mid-July travel by air and rail to Teheran. From here they will follow the itinerary of Alexander by car to Kabul in Afghanistan. In this country they intend to visit several remote valleys where Jason has helped set up teacher training colleges. Then they intend to visit the ancient Khiva area in the USSR, where Alexander once fought the Scythians and married the beautiful Roxana. Via the Khyber pass they finally will reach the Indus river and travel in the Punjab area, did until his soldiers forced him to stop. Here, at the far end of their journey they will of course, return to a hospital in Pakistan, which now is headed by one of the Argonauts who took part in the previous trip.

Several other Argonauts, seven men and female students — will travel individually to Iran, Afghanistan and partly also in Pakistan, using trains, local buses, trucks and perhaps donkeys for their transport. They will be visiting different parts of these countries from the final group, so as to complete the overall picture of Central Asia which the Argonauts are expected to present in their news reports and feature stories, radio program, slides series and travel book.

'Fence Mending Needed'

Editor,
The Intelligencer

The result of the Provincial election in Manitoba should give the Conservative Government in Ontario something to think about.

As a public servant of the Province of Ontario (and there are 40,000 of us) it is my opinion that the Government would do well before the next election to do some "fence-mending" regarding the rank and file of the public servants of this Province.

I think that I can give a qualified opinion because I am active in the Civil Service Association of Ontario and have met many public servants throughout the Province.

The almost 100 percent opinion is that it is about time that "the tail stop wagging the dog" and that the elected representatives have a firmer and stronger hand in the decision making of the Civil Service Commission and of the Deputy Ministers of the Ontario Government.

It is an undisputed fact that many of these decisions lack provincial uniformity and create many injustices which cannot be solved by present legislation.

Unless a change does take place regarding the above situation before the next provincial election, there will be many votes (both from public servants and their families) that would normally be Conservative that will go to another party.

I, the undersigned, am a Conservative and that very will most likely be the NDP.

Garbage Disposal Japanese-Style

Brockville Recorder and Times

The ingenious Japanese have come up with a method of garbage disposal that will find acceptance in Canada and other countries hard pressed for ways of getting rid of gigantic piles of refuse. The Japanese have put the garbage to use.

According to an item in Heavy Construction News, a Canadian periodical, a unique Japanese garbage disposal system, is a been devised that produces nearsolid, asphalt-encased, two - ton cubes for sanitary landfill and the construction of retaining walls. It is now being introduced into Canada.

The system consistes of giant presses which compact nonorganic garbage into cubes, wraps them in wire mesh and then transfers them into a tank of liquid asphalt. After water cooling, the asphalt blocks are almost unbreakable and leakproof. A single press produces one cube every seven minutes and can process 100 tons of garbage in eight hours.

It may be possible, with the new process, to eliminate more than one problem facing cities such as Winnipeg. Under this new system, huge piles of refuse will disappear and huge piles of asphalt blocks will take their place. With such blocks to replace road bogs few cities should become an easy matter to prevent the Red river from ever flowing its black lined banks.

Dig That Spinach!

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

Springdale, Ark., and Crystal City, Texas, are two cities with something in common. Each calls itself the "spinach capital of the world." A good many other towns in search for years, might well ask, "So what."

Thanks to the U.S. National Canners Association both these towns and perhaps some others which might now jump into the race, could really have something in trying to popularize the sometimes unpopular spinach.

For, according to the scientists in Washington, the bright green leafy vegetable is everything its proponents ever claimed it was.

It not only contains the most iron and vitamin A of all common vegetables, but generous portions of calcium and vitamin C as well. This may not mean much to junior facing the plate on his plate, but it ought to make Mom talk it up all the more.

Adventures in Asia

Dutch Scouts Follow Route of Alexander the Great

by Bert Roe'afsen in UNESCO Features

Student members of the 10th Scout Group of the Dutch town of Hilversum, "De Argonauten" (The Argonauts), are setting off shortly for Central Asia in the footsteps of Alexander the Great. They will travel to Eastern Iran, the Hindu Kush mountains in Afghanistan, possibly to Samarkand and Bukhara in Soviet Uzbekistan, and finally to the Indus valley and Lahore in West Pakistan.

The aim of their venture is to get acquainted with the civilizations of Asia, and to establish personal contacts with young people. They will report their experience by written articles, taking photographs and color slides for museums and educational institutes and making sound recordings. Thus they hope to raise all the money needed for the trip by these own activities.

This is not the first undertaking of this kind by the Argonauts. Ten years ago the group realized that it should "live up to its name" and started a Greek program, including the organization of an exhibition on Greek art, which eventually grew into a three weeks' cultural festival, aptly named, "Hellas in Hilversum", it comprised performances of classical plays and modern folk dances, lectures and panel discussions, a Greek "agora" (market) and a shopwindow competition. Thousands of visitors from all over the country and even from Greece attended.

During the summers of 1960 and 1962, some ten Argonauts, senior and rover scouts of student age, took part in explorations in Greece, and in the wake of the legendary Argonauts who once sailed in quest of the Golden Fleece, and another one to investigate the ancient story of Theseus and the Minotaur. The expenses of both trips were covered by publicity activities and lectures, and their books were published afterwards.

Their wonderful Greek experience stimulated the group to further afield. In 1965 they decided to travel to Western Asia, following the route of the great Macedonian king of the 4th century B.C., known as Alexander the Great. During three hot summer months two girls and eight young men journeyed in two station-wagons along the Greek and Turkish coasts to Syria, Lebanon, and Jordan, then through Iraq to Iran (Persia). In Germany they veered westward and travelled home through inner Turkey and the European continent.

It was a fascinating journey, more than a holiday trip or a mere historical exploration, according to 39-year-old Dr. Pieter L. Muller, nicknamed "Jason", after the crew leader of the ancient Argonauts.

They admired the glorious ruins of Baalbek and Palmyra, Petra and Persepolis, but also talked with nomads in the Lebanon, roaming Kurds in Turkey and students in Iran; thanks to some language study they could at least communicate. They breathed the incense of many churches in Jerusalem and of beautiful mosques in the holy cities of Iraq. They got lost in a grey desert near Alaadan on their way to resplendent Isfahan — "nesf-e-jehan", "half of the world".

After that the Argonauts worked hard to balance their financial account. They managed to reach the break-even point a year after their trip and started to earn some money for a new one by organizing performances of their slides-and-music programme for many clubs, institutions and fearless audiences. Their photo exhibition was on display in several Dutch museums and art galleries, and numerous schools in the Netherlands now use the filmstrips on various Asian countries prepared by the Argonauts.

"We are just an average scout group", Dr. Muller says. "My group of youngsters might undertake what we do — all you need is a little enterprise, a good deal of energy, enthusiasm, and above all the right team spirit and devotion to devote one's efforts to a common goal. All of us are amateurs — there are no professional writers and photographers among us — but we try to be good amateurs. This certainly has taken a lot of work and study. We have been busy preparing ourselves for this for several years."

This summer the Argonauts will journey in two different ways: One party, consisting of five members — two girl students, two young men and himself — will by mid-July travel by air and rail to Teheran. From here they will follow the itinerary of Alexander by car to Kabul in Afghanistan. In this country they intend to visit several remote towns where Unesco has helped set up weather tracking colleges. Then they intend to visit the cultural area of the USSR, where Alexander once fought the Scythians and married the beautiful Roxane. Via the Khyber pass they finally will reach the Indus river and travel to the Arabian Sea delta until his soldiers forced him to withdraw. At the far end of their journey they will offer a present to a hospital in Pakistan, which now is headed by one of the Argonauts who took part in the previous trip.

Several other Argonauts organ-ized and financed students — will travel individually to Iran, Afghanistan and partly also to Pakistan. Local trains, local buses, trucks and perhaps donkeys for their transport. They will be visiting different parts of these countries from the first group, so as to complete the overall picture of Central Asia which the Argonauts are expected to present in their news reports and feature stories, radio program, slides series and travel book.

PERCY THOMPSON

NAPANEE — An unsung hero of World War 1, Percy Thompson of Raglan Road, Napanee, died Saturday, in the Kingston General Hospital, where he had been admitted a week earlier. He was in his 70th year.

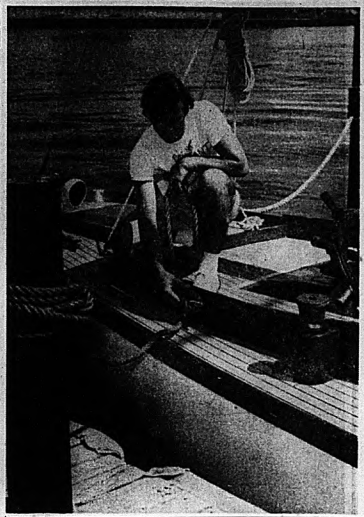
The funeral service was held in the Tierney Funeral Home Tuesday, Rev. Gordon A. Hammond officiating, assisted by Rev. Robert McCaw.

The bearers were: Norman Dupont, Moston Edgar, Tommy Fox, Earl Jennings, Hubert Thompson and Tommy Thompson.

There was a Legion service Monday evening.

Interment was in Riverview Cemetery.

Born in the Thompson Settlement north of Selby, Percy Thompson was left motherless when only two years old, and was brought up by an uncle and aunt. At 15 he became a cheese factory employee, and two years later, on giving his age as 18, was enlisted in the 146th Battalion in Napanee. He received his Canadian training in Napanee and Valcartier, leaving for England in 1916, where his battalion was disbanded and he was placed in the Princess Patricia's Light Infantry.



At the Battle of Arras, April 1918, he was hit several times by machine gun bullets, two of them giving him head injuries. One bullet tore away his right cheek bone, and his eye, and destroyed the nerves of taste and smell. From that day until the day of his death, Percy Thompson did not know one moment without intense pain. He lay on the battle field for three days before being found by men of another regiment and had been reported dead.

He was hospitalized for years while he underwent plastic surgery, and later on returned for repeated operations for removal of diseased bone from the eye socket.

On one of his leaves from Christie St. Hospital, he had married Eva Markle, and, after his discharge, they purchased the home on Raglan Road where they have since lived. He was an employee of Canadian Canners in Napanee for 22 years, and there he sustained a shoulder injury which later involved surgery on several occasions, and which, also, gave him constant pain. He twice recovered from meningitis, once while training in Napanee, and, later, in hospital in Toronto, where he was known as "the iron man."

In spite of his constant suffering, Percy Thompson was never idle when not in hospital. He gardened, for himself and for others. He was a quiet, gentle man, never complaining, and only intimate friends knew of his suffering. He always had time to help others, and will be remembered as a kind neighbor.

He is survived by his wife; by two daughters, Mrs. Jack Savary (Doris) of Toronto, and Mrs. Gerald C. Bryant (Aileen) of Kingston; by six grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Hungerford Township Man Becomes Assistant Deputy

TWEED — The Hon. W. G. Davis, Minister of Education, recently announced the promotion of Frank Kinlin to the position of Assistant Deputy Minister, head of the Instruction Division of the Department.

Frank Kinlin is a native of nearby Bogart in Hungerford Township.

Mr. Kinlin taught public school for five years, the last four in the Township of Hungerford. He then attended the University of Toronto, and after graduating with honors in mathematics and physics, he taught secondary school in Ottawa for seven years.

During this time, he also took courses in pedagogy at the University of Toronto and later was granted a Bachelor of Pedagogy degree with honors.

In 1945, Mr. Kinlin entered the employment of the Department of Education, serving for 11 years as inspector of separate schools in the London area, and five years as a secondary school inspector of mathematics over the entire province of Ontario.

He also served for three years as an Assistant Superintendent of curriculum, and for one year on the Minister's Policy and Development Council, and one year as Regional Director in the East Central area.

Since 1967, he has been serving as superintendent of curriculum. Mr. Kinlin brings to his new post a varied experience in many sections of the Department.

Frank Kinlin is well-known in Tweed and district, and is a regular visitor to the Tweed area. His wife, is the former Margaret Murphy from Tweed.

They have three children, all students at the University of Toronto.

Armed Forces Add Prestige: Legion Head

MADOC — "Peace is every nation's business," Robert Kohaly, president of the Royal Canadian Legion, said Sunday.

Speaking at the rededication of a peace pagoda in Lester Pearson Peace Park in this community 25 miles north of Belleville, he told an audience of about 100 that Canada's armed forces have been a prime source of diplomatic prestige.

"Many people ask why Canada should involve herself in other people's squabbles and why the Canadian taxpayer should be expected to spend money on peace-keeping.

"Suez and Cyprus are battle honors on the flag of Canadian diplomacy, but our armed forces have been the primary instrument by which our country has exerted its influence and helped to halt aggression."

MR. AND MRS. JAMES RAYNER

Rayner — Davenport

The wedding was solemnized recently at Bridge Street United Church, when Dr. Harry M. Davis united in marriage Joan Marilynn Davenport, daughter of Mrs. Ralph Fredrick Davenport, of Belleville and the late Wing Commander Ralph Frederick Davenport, and James John Rayner, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Alfred Rayner, of Toronto. Rendering appropriate nuptial selections was organist S. Alec Gordon. Soloist was Miss Kathleen McElroy.

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather, G. W. Proctor, wore a full length gown of silk organza over taffeta, featuring a rounded neckline, short sleeves, and empire bodice and an A-line skirt. Lace covered the entire gown, and appliques of beaded alencon lace were clustered on the bodice,"waistline, skirt and sleeves. The chapel length train was softly gathered and had a wide sweep. Her small headdress of matching lace appliques held a full length veil of white tulle illusion, Her bouquet was a cascade of white cluster carnations, centred by a white orchid.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Ann Reedie, was gowned in empire rose cotton twill, designed in princess lines with a bateau neckline, short sleeves trimmed with cotton lace dyed to match. Her train was gathered into a soft fullness, complementing her headpiece, which was a bow of the same fabric.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. Barbara Cann, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Judith Mott and Miss Ellen McCreary were dressed identically to the matron of honor.

Best man for the ceremony was Sidney Cann. The ushers were Kenneth Rayner, Terence Dockrill and James Allan.

For the wedding reception, held at the Belleville Club, the mother of the bride received the guests wearing a shell pink ensemble of imported surrah silk. Delicate beading in the same shade accented the neckline of the gown. Her hat was of shell pink looped organdy, and she wore matching accessories. Completing her ensemble, she carried a purse with a gardenia corsage.

Assisting the mother of the bride, the mother of the bridegroom chose a gown of turquoise shantung with beading at the neckline in shades of deeper turquoise and white. She wore a matching hat, white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to Bermuda, the bride donned a dress of woven pure silk in turquoise shade with a full length coat of the same fabric in shades of turquoise a n d mauve. Her hat matched the dress and she wore black patent accessories and white orchid corsage. Upon their return, the couple will reside in Toronto.

LITTLE RICHARD IN YARN — Helene Hermarck, 28, a Swedish-born tapestry weaver living in Montreal, stands beside a tapestry of pop singer Little Richard. She places a huge photograph finder the yarn structure of a Swedish loom, then reproduces the photos dot by dot. Swedish-born Weaver Makes Fine Tapestries

MONTREAL (CP) — Helena Barynina Hermmarck, 28, a Swedish-born tapestry weaver currently living in Montreal, says she works "for rich corporations, for the squares."

She has mixed emotions about the people who actually benefit from her work.

Her tapestries, because of their size and the hours of effort involved, of necessity are created by commission only.

Discussing the clientele for whom she works, the artist said: "I ask myself if this is really what I want to do. I guess I'm looking for some sort of justification.

"Of course, I'm grateful they want my work. But lots of artists are asking themselves, 'Who needs art? Shouldn't one go to India and teach them how to grow wheat or something like that?'"

Helena began weaving when she was 12 years old, encouraged by her father who worked in a Stockholm museum.

After 4½ years at art school, she emigrated to Canada in 1964 and settled in Montreal "because the only person I knew in Canada lived here."

Helena makes periodic tours of the country, visiting architects and large corporations who might be interested in commissioning a tapestry for their offices.

"It's mainly a matter of luck, whether you happen to show up in someone's office just when they're looking for a tapestry."

Her work is rarely commissioned by individuals—at $60 to $90 a square foot, the price is a little steep.

Helena's technique for weaving sounds relatively simple. She places a large, blown-up photographs under the yarn structure of a 1,000-point Swedish loom and reproduces the photos dot by dot.

One tapestry done in this manner is a reproduction of a recent cover featuring curly-haired pop singer Little Richard. Dominating the room, it hangs in Helena's apartment over a large collection of albums stacked neatly on the floor.

It is the first of a planned series of tapestries commemorating individual musicians who contributed to the early days of rock music, popular in the United States.

Helena's latest work, due to be finished in August, is a tapestry of Elvis Presley and Fats Domino.

The National Film Board gave Helena her first real break in Canada by commissioning a tapestry for the Labyrinth pavilion at Expo 67.

"The idea was that it would hang just inside the entrance so people waiting to enter the pavilion could look at it.

"Instead, they made the people wait in lines outside, then rushed them past my tapestry into the elevators. Nobody saw it."

The impressionistic tapestry, with lots of red, now hangs in a Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. office.

Two other tapestries, signed with her initials and the date, are hung behind a bar at Place des Arts, and in the lobby of Habitat, a modernistic apartment building put up for Expo.

And when the Queen Elizabeth 2 sailed on her maiden voyage this spring, one of the salons was decorated with a Hermmarck tapestry of the Queen.

Another field of potential clients that Helena would like to crack is that of football clubs, or any sports association.

With this in mind, she did one of her few uncommissioned tapestries and plans to offer it for sale to the Baltimore Colts. It is a close-up of a savvy lineman Bubba Smith charging down the football field.

Throughout the interview Helena sat on the floor tying ends of wool on a just-completed tapestry, working frantically to get it ready to ship to the June International Biennial of Tapestry at Lausanne, Switzerland.

About 13 feet long and requiring 15 days of intensive weaving, the beige, black and white tapestry shows a small boy listening, one side, to Prime Minister Trudeau and, on the other side, to President Nixon.

If everything goes well, Helena may apply for a Canada Council grant which would enable her to add to the tapestry with all outstanding events of 1969.

Couple Honored At Shower

STIRLING—A shower party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Craighead in honor of newlyweds, John Craighead and Dorothy Benedict.

Rev. D. MacPherson was master of ceremonies. Those assisting with the program were Mrs. Jack Bush, Mrs. Ernest Carr, Mrs. Percy MacMullen; Miss Hilda Holland, Harold Wells, Miles Benedict and Percy Craighead.

Mrs. Glenn Bennett read an address on behalf of the charivari gang and a gift was presented. On behalf of neighbours, members of the River Valley Women's Institute and of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church David Gliddon read an appreciative address and gifts were presented by Harold Bush, John Sheridan and Glenn Bush.

The recipients voiced grateful thanks after which the committee in charge served refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour. The relatives in attendance included Mr. and Mrs. Claire Craighead and Mr. and Mrs. Miles Benedict of Belleville.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT ARTHURS

Arthurs — Buchanan

St. Joseph's Church was the scene of the June 28 wedding when Karen Mary Buchanan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Buchanan, of Chatham, N.B., exchanged wedding vows with Robert Taylor Arthurs, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthurs, of Cardinal, Ont. Monsignor J. A. Carley performed the ceremony, and rendering appropriate nuptial selections was Sister Mary Avila.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of the redingote style of peau de soie and organza, trimmed with embroidered daisies. She wore a shoulder-length six tier veil of organza attached to a headdress of clustered daisies. A floor-length train was attached to the shoulders of the dress. She carried a crescent of white shasta daisies and red roses.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Karelle Hay of Amherstview, sister of the bride, wore a mauve floor-length gown of chiffon over taffeta, trimmed with embroidered daisies. She carried a basket of white shasta daisies.

Bridesmaids, the Misses Janice Buchanan, Chatham, N.B., sister of the bride; Tara Arthurs, Cardinal, Ont., sister of the bridegroom; Charlotte Kerr, Belleville, were all similarly attired to the matron of honor, in shades of yellow, green and blue, respectively.

Flower girl for the ceremony was Lorelie Hay, niece of the bride, dressed in floor-length gown of mauve chiffon over taffeta.

Best man was Gary Arthurs, brother of the bridegroom, while the ushers were Doug Campbell of Port Credit; George Miller and Bill Fowler of Brockville.

For the wedding reception held at St. Joseph's Parish Hall, the mother of the bride wore a pale blue crimplene dress with a matching hat, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Assisting her, the mother of the bridegroom chose a pale green lace coat and dress ensemble, matching hat, with white accessories, completed by pink and white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Cape Cod and the New England States, the bride donned a pale blue lace ensemble, with white accessories and a mauve orchid corsage. Upon their return, the couple will reside in Hamilton.

Family Holds 45th Annual Reunion

Recently the members of the Holmes families gathered together to hold their 45th annual reunion.

It was held at the former Queensboro schoolhouse, now the W.I. Hall, where nearly all the older ones had gone to school.

At noon the family sat down to a pot luck dinner prepared by the women with 83 members of the clan present.

After dinner the young children played outside while the older ones enjoyed a social chat and a brief business session.

After the minutes of the last reunion were read, the secretary, Mrs. Ed Holmes gave a paper on the history of the Holmes family, also a summary of the reunions held. The first one was held in 1920 and the second in 1921 where all the brothers of the original family were present.

Mrs. John L. Holmes of Tweed, who will be celebrating her 80th birthday was presented with sugift and card.

Gifts were also given to Mrs. R. A. Sager for never having missed a reunion and to Mrs. Edmund Groves for only having missed one—John Holmes. Stirling received a gift for being the oldest man present. A gift for the couple coming the farthest was given to Mr. and Mrs. L. Harris and family of London, Ont. A gift for the newest bride was presented to Mrs. John Morgan.

It was decided to hold the Reunion in Queensboro again next year.

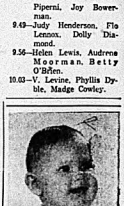
The rest of the afternoon was spent socially.

Women in Industrial Management

KITCHENER (CP) — Men are becoming more understanding about the attitudes of women who want to work, the Canadian Industrial Management Association's convention was told Friday.

Dr. Margaret Nix, professor of behavioral science at Pace College in New York, said one-third of married women in the United States work part-time or full-time and the figure would be about the same in Canada.

"Today in our enlightened times we can't afford to keep women out," she said. "We can't afford not to use the skills of those with higher degrees."



She said the days when a husband could dictate to his wife are gone and that married couples need mutual respect to solve today's problems.

Grant for Books

EDMONTON (CP) — Two southwestern Ontario Indian reserves have been awarded a grant of $1,000 for a special collection of books on Indian history and culture.

The grants were announced by Mrs. Charles L. Wilson of Barrie, Ont., at the annual council meeting of the Canadian Federation of University Women.

The libraries of Walpole Island and Kettle Point Indian reserves were chosen on the basis of efforts mlde by people in the community to set up good library service, and on the basis of need and isolation.

New Gadget Consumer's Cost Calculator

OTTAWA (CP) — If you are having problems in that mathematical maze known as the local supermarket, take heart.

The federal agriculture department has come up with a consumer's cost calculator for comparison food shopping.

"Easy to operate, it will make you a whiz at price comparisons," the department assures consumers.

On a trial by an unsophisticated consumer, it proved to be fun to operate the calculator.

The purse-sized gadget is a plastic square with two circles in the middle, the smaller one placed over the larger.

The base circle, which remains stationary, shows prices ranging from one cent to $5. The smaller movable top circle shows units ranging from one to 200. These can represent ounces, pounds, cans, packages, servings or anything else the consumer wishes.

The directions for use are simple: Line up the quantity (inner circle) with the price (outer circle) and an arrow points to the cost per unit.

After a trial run, a few basic points about the calculator emerge.

One is that since it does take a little time to dial and compare answers—at least until you get used to doing it —for different brands or sizes, it might be wise to use it selectively.

Another is that since the calculator is marked off from the $1 to $5 range in units of five or 10, it is quicker to bring the store price of an article to the nearest cent, rather than to work with. That is, for calculation purposes, a $1.99 item could be thought of more simply as a $2 item.

But when it comes to a decision on whether to spend or buy the giant economy size of a particular detergent, for instance, and cope with the bulge on the way home, or buy a couple of smaller boxes, the gizmo can be a guide.

It is also useful to compare store-brand items with other brands. The trial shopping excursion showed the former can be cheaper.

Then too, aside from being a good conversation piece, the calculator can also salve the conscience.

Would you be more likely to buy that $2.29 pot of flowers if you found out by spinning a dial that, assuming the 15 flowers lasted 10 days, you would be paying only about 1½ cents a day per flower?

The one big advantage of having a go at prices and products with the calculator for a novice consumer at least—seems to be that it creates an awareness of consumer values.

And just that awareness alone, the test shopper found, saves money.

The calculator may be purchased from Queen's Printer bookstores in Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg or Vancouver or by mail from the Queen's Printer in Ottawa. Cost is 50 cents.

TWEED — Mr. and Mrs. James Rousboro of Whitby, formerly of Queensboro, were honored by their family, relatives and friends on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary, at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Holmes, of Queensboro.

The honored couple have three daughters, Jean (Mrs. L. Holmes,) Kathleen, (Mrs. Thomas Moorcroft) of Oshawa, and Margaret, (Mrs. Kenneth Sine) of R.R.1, Harold, who were present with their husbands, grandchildren and guests, numbering over 100 for this memorable occasion.

Guests were present from Detroit, Mich., Watertown, N.Y., Brantford, Toronto, Brampton, Newmarket, Belleville, Stirling, Madoc, Plainfield, Tweed and Queensboro.

They received many gifts including money and many useful items.

Walking Dangerous

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — An elderly central Florida woman says she has to have a driver's licence because the sidewalks where she lives are too dangerous for a person with her poor eyesight. Lieut. Don Kelly of the Florida Public Safety Department said he received a letter from the woman after she lost the local traffic court failed to see eye-to-eye. In appealing for retention of her licence the woman wrote: "Though I love to walk, the sidewalks in this little town are very dangerous and especially for a person with poor eyesight. My eyesight is my worst infirmity."

Some Experiences of World War 2 Related

By DORIS CLARK

Not long ago I listened to Mollie McGee, a Canadian foreign correspondent. She was relating some of her experiences during the Second World War, and dwelling especially on acts of heroism performed by women during those dark days.

She visited Coventry at a time when it was being ruthlessly flattened by bombs from the enemy. There was terror everywhere, confusion, suffering. Every person still able to go around was ministering to wounded, fighting fires, rummaging through rubble for any moving thing which might be alive.

In the midst of all this there was a contingency of the Women's Voluntary Services going strong. An official said to Mollie, "You must meet our Pearl". When Mollie did, she stood fascinated and watched Pearl operate. She was a treasure-trove of resource. She was cutting sandwiches, making coffee, cracking jokes, all through the bombing. She was at it 48 hours.

Mollie hitched a ride back to London in a lorry filled with dead bodies, and when she got there she made a point of telling Lady Reading about Pearl. "Pearl got an honor — and I'm glad I had a small part in seeing that she got it. She deserved it so."

Then there was Odette McHaley of Swedish Red Cross. She borrowed a bus from Parisian authorities and drove out of Paris to rescue children in areas which were being attacked. She got them.

There was a nursing superintendent whom Little T. B. Sanatorium who bullied a general into giving her a hundred beds. With them she made a small chapel into a hospital.

Mollie visited a hospital in Poland, smashed in by bombs, baked by one loving housewife. She walked through the surprisingly modern wards at dusk and said to her guide, "Who are those people sitting so quietly by the beds?" The answer: "Those are our Sisters. They don't like to leave people to die alone in the dark".

She could tell stories for a week without stopping. Mollie's conclusion about these brave women of hers was that courage and kindness go hand in hand.

Dear Doris: You are priceless! Sometimes I skim over the front page news, but never do I miss you and your column. You talk so much like "us"; that you could easily be my younger sister. God love you!

Now, what I need is the first part of the song "The Dying Confederate". It was popular when my husband and I were young, and I haven't heard it for about half a century!

I'm enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelop Thank you, my dear, for your column, and above all, for just being you. — Lover of Poetry

Dear Lover: Something tells me it would be a great privilege to be your younger sister.

Miniskirts Scarce in Bulgaria

SOFIA (CP) — Miniskirts aren't part of the scene in this pleasant Bulgarian capital. As elsewhere in most of Eastern Europe, the girls wear their skirts just modestly above the knees, although a few will go up to two inches higher.

It was the same thing with pants-suits. Only a few worn by tourists are seen. The largest designing firm is planning to show a few in its fall collection, but doesn't expect to sell many, except to the very young.

Tradition is too deeply rooted here for a sudden leap into the swinging mini-and-long-hair Western world. As a 21-year-old university student and Balkan tourist guide, prefer Tanya Mineva, explained: It's only about 50 years since Bulgaria emerged from nearly 500 years of Turkish dominion, and Turkey insisted on ever-modesty in women. It takes more than two or three generations to accept minis and plunging necklines.

These warm summer days most of the girls and women browsing the shops during the long lunch hours or shopping in Sofia's largest (five stories) department store are wearing colorful print dresses or lightweight sweaters and skirts. As in most European cities, hats are absent, although old women still wear traditional black with a head-covering scarf.

The top design centre in Sofia, with 130 workers, in a saleswoman-factory complex, makes not only dresses but men's tailoring, shirts, shoes, handbags and hats for the Black Sea resorts.

The woman in charge is a textile engineer with five years of university training. The deputy, or manager, is also a textile engineer and the six designers are all new graduates of the Bulgarian Academy of Fine Arts. This is one of the houses, under the ministry of light industry, designated as a centre for creating new goods and developing fashion collections for both men and women.

However the first particular firm is more like North American made-to-order houses. The designers travel to European fashion capitals for the latest styles, and the four collections they design each year are then shown in a large theatre-type room with a stage and runway. Buyers from the firm's branch stores across the country, and also private customers, are invited to attend the showings, arranged twice weekly over a month. Twice a year, Paris and other European purchased models are shown and sold.

But only one model is sold to a branch or customer. So there's no chance of any Bulgarian society hostess greeting a guest dressed in an identical costume. Obviously, the clientele for these made-to-order clothes must be limited.

Several designs from the latest collection are also appealing and made in beautiful fabrics. One was a cream silk with a bolero edged in typical Bulgarian braid and with the new look of a scarf slipped under the buttoned bolero front. Georgette hostess pyjamas in mauve and a splashy yellow floral design were accented by a wide crushed grey belt. And a brocade bridal gown was high-waisted with a tight jacket rounded up to button on one shoulder, worn with a small front-flowered hat and short veil.

However, the majority of women seem to shop at Cum (pronounced Toom), the department store in the impressive colonnaded building on Lenin Square. The main floor has large displays of costume jewelry, all on display under glass counters. A double pearl necklace sells for the equivalent of $2.50; plastic or gold-plated chain belts for $1.50.

The store is built in a four-sided balcony style, with open centre. On the first balcony are large sections for children's men's and women's shoes, they are displayed in window-box displays on the walls and then one shoe of each style is placed on a table. Would-be buyers can handle the shoe, show it to a clerk and get a pair in their size to try on.

Women's shoes here, as in Canadian styles, feature blunt-rounded toes and high fronts. We saw some with some pearlized slings in plum, grey or peach. Prices in fashion shoes ranges range from between $6 and $15.

The third balcony floor was mostly goods-by-the-yard and men's shirts. Women's and men's ready-to-wear was on fourth. Western visitors are intrigued to note large signs stating "52" above a number of racks. Eastern and southern European women tend to plumpness, and evidently don't mind these size signs.

In another smaller store, the main staircase and a runway were utilized to show off clothes for the average housewife's purse. There were some extremely interesting children's clothes, and here was the mini-length. Male models showed off shirts and sweaters. There were also a few casual outfits and even ski wear. The show was popular, with rows of placed chairs occupied at least an hour before the show and with several rows of standees behind.

Points for Parents

Mary's Own Mayonnaise Recipe

By MARY MOORE

Somebody wrote that I included "genuine mayonnaise" in some of my lists of ingredients and asked for my recipe for it. This request was buried among other paragraphs in the letter and I have an uneasy feeling that I neglected to include the mayonnaise recipe in my answer by letter.

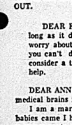
On examining our filing cards I find that I have not given this recipe since 1964. Since I make my own all of the time it is so familiar to me that I did not realize I had not given it public exposure for so long.

So I made some to go with yesterday's Perfect Potato Salad and watched and recorded every move I made.

EMEM'S MAYONNAISE

(32-oz. jar)

- 3 large egg yolks
- 1 tbsp. dry mustard
- 1 tbsp. sugar
- 1 tbsp. salt
- ½ tsp. MSG (Accent)
- 6 tbsps. cold lemon juice, (fresh or bottled)
- 2 cups cold salad oil (corn, soy, cottonseed, peanut or olive)



In your beater bowl combine egg yolks, mustard, sugar, salt and MSG. Beat together until thick. Then begin to add cold oil—add about 2 tbsps. in a thin ½" stream, while beating furiously. Then slowly add 1 tbsp. lemon juice while beating on high. At this stage emulsion begins to take place. Slowly add ¼ cup cold oil while beating on high. Turn off beaters and with rubber scraper scrape down sides. Then repeat this alternate slow addition of oil and lemon juice until all of both are added. You may increase size of oil stream once emulsion is firmly established. Do not spoil everything by hurrying or emulsion may separate.

Turn into one 32-oz. jar or two 16-oz. jars, cover and keep refrigerated.

This is a staple dressing for almost all salads and indispensable in our household especially during the summer.

Ann Landers

Mother of Four 'Flips' Over Senator

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 31 and have four children. My husband is a fine provider and that's the sum and substance of his good qualities. I've been feeling especially sorry for myself lately because my life is so unromantic. There were times when I thought I was cracking up. Now I'm sure I'm off my rocker.

A few months ago, I saw a certain Senator on TV. He looked so handsome and spoke with such conviction that I wrote him a note of praise. He sent a personal letter of thanks and I've been plain goofy ever since.

I've gone to the bookstore and am reading up on his state. I visit the library every day to check the Congressional Record to see if he said anything. I cut his pictures out of newspapers and magazines and keep them in a special place. Yesterday, I saw my hero on TV and nearly fainted from excitement. I was never like this over any movie star. Is this a sign of insanity? What should I do? — FLIPPED OUT.

* * *

DEAR FLIPPED: You do sound a trifle batty, but so long as it doesn't interfere with your everyday life, don't worry about it. Should you reach the point, however, that you can't do your housework or, heaven forbid, if you consider a trip to Washington, then I'd suggest psychiatric help.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you have access to the best medical brains in the country. Please give me an answer.

I am a married woman with three children. Before the babies came I had a good figure. Nothing spectacular, but my measurements were 34-24-34.

Now I'm as flat as an ironing board. When I say my bustline is zero, Ann, I mean 34-24-36.

Padded bras are O.K. for filling out my form when I wear sweaters or knit dresses, but I want to feel like a woman again. Is there something that can be done surgically — something really safe? Please let me know — HOPEFUL.

* * *

DEAR HOPEFUL: See a plastic surgeon about silicone implants. Note, I said implants, not injections. This operation is expensive, but it is legal and safe, and can produce excellent results. And now, to all you gals out there who envision yourselves as prospective Sophia Lorens — don't write and ask for names of plastic surgeons. I cannot recommend specific doctors, but your family doctor can.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am ten years old and going steady with a boy named Billy. Well, I guess you could call it going steady although we don't go anyplace. I know Billy likes me better than any other girl because he hits me a lot during recess.

Yesterday Billy gave me a pretty lace handkerchief. He said it was a late Valentine's Day present. I showed the handkerchief to my mother and she said I should give it back because it has been washed and ironed and probably belongs to his mother. What should I do? — GARDEN CITY READER AGE TEN.

* * *

DEAR READER: Give the handkerchief back to Billy and suggest that he buy you a Valentine next year if he is still hitting you during recess next February.

This is apparently the first time a convention has been held in which all members are associate members.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a completely new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

Free hemorrhoidal case history after another proctologist "very satisfying improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Quebec Serviceman Picks Off Canada's First Bisley Trophy

BISLEY, England (CP) — A Quebec serviceman picked off Canada's first trophy as about 1,500 Commonwealth marksmen began shooting Monday in the annual National Rifle Association meet.

Battling tricky winds and changing light, Sgt. Jacques Dugas of Neuhatel, Que., scored a perfect 50 with 10 shots at 200 yards from the sitting position to take a challenge trophy and a £5 prize.

Four competitors chalked up 49, including Cpl. J. A. M. Bienvenu of Quebec City, in a shoot-off, Bienvenu placed fifth.

Dugas, 30, and Bienvenu, 36, are members of the 3rd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, which has supplied 11 of the 14 members of this year's Canadian armed forces team.

Results in most of the events will not be known until today or perhaps later. The Bisley system of tabulating scores is notoriously slow.

The Dominion of Canada Rifle Association team will not go into serious action until Friday.

Capt. T. D. DePayne, who was high Canadian in the first event of the meet, described Bisley's Monday wind as "just plain hell."

"It was gusting up to 20 miles an hour and making it real tough, particularly in the sitting competition, where the shooters are off-balance anyway," he said.

DePayne, a member of the 1st Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, was the only serviceman from Canada to reach the top 10 in the Bisley Bullet event, DePayne was one of six who were next-best at 33 but he was handicapped to seventh place because he rates as an expert while the others are in lower classes.

DeFaye, a member of the 1st Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, was the only serviceman from Canada to reach the top 10 in the Bisley Bullet event, DePayne was one of six who were next-best at 33 but he was handicapped to seventh place because he rates as an expert while the others are in lower classes.

In the seven-shot event at 200 yards, Sgt. C. W. Fordham of the RAF shot the possible 35.

Servicemen on Target

BISLEY, England (CP) — Canadian armed forces marksmen were putting together a strong array of points today as results were announced from Monday's first-day shooting at the Commonwealth rifle meet.

Scores in the opening events are all totalled for the service rifle championship, to be decided late Wednesday, as well as counting in the individual events.

Four of the Canadians landed in the top 10 of the Secretary of State rapid-firing competition—10 rounds at 500 yards in 30 seconds—won by a British corporal with 45 out of a possible 50.

British - born Capt. Tom DeFaye of the 1st Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment; Cpl. Carol Potvin of Courcelette, Que., and Cpl. Laval Mercier of Neufchatel, Que., members of the 3rd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, all had 44. On the "counting-out" system, they were given fifth, sixth and seventh places, respectively. Cpl. Lucien Delarosbil of Quebec City, another Van Doo, was 10th with 42.

Nicklaus Co-favorite

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (AP) — Two leading American professional golfers today penciled the 1969 British open golf championship will go to the man who gets away with blind shots.

"There are a lot of blind shots on this course," Miller Barber said. "I don't like them, but you must play the course you are on."

Gardner Dickinson agreed with Barber as he quoted Ben Hogan.

"Ben said once, 'just give me the assignment, whatever the course, and I'll try to meet it, but I've got to be able to see it,'" Dickinson said.

A couple of holdovers on several important holes at Lytham's 6,845-yard, par 71 course would eliminate the "blind" shots, Barber said.

Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Bill Casper share 6-to-1 favorite positions.

Al Balding of Toronto Monday labled tournament officials that he would not be able to compete from Monday's tournament which starts Wednesday due to personal problems.

Plane's Preserve Second

Darkness intervened Monday night and interrupted the battle for second place in the South Hastings Baseball League with Plane's Concrete and Read deadlocked at 1-1 after nine innings of play.

The tie preserved second place Plane's one point lead over third place Read club and moved Plane's within four points of league-leading Shannonville.

Ted Abrams for Plane's and Frank Farrell for Read went all the way in the 10th contest. Abrams scattered seven hits, fanned an even dozen and issued one free pass. Farrell gave up eight hits, struck out seven and didn't walk a man.

SOUTH HASTINGS BASEBALL LEAGUE

Plane's Con.	8	3	1	17
Read	8	3	1	17

Reserve	1	14	0	2

Pat O'Connor topped Plane's at the plate with three base hits. Bob Luffman contributed a pair of singles to Plane's attack and Larry Adams, Warren Hay and John Tweedy each collected singles.

Pete Enright, Ed Laizer, Carm Milligan, Gerry Brennan, Harold Pascoe, Steve White and Farrell all hit safely for Read.

Sports Briefs

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats leave for Western Canada tonight with 45 players ready for two exhibition games. The Canadian Football League club, third in the Eastern Conference last season after winning the 1967 Grey Cup title, plays the Eskimos in Edmonton Wednesday and Saskatchewan Roughriders Friday at Regina. Joe Restic, starting his second year as Tiger-Cats' head coach, said Monday the two games will determine his starting lineup for the 1969 regular schedule. "Right now, I can say honestly I don't know what it is. We're set in only three positions, two defensive tackles and at safety."

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, JULY 8, 1969

The day started a bit flat for Ontario Housing Corporation's mobile exhibit going on show for first time in Belleville today. Cause of problem was flat tire on kingsize (73-foot) trailer housing display parked on Market Square.

Ontario Housing Corporation HOME display is a mobile information centre. Big trailer gets message of provincial government Home Ownership Made Easy scheme to public in various ways — including model being readied by information officer Randy Fyffe.

HOME Is Where Your Heart Is Claims Province of Ontario

By HARRY MULHALL
(Staff Reporter)

The Ontario Housing Corporation's mobile information show went flat in Belleville this morning — but not with the citizenry.

The problem had no connection with the appeal of the unique exhibit — geared to draw good crowds here. In fact, it was readily rectified.

All that was needed was a new tire — to replace one found flat and damaged when the exhibit's long, long trailer rolled onto Market Square.

Otherwise, the opening went without a hitch.

Belleville is one of two Quinte stopovers for the display — the second will be in Picton tomorrow — and is part of a province-wide swing that may take the trailer and its two-man team of OHC information officers 3,400 miles before the summer ends.

Key to the show is the trailer housing it. And Bellevillians will be taking a second look at the 73-foot long vehicle, for more reasons than its size.

It's not the first time it's been to Belleville. The trailer is the same, only the identification has changed.

The vehicle was a unit of the Centennial Caravans sent cross-country by the federal government in 1967 with displays of Canadiana marking the nation's 100th birthday.

The colorful caravan was later dispersed, its components purchased by various sources — including the OHC.

Under the corporation's big blue and white HOME (for Home Ownership Made Easy) emblem of OHC, the trailer has been on the road since last year.

Its function is to explain all aspects of the HOME plan to Ontario residents, using model displays, pamphlets and the personal approach.

This last is represented by Randy Fyffe and Dick Noland, OHC team travelling with the mobile information centre.

Response has been good, say the information officers.

As with any exhibit there are always the spectators who "just pass through," says Randy Fyffe.

But generally, "a good percentage' show positive interest in the HOME scheme and want further details.

The HOME scheme — aimed at easing current housing demands — has seven programs, largest of which aims at housing for lower - income families on a rent - geared - to - income basis.

Other programs include senior citizens housing — one area where Belleville already has been touched by the scheme — and student accommodation.

At the end of June OHC had more than 22,000 family and 2,200 senior-citizen housing units under administration.

Another 13,300 family and nearly 7,000 senior-citizen units were in various stages of planning and development.

The mobile information centre will remain in Belleville — open to the public — until about 8 p.m.

Lights to Ease City Streets Congestion

Traffic congestion at two city intersections will be eased by installation of traffic lights before the end of the year.

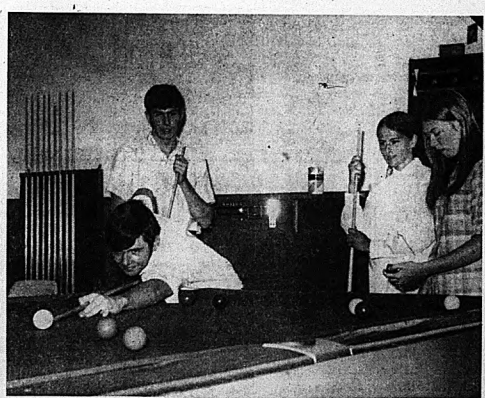
Ald. Art Keegan, chairman of the city's traffic and light committee announced following a meeting at city hall Monday that tenders will be called in August for stop lights at the intersections of Cannifton Road and College St. and at Church St. and Victoria Ave.

Each set of lights will cost about $7,000.

Ald. Keegan said this morning the lights at Cannifton Road and College St. should untangle traffic snarles that sometimes extend back as far as the liquor store on Station St.

"Eventually a grade separation will have to be installed to the east of Cannifton Road to carry traffic over the CN tracks," he said. "Trains will soon be going through there at such a speed that a serious hazard will exist."

The alderman expressed concern at the increase in accidents at the corner of Church St. and Victoria Ave. He gave this as the reason for the installation of lights at the intersection.



Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said this morning four serious accidents had already occurred at the intersection in the first six months of this year, compared with eight accidents for all of 1968.

The stop lights at the corner of Church and Victoria will be synchronized with the lights on Victoria and Pinnacle and Front streets to further speed traffic.

The traffic and light committee is considering future installation of stop lights at the entrance to Belleville General Hospital, at Sidney and College streets and on Dundas St. West at the new highway to Picton.

"Dundas Street will have to be redesigned in 1971," Ald. Keegan said. "When the new Moira River bridge at the foot of Dundas East is completed, street widening will be necessary to hook up the wide bridge with the four-lane highway beginning at the fire hall on Dundas East. Otherwise, a bad traffic bottle-neck will occur."

"The traffic patterns in the city are changing rapidly, with the construction of bridges and railway overpasses," he concluded.

'Co-educational Pool'

When the summer sun hit the streets of Belleville this week, some students took retreat in a local billiard room, especially since it was air-conditioned. This particular hall advocates "co-educational pool," so much so that even the name of the establishment is that of a member of the fairer sex. Under the watchful eyes of his opponents, Paul Truaisch attempts a shot at "Mary's Billiards."

City, County Investigating New Museum

"We have the basis for a tremendous museum and art gallery, an outstanding exhibit," commented Enos David, chairman of the museum committee, which has special responsibilities regarding the Salaman estate and the Couldery collection.

The Couldery art collection was bequeathed to the city of Belleville in 1953 by Anna Salaman, adopted daughter of the couple.

A sum of money close to $100,000, was also left to the city to cover the cost of housing the collection.

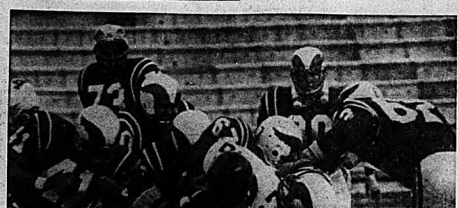
That money is now available and a joint committee of Belleville city council and Hastings County council has been set up to look into the possibilities of building the new museum.

"We are waiting on preliminary sketches from the supervisor of museums. Following that, we will know the approximate cost of the building and will be able to decide how the cost will be split between us," added Alderman David.

According to Alderman David, the majority of the six man committee favors the Orr house property on highway 37, opposite Riverside park, as a site for the museum. Although this is speculation, the site does afford an "ideal spot for tourists", as well as a site accessible for both the city and the county.

The committee includes Mayor J. Russell Scott, Alderman Paul Russell, Warden D. Rodgers, Burton Morton, reeve of Rawdon township and Carl Bateman, clerk-administrator of Hastings County council.

Rabid Dog Bites Bancroft Woman



An attack by a rabid dog on a Bancroft woman yesterday has spurred a warning from Hastings and Prince Edward health officer Dr. C. R. Lenk.

The woman was badly bitten and is now undergoing the painful 14-day anti-rabies treatment.

The dog, confirmed as rabid, was a stray, and destroyed says the health officer.

Rabies are on the increase in Hastings County and owners should exercise extreme care in keeping household pets confined, Dr. Lenk warned.

Mrs. Streit Fires Lone Sub-par Round

TORONTO (CP) — Marlene Stewart Streit virtually turned play at the Ontario women's amateur golf championship into a one-woman show Monday as she fired a two-under-par 72 for a six-stroke lead after the first round in the 54-hole tournament.

The Fonthill, Ont., golfer, seeking her sixth Ontario title, was one-under-par 35 for the first nine holes and then did the back nine in 37, one under par.

Mrs. Streit, the defending champion, was relaxed after finishing the first round at the Credit Valley Golf and Country Club course at nearby Mississauga.

But the short and tricky course provided trouble for the other 145 competitors, including Gayle Hitchens Borthwick of Cooksville, Ont., a former Canadian champion.

Mrs. Borthwick, playing her home course, fired a four-over-par 78, second-best during the day's competition. Mrs. D. J. Rosart of Burlington, Ont., was third with 79.

Disaster struck Mrs. Borthwick on the 13th hole when she had a two-over-par to fall four strokes behind Mrs. Streit. Mrs. Borthwick had another two-over-par on the 18th.

Mrs. Streit only faced trouble on the 186-yard, par-three 16th hole after she got a trap. She shot a one-over par.

Jean Kirkpatrick of Toronto, Mrs. R. C. Hill of Queenston, Ont., and Pam Miller of Oshawa were tied for fourth place with 80 going into today's second round. Liz Ferrier of Cooksville was seventh with 81.

Betty Ingram topped the list of Quinte area golfers with an 11-over-par 85, good for a seventh place tie.

Three other competitors representing the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club were not as fortunate as Mrs. Ingram.

Anne Acton carded a 93, Ken Corke a 97 and Betty Walmsley a 107 in the tournament's first round Monday.

Lawyer's Error Beneficial to Clay

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A $450,000 damage suit filed against former heavyweight champion Cassius Clay was dismissed Monday because of a technical error.

District Judge William Blanton Jr. dismissed the suit because the complainant, Hayden C. Covington of New York City, a former lawyer for Clay, had not paid the court filing fee.

Covington was the chief defence counsel in 1967 when Clay was convicted in federal court in Houston on a charge of refusing to be inducted into the United States armed forces. Clay received a maximum five-year prison sentence and a $10,000 fine. The case is on appeal.

Covington's suit sought $200,000 in lawyer's fees and $250,000 in damages.

MONTREAL (CP) — Norman Lowe of Calgary leads the field going into the sixth day of the 11-day 1,000-mile Tour de la Nouvelle France bicycle race. Lowe has toured the course in an elapsed time of 22 hours, five minutes and 43 seconds. Gilo Cadorin of Guelph holds second spot with a time of 22:06.13, followed by Stanley Swain of Boston in 22:07.01. In the closed circuit race through the streets of this Saguenay Valley community Monday night, Horst Stuewe of Toronto was the winner in 49 minutes, four seconds.

BOSTON (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard reported Monday night that the second-day leaders in the annual Marblehead-to-Halifax ocean race are Jubilee III, Geronimo, Tala and Tantara. The leaders were reported 60-70 miles southeast of Cape Sable, about halfway to the finish in the 360-mile race. The fleet of 150 boats left Marblehead Sunday under ideal conditions. The coast guard said the leading yachts are expected to cross the finish line late today or early Wednesday.

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (CP-AP) — Bob Matheson, 27, a member of the Canadian diplomatic corps, won the handicap prize Monday in the Tanzanian amateur golf championship. He shot a 268 and he didn't benefit a bit from that eagle on the 14th hole of the final round. The eagle — this one had wings — swooped down and seized Matheson's ball, dropped it into a bunker 50 yards away. Officials ruled he could replace it on the fairway.

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — The National Hockey League has given Canadian senior clubs $20,000 to compensate for the NHL's draft of amateur players, a Quebec hockey official said Monday. Henry Crochetiere, president of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, said $8,000 was given to three teams in the QSHL. The NHL draft was held in Montreal June 9-12.

NEW YORK (CP) — New York Rangers Monday announced the signing of defenceman Andre Dupont of Montreal, their first selection in the National Hockey League's amateur draft. Dupont, 20, starred for Montreal Junior Canadiens, who won the Memorial Cup last season. He was signed to a one-year professional contract.

Canada Loses Bid For Open World Hockey Tourney

CRANS-SUR-SIERRE, Switzerland (CP) — Douglas Fisher of Ottawa says he is "stazzered by the intrigue, double-dealing and paradoxical compromises which appear to be the pattern of the International Ice Hockey Federation's makeup."

Fisher was commenting Monday after watching the unfolding drama that eventually cost Canada its bid for open world hockey competition by a 30-to-20 vote of delegates attending the IIHF annual meeting.

Fisher, a government-appointed member of Hockey Canada which operates the country's national team, said there is good reason to believe that the conference will make some concessions such as allowing Canada six or nine professional players for the 1970 world tournament.

"But we are sticking to the principle that open competition is the only fair treatment," Fisher said.

The meetings began Monday with a proposal from Czechoslovakia and Sweden to increase the number of players on a country's team for the world tournament to 29 from 18. Fisher asked if this proposal would apply to the 1970 tournament.

Barney Ahearne, IIHF European president, glared at Fisher and said: "That is a very dangerous question." While Fisher's face dropped with disbelief, a member of the IIHF executive council said it was a legitimate question.

Ahearne then answered that a precedent had been established during Saturday's open session and that all proposals and amendments made at this meeting applied only to 1971 and thereafter.

Fred Page of Vancouver, a member of the IIHF executive council, said he was not aware of any precedent being set Saturday and this was not normal parliamentary procedure.

Ahearne replied the IIHF meetings were not run according to parliamentary procedure "because we would be here a month."

Canada had two proposals before the meeting; the question of open competition, and that of professional players to amateur status be advanced from Aug. 30 of the previous year to Feb. 10 of the same year. Ahearne introduced discussion on the chance of reinstatement date first. The delegates voted 39 to 20 in favor of changing.

Outwardly, it appeared that Canada had won its bid for open competition.

But during the luncheon break, Ahearne said this would apply only to the 1971 tournament and thereafter because of the Saturday precedent. Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, told the Canadian delegation they could not use NHL players.

"Rules say that a professional can't be reinstated to amateur unless he has been out of hockey for 12 months," Campbell said.

The delegates then introduced a proposal for an open tournament that would have allowed any Canadian pro to play for his country, regardless of his amateur or professional status.

More discussion followed with Rudy Ekloew of Sweden telling the delegates there was little difference between amateur and professional.

"The European amateurs are paid under the table and make more than the North American professionals," Ekloew said.

Ireland asked if his country would be eligible for the 1972 Olympics if it participated in an open tournament. Ahearne expressed an opinion that many observers felt cost Canada the support it needed.

"It is my personal opinion," Ahearne said, "that players taking part in an open tournament would not be eligible for Olympic competition thereafter."

HERE IT COMES BATTER — Wings' pitcher Timmy Soule starts his downward swing prior to releasing the ball during the Wings' 33-5 win over the Leafs in West Hill Tyke minor softball league action Monday night at King George Sch ool. Big Men Turn Trick for Senators

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington Senators trounced Cleveland Indians 7-2 Monday for their 10th win in 13 games, but it took a couple of big men to turn the trick.

Casey Cox, a 6-foot-5 right-hander, came into the game in the third inning with the bases loaded and one out and retired 20 men in a row; and Frank Howard, 6-foot-7 outfielder, clouted two home runs as the Senators took their 13th win in 19 games.

One of Howard's homers landed in the upper centre field deck of Robert P. Kennedy Stadium, an estimated 485 feet from the plate.

Elsewhere in the American League, Chicago White Sox blanked sagging Oakland Athletics 2-0 on Gary Peters' two hitter, Minnesota Twins edged Kansas City Royals 6-5, Boston Red Sox whipped Detroit Tigers 7-2 and California Angels stopped Seattle Pilots 5-1.

Cox, 28, had been bouncing back and forth between the minors and the Senators since 1966 before this season. During that span, he managed to get into 134 games—all in relief—in the majors, but had only a mediocre 11-10 record and a 3.25 ERA.

But this year he is one of the reasons the Senators are three games ahead of .500 with a 45-42 record—their highest showing this late in the season in nearly a decade.

Monday night's victory was Cox' sixth in seven decisions, and the 6 2-3 innings of blank work lowered his ERA to a sparkling 1.88.

Cox, who stopped the Indians last week in his only route-going start in the majors, has yielded 18 earned runs in 86 innings, appearing in 37 games.

He came in after the Indians loaded the bases with one out against starter Jim Schellenback in the third. Cox got Tony Horton to hit into a force at the plate before Ed Brinkman made a great play on Ken Harrelson's grounder in the hole to force Horton at second.

Howard smashed a two-run homer in the third against the scoreboard in right, then reached dead centre with a bases-empty shot in the seventh, his 32nd of the season.

Mike Epstein also had a two-run homer for the Senators, his 20th, marking the seventh time this season that both Howard and Epstein have homered in the same game.

Harrelson's second inning homer, his 12th, staked the Indians to an early 2-0 lead before Cox went to work.

Peters struck out nine and picked up his first victory since June 18 as the White Sox handed Oakland its fourth straight loss.

Braves Lengthen Lead As Stone Mows Down Dodgers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southpaw George Stone pitched five perfect innings and finished with a three-hitter Monday night as Atlanta Braves, National League Western Division leaders, whipped the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2 in the opener of a four-game series.

"He pitched like you have to be a winner," said Dodgers manager Walter Alston, whose injury-riddled club has lost five of its last six starts to fall 1½ games off the Braves' pace.

Cincinnati Reds rallied for three runs in the seventh inning, the last two on Tony Perez' triple, and topped San Diego Padres 5-3 in the only other NL night game, moving past San Francisco Giants into third place in the Western Division.

The Giants bowed to Houston Astros 8-2 in a day game as Don Wilson scattered six hits and struck out 14, slipping one-half game behind Cincinnati and five back of the Braves.

The St. Louis-Philadelphia and Montreal-Pittsburgh games were rained out.

Stone, a former reliever who has nailed a key spot in Atlanta's starting rotation, breezed to his ninth victory against two losses, retiring 23 of the first 24 batters he faced while the Braves surged to a 5-0 lead.

Jim Lefebvre, who ruined Stone's no-hit bid with a leadoff single in the sixth, poled his first homer of the year with two out in the eighth. Bill Russell singled with two out in the ninth for the third Los Angeles hit.

By the time the Dodgers finally connected, the Braves were out of reach. They nicked loser Alan Foster for a second inning run, took a 3-0 lead on Hank Aaron's 22nd homer in the third and added two more runs in the fifth on Felix Millan's bases-loaded single.

Builders Blank Corby's - - - Grab Share of First

Defending Commercial Softball League champion Stinson's Construction moved into a tie for first place with City Hotel Monday night by blanking Corby's Distillery 8-0 behind Bob Swan's five-hit pitching.

Meanwhile Belvedere Hotel moved into a three-way tie for fifth place in the seven team Commercial League by downing Black Diamond Cheesemen 4-1 in the night-cap of Monday-night's doubleheader at Alemite ball park.

Swan was in command all the way in Stinson's romp over Corby's, and snapped the Distillers three-game winning streak. Swan never slowed more than one hit in any inning and permitted only one man — Bob Wannamaker in the fifth inning — to reach third base.

Swan fanned three and walked three while first baseman Paul Stinson provided all the support he needed with a pair of round trippers as the Builders banged ten hits off two Corby hurlers, starter Garnet Collet and reliever Sonny Grey.

Stinson slammed a solo homer in third inning for the Builders' first run and added a three-run shot in Stinson's fifth inning rally.

Centrefielder Rick Locke and second sacker Ron Fuller collected a pair of singles apiece for the winners, while Neil Campbell cracked a double and Larry Soule, Jim Soplet and Swan added singles for the Builders, who now have won ten games and lost only five.

Chuck Rowbotham with a double and single, Bob Wannamaker with a pair of safeties and Carl Boomhower with a single hit safely for Corby's who are now tied with Belvedere Hotel and Black Diamond Cheesemen for fifth place.

BELVEDERE 4
BLACK DIAMOND 1

Belvedere's battery of pitcher Wayne McConnell and catcher Bob Smith combined to throttle Black Diamond in the second game of the doubleheader.

McConnell scattered seven hits, fanned eight and issued only one walk while backstop Smith provided all the runs McConnell needed.

Smith stroked a run scoring single in the opening frame and capped Belvedere's winning three-run third-inning rally with a two-run circuit clout.

Starter Sonny Holoway was the victim in Black Diamond's defeat, allowing all four Belvedere runs before giving way to Don Holoway in the bottom of the third inning. Sonny Holoway gave up all six Belvedere hits while fanning three and walking one. Don Holoway didn't give up a hit, fanned three and issued one free pass.

Lyle Warmuzker slammed a triple, Larry Burley had a double and Cliff Hineman and Gary Gow singles for the winners in addition to Smith's two timely hits.

Don Holoway topped the Cheesemen at the plate with a solo homer and a single, Bill Goodfellow collected a pair of safeties while Dwight Hallwell, Gene Francis and Jerry Hill also hit safely for the Cheesemen.

Combines Two Points Shy

Monday night saw two games played in the Departmental Softball League.

At Prince Charles field Monday night the CNR Combines came within two points of first place with their 7-0 win over Union Carbide.

Larry Marshall went the distance for the Combines allowing only five hits. Bill Barberstock and Ray Lucas split the pitching duties for Union Carbide allowing five hits and twelve walks.

At the plate Brian Reynolds hit two singles while Ray Lucas, Tom Boyle and Terry Hedges managed lone singles for Union Carbide.

For the Combines Bardy hammered out a homer and a triple to lead his team to the victory.

In a second game played at the CNR field International Hardware proved to be too much for the Post Office, trouncing the Posties 12-6.

Ken Osbourne handled the pitching for the winners. He gave up eight hits and six runs. The Post Office tried three hurlers, George Johnson, Jack Cullen and Roy Wainwright. All had terms on the mound but none had too much success with the IHRC hitters.

John Bohan, Harry Reid and Gord St. Louis had two hits apiece for the Post Office while Bill Angove hit a homer and Tom Cox two hits for the victors.

Lacrosse Club Splits With Picton

In two weekend games in the Quinte District Lacrosse League Belleville and Picton split a pair of games with each team losing their home game.

In the game played on Sunday in Picton Al Partington scored three for Belleville with Mike Allore and Ron MacIntosh netting singles. Picton's markers were scored by Glynn Jones and David Jones which left the score at 5-2 for the visitors.

Monday's game saw a complete about-face. Playing without the services of Al Partington Picton held Belleville scoreless until late in the last period when Steve Casselman broke the shutout.

For Picton, Glynn Jones scored three and Craig Fredericks two, with singles going to Bob Clapp, Jerry Ryan, Dave Jones, and Andy Terwilleger. leaving Belleville trounced 10-1.

DO KIDS LIKE ICE CREAM?

The answer, of course, is a resounding "yes" to both questions!

Kids have been eating and enjoying Ice cream down to the last "lick" ever since it was invented.

And Want Ads have been "working" — producing results for both buyer and seller even longer than Ice cream has been in existence. If you haven't used the Want Ads, you're missing one of the real treats in life.

And it's so easy, all you have to do is dial 962-9171, to place a low-cost, fast-acting Want Ad.

Ask for classified.

NOTICE

SERVES AS MAYOR
FREDERICTON (CP) — Chief Harold Sappier of nearby St. Mary's reserve took over as mayor of the city for three days during the recent Fiddlehead Festival as sponsored by the Micmac Indian band. Mayor William T. Walker handed over his chain of office during the festival.

And so go the self-accusations. They come in varied forms. But the common denominator is the feeling, "I let him (or her) down." S o m e times this feeling is enough for suffering from guilt feelings; but quite often those who bear these burdens are guiltless.

For example, parents will blame themselves for letting a son take the car and get into a fatal accident.

Children will blame themselves for being "bad children" when a parent suddenly succumbs to an illness.

A wife will say she was not a "good" wife; a husband will condemn his way of l i f e, as reason for the death of his wife.

In many such cases, however, such self-guilt is without reason; People always f e e l they could have done much more to help. Occasionally so; not always.

If there's any moral to this at all, it is this: Iry not to do anything now (or leave anything undone) that will "bug" you for the rest of your life. That goes for children and parents alike.

* * *

For Mr. B.: I am sorry, but you cannot get me to say that it is all right to switch f r o m smoking cigarettes to cigars and pipe.

I just don't happen to be one of those (as some do in the medical profession) w h o entirely absolve cigars and pipe-smoking from any potential harm.

It may be true that cigars and pipe do not cause as much lung cancer and heart disease as cigarettes. (The usual reason presented is that smokers do not inhale cigar and pipe-not always true smoke.) But I disagree that such smoking is blameless.

As a former cigarette-, pipe-, and cigar-smoker, I found that I inhaled pipe and cigar smoke. Some say the real trouble lies in the cigarette paper. Perhaps. Nevertheless, Mr. B., if you are thinking of quitting cigarettes, why not stop smoking entirely?

I'll debate any doctor w h o says there's a "guarantee" that pipe or cigar smoking won't hurt anyone because such smokers don't inhale. Even in those who don't inhale, Mr. B., you can be sure that a good bit of smoke is absorbed into the system. End of lecture.

* * *

For Mrs. L.: Undoubtedly you may have missed several previous columns on the subject. Smoking pipes is not dangerous — although I will admit it is a formidable-sounding medical excuse.

It simply means that there are outpourings in the intestines which are sometimes benign, in whom they are not discovered until X-rays have been taken for some other diagnostic reason.

No treatment is necessary. No reason for cutting down on roughage in the diet.

However (in rare cases) if such an outpouching becomes inflamed, it is called diverticulitis. This may require special treatment (and occasionally surgery) to correct such symptoms as fever, gas and abdominal cramps, pain bleeding — and any others produced by diverticulitis.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF
By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Guilt Feelings Are Smog Which Blots Out Happiness

Like smog that obscures the sun, guilt feelings pull a dirty curtain over what might otherwise be a happy outlook on life.

Across my desk sits a young wife who says, "I blame myself. I let him work at t w o jobs for me so I could have the clothes I wanted and all the fancy furniture in the house. He wouldn't have died of a bleeding ulcer if I hadn't let him overwork. I'll never forgive myself."

Here sits a man who says, "She died of a stroke. For months she had been complaining of severe headaches. I wouldn't let her go to a doctor, and called her a hypochondriac. Not till near the end did I know that she had a blood pressure close to 250. How can I ever live with myself from now on?"

Goon Squads Active

Quiet Quebec County Scene Of Tough, Dirty Labor War

BROME, Que., (CP)—Brome County hardly looks like the setting for no-holds-barred union violence.

In winter it is a leading ski centre in Quebec's Eastern Townships. In summer, it is miles of rolling countryside with picture-postcard farms, like Knowlton, Sweetsburg and Sutton.

Its 16,000 inhabitants identify proudly with their rural customs and unhurried way of life.

But words like violence, fear and shooting now are on the lips of nearly everyone in the area 60 miles southeast of Montreal.

For a month, goon squads have roamed the area, terrorizing the population in an effort to force local contractors and workers to join the union line in a labor dispute whose focal point is in Quebec City, 150 miles away.

The strike, which began there June 12, has since spread to other parts of the province with about 11,000 construction workers, affiliated with the Confederation of National Trade Unions, off their jobs and millions of dollars worth of construction projects at a standstill.

"People down here don't scare easy and we don't intend to," said Glen Brown, Liberal member of the national assembly for Brome, who has been a leading figure in organizing local resistance to the violence. But while the residents of Brome are not exactly running scared, they are not taking any chances.

Tools and equipment belonging to contractors have been destroyed by the goon squads. Barns under repair have been ripped down. People working on their own property have been threatened over the telephone and a woman painting her house was knocked off her ladder and broke her arm.

Peter Penrose, who operates a cement supplying business, had one of his trucks turned back a county ago by men armed with chains and baseball bats.

Now one of his men drives the truck and Mr. Persons sits beside him with a loaded shotgun.

"Sure business has dropped off," he said. "There's been almost nothing going on the last few weeks. People are scared."

Another man whose barn was wrecked said: "Let's just not say anything right now and see how it turns out."

But while the goons seemed to be getting the upper hand in their reign of terror for the first few weeks, some of the local people now are guarding their projects with shotguns in open defiance of the hoodlums.

Police protection has also increased. Before the trouble started, 12 to 18 policemen patrolled both Brome and its neighbor, Missisquoi County.

Now there are 54 provincial policemen on patrol. They are watching projects where people have gone back to work and searching suspicious cars.

Since the police have moved into the area, the number of incidents has dropped to almost nothing, but there are still the telephone threats.

Don Mason, 19, sits outside his mother's restaurant which is being renovated. He sits there all day and sometimes at night with a loaded double-barrelled shotgun across his knees.

"I don't like it much," he said, "but they're always around and the two minutes they're gone, that's when they'll come.

"They usually come in about five carloads and pull in at 60 miles an hour. Before you know it they're out of the cars and over the hoods with their baseball bats and swinging their chains ....

"If any of them showed up here I'd tell them to get off my property and if they didn't I'd let em have it, mister—with both barrels.

"If there's 40 of them, it's no use just firing up in the air to try scaring them off."

Arthur Beattie, 65, works as a carpenter of the restaurant. He feels people should stand for their rights, but before he went back to work at one project he insisted on the shotgun insurance.

"We've got to protect our own property or else they'll take over the whole place," he said. "The shotgun is just part of the way we protect ourselves these days."

The labor situation in Brome is less systematic than in the province's metropolitan areas with their rigorously organized labor unions.

Here, a lot of people do their own work on their property, or they hire someone because he is a friend or a relative. One man may carry cards for several trades and a lot of the work is done on weekends when people with summer places in the county want something done on their property.

"There aren't too many union workers here," said Mr. Brown. "People like to work in their own area and do what they like.

"The unions don't like to see a county of this type free of their influence. That's why, the first time they've tried to intimidate us, but it's been the roughest.

"The lack of organization here is like a kick in the pants for them, but you can't apply city rules in a rural area like this."

Appeals to the Quebec government have resulted in more police protection and the area's residents and workers are more secure despite the fact that they still feel the need to carry guns.

To date, at least 25 persons have been either attacked or intimidated and an estimated $30,000 in damage has been caused by the goon squads.

'Grandma' Grabs Shotgun

GILMAN'S CORNER, Que. (CP) — It's a grim business when people have to carry guns to protect themselves and their property.

But that's what has happened in Brome County in Quebec's picturesque Eastern Townships.

Local residents are determined to resist intimidation and violence and even have their own Annie Oakley heroine. But she's no Canadian version of the gun-blazing Wild West version.

Mrs. Margaret Gratton, 59, looks like everybody's favorite image of grandmother.

When goon squads started making headway in a reign of terror aimed at stopping work on construction projects in Brome County, they met Mrs. Gratton who put her foot down and picked up her shotgun.

The area has been hit by strikes by construction workers belonging to the Confederation of National Trade Unions.

A month ago 40 men with chains and bats drove workers from Mrs. Gratton's door, which was locked in a barged. Two weeks later, while neighbors around her stopped work on their projects, Mrs. Gratton declared: "We'll take the ball by the horns and go back to work.

"I called up my cousin who's a carpenter and asked him and his men to come to work. And they said they would if we covered them with shotguns.

"Well they've come back and we've covered them."

For three nights, before provincial police moved into the area, she sat in the diner with her son, a Great Dane and two shotguns, ready to ward off any intruders.

Although she has yet to shoot anything, Mrs. Gratton says she means business.

"I haven't shot anything since we used to hunt squirrels when I was a little girl, but I can still shoot a skunk if I have to."

Bell Urged by Professor To Issue Preferred Shares

OTTAWA (CP) — Prof. Eric Hanson of the University of Alberta said Monday Bell Canada should begin issuing about $100,000,000 in preferred shares annually for four years to help finance its capital needs.

But he told the Canadian transport commission, hearing Bell's application for a telephone rate increase, that he could offer no assurance that either the Canadian or world markets would absorb such an issue.

Prof. Hanson, an Edmonton economist, was testifying for the Ontario government, one of the bodies opposing the application.

He said the company should aim at having about 10 per cent of total capital held in the form of preferred shares. In four years, total capital of Bell would be about $4,000,000,000 and this would call for $400,000,000 in preferred shares he said.

Bell should maintain its common stock at about 50 per cent of total capital but make no further sales of bonds.

Replying to questions by John Weir of Toronto, counsel for Bell, Prof. Hanson said the company might be able to sell preferred shares on the U.S. market more cheaply than in Canada.

In any case, the sale of stock was a far cheaper method of financing under present market conditions than the sale of bonds on which Bell had relied heavily in the past.

Ignorance Bar to Safety

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One reason we don't know how to mount an effective campaign against auto fatalities is our ignorance of the components that go into the making of a crash.

We know that the driver is at fault far more often than the car, but we have yet no way of learning if his fault is mostly physical, mental, or emotional. No doubt, it is a combination of all these.

It is easy to see that persons who are physically defective — in their perceptions and reflexes — pose a real threat to safety on the road. It is equally obvious that persons who are emotionally disturbed often use their cars as instruments of aggression or self-destruction. But, apart from these, one wonders how many persons are essentially aware of the perils involved on the road.

Suppose we asked the average driver this question: "If your car traveling at 30 miles an hour hit a brick wall with a certain force, with how much more force will it hit that wall if the car is travelling at 60 miles an hour?"

It would be a substantial amount that more than half "Twice as much force," when the right answer is, of course, four times as much force.

When the velocity of an object is doubled, the impact of the force is squared — as any seventh grade math student will tell you. But I doubt that the average motorist keeps this alarming theorem tucked away on top of the dashboard, or even knows it to be the case.

Again, suppose we asked the question: "If your car is traveling at the moderate rate of 30 miles an hour, and you crash head-on into another car traveling at the moderate rate of 30 miles an hour, what would be the equivalent force of impact?"

It would be the equivalent of taking your car in the toy of a 10-storey building, pointing it nose downward, and dropping it to the pavement below. As simple, brutal, and final as that. The next time you are tooling along at an easy 30 mph, try to keep that picture in mind and you won't feel nearly as safe as you do now.

Most accidents, in my view, are because of emotional perturbation, either active or passive. But the emotional carelessness is reinforced by a shocking lack of knowledge of the true dynamics of velocity and impact. The vast majority of motorists imagine that a moderate rate of speed protects them far more than it actually does. In the past, we have tried to scare the driver into safety; perhaps now we ought to begin teaching him the arithmetic of moving death.

Cigarette Smoking 'Epidemic'

TORONTO (CP) — Cigarette smoking among Canadian school children has reached "epidemic" proportions, the Canadian Home and School Parent-Teacher Federation was told Monday.

A report to the federation's annual meeting from a committee set up to combat cigarette smoking by school children said that 300 to 400 Canadian youngsters start smoking each day.

"The younger they start, the greater the danger of lung cancer, heart disease, chronic bronchitis and emphysema," the report said.

Languages Bill Wins Approval in Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — A government bill to make French and English the official languages of the federal administration and to create bilingual districts across Canada gained final Commons approval Monday.

Fewer than half the 264 MPs were in their seats as the bill was given third reading on a voice vote. No one voiced opposition to the proposed legislation, a contrast to last month when 17 Conservative MPs broke from party policy and rejected the bill in a stand-up vote on second reading.

The same fate ended a brief debate Thursday on an amendment by Jack McIntosh (PC—Swift Current-Maple Creek) that no further action be taken on the bill until the Supreme Court of Canada decides whether it is constitutional.

Only Robert C. Coates (PC—Cumberland-Colchester North) spoke in favor of Mr. McIntosh's amendment.

Conservative House Leader Gerald W. Baldwin said it was an amendment the Conservatives could not support.

Less than an hour after it was proposed, the amendment was defeated, also on a voice vote.

The languages bill now goes to the Senate, which sits today, for its approval.

In Commons debate, the government steadfastly rejected all opposition amendments to the bill. But to quiet fears expressed in Western Canada, the government itself proposed a number of changes which were accepted by a Commons committee which gave the bill clause-by-clause study.

Closure Possible

Bitter Debate on Rule Changes Looms

OTTAWA (CP) If the government's proposed rule changes clear the procedural hurdles and get debated, there are growing indications that the arguments will be loud and long.

MPs have stopped talking about a summer recess.

Observers noticed Monday that the atmosphere of the Commons had hardened somewhat; the opposition stance had toughened, and some Liberal MPs were snapping back with equal firmness.

So far it's nothing like the chill of the flag debate, and certainly not like the emotional anger of the pipeline debate, but the apparent goodwill that ushered in this session of Parliament is clearly dissipating.

As the House argued its way through two different procedural motions Monday night—both designed to block the government's motion on rule changes —the desk thumping was just a bit louder than usual and the glare of angry MPs was just a bit more pronounced.

Nothing unusual was said but it was clear the Commons was on the threshold of a tiresome that hadn't been experienced in this session. Some MPs, who had made their summer plans around the scheduled June 27 adjournment, were returning to Ottawa after having gone to their constituencies. They were less than delighted.

Opposition MPs in growing numbers were indicating their intentions of speaking on the rules debate. Conservative spokesmen said it could go on for weeks.

Until a few days ago, only a handful had planned to speak.

As the House adjourned Monday night, members were arguing over a point of order, proposed by Conservative House Leader Gerald W. Baldwin (PC —Peace River) that the government motion on the rules was out of order because it is substantially the same as proposals already dealt with by the Commons. These involved the controversial Rule 16A, which was withdrawn under fire last December.

Both 16A and the proposed rules now before the House would give the government power to limit debating time without agreement from any other party.

If Speaker Lucien Lamoureux decides that the point of order is not valid in this case—as he decided on an earlier point raised by Mr. Baldwin—Conservative spokesmen say other procedural arguments may be raised against the motion.

The prospects of a prolonged opposition battle against the government's proposals—the New Democratic Party appears to be firmly allied with the Conservatives—has raised rumors about the possibility of the government imposing closure to shut off any long debate.

Some Liberal MPs were predicting Monday night that closure would be imposed if the debate on the motion goes on for a full week.

Closure hasn't been used since it ended the flag debate in 1965. Prior to that it hadn't been used since the 1956 pipeline debate.

The atmosphere of the Commons has been generally placid since this current session began in September, apart from occasional eruptions, but the mood of some MPs Monday night clearly showed this could change.

And some of the remarks made since the rules issue came up likely mean the various party House leaders are not cooperating in the same spirit of goodwill with which they began the session.

Unitarians Protest Refusal To Print Their Magazine

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Human Rights Commission is investigating the case of a printer who refused to print The Canadian Unitarian because he disagreed with some of its contents.

Indians Unite To Oppose Plan

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Indian spokesmen across Canada have condemned Ottawa's announced intention of handing over Indian affairs to the provinces within five years.

Opposition has been gaining ground since Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien announced the plan in a white paper tabled in the House of Commons last month.

Indians fear loss of rights granted under federal statutes and even dissolution of their reserves, guaranteed in treaties signed with federal, then sovereign, authorities. They object most to the move being made without full prior consultation and their consent.

Dissent Monday came from Montreal; Sarnia, Ont.; Regina; St. Albert, Alta., and Vancouver.

Harold Cardinal, president of the 42-band Indian Association of Alberta, said in an interview "Our advice to bands in this province has been to physically escort federal commissioners off reserves and, if necessary, forcibly evict them." pending the completion of a policy paper by the association.

Mr. Cardinal said Indians will be "faced with extermination" if Ottawa's policy is implemented.

He called the white paper "a continuation of Ottawa's divide-and-conquer policy," and said Mr. Chretien is "incapable of presenting our affairs to Parliament."

Chief Fred Plain of the Sarnia Chippewa band said that Indians may seek international publicity for their cause.

Meanwhile, Mr. Chretien met Monday in Regina with Premier Ross Thatcher and later with David Ahenakew, president of the Federation of Saskatchewan Indians.

Mr. Chretien said prior to the meeting with Mr. Thatcher the visit was intended as a briefing for provincial officials and that he plans to visit all provinces before the end of July.

The Regina meeting followed a visit Friday with Ontario Premier John Robarts and an unscheduled visit with representatives of the Union of Ontario Indians.

REAL ESTATE

ARE REAL ESTATE AGENTS NECESSARY?

ED McSWINNEY
J. E. McSWINNEY
Realty Ltd.

All of us in the real estate business have more than once met someone who was doubtful about the value of the services which we realtors render to the public.

Well, I suppose, when you get right down to it, nobody really needs a contractor to build a house, either, for there is no reason why each home-builder couldn't order all the materials he needed, and then do the hiring of carpenters, bricklayers, plumbers and other tradesmen whose skills were needed.

Yet the vast majority of people who are building a house will go to a contractor. Why? Because he has the contacts, he has the time and ability, and — most important of all, perhaps — he has the know-how, to get the job done with the greatest efficiency, which means a saving of both time and money.

The reliable realtor performs a similar sort of service, except that his attention is centred on the selling of the house.

Certainly it is possible for any intelligent person to make a satisfactory deal in real estate without the aid of a realtor. But isn't a person trusting to luck, to some extent, if he hasn't the necessary contacts, the time, and experience in judging property values?

Like the contractor, a real estate agent will save you time and money — and perhaps from making a costly mistake.

Vandalism Blamed In Boy's Drowning

Harry Mulhall

Life-saving Measures

Police constable, his uniform shirt discarded, scrambles along dam supports after fruitless attempt to free drowned boy from Moira River dam at Cannifton Road. The 11-year-old victim was trapped in undertow between the river bed and loosened logs.

Pins Removed From Stop Logs

By Harry Mulhall, Staff Reporter

Engineers today are working on a foolproof means of securing the Moira River Cannifton Road dam, after vandalism was cited a major factor in yesterday's drowning of an 11-year-old Toronto boy.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie blames removal of iron bolts, clinching dam fatal situation that took the life of Francis Johnson.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Johnson, of Rexdale — was trapped by an undertow rushing between the river bed and loosened dam logs.

Foot long pins, secured by wire, were removed by vandals sometime since last weekend, when the logs were bolted in place.

The resulting seepage through the loosened dam eventually built up pressure on the logs until there was a six-inch gap between the dam and river bed.

It was in this aperture Johnson was trapped as he and a companion — 11-year-old Robert Dunning, 191 North Front St. — dived for stones from the rivers east bank.

"Whoever removed those bolts is responsible for this boy's drowning," said Chief Crosbie.

"Although, they wouldn't have had any thought of what could have resulted."

In all, 18 of 26 bolts were discovered missing from the dam.

Today, a Moira River Conservation Authority spokesman said Toronto engineers who designed the dam already had been commissioned to produce "a foolproof method" of securing the bolts.

Meanwhile, stop logs were still being gingerly removed from the dam today, although it was not immediately known when they would be replaced.

The regional operation is made tickish by the need to keep rising water levels from threatening the downriver construction coffer dam on the new Dundas Street bridge project.

After the water has been drained, the site is expected to be viewed by Coroner Dr. John Stock, who already has ordered an inquest.

Ironically, the city's recreation department was planning on posting a lifeguard at the park side of the dam today, where sand was already poured for a small beach.

However, recreation director Lorne Williams doubted if even a lifeguard could have rescued the boy.

The earliest rescue attempts — by youngsters swimming in the area, supported this view.

Roger Malcolm, 12, of 90 East Moira Street, said he was

This Was A Cause

Silhouetted against the sky, a police officer holds a bolt similar to the 18 vandals stole from Moira River dam. The removal of the bolts caused loosening of stop logs, blamed as major factor in Toronto boy's death. Eight remaining bolts were taken from dam last night for evidence at inquest expected into drowning of Francis Johnson, 11.

Cost-of-living Index Will Fix Minimum Wage

CALGARY (CP)—The federal Liberal government will introduce legislation at the next session of Parliament to raise the minimum wage and tie it permanently to some cost-of-living barometer, Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey said Tuesday.

Minimum wage regulations for non-union workers in industries falling under federal jurisdiction "have fallen behind," Mr. Mackasey told a news conference, and should be modernized to allow the labor minister to increase rates when necessary without an act of Parliament.

The minimum wage under the Canada Labor Relations Act now is $1.25.

"But our problem is that if we go too far, we create a distortion in some less well-off provinces." Workers in jobs not under federal jurisdiction would receive far less than those performing similar jobs for companies falling under federal control.

Mr. Mackasey said fair employment practices and all other federal labor legislation is also under review in anticipation of a major Labor Act revision. He said changes are needed because "unfortunately two-thirds of the working force in Canada is not unionized and many workers are exploited as a result."

Joe Sicurella and Joy Askey, both of suburban Buffalo, were reported in good condition after a United States Coast Guard launch rescued them about 2½ miles southwest of here.

Astronauts Alarm Iroquois Chief

BRANTFORD (CP) — Joseph Logan Jr., medicine maker and hereditary chief of the Longhouse People of the Iroquois, said Tuesday that man will not land on the moon —and if he does there will be "terrible sickness."

Said the chief: "The moon is our grandmother. She controls the growing of the crops, the hunting of deer, the tides, the seasons and men's minds. The moon is sacred in our people and at this time we predict that man will not land on the moon."

The Longhouse People number about 1,500 out of 8,000 living on the Six Nations reserve near here.

Two United States astronauts are scheduled to set foot on the moon July 21 at about 2 a.m. EDT.

Newspaper boy relations and observance of newspaper boy day by The Intelligencer were judged best in the world at a recent international competition. The man responsible, circulation manager William LeSurf, with carriers May Ellen Farrell and Danny Payne, look over the first press run of the paper in the mailing room. The Intell's 150 city and rural newspaper boys and girls share a common bond with Mr. LeSurg, himself a former newspaper boy. (For story and another picture, see Page 3.)

Two Bombs Explode

QUEBEC (CP) — Two bombs, one apparently linked to a construction dispute, exploded in the Quebec City area late Tuesday night and early today. There were no known injuries.

Spaced about 1½ hours apart —the first exploding shortly before midnight—the bombs destroyed an empty car in suburban Cap Rouge and heavily damaged a building under construction in Quebec City.

Dollar estimates of damage were not available.

Clergy Reject Union

LONDON (CP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury and a leading Methodist spokesman meet today to consider how proposals for church unity can be salvaged after the Church of England's clergy failed to approve a historic merger of the two churches.

In simultaneous votes Tuesday at Birmingham and London, the Methodist Conference declared itself willing to end two centuries of division but the Anglicans drew back by a slender vote.

Both meetings had decided that the unity proposals must be approved by a vote of 75 per cent or more. At Birmingham, the Methodists voted 77.4 per cent in favor, but the Anglican vote on union was only 69 per cent.

A breakdown of the Anglican vote showed 38 of the bishops in favor and only five against unity. But among the clergy, the vote was 225 to 111.

Helicopter Saves Four From Lake

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A United States Coast Guard helicopter, searching for six boats still overdue since the July 4 storm that swept Lake Erie, was diverted Tuesday to rescue a mother and three small children clinging to an overturned boat near Pelee Island.

Saved were Mrs. Frank L. Schmitt of Cleveland and her three children, who were flung into choppy waters off the west side of the island about 2 p.m.

Books, Invective Hurled by MPs in Mother of Parliaments

LONDON (AP) — The biggest row in years broke out in the House of Commons Tuesday night as members hurled books, paper missiles and invectives at each other in a dispute over parliamentary boundaries.

Nearly 500 parliamentarians mounted a clamor of insult over a decision by the government leader in the Commons, Fred Peart, to impose a guillotine on a controversial bill affecting parliamentary boundaries.

The Tories accuse Labor Prime Minister Wilson's government of tampering with the constitution to save seats at the next election.

Conservative member Geoffrey Rippon tore up paper and flung it at Peart. He followed through with a flying order book.

Peart winced when the paper hit him, but caught the book and, while with anger, hurled it back.

The Conservatives began chanting "shame, shame" and unleashed a barrage of paper on Labor members positioned opposite.

"Cheats," "dictators," "fiddlers"—the Tories shouted. Some of them yelled: "Sieg Heil."

The uproar subsided when the Speaker adjourned the House.

New School Utilizes EDAPT Teaching Concept

By JUDY SCHREIDER
Staff Rporter

Mention the EDAPT program — sounds like the code name for entomological experimentation.

However the term has little to do with the study of insects. "Environmental Development of All Pupils in Totality" is a new concept in school programming to be implemented in Georges Vanier Separate School, under construction on Tracey St. in Belleville.

F. B. Alfore, superintendent of the Hastings and Prince Edward County Separate School Board, explained that the Georges Vanier school, to be ready this fall, will be a "totally continuous progress school with all facilities required to achieve the aims of a cultural and learning program for all children, regardless of ability or background." The "soul and physical focus" of the building is a cultural centre, incorporating a library, religious guidance office, music room, art room, foreign languages department and health education facilities.

Surrounding the central re-

The introduction of dry study carrels is an innovation at the elementary level and is incorporated in the new school to provide students with the opportunity to go off and work by themselves. Carrels, resembling small booths, are equipped with a desk and sufficient storage space, and located in the library.

source area are the environmental centres, each composed of 3-3 learning areas, equivalent in size to a former classroom.

These centres have folding walls in order to adjust the environmental centre in seconds as the elementary level and requirements are at that period in the program.

Each of these "rooms" will provide teaching areas for a particular group of children between the ages of 5-12 — there will not be any grades as such. Classification of the students will be determined by the principal and all artificial segregation in this age range is hoped to be eliminated so that every student will become an "accepted social partner" in school activities.

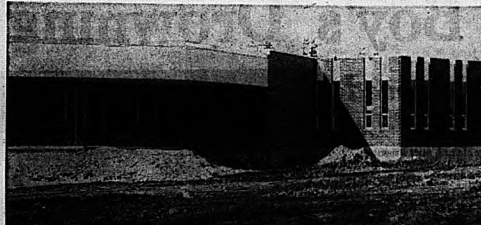
An administrative centre will consist of the principal's office, the health unit, maintenance quarters and a lunch room.

To encourage school-community relationships, the Georges Vanier School will boasts a community centre, complete with auditorium and stage, meeting room, ticket office and kitchen facilities, all of which can be isolated from the school for public affairs.

The electrically-heated building is wired for both closed circuit and educational television through closed circuit channels placed for future development of the school as a teacher training base.

Furniture for the modern building was designed for the new educational patterns by a school board personnel.

The architectural design of the "open concept" school lends itself to four hexagonal (environmental centres) jutting out from the central resource room.



Staff creativity will be the key developer of school procedures, each teacher "imbued with the spirit of responsible experimentation and research."

A special education aide will be employed to assist teachers with activities which encourage development of both exceptional and slow learners in an integrated program of health and welfare.

The position differs from that of a teacher's aide in that the special education aide must be a graduate of a recognized nursing school, having had experience with children under 12 years of age.

Implementation of these advanced educational concepts is not as costly as might be expected. At a total cost of $535,000, approximately $19.20 per square foot, Georges Vanier School runs close to the cost of any conventional school building.

"The EDAPT program promises education where all students can achieve, stimulated and being guided to optimum self-development," commented Mr. Alfore.

'Environmental Open-Concept School'

The first complete school in the province of Ontario to be built along the lines of the EDAPT program is under construction on Tracey St., Belleville. The honeycomb shaped room shown jutting out from the school's main entrance is one of four "environmental centres," taking the place of conventional classrooms.

Campbellford Water Pollution Problem If Suitable Disposal Spot Not Found

CAMPBELLFORD — Water pollution may be a problem for Campbellford council if Breithhaupt Leather Company can not obtain a suitable spot to dispose of waste containing chrome precipitate incurred in the operation of their plant.

Subject to approval of council, a valley in the municipal dump may be made deeper to contain the precipitate until saturation is reached, when another area will be similarly used.

As the company received notification from the Ontario Water Resources Commission concerning adverse effects of the precipitate on drinking water due to possible toxic content, clerk E. M. Ibey has been advised to keep in touch with the OWRC until the matter is discussed again in August.

The approaching opening of a high-level bridge in the town gave rise to discussions on possible traffic problems.

As both ends of the bridge reach out in a recourse on two corners of heavy traffic, circulation will be regulated by the placement of lights at Bridge and Front St., as well as at Bridge and Doxsee, at the expense of county council.

The Campbellford Council decided to have cross walks painted at these corners and to make arrangements for the re-routing of highway No. 30 through the town.

No parking signs will be installed at the two main intersections. Right hand turn lanes will start 100 feet from the corner, left hand turn lanes, 50 feet. There will be no left hand turn on or off the bridge at either end of the bridge.

County engineers are to be consulted regarding scuppers placed in the new bridge to allow slush and liquid impurities to be emptied into the Trent River a short distance upstream from the town water intake pipe.

Campbellford's application for $64,000 from the department of transport was approved, the amount being the same as was granted last year. However, a supplementary application for $12,000 was cut in half. Under the province's present austerity program, the cut was accepted as general procedure.

Increase of elm disease in the town has caused street foreman, W. Blake to take action for removal of those trees posing public hazards. Cost for removal of one tree is estimated at well over $100.

Two former residents of the Campbellford fire department were reinstated, Bob Wickens, recently retired to the town and Ted Boxall.

Ameliasburg Buys Property

AMELIASBURG — The township council reported more progress last night in matters about the proposed fire department.

Land for the proposed firehall — two thirds of an acre on the south side of the Read nersville Road west of the village of Ameliasburg — has been purchased so the building phase can commence, the committee reported.

It was also disclosed that arrangements had been made for training the first class of 16 to 20 volunteers. A second class will receive the instruction afterwards.

The main township roads have received applications of calcium and primer the road superintendent noted in his report. The annual weed spraying and mowing is underway to date.

Today the township works department moved to the Old Orchard Road section to start re-surfacing that stretch and widening it.

Activity in residential construction continues and the building inspector's report for June showed permits issued represented $65,650 in new dwellings for the month.

Council was informed of events of importance scheduled for later this summer.

On Tuesday night next week the council meets with county planners Marshall, Maklin and Monaghan to discuss county planning in relation to Ameliasburg.

On Saturday night the Community Centre Board is sponsoring an ice cream social at the township hall with everyone welcome.

During the last week of July and the first week of August the community centre board resume a recreation program started last year.

Children of school age in the community are eligible for supervised instruction in sports and crafts at classes commencing at 10 a.m. and running through to 4 p.m. The supervisor in charge of the program this year is Miss Dixie Motley.

Pins Taken From Dam

Immediately, police requested removal of the top logs and a conservation authority contractor moved in equipment after conferring with supervisors of the downriver bridge project, on a safe rate of flow.

Contractor Don Revoy, who pinned the stop logs in place last weekend, said several bolts were removed by vandals last year when the dam first went into operation.

This year, hopeful of preventing a recurrence, the bolt ends were drilled then wired into place, said Mr. Revoy.

Last night he said "one young lad" had told him the holding wires on the bolts were "pounded with stones until they broke them."

Mr. Revoy said a new pin — designed to foil vandalism — would have to be installed.

The Johnson boy and his mother were visiting the Dunnings — family friends — at the time of the tragedy.

The fatal incident occurred shortly before 4 p.m. and the hour-long recovery operation brought scores of spectators to both banks of the river.

No date has yet been set for the inquest.

Winning Poster

William LeSurf, Intelligencer circulation manager, displays the poster in observance of carrier boy day that took a first prize plaque at the 70th annual conference of the International Circulation Managers' Association. The theme "Today he stands 10 feet tall" illustrated with pictures of carriers at work was judged best among newspapers under 25,000 circulation.

Intelligencer Brings Home Three International Circulation Awards

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
(Staff Reporter)

Circulation is the life blood of a newspaper, and proof that The Intelligencer is in good health has come in the form of three awards with international standing.

Of the 600 delegates from all over the world that entered the competition at the International Circulation Managers' Association conference in Toronto June 29, The Intelligencer emerged the only one with three awards — two firsts and a second — to its credit.

It was one of only two Canadian papers to receive recognition. The other was the Toronto Globe and Mail.

In its class of newspapers with a daily circulation of under 25,000, the "Intell" was judged to have the best newspaper boy relations program and the best observance for newspaper boy day. In sales promotion it rated a second prize.

William LeSurf, circulation manager and chairman who keeps the "Intell" moving smoothly every day to Quinte district subscribers, told his circulation story in the form of two scrapbooks and a poster.

The ongoing, day to day relationship fostered between the circulation department and its 300 carrier boys and girls was shown in publicity for bicycle safety campaigns, courtesy drives and subscription contests.

Last fall for instance, winners of a subscription contest were treated to a visit to Ottawa and attendance at a pro football game.

Other incentives are a credit system for carriers who bring in new start orders and two scholarships of $50 each awarded to outstanding carriers.

Since coming to the Intelligencer 1½ years ago, Mr. LeSurf has seen the paper's circulation jump by 1,000 to our 17,000. The "Intell" blanket's the city of Belleville — it goes into 9,007 of the 9,227 occupied dwellings in Belleville.

Mr. LeSurf has revived the newspaper in the classroom program for schools throughout the district. During the 1968 winter term 125 teachers' kits were sent to schools, along with complimentary copies of the newspaper for the students' use. Every summer, the "Intell" sends a teacher to the University of Waterloo two - week course on use of the newspaper in the classroom.

Mr. LeSurf's career in circulation began in his native Smiths Falls, where he was a carrier boy for the Ottawa Citizen. He became a district supervisor for the Citizen when only 14, and went on to manage county circulation after finishing school.

Following 10 years with the Citizen, he went to Nassau as circulation manager for the Nassau Guardian for 1½ years before coming to the Intelligencer.

He holds a certificate in marketing and advertising from Algonquin College in Ottawa and is a graduate of a Rochester Institute of Technology course in newspaper management.

The three awards taken by the Intell in Toronto brings the total of honors won by the newspaper this year to four. Earlier in the year the Hickey Mitchel insurance company gave the newspaper an award for carrier boy relations and promotion.

Choir Member Almost Crowned

A Cherry Valley United Church choir member Sunday narrowly escaped being crowned by an old wooden cross falling from its position above the choir stalls — while choir and congregation sang steadily on through the hymn. Crown Him with many Crowns.

The cross from the former Salmon Point Church was leaning against the south wall when it began to teeter at the beginning of the hymn. Billy Moore, was standing directly beneath it.

While the minister remained oblivious to the near tragedy slowly unfolding behind him, the congregation watched anxiously as two choir members, Douglas Moore and Gordon Demore, saw the action and rushed to steady the cross.

They clung to it during the singing of the hymn and prevented its crashing down on the head of the chorister.

Interment will be in Stockdale cemetery with Rev. William Lamb officiating.

CARMAN J. MASTERS

TRENTON—The funeral for Carman J. Masters, Stockdale, who died suddenly at his residence on Friday in his 49th year was held from the Weaver Funeral Home on Tuesday afternoon.

Rev. W. Adam of Wooler conducted the service in the chapel and also said the graveside prayers at Friend's cemetery, Wooler.

The bearers were Don Anderson, George MacDonald, Walter Messering, Clion Cox, George Graham and Bert Blight.

Mr. Masters was born at Coe Hill, a son of Mrs. Jessie Masters and the late W. Masters and has resided at Stockdale for the past four years. He formerly resided at Trenton. Mr. Masters was a veteran of the Second World War and was a member of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch No. 287, Frankford. He was self-employed as a trucker.

Mr. Masters attended the United Church.

Surviving are his mother, his wife, the former Eleanor L. Fox, three brothers, Clayton and Raymond Masters, Trenton, Ross Masters, Belleville and one sister, Mrs. Gordon (Betty) Beattie, Trenton.

Youngsters Plant 9,400 Seedlings

TRENTON — The conservationists of Murray Township are known for developing a number of worthwhile projects.

Youngsters — known as the Stockdale school club — particularly stand out for involving themselves in an ambitious undertaking this spring when on their own they planted 9,400 pine and spruce seedlings on private properties in the municipality.

Last weekend the Murray conservation representatives collected more knowledge to do with their work on a field trip to the government's conservation school at Gould Lake north of Kingston.

When the group arrived by bus at the school they were taken on a familiarization tour of the establishment.

Then a religious service conducted by the Rev. H. M. Beach of Frankford provided the setting for the other activities for the day. The minister reminded all of their responsibilities for caring for God's creations.

Visitors from the Quinte region received a message of welcome from Dr. J. D. McCowan with the Cataraqui region of the conservation authority.

The history of the Frontenac area and an explanation of the continuing program carried on at the school by the Kingston Board of Education was related by Dennis Reed a member of the school's staff.

The group enjoyed a picnic lunch and some of them went swimming afterwards before it was time to board the bus again for the ride back to Stockdale.

On returning by way of county roads and secondary highways they crossed water to Prince Edward County on the government operated ferry at Glenora.

Stopping briefly at picturesque Lake on the Mountain below Picton the winning entries in the Stockdale club's nesting project were presented prizes.

Awards for 'Intell'

It is with pride The Intelligencer announces receipt of three awards in international competition with other newspapers.

The awards — two firsts in connection with newspaper boy relations and a second for sales promotion — are outlined in today's issue.

The Intelligencer was one of only two Canadian newspapers to win awards at the International Circulation Managers' Association conference in Toronto.

Representing "The Intell" at the conference was Circulation Manager William LeSurf. The awards are tribute to his energetic pursuit of the company's policy of expanding circulation and maintenance of good employee relations.

It is a tribute also to the other departments of the newspaper whose aim is to turn out an informative and interesting product, presenting news of local, national and international significance and providing an effective advertising medium for a growing business community.

One other indication of The Intelligencer's impact not only locally but farther afield is the fact the newspaper's editorial page comment is quoted frequently by other Canadian newspapers. In the past four years The Intell has been quoted on some 150 occasions.

TV Parliament

James L. Cooper, publisher and editor-in-chief of The Globe and Mail had a timely word about the modern tendency to delegate Parliament by making statements on television instead of in the chamber when he addressed the annual conference of the Commonwealth Press Union in London last week.

We are all familiar with the television scene outside Parliament. There is the Prime Minister, and External Affairs Minister Sharp, Trade Minister Pepin, Health Minister Munro, Labor Minister Mackasey and all the rest. They have all said their piece at one time or another in front of the microphones, and while this may be all right up to a point the danger is that things may be said that were not said in the House where the ministers are answerable to the Opposition.

The Opposition of course is also given its chance on television, so that occasionally we see Mr. Stanfield, Mr. Diefenbaker and Eldon Woolliams for the Conservatives — and what seems inordinately often, those NDP stalwarts Tommy Douglas and David Lewis.

Not that they ever say much. For one thing there is not the time so that all we get are canned statements as distinct from the hours of debate that take place in the Commons. Essentially, the public is left merely with a taste of the personal prejudices of each of the speakers, like the anti-Americanism of Mr. Douglas (to which the CBC, incidentally, frequently seems to subscribe), rather than an overall balance of information and opinion from a day of Parliamentary debate.

Consequently, what the public gleans from television should be taken with the proverbial grain of salt, for television is no substitute for the reality of Parliamentary debate or for the many views that are expressed therein. Parliament remains the heart and substance of our democracy, and should be respected as such.

Cattle Rustling

Most of us associate cattle rustling with Western movies so that it comes as a surprise to discover it being practised much closer to home.

Perhaps that is what accounts for what appears to be increased police activity in Prince Edward County of late. Certainly, provincial police cruisers have seemed more in evidence there.

Cattlemen are reported worried about the safety of their stock in view of increasing beef prices. Just before the price went up, a Cherry Valley farmer reported $12 of his Holstein heifers were missing. He claimed three — identified by tags on their ears — subsequently were located near Brighton but have not been returned to him.

Although several farmers in the county are believed to have lost cattle, the rustling evidently is not widespread. Still, the concern of the farmers is understandable. This is not the Wild West, but it seems there are some unscrupulous people who are not averse to bringing a touch of the badlands to this region.

Education Not Only Culprit

Letter to the Editor

Inflation Controlled? Statistics Suggest Otherwise

Editor,
The Intelligencer

The auditor-general paints a picture of criminal waste at Ottawa.

Senior civil servants get an increase of $10,000 per annum. Bank of Canada governor Louis Rasminsky an increase of $35,000. Prime Minister Trudeau's household expenses are up by a large amount. The number of advisers to the Prime Minister is increased by quite a few persons with large salaries and expenses.

But do not panic. Rasminsky issues a statement, telling you the public, to practise restraint. Millions are wasted on the Bonaventure, B and B Commission, etc.

Finance Minister Benson means business. He instructs the banks, trust companies, etc., to advise his department of anyone who gets $10 or more interest to make sure the last cent of income tax is extracted from the poor and middle class.

Benson imposes the 2 percent Social Development tax with a maximum payment of $120 per annum. What does this mean? One with earnings of $9,000 will pay $120 and a person with an income of $100,000 will pay the same. That is his definition of the "Just Society."

This tax will bring Ottawa $440 million this year, but the provinces will get nothing from this tax to assist them or the cities.

We have not had a balanced budget at Ottawa since 1957, when Walter Harris was minister of finance.

The same bad news from Toronto — deficits, since the days of Leslie Frost. Ontario had a deficit of $250,000,000 last year.

Ottawa will borrow money in Germany but tells the cities not to do this as it might be dangerous.

The billions overspent in the last 12 years and collected from you in increased taxes have been the main cause of inflation, high interest, high prices, etc.

All of us of this generation and of the future will continue to pay for the huge debts.

It will not be easy. As usual the poor and the middle class will suffer the most.

All of us have debt and will continue to pay for the Diefenbaker and Pearson years of deficits.

There is one ray of light. Trudeau and Robarts have started to correct this overspending but at best it will take time to correct this serious state of affairs.

This correspondent at Ottawa and Toronto has drifted down to the municipalities too.

What do we find in our own city?

	Res. Rate Cem.	Assessment
1965	30.4	$103,971,240
1969	48.03	52.8 113,006,920

Property taxes since 1965 have risen about 60 percent in spite of a substantial rise in assessment.

We hear a great deal about "progress" in the city. In many ways I agree, many physical improvements have been made, industries are coming our way.

But like the other two levels of government I think the city is trying to do too much too soon.

This year will see a bridge across the Moira and a sewer up the Moira which will involve large amounts of money.

Before this work is finished we hear of plans for the Sidney Street Bridge, and the Haig Road extension.

I am not critical of works in progress or planned but I would like to see council slow down on capital expenditures until we have digested at least to a certain extent, the liabilities of the past few years.

If substantial additions are made to the already high debt charges, more and more of total taxes collected will fall into the category of uncontrollable expenditures.

I know that education has been partly responsible for our higher tax rate but not entirely.

Watch for my letter in the near future when I will prove to you how Ontario "overspends" and how the taxpayers of Belleville are "overcharged" in connection with education.

If we have an increase in property taxes in the next two years as in the past four years, taxes since 1965 will have risen by nearly 100 per cent.

This type of "progress" I can do without. I am sure many people are worried about this, other taxes and high prices.

Marketing Research Gap in Agriculture

Winnipeg Free Press

Research in agriculture is not new in Canada. In an economy originally based largely on agriculture, and which still has a broad agricultural base, the need for research has been long recognized. Both the federal and provincial governments, as well as business and other agencies, spend vast sums in agricultural research each year.

Most of this, however, has been in one direction — to improve stock and grains and to increase productivity. In these areas, over the years, significant progress has been made and no one connected with agriculture would suggest that such research be discontinued.

It has become increasingly apparent, however, that in today's world, another type of research is needed: research in marketing. Less than two years ago, for example, Canada's farmers were being told to grow more wheat. Today they find a glut of wheat on the market and are being encouraged to go in for other types of production. No wonder farmers are frustrated. Acting on what they considered to be expert advice, they find themselves in a position from which it is hard to extricate themselves.

The farmers' dilemma emphasizes the need for marketing research as well as research directed toward quality and productivity. It is a gap in our agricultural research programs toward which all concerned, including government, should direct their attention

The abolition of slavery in Canada began 176 years ago today—in 1793—when Upper Canada prohibited the import of slaves and ruled slaves' children would be freed at age 25. In other Canadian colonies, courts refused to uphold slavery as an institution, without legal abolition. Slavery had been accepted by Indians and first French and English settlers but was formally ended by the British Parliament in 1833. Canadians helped run an "underground railroad" to bring Negroes to freedom in Canada from slave states in the United States of America.

Kingston's Housing Project

Kingston Whig-Standard

Kingston's limited dividend housing project appears to be proceeding smoothly. During a special session of City Council a majority of aldermen voted in favour of retaining city architect Ernest A. Cromarty. Mr. Cromarty was one of eight architects who approached the City with proposals to handle the $1 million project.

The city plans to construct the row housing (60-or 70-units) on the southwest corner of Portsmouth Avenue and Bath Road. The housing plan is designed to serve people who earn too much to qualify for low-income housing and not enough to buy on the open market. Under the terms of limited dividend housing an individual qualifies for a unit if his annual income is less than $6,500. When that income rises to $8,500 the person is asked to seek other accommodation. Mayor Swain has said that the subject of possible rents to be charged would be discussed in talks with Mr. Cromarty at a later date.

Between now and August 12 the architect will prepare reports and preliminary drawings which will be forwarded to the Ontario Municipal Board. The O.M.B. must approve a $100,000 debenture issue for the project —Kingston's share of the financing. In addition Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation will be asked to provide $900,000 to complete the financing, and Planning Board must approve of a zone change for the four-acre site.

Like a great many Kingston residents we will be watching the progress of Kingston's limited dividend housing project with great interest. There is a definite need for such housing, just as there is a need for low-rental housing.

Nixon's Political Footwork

Congress Tackles Counter-Missile and Taxation Issues

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — With virtually nothing to show after its first six months in session, minus four holiday breaks, the 91st Congress resumed work Monday, resigned to the fact it finally must come to grips with the two major items before it—taxation and the counter-missile system.

Fears within the Nixon administration that the outcome of these vital issues may not be to its liking is offered by some as explanation for the president's dancy footwork of late on other more emotional, if less commanding, issues.

Having had the long July 4 Independence Weekend to mull over the situation, many returned to the corridors of Congress convinced that Nixon has been doing more than just paying off political debts. He was making an all-out effort, according to this view, to ensure passage of the two bills he considers essential to his prestige.

Various counts indicate the 100-man Senate is close to and around the 50-50 mark on the sensitive anti-ballistic missile system issue, the ABM contest up this week for debate on whether to approve funds for it as part of the military procurement authorization bill.

The administration has gone all-out in favor of deploying the expensive Safeguard missiles, maintaining they are essential to the country's defence and to her bargaining posture in forthcoming strategic arms control talks with the Soviet Union.

Critics argue that U.S. missiles at home, abroad and in Polaris submarines are more than enough protection, that the ABM won't work anyway and that deployment is a turn toward a new militarism that will undermine any disarmament talks.

On taxation, Nixon is pressing for a one-year extension of the 10 per-cent income surtax.

The House of Representatives approved it by a hairline vote, but the Senate is expected to couple approval with a demand for drastic tax reforms aimed at closing loopholes that allegedly benefit only wealthy individuals, tax-free foundations and big business—particularly the powerful oil industry.

What the administration waals is for Congress to approve the extension and then, if it wants, go to work on the tax reforms.

But Congress only approved the surtax for one year in the first place after forcing from President Johnson a commitment to cut his budget. It might try the same tactic on Nixon, winding the tax reforms as the price for extending it.

It is against this background, and the fact both houses are dominated by Democrats, that Republican Nixon is seen by some to be manoeuvring to improve the odds.

The theory apparently is that liberals in the Democratic party have made up their minds to oppose ABM and any big-strings tax extension.

Thus, Nixon's recent soft line on school desegregation enforcement, his opposition—overruled —to extension of the Voting Rights Act aimed at seven Southern states, and other similar issues is seen by some as a transparent flirtation with Southern Democrats and a conservative element of both parties.

It's a risky business, and already it has cost the president dearly in press criticism. But Richard Nixon has been playing the game of politics most of his adult life and possibly calculates his own setback a temporary, the hoped-for accomplishments as far-reaching.

With his four-year administration only six months old, he has plenty of time to recoup any personal losses.

You Said It!

Today's forum for public opinion deals with the Generation Gap. The feature is designed to provide a forum for Quinte area residents to express their views. Opinions expressed by the contributors to You Said It are not necessarily those of the publisher.

By ROBERT HENDERSON

The German statesman Bismarck once declared that in raising children we go to extremes. "One generation rigidly is disciplined, the next is spoiled. The whipped generation is followed by the unwhipped. I belonged to the whipped generation." One cannot help but wonder how our present generation of young people view themselves.

Not too long ago I read in this column a shattering indictment of the way the adult world is abusing its young people. The writer described in great detail Belleville's failure to provide adequately for the needs of youth — not enough recreational activities, not enough enriching experiences, too few places for young people to meet, too few employment opportunities and in general an older generation lacking in sympathy and concern.

A few days later in the columns of another daily newspaper there appeared a letter signed "Over Fifty-Five" in which the writer spoke eloquently of all the advantages youth has today — broader, richer educational opportunities, government support for assistance for students going on to higher education, legislation designed to eliminate poverty, child labor and a host of other social problems, and great sums of money being spent to provide organized recreation and sport. According to the writer young people neither understand nor appreciate that they never had it so good.

What the first writer failed to do was acknowledge that much is being done. We do have organized sports in Belleville for our young people. At least one of our secondary schools is offering its gymnasium and other recreational facilities and equipment, and a student supervisor for summer recreation. When a group of young people wanted to organize a swimming group a service club offered financial aid, councillors and helped find a meeting place. A group of interested people are beginning the work that will lead to a drop-in centre for teens and older youth. Two high schools have provided enrichment programs. More could be done. Improvements could be made, but charges of indifference and neglect seem extreme.

What the second writer failed to do was recognize that all of the advances in our society, all of the improvements in social conditions are not special favors which youth fails to appreciate; they are advances towards a juster, more equitable society from which all, young and old, are meant to benefit. All of us never had it so good, and there is no reason why youth should be expected to feel a greater sense of indebtedness than the rest of us. Here too we have a long way to go. The social problems of war, famine and disease (among others) still have to be solved. There is no point in condemning youth for being impatient.

As an educator (a school counsellor) who deals with young people every day I have come to know them. Most of them are fully aware of how many advantages they enjoy. They are equally aware of how much yet remains to be done. The great majority are quite prepared to accept the responsibility of moving the world a step closer to the ideal world we want to see. For them the question of whether they are a whipped or an unwhipped generation is unimportant. They want to live and they want to do.

We of the older generation will have to 'keep our cool' as some of our young people would put it. A breath of sanity in our evaluation of young people and honesty in our dealings with them is all they ask.

Robert E. Henderson.

Research in Bay of Quinte Area Looks Into Effects of Insecticide

The miracle insecticide of twenty years ago DDT, is now being looked upon with guarded caution.

In 1949 traces of DDT began to appear in milk and in the past few years it has been showing up in fish.

As a result research is being carried out in the Bay of Quinte to determine the extent the insecticide is effecting the fish population, by the department of Lands and Forests and the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

The program begin last year as a pioneer project that saw fish being taken from the Bay to determine the amount of DDT present in the fish. It was found that an unusual amount was present in Bass, Northern Pike and White Suckers.

This year the program has been intensified and all the big tributaries of the Bay of Quinte such as the Napanee River, the Salmon and Moira Rivers are being tested and fish samples removed.

The Ontario Water Resources Commission is taking samples of plant life on the bottoms of these rivers as well as animals which live in the bottom sediment, plankton and water to test them for the insecticide.

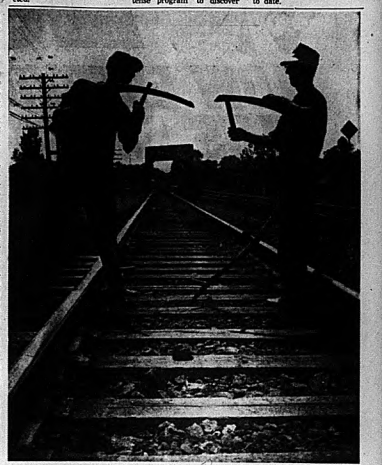
Samples are taken three times during the year to see the change in concentration as the seasons pass. It has been discovered that spring is the worst time because farmers spray their crops with insecticides and the rain washes it into the rivers and eventually to the fish.

Samples of plant life are taken to see the amount of insecticide present and to discover the relation to the amount found in the fish.

Fish that are caught 14 inches or more have their reproductive tissue removed as well as their muscle tissue and then both are tested separately and all data recorded.

Scientists suspect that the reproductive tract is affected by DDT is that it appears to "cut back on the reproductive capability of the fish," says Lloyd Thurston, Fisheries Biologist in Napanee.

The fish that are less than 14 inches are frozen and shipped to Goelph to be tested. The sediment is also sent to Guelph while the plants and other samples are shipped to Toronto for research.



What tests hope to show the movement of the DDT in the water and the distribution in the food chain," says Mr. Thurston.

Some countries such as Sweden have banned the use of DDT and action in the U.S., has picked up momentum as states like Massachusetts, Main and Arizona have followed Sweden's lead.

In Canada the use of DDT is being reduced as farmers change to more modern sprays which are better developed and safer to use.

The United States has ruled that no fish which has more than 7 parts of DDT per million in the flesh can be marketed.

The first tests run last year were started as a spot check but have turned into an intense program to discover the effects DDT has on the fish population but no concrete results have been made to date.

Committee Reviewed

The Belleville and District Labor Council views the makeup of the Citizens Committee on Urban Renewal as a fair representation of Bellevillians.

A meeting of the executive this week discussed proposals from Alderman Robin Jeffrey that would give direct representation to east and west Belleville ratepayers.

The BDLC officials noted the committee now has 11 members representing business and commerce 15 labor representatives.

This, says the BDLC executive, "would seem more than fair."

School Costs Made Public

The Northumberland - Durham Regional School Board presented its expenditure report for Jan. 1—May 31, 1969, as follows:

Total spending for the five months totalled accounts to $5,250,000. Of this expenditure, elementary school costs were $2,795,100 secondary school costs, $2,474,480 retarded school costs, $40,420.

Instructional salaries constitute the largest expenditure at a cost of $3,003,800.

The Board's total budget for the year is $15,993,921.

Bathroom Battle in England

LONDON (CP) — Now come to think about it, who did invent the modern loo?

This subtle British word for toilet has raised a bathroom controversy, with author Wallace Reyburn claiming credit should go to Thomas Crapper, master plumber during the reigns of Queen Victoria, Edward VII and George V.

But the Council of British Ceramic Sanitaryware Manufacturers maintains that a primitive form of flush-type water closet was built for a child of Sir Edward Harrington in the reign of Elizabeth I, who died in 1603.

Reyburn, a New Zealander who worked as a journalist in Canada for many years, insists tha, all this talk about Harrington is a lot of nonsense.

"If you want to go back that far, you can say the Romans also had flush-type toilets. Harrington's system was merely the supply of water by gravity without stopping. The people were worried at that time that if everyone used his bathroom very heavily, the town would be short of water."

Reyburn, a prolific author, has been commissioned by Mr. Donald and Evans, publishers, to write a biography on Crapper, called "Flushed with Pride," for the 1969 Christmas trade.

"Crapper patented a waterwaste preventer and was the first to perfect a controlled water system," Reyburn said. "That system is still in use today."

Crapper held a royal warrant to fit toilets in the royal homes of his day and Reyburn claims that the plumber was called in by Queen Victoria to do work at Sandringham. He had a big shop in Chelsea and decorated his toilets with snooty names of Chelsea streets.

During the First World War, Crapper, who came from Yorkshire, constructed sanitation works for the Allies.

In attempting to judge whether Crapper should be called the father of modern plumbing, this reporter began a round of sanitation experts and finally unearthed a Londoner who not only knew Crapper but worked for him.

"I started to work for the Crapper firm as an office boy at six shillings a week in 1906," recalled Robson Barrett. "I worked for the firm until 1963 when it was sold. At that time I was managing director."

Barrett, now 79, said he remembered Crapper as a neat, roundish man with a beard. He died in 1910, just six years after Barrett entered employment.

Crapper began work as a London plumber in the 1840s. Shortly afterwards, Victoria's son, the Prince of Wales, came down with typhoid. Barrett said the Queen asked a member of her household to find a master plumber to install toilets at York Cottage, Sandringham, for the prince.

"Mr. Crapper built his own inner system in the toilet but purchased the ceramic containers from other firms," Barrett added.

"He held a royp' warrant for plumbing from the Prince of Wales and again when he became Edward VII and also from George V when he was Prince of Wales and when he became king.

"I am not sure whether he invented the water control system himself. One patent, I know, was held by a man who worked for Crapper."

Towards the end of the 1930s Crapper became a general plumbing merchantman, selling wares rather than fixing loos. His firm was popular and, because of the royal warrants, his shop front contained the royal coat of arms. Now the goodwill and inventories have gone to another firm and the coat of arms has come down.

Pushing Could Be Fatal

The Brighton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police says that most people know they should not push or tow cars with automatic transmissions but they often don't know the reason why.

An automatic transmission becomes overheated when being pushed because little oil is circulated when the engine is not running.

Deaths have been reported where excessive heat built up in a car being towed as long distance, causing the gears to lock and fly apart, cracking the transmission housing and spraying the passengers with hot oil.

Indian Objects To 'Missions'

SASKATOON (CP) — The role of missions was questioned at the national conference of Mennonites Monday night.

"After 40 years do you still need missions for Indians?" asked Isaac Beaulieu, executive director of the Manitoba Indian Brotherhood. "To us the word 'mission' designated an inferiority, even if it is not intentional."

He told an audience of more than 600 that some of the church's attitudes towards Indians are outdated and need revision.

Missile Foes Confident

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of a bipartisan effort to limit the Nixon administration's Safeguard program to research while prohibiting any anti-missile deployment or acquisition of sites, say they expect a lengthy debate but are confident of victory.

Senator John Sherman Cooper (Rep., Ky.) and Philip Hart (Dem. Mich.) prepared an amendment to block the Safeguard proposal for introduction today, as debate on the entire program entered its second day.

Their amendment would not cut any of the $759,100,000 in funds earmarked for Safeguard but would limit the use to research, development, testing and evaluation.

PICTON — The long, long trailer arrived in Picton's market square this morning. A 73-foot tractor-trailer belonging to the Ontario Housing Corporation was opened to area residents during the day and through the evening.

Staff members of the mobile information centre, Randy Pyffe and Dick Nolan explained to visitors all aspects of the O.H.C.'s Home Ownership Made Easy plan.

The trailer will cross Ontario on a 3,000 mile tour visiting 23 communities and supplying them with the facts on the O.H.C.

The O.H.C. exhibit will travel from Picton to Cornwall, then to Carleton Place and Smith Falls.

On July 14 the mobile information centre will return to Toronto to prepare for the portion of the tour taking it through Northern Ontario.

By June 30 this year the O.H.C. had 22,160 family housing units and 2,254 senior citizen housing units under its administration.

An additional 13,302 family units and 6,979 senior citizen units were in varying stage of development.

Program Started

Presqu'le Provincial Park, located about two miles south of Brighton on highway 2, recently began the 13th year of its summer naturalist program, consisting of conducted hikes, film showings, self-guiding nature trails, and a museum of natural history.

The program, designed to inform visitors of various aspects of man's relationship with his natural environment, has involved over 40 per cent of Presqu'le visitors in past years, and last summer over 31,000 persons took advantage of this service.

The full summer program, which began June 8 will continue to Sept. 2.

During this period there will be conducted hikes every day at 2 p.m. except Fridays.

Evening programs of slide talks and films will be given every Monday, Wednesday and Saturday at dusk.

The museum is open daily till Sept. 2, and weekends until the end of Sept. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, and till 7 p.m. weekends.

Working on the Railroad

Times have changed in railroading — or almost. There may be electronic signals, speedy turbine-driven passenger trains. But, when it comes to cutting weeds there's nothing like the most ancient of implements — the scythe. CN railrouders Edwin Glenn (left) and Stan Stacey sharpen up as they begin trimming right of way near Cannifton Road yesterday.

Dear Hilda

My mother says that one of the things she likes best about summer is the really great variety of fresh produce in the supermarkets. That's why July is "Salad Month". Loblaws is all decked out to appeal to your appetite for fresh, flavourful and nutritious salads. Many customers have already discovered our product, departments and here are a few of their remarks:

Dear Hilda:

While shopping at Loblaws I went to have a bunch of bananas weighed. Out of the bunch one had a bruise which I didn't notice. The clerk was honest and kind enough to see it and pull it off. Service like this is hard to beat. I'm a customer for life!

Not Bruised

Dear Not:

Some clerks are more observant than others and they are the ones who will be store managers some day.

Dear Hilda:

It is a real pleasure to shop at the vegetable counter at Loblaws. The fruit and vegetables are great and we're getting service at its best.

Satisfied

Dear Satisfied:

I hope you are especially happy now when produce is coming to you at its peak of freshness and flavour.

Now Is the Time for Budget-minded Women To Stock Up on Seasonal Fresh Fruits

By LINDA GELDART

It's that time of year again — and the strawberries are out in 'delicious' force — ripe, red and juicy.

Yes, they are at their peak right now.

Area grocery stores, and the market are doing a brisk business selling mountainous quantities of the berries.

In fact, most times, they have quite a problem keeping up with the demand.

Strawberries just naturally go with summertime and those cold, quick meals, that mother enjoys preparing.

Relatively inexpensive in season, they can be served a variety of ways to complement any meal.

There is usually a rash of recipes in women's magazines, all about the good things that can be done to provide a new and tasty strawberry dessert for the family.

Most housewives find preparing the family supper in hot weather a real chore.

They shouldn't.

After all, it is summer, and for once, the weather is on their side.

This season gives mothers a chance to choose from a number of fruits and vegetables, that, because they are at their peak, cost much less.

Summer meals centred around salads and fresh fruit dessert are not only easier on the budget, but they provide increased nutritional food value.

Not only that, but they take much less time to prepare.

The average family usually has a freezer — which is an excellent opportunity to take advantage of the plentiful quantities of seasonal fruits and vegetables.

The more complicated method of preserving berries and vegetables has been almost abandoned for faster and more convenient "freezing".

A smart housewife can have on hand seasonal vegetables and berries throughout the fall and winter, saving herself dollars. She can also rest assured that she will be able to fill the nutritional needs of her family.

WEDDING

WALSH — HERNE

Pearce Memorial Free Methodist Church, North Chill, New York, was the scene of the June 28 double ring wedding ceremony, when Miss May Herne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Herne of Richburg, New York, was united in marriage to Grant B. Walsh, son of the Rev. J. R. Walsh and Mrs. Walsh of Kingston. Officiating was Rev. J. R. Walsh, father of the groom, assisted by Gary L. Herne, brother of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of white silk organza with a bolero bodice and Kahiki sleeves of re-embroidered Alencon lace. The A-line skirt and train also had appliques of matching lace. Her illusion veil was of cathedral length and she carried a bouquet of roses, daisies and carnations.

Mrs. D. Herne, sister-in-law of the bride was matron of honor, Miss Sharyl Putnam cousin of the bride, and Miss Kathleen Herne, niece of the bride. All attendants were from Bolivar, New York. They wore floor-length gowns of lavender chiffon over linen. The neckline and short sleeves were trimmed with daisies.

Bridesmaids were Miss Pauline Moses, cousin of the bride, of Richburg, New York, and Miss Lynn McCall of Depew, New York. Both were attired in short dresses of yellow chiffon over linen with white daisy trim around the neck and sleeves. They carried baskets of daisies and carnations.

Best man for the ceremony was Gary Walsh, brother of the bridegroom of Wilmore, Kentucky. Ushers were Duane Slack, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, of Toronto; Clarke Caldwell; Victor Parachin; and James Denison, of North Chill, New York.

Ringbearer was Master Bradley Herne, nephew of the bride, of Bolivar, New York. Bible bearer was Master Mark Herne, nephew of the bride of Salen, Michigan.

After the reception held at Garlock Commons on the campus of Roberts Wesleyan College, the couple left on a wedding trip to a resort in the Pocono Mountains, Pennsylvania. Upon their return, the couple will reside in North Chill, New York.

Honored At Shower

WHITE'S DISTRICT—Mrs. Clifford Millar, Mrs. Lawrence Dafoe and Mrs. George Arthur were co-hostesses at the home of Mrs. Millar for a miscellaneous shower for Miss Peggy Ackerman, who will be married on Saturday, July 12 at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Trenton.

The evening was spent in games and contests, then the bride-to-be was asked to take the honor chair and Mrs. Clifford Millar read the address.

As the gifts were opened Miss Cathy Dale decorated a flower hat with the bows and when completed the bride-to-be modelled it for the remainder of the evening. She thanked all for their lovely gifts and their kindness.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Millar, Mrs. Dafoe and Mrs. Arthur assisted by Miss Carolyn Millar.

WEDDING

PEACOCK — SAUNDERS

TWEED — Patricia Laurabe Saunders and Ronald James Frederick Peacock, both of Kingston, were married recently in St. Andrew's by-the-Lake United Church, Kingston. Rev. John Gifford officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Bernett Saunders and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Rosa Schomberg and Mr. Murray Peacock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Howard Pearson of Brookings, South Dakota, as matron-of-honor.

Miss Sharon Wartman, Miss Wendy Wright, Miss Diana Lynne Johnston and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Debbie Schomberg, all of Kingston were bridesmaids. The bridegroom's niece, Karen Brown of Belleville, was flower girl.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Warren Whitbread. Ushers were Roy Schomberg, Ron Payne, both of Kingston, Wayne Goodell of Sunbury and Howard Pearson of Brooking. S. D. Kirk Brown of Belleville, the bridegroom's nephew was ring-bearer.

Following a reception held in the church hall, the couple left on a trip to Lake Placid, N.Y. They will reside in Kingston.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID FINDLAY

Findlay – Keene

College Hill United Church was the scene of the recent double-ring ceremony when Beth Elaine Keene, daughter of Mrs. Earl Keene of Belleville, and the late Earl Keene, exchanged wedding vows with David George Findlay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Findlay. Officiating was Rev. R. Vesey Reedyking appropriate nuptial selections was organist Mrs. Blakely. Soloist was Mr. Cromshley.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Danny Keene, wore a full length old-fashioned satin gown, featuring a natural waistline, a lace bodice with lace sleeves coming to a point at the wrist. Her elbow length veil was held in place by a cluster of flowers encircled by pearls and aurora borealis. She carried a colonial bouquet of tinted blue, pink and yellow carnations, centred with sweetheart roses.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Sue Ponte, of Belleville, who wore a floor length gown of green peau de soie, with an empire waistline, tiny puff sleeves and a square neckline. Her headpiece was a bow of the same material. She carried an arm cascade of carnations tinted to match her dress.

Bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Douglas, Weston, cousin of the bridegroom; Mrs. Nancy Embury, Belleville, sister of the bride; junior bridesmaid, Miss Patti Ackerman, Belleville. All were gowned the same as the matron of honor, but in pink, blue and yellow respectively. Each carried an arm cascade of carnations tinted to match her dress.

Flower girl, Miss Linda Tom, Belleville, wore a floor length gown of mauve peau de soie, featuring tiny puff sleeves. A bow held in place at the natural waistline flowed to the bottom of the dress. Her headpiece was a bow of the same material. She carried a colonial bouquet of sweet peas mingled with lily-of-the-valley.

Best man for the ceremony was Bruce Poste, Belleville. Ushers were Bill Findlay, Belleville, brother of the bridegroom; Robert Parkinson, Carleton Place; cousin of the bride; John Isherwood, Montreal. Master Paul Embury of Belleville, nephew of the bride was the ring-bearer.

For the wedding reception held at the church hall, the mother of the bride received the guests wearing a floor length nylon sheath dress with an overlay of blue, yellow and green crepe, featuring a scalloped neckline and scalloped bell sleeves. A hat of the same material and white accessories completed her outfit. Her corsage was of yellow sweetheart roses and gardenias.

Assisting the mother of the bride, the mother of the bridegroom chose a sheath dress and coat ensemble of pink linen. The collar of the coat was enhanced with pink seed pearls. A pink flowered hat with black accessories completed her attire. Her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses and gardenias.

For the wedding trip to points north, the bride donned a princess style yellow brocade dress with a matching coat and black patent accessories. A corsage of yellow and white sweetheart roses mingled with a spray of lily-of-the-valley completed her ensemble. Upon their return, the couple will reside in Belleville.

Ann Landers

Reader Suggests Professor Not Guilty

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back a mother wrote to you about her young daughter who had become involved with a college professor. The girl, age 19, was sent home from school because she became so infatuated with a professor she flunked everything. The mother swore the girl was as pure as the driven snow when she left home, and the professor had taught her considerably more than was in the curriculum. You advised mother to inform the college authorities.

Are you some kind of a nut? What is needed these days is a Protective Society to keep the "innocent young fawers" of the professors' necks. When you suggest that the authorities be notified you jeopardize the man's job and put him in a most unfair position. Shame on you. — PROFESSOR'S WIFE.

* * *

DEAR WIFE: I advised the mother to notify the college authorities in order to provide the professor with an opportunity to face his accuser. Sometimes a girl will tell her mother a story she won't repeat before the authorities. At the same time, there are a few profs around who do give A's for adultry. If this particular professor is a swinger type, the school should be aware of it, and I said so.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 17, a high school dropout and no writer. But I have something to say and I hope you will correct my English and print my letter.

You hear so much about kids blowing grass, getting zonked on dollies and stoned on booze. I've gone every route you can think of, including glue and catnip. I'm off everything now and I hope it isn't too late. I worry a lot that maybe I have burned my brains out and fixed it so my children will be born deformed or retarded.

I have only one thing to say to the cats who are messing around trying to turn themselves on. You won't find any answers there. You might hit on something that gives you a super boost, but remember, everything that goes up must come down. And when you come down you'll be much lower than you were to begin with. — CRAZY PUNK TRYING TO COME BACK.

* * *

DEAR TRYING: A letter like yours packs a lot more punch than a dozen lectures by someone who is theorizing. And now a word of advice to you: Get back in school and give yourself a break. Seventeen is awfully young to buy a label and wear it forever.

* * *

DEA RANN LANDERS: My husband and I sold our car and we now ride the bus. We are having a little disagreement about bus etiquette and would like you to settle it.

When we board the bus my husband insists that I go first. But when we get off the bus he steps ahead of me. I think it looks peculiar to see a man get off a bus ahead of a lady. He claims it is correct. What do you say? — LAST OFF.

DEAR OFF: He's right. The lady boards the bus first, but the man should alight first and assist her by offering his hand.

Indian and Metis Parents Fight For Control of Own Schools

EDMONTON (CP) — Indian and Metis parents are fighting for control of their own schools to rescue their culture from the depredations of middle-class white society.

Native leaders say the school system, far from adhering to the notion of a cultural "mosaic" in Canada and promoting the Indian heritage, is instead directed at assimilating Indian and Metis children into the white world.

"All the education is geared and directed to the satisfaction of the white, middle-class society who are the ones in control of the education system," says Leo Fox of the southern Alberta Blood reserve.

Writing in an Indian newspaper, Mr. Fox adds: "All that is taught is relatively alien to our way of life."

Harold Cardinal, president of the Alberta Indian Association, says "schools now try arbitrarily to assimilate the Indian because they don't recognise the value of being an Indian."

"When an Indian has to cringe every time Indians are discussed, he certainly doesn't symbolise the value of being an Indian."

Native leaders say they want to ensure accurate and full presentation of Indian history and a positive emphasis on Indian culture in school curricula. Another is representation on local school boards in particular to see that their wishes are respected.

G. Kent Goodman, assistant chief superintendent of the Indian affairs education branch, said in British Columbia that the provinces have co-operated in removing from school textbook material which "ignores, defames or disparages" the history and cultural heritage of Canada's 237,000 Indians.

That, however, is not enough for the Indians. They say the problem is not only that there is disparaging material, but also that in some significant areas there is no material at all on the Indian heritage.

Dr. Tony Fisher, professor of anthropology at the University of Alberta, says that "in order to have good books culturally relevant to Indians, the Indians, in effect, will have to write them themselves."

"They are starting to do so."

George Clutesi's book, Son of Raven, Son of Deer, was put to use in B.C. schools last year. Mr. Clutesi, an Indian from Port Alberni, B.C., began writing because there were "so many things that we Indians must tell ourselves."

"There were so many half-truths and outright inaccuracies on the part of white writers—particularly about our social customs."

Harold Cardinal says the feeling among Indians that they must control their own lives to protect their heritage goes back many years.

Indian parents saw few benefits coming from the white man's education. For Indian children, there was "a high dropout rate and shabby treatment after graduation for those who stayed in school."

In 1958, at the National School Committee conference in Edmonton, Indian representatives requested that the provincial representatives in the provinces revise school acts to allow Indian representation on provincial school boards.

Some improvements have been made in this direction, but the native leaders still are not satisfied. They also are continuing to press for more control over reserve schools.

And Saul Daniels, president of the Alberta Metis Association, says his people still seek more control over schools in Alberta's Northlands school division, where 75 per cent of the province's Metis children are educated.

Mr. Cardinal says there will be resistance to Indian and Metis control of their own schools, from those who have controlled the education of native people in the past.

"It will take a lot of work explaining to whites what we are fighting for."

Interesting Experiment In Christian Education

EDMONTON (CP) — Images sprang up on a screen in a class in the darkened room-hearts and flowers ,rounded, squiggly things, the word "love," a crude house with a little girl, the word "warmth."

There was sound — the noises of a circus, drumbeats, clicks, whirs, projectors grinding, words and numbers.

Forty children watched and listened.

It was an experiment in Christian education, conducted at Edmonton's All Saints' Cathedral by Dariel Sparling, a Grade 3 teacher who is bringing spontaneity to All Saints Sunday school.

The light-and-sound show, followed by a period in which the children produced their own show with projectors, tape recorders and other equipment, was designed to expose the/children to a "total situation," Miss Sparling said.

"Kids don't get too many opportunities to respond to a total situation.

"There is a string of associations: light, warm, love, happiness.

"It's much easier to get kids to respond in a negative way, or to respond to negative things, than it is to have them respond to positive things."

REMOVES ONION SMELL

To remove onion odor from pans and dishes, wash and dry them in the usual way, then scour with common salt and place them on the stove until the salt browns. Then wash again in the usual way.

District Women's Institutes

RIVER VALLEY W.I.

Mrs. Glenn Bennett was hostess for the July meeting of the River Valley Women's Institute with 23 members and two visitors in attendance.

The program was based on education and the hostess gave a concise summary of the Hall-Dennis report based on the book "living and learning". Mrs. Bennett explained in detail this new educational project with a wealth of ideas on what is suggested in this study.

Mrs. Philip Conley was pianist for the sing song and read a paper on the motto for the day, Mr. Bennett prepared a demonstration on "weeds and clovers".

The president, Mrs. Roy Tucker presided over the business portion of the meeting. Plans were made for a community picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bush. On August 7, three institutes will be entertained at the school house.

Forty children are enrolled in the swimming classes the gathering was informed. They will travel by chartered bus to the pool in Belleville.

Reports were given by Mrs. Gerald Brooks; Mrs. J. L. Donohoe; Mrs. Glenn Bush; Mrs. Roy Irven; Mrs. Jack Bush and Mrs. Roy Bush.

Mrs. Percy Macklin displayed "the Conference Review booklet" of the twelfth triennial of the A.C.W.W., which contained a wealth of information.

The A.C.W.W. secretary read an article from the Countrywoman magazine entitled "classrooms on wheels". This is an American experiment to make profitable use of the time usually lost on long bus trips to and from school.

At the close the meeting was ended in the usual manner, after which Mrs. Jack Bush voiced appreciation to all who contributed to the success of the afternoon.

(MOUNTAIN VIEW WI)

The July meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute was held in Wesley United Church basement with 27 ladies and a number of 4-H club girls in attendance.

Hostess was Mrs. Harold Motley assisted by Mrs. Leo Wood.

A business meeting was conducted, during which an Invitation was read from Rednerseville Women's Institute for the evening of July 24th.

The Misses Debbie Motley and Janie Minaker each gave an interesting report of the Girls' Club Convention which had been held at Guelph.

As the topic was Home Economics Mrs. Wilfred Motley, the convener was invited to take charge. She called on Mrs. Willet Barber who gave a summary of Girls' club work.

The Girls' Club leaders and senior extension leaders were presented with gifts from the Institute. Mrs. Clifford Barber presented each girl with a spoon for each project completed from the Institute.

Mrs. Lottie Green read some recipes of 1888, and Mrs. W. Nightingale gave an interesting motto.

The program was completed by a skit by the 4-H club girls. Afterward, everyone admired the girls' work which was on display.

After the meeting closed the hostesses, assisted by the lunch committee, Mrs. Clark Sprung, Mrs. Stanley Barber and Mrs. Alfred Poste served lunch with everyone enjoying a social time.

Try these Polynesian Style Pork Chops on your barbecue or grill. The smoke flavor is inimitable and the sauce in which they are marinated and brushed makes them memorable. Mary Moore gives you the whole procedure after having prepared them for a cookout supper for her guests.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Tempting Pork Chops Polynesian Style

By MARY MOORE

A friend in Vancouver sent me a new hinged broiler rack for barbecuing and I tried it out last night with some Polynesian style pork chops.

The Polynesians use a sweet and sour sauce and accompany the chops with a variety of fruits basted with the same sauce. By coincidence one of our guests wore a top and shorts she had purchased while visiting the Pacific islands so our atmosphere was a little bit authentic.

POLYNESIAN STYLE

PORK CHOPS (serves 4)

NOTE: You may use this sauce for marinating pork chops to be baked in your oven too.

Eight ¾" or four 1¼" thick pork chops

SAUCE:

1-3 cup liquid honey
1-3 cup lime or lemon juice
½ tsp. grated lime or lemon rind
2 tbsps. corn syrup
1 tbsp. soy sauce
¼ tsp. ground cloves
¼ tsp. salt

FRUIT:

1 large orange peeled and cut in 8 chunks
1-3 medium-sized cantaloupe cut in 8 chunks
2 med. underripe bananas each cut in 4 pieces crosswise

Mix together all of the sauce ingredients. Tip the sauce into a large shallow pan and place chops in it and turn each one over. Allow to soak, turning 2 or 3 times, in this marinade for an hour if possible. At cookout time transfer pork chops to hinged broiler rack or grease grill or thread onto metal skewers. Broil 5 or 6" above glowing coals until well browned on one side then turn over and cook and brown other side. One and one-quarter inch thick chops require about ½ hr. in all; thinner chops about 20 min. If you care to, brush chops with some of the remaining sauce from a small bowl.

Thread the fruit alternately on four single kabob skewers, allowing two pieces of each fruit for each skewer. Brush fruits with remaining sauce and heat, but do not brown, on grill. My guests held their own fruit skewers while I was tending the chops during their last few minutes of cooking.

This Polynesian style pork chop treatment will add another interesting item to your barbecuing repertory.

Successful Living

Bazaar Held in India Huge Success—Nets $10.

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: What a strange coincidence that you should send me the letters from Frances Stevenson of the Christian Compound at Indore. I know her and saw her frequently while in India. I really think she feels India is home, and is happier there than here.

What a chain of memories awakened by Frances suggesting sending costume jewelry. My daughter had suggested it to me before I left home so my unit at the church here brought me quite a quantity of it.

We had a bazaar in the village (in India) and had all sorts of things for sale: a gross of pencils, candy (queer stuff, made there from very coarse gur or sugar); I took several silk and chiffon scarves (used) and a lot of simple children's picture books. We even made simple corsages.

The bazaar was put on by a handful of village women (Christian). Things sold for as little as one cent (in our money), and to their utter amazement and delight they cleared $10. (because there was no expense). It was held out under a huge tree with everyone dressed in their best, the children's faces scrubbed until they shone and their hair combed and plastered down with coconut oil.

Guess what they did with their $10? They sent it to another village Christian church that was having an even harder time to keep going than they were! — Mother of a Missionary.

Dear Mother: A lovely story! The women who have responded to our call for used jewelry, clothing, cards, — and there have been many — will love to have your first-hand report.

• • •

Dear Doris: I was just reading the letter from "No Appreciation, No Say At All". She seemed to think that her husband's grandmother was old and cranky.

I work in a home for the aged and I have found that all these elderly people need is a little love and care. A bright smile first thing in the morning will last all day. Also if you have to do something extra like fixing a special meal or helping them dress, do so as if you were really glad to help, which I am.

We have 76 guests here and I have found that it works for every one of them. ¼ ¼ ¼

Please print this letter so people will know that they are not just nuisances to be gotten rid of at the first chance. — Love They Elders

Dear Love: Bless you! But do save a little sympathy for homemaker. At least the old folks in a home have faced their need for a helping hand and haven't the same need to protest against failing faculties by acting critical or superior or bossy.

• • •

Dear Doris: My grateful thanks for your nice letter. Also for the set of exercises, which I certainly will try my "darndest" to follow. — I think you may be correct in what you say about the thighs being the last part of the body to show weight loss, as I am abiding faithfully by my diet and in just the last week have noticed a shade of weight loss in my legs.

So perhaps I am on my way to conquering a lifelong embarrassing problem, thanks to your encouragement. Glad We've Got You!!

Dear Glad: With happy news like yours I'm glad you've got me, too.

• • •

Ask Doris for the information you need. If she doesn't know she'll find out from one of her consultants. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Terry, stay out of the garden. You're walking all over my flowers."

Terry: "I want to dig, too."

Mother: "You may dig in your little flower bed here. Pull out the weeds very carefully so you won't hurt the little baby plants."

A garden will bloom more sweetly for the child who is allowed to share in the work, and the wise mother plans a small plot for the pre-schooler to call his own.

Mother of Dead U.S. Soldier Hopes He Didn't Hurt Anyone

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — An American mother whose son was killed in Vietnam told Vietnamese Communist representatives Tuesday that she hoped "he didn't hurt anyone," before he died.

Helen Boston of Brooklyn, N.Y., came here to attend a demonstration against the Vietnam war which was addressed by three women representing the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, and the North Vietnamese government.

Mrs. Boston said her son was killed in the war three years ago. She carried a sign which said: My son died in vain.

"I did not send him," she said. "The government sent him. My big hope is that he didn't hurt anyone before he was killed."

Mrs. Boston was one of about 150 American women who crossed the Rainbow Bridge from Niagara Falls, N.Y., to attend the demonstration held at Kitchener Street United Church.

The group which also included several students from Buffalo, N.Y., marched across the bridge, carrying posters which read:

Withdraw U.S. troops now— We're not sending our children to die.

The march was organized by the Women's Strike for Peace movement, a United States group. The women came here because the Vietnamese women were not permitted to enter the U.S.

The Vietnamese are on a two-week tour of Canada sponsored by the Voice of Women, a Canadian group which opposes the Vietnam war.

Mother Unable to Find House, Fears She Will Lose Children

TIMMINS (CP) — A miner's wife expressed fear Tuesday that the Children's Aid Society may have to take over her 11 youngest children because she can't rent a home —something her family hasn't had for eight days now.

Forty-year-old Mrs. Leo Blanchette, her husband, and eight of their children have been sleeping on one mattress in homemade plywood cabin on the back of a pick-up truck since July 1.

Three other children were sent to the home of one of the Blanchette's older daughters when the family was given five-day notice to move out of a rented farmhouse near here because it had been sold.

The children range in age from three to 18 years. Three other Blanchette children are not living at home.

Mrs. Blanchette said in an interview the family had no alternative but to move into the makeshift mobile cabin because three landlords have refused to rent her family accommodation.

"When we go to ask about a home they ask us how many children we have. When we tell them, they don't let us have the house," she said.

"If I don't find a house pretty soon I guess I'll have to move the kids into the Children's Aid Society."

Mrs. Blanchette said she hasn't heard a word from Children's Aid since a society worker told her eight days ago that the CAS would join in the hunt for a home.

Mr. Blanchette earns $100 a week as a miner.

Procedure Study Underway

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of the Ontario legislature are getting set to appraise their housekeeping.

An all-party committee agreed Tuesday to invite house Speaker Frederick Cass and former speakers Donald Morrow and A. W. Downer to testify before the legislature's select committee on procedure next week.

Committee chairman Glen Hodgson, Conservative member for Victoria-Haliburton, said the group also wants to take a look at the operation in the House of Commons.

He said Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureaux may be asked to give his views, either here or in Ottawa.

Th committee, appointed before the legislature adjourned for the summer, was instructed to study parliamentary reform in Ontario and to bring back a report by Oct. 1.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"Ah, there you are my pretty maid — fate must have intended us to meet again."

Cigarettes Defended

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — An end to cigarette sales?

"Ecothomically it would be disaster," says John Cunningham of Montreal, assistant director of the National Association of Tobacco and Confectionary Distributors.

Mr. Cunningham, here Tuesday for a one-day regional meeting of the association, said in an interview governments would be hard-pressed to make up the lost revenue.

The government collects in the sale of cigarettes over $500,000,000 in taxes a year at the federal level and over $127,000,000 at the provincial level."

He said anti-smoking publicity has no serious effect on cigarette sales, but heavy taxation does.

'Slack' Must Be Encouraged to Halt Inflation: Rasminsky

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor Louis Rasminsky of the Bank of Canada is also a wise guy that the Commons finance committee seems to find it hard to believe he can be tough.

He doesn't, for instance, like to talk about unemployment, but he does talk about needing "a degree of slack" in the economy.

But he has every intention of being tough in the central bank's fight against inflation, he told Thursday's committee hearing.

There is no painless solution to the current inflationary wave and high interest-rate structure, he said.

Some amount of slack—meaning unemployment of both men and machines—will have to be encouraged, and favorites can't be shown the less-developed parts of the country.

Neither should any special solicitude be given to consumers wanting to increase their credit-card buying, he said.

Mr. Rasminsky returns to the committee after the Commons question period today for further cross-questioning by committee members.

He said Tuesday there is no rule of thumb among economists on how much unemployment there has to be in an economy such as Canada's to take care of those who are moving from job to job and to keep prices stable.

When unemployment drops below some magic figure—whatever it is—labor scarcities result in bidding up wages, and higher total income results in bidding up prices. Higher wages also result in higher costs, putting a double thrust on price rises.

Latest Dominion Bureau of Statistics and manpower department figures show that unemployment in May amounted to 4.7 per cent of Canada's labor force. In industrially-rich Ontario it was 3.2 per cent, but in the Atlantic provinces and Quebec it was 7.8 and 7.2 per cent respectively.

Mr. Rasminsky said the Bank of Canada is fighting inflation—and the psychology which has led people to believe prices will keep on going up—by tightening the money supply and letting interest rates rise to unprecedented levels to discourage spending.

Currency in circulation and privately-held chartered bank deposits totalled $27,687,000,000 last month, down 2.8 per cent from March. Canadian chartered banks now charge a minimum of 8½ per cent a year on loans to their most credit-worthy customers, compared with 7½ at the beginning of June.

All other interest rates range higher than these so-called "prime" rates. Some trust and loan companies are paying depositors more than eight per cent for their money, which the companies loan out at 10 per cent or more.

Department store "easy-payment" plans are charging nearly 20 per cent a year. Unless shoppers pay off one-fifth of their accounts and service charges each year, they'll never wipe out the debt.

Mr. Rasminsky said regional favoritism can't be shown in Canada to the depressed areas. If artificially low rates were set for loans in the Maritime provinces, no money would be loaned there, and any maritime lenders would move their money to central Canada.

Nor should special solicitude be shown for consumer credit, in preference to loans for business, Mr. Rasminsky said.

Chartered bank general loans in June totalled $14,673,000,000 and had grown since March at an annual rate of more than 20 per cent. But during June they were reined in with little or no expansion.

Most recent DBS figures on consumer credit show $8,-009,000,000 outstanding at the end of April, though this does not include large amounts of retail credit for such things as gasoline credit cards, doctors' and other professional services. Figures for these are either not available, or are collected only at infrequent intervals.

While Mr. Rasminsky said the fight against inflation must be persevering—and tough—he told the committee he sees a glimmer of hope that interest rates will reach their peak and turn down in the forseeable future.

He described himself as "an optimistic central banker."

To distinguish himself from the other and more dour gnomes of finance, he defined an optimistic central banker as "one who believes the situation may be deteriorating at a somewhat slower rate than it has been."

Volts with No Jolts

Ontario Hydro lineman at right wears a specially-designed suit that will protect him from 500,000 volts of electricity. Non-metallic and using a carbenized nylon thread, it creates a protective shield around the lineman so that all parts of his body receive the same charge. To prevent grounding himself, he works in a light-weight cable car made of magnesium alloy attached to the power line by insulating plastic ropes.

Police Role in Marijuana Said Alienating Youth

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation will ask the justice department to ease penalties for marijuana possession and stop "devious and demeaning tactics" of law enforcement.

A resolution adopted Tuesday at the federation's annual meeting says stiff penalties for marijuana possession led to "an alienation of youth from the law-making and law - enforcing bodies of the country."

It asks the federal government to place marijuana under the Food and Drug Act instead of the Narcotics Control Act "until such times as conclusive research findings dictate otherwise."

Another resolution says police have to resort to "devious and demeaning tactics" to obtain proof of trafficking charges under present narcotics laws. It warns that the image of law-making and enforcement bodies is "at an all-time low."

The meetings of about 20 national and provincial officers also asked that the national health department expand its research into the use of drugs, particularly marijuana and hashish.

Other resolutions ask:

—Legislation in all provinces to provide a choice of English or French-language education wherever there is a sufficient number of children who speak the minority language.

—A federal guarantee of French- and English-language rights in any revised Canadian constitutions.

—An increase in income tax deductions for dependent school children to $500 a child from $300 a child.

—Continuation of family allowances for all children.

—Federal and provincial action to prohibit non-returnable glass beverage bottles.

One in 11 Students Has Tried Drugs

TORONTO (CP) — About one in 11 Canadian high school students has used drugs or sniffed glue, a survey shows.

A preliminary report presented Tuesday to the Canadian Home and School Federation says 9.52 per cent of students from Grades 8 to 13 reported trying solvents, marijuana, LSD, amphetamines or barbiturates.

Mrs. Hyman Kucharsky of Montreal, chairman of the federation's family life committee which gathered the data last winter, said in an interview the figure seems to tally with estimates that drug use by teenagers has doubled in the last year. A small pilot study by the federation a year ago showed a 5.5 per cent rate of drug use.

Marijuana was most commonly used. Of the 2,242 students who replied, 8.11 per cent had tried marijuana, 5.86 per cent had sniffed glue or other solvents, 3.62 per cent had taken amphetamines or barbiturates and 2.24 per cent had used LSD.

New Brunswick reported the highest rate of drug users: 14.08 per cent. Saskatchewan was lowest with 5.13 per cent but Mrs .Kucharsky said liquor use there appeared higher than in other provinces.

Other rates were: Nova Scotia, 7.73 per cent; Quebec, 11.57 per cent; Ontario, 10.75 per cent, and Alberta, 9.22 per cent.

Farmer Aid Sought

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation, sponsors of a campaign to combat cigarette addiction among school children, Tuesday asked for federal relief for tobacco producers.

A resolution adopted at the federation's annual meeting asked the government "gradually to divert the tax dollars now being used to support the tobacco industry into programs of research, information and promotion for the production of crops which could become incomeproducing alternatives to tobacco."

George Gray of Toronto, who introduced the motion, said that as anti-smoking campaigns intensify "it's the farmer that's going to take a beating, not the cigarette manufacturers."

Player Picked to Stave Off Yanks

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (CP) — Peter Thomson, the only living man to win the British open golf championship five times, conceded today that the American challenge for the 1969 title is so deep and so tough that any one of the U.S. entries could win it.

But Thomson, a 39-year-old Australian, and the bookies were in agreement on one thing: South Africa's Gary Player is the man to hold back the 13-strong American contingent.

The bookies have made the little South African the 5-to-1 favorite to win the 72-hole medal play championship, beginning this morning over the Lytham course.

While Player is the favorite to retain the British Open crown he won last year at Carnoustie, Scotland, Americans Billy Casper and Jack Nicklaus are close behind (6 to 1).

Thomson, who piled up his string of British Open victories in the 1950's and in 1965, refuses to admit that he is what the bookies say—a 29-to-1 long shot. "If I get the breaks and the inspiration, I'll manage," he said.

"But I fancy Billy Casper and Gary Player. They have the middle irons this course requires right now."

BULLETIN

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (CP) — Bob Charles, New Zealand lefthander who won here six years ago, equalled his own course record with a smashing 31-35-66 to take the early lead in the first round of the British Open golf championship today.

Gary Player, 33-year-old South African who is favored to win the championship, had a 70 with a 35-35 card.

Charles, who won the British Open in 1963, had a 33-33 card.

Jack Nicklaus, the 1966 winner, had a 71 with a 35-36 card.

Other top pros entered are Bruce Devlin of Australia and Argentina's Roberto de Vicenzo, the 1967 winner.

The 150-man field embarked in search of total prize money of about $81,000. But a far larger fortune—upwards of perhaps $1,000,000—awaits the winner in the business end of the sport from endorsements of everything from golf balls and clubs to sportswear.

When Thomson was at his peak, the U.S. tour was not all that rich and his only crack at it left him somewhat cool.

But, he said, the same tour over the years has produced so many proficient golfers that the 13-man U.S. challenge in this championship can't be ignored.

But Player has the straight, precise game to whip Lytham's 6,848-yard, par-71 links in wind whipping off the Irish Sea.

As well as Casper and Nicklaus, the 1966 winner, other top Americans on hand include U.S. Masters champion George Archer, Lee Trevino, Gay Brewer and Orville Moody, the U.S. Open champion.

Europeans Give Us Permission To Bodycheck in World Hockey

NHL Players Still Outlawed

CRANS-SUR-SIERRE, Switzerland (CP) — Canada was given the chance Tuesday, after two days of hard bargaining before the International Ice Hockey Federation, to redeem some stature as a leading country in the game it invented and nurtured.

The Canadian delegation came to propose to delegates attending the IIHF annual meeting that the world heavyweight championship A pool be declared an open tournament.

This was defeated but the meeting granted the right for countries in the A pool to use nine certified professionals, reinstate amateurs less than six weeks before the world championship and employ rules with unlimited bodychecking.

This does not mean Canada may use National Hockey League players in the world tournament at Winnipeg and Montreal next March.

It simply means that any country can use nine professionals below the NHL level and fill its roster with reinstated amateurs who have retired from professional ranks.

The vote was lost by a 30-to-26 count after the right was granted to reinstate amateurs from pro ranks on Feb. 10 of the competing year instead of Aug. 31 of the preceding year.

It was at this point that J. P. (Bunny) Ahearne, European president of the IIHF, proposed that nine professional players be used by any team in 1970.

Boycott ?

Crans-Sur-Sierre, Switzerland (CP) — Canada may refuse to send a hockey team to the annual Ahearne Cup tournament in Sweden next season because of Sweden's opposition to Canadian proposals at the current meeting of the International Ice Hockey Federation.

Earl Dawson of Rivers, Man., president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said in an interview today that "as far as I am concerned, we will not be sending a team to Sweden this coming hockey season."

Canadian proposals at the federation meeting included the use of 12 professional hockey players for each team at the 1970 world tournament. The federation agreed to nine professionals. The Canadian delegation also proposed that the tournament be an open competition. Sweden opposed both of Canada's proposals in their original form.

Weight-Watching Part of the Game

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

Getting down to 242 pounds might not be your idea of a really serious attempt at reducing, but for the Apollo Barbell Club's Price Morris, that's rock-bottom.

And on a diet that often includes a daily ration of three quarts of milk, reducing is no easy matter.

But the Canadian heavyweight weight-lifting champion for the past five years has only about three pounds to shave to make him eligible for Saturday's Canadian championships in Quebec City.

Price will be joined in Quebec City by Apollo Club middleweights Bob Walt and Paul Barrett, light-heavy Gary Walt, and lightweight Enos Evans, marking the first time that any club in Canada has qualified five competitors for a national meet.

Coach Ken Carr-Braiot is betting the 28-year-old Morris can repeat as heavyweight titlist, despite an almost year-long training interruption caused by a shoulder injury.

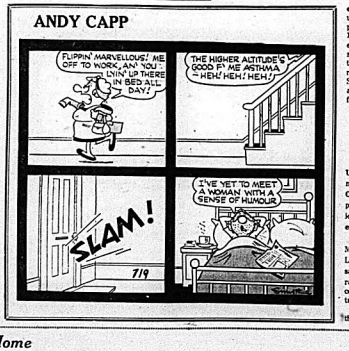
"And if he can lift 985 this weekend he qualifies for the Canadian team going to the world championships in Warsaw in September," Carr-Braiot noted.

A 1,030-pound total is Price's best lifetime mark for the required press, snatch, and clean and jerk lifts.

Twenty-year-old Bob Walt set the British Empire lightweight snatch record of 226 pounds last summer, and Paul Barrett, also 20, is holder of the junior Empire press record and current Ontario senior lightweight titlist.

While all activities at the Carr-Braint garage-Apollo clubhouse on Boswell Street are being geared towards Saturday's Canadian championships, members are already planning ahead with the announcement that the 1970 Canadian Championships and trials for the Edinburgh Commonwealth Games will be held in Belleville.

Learning Permit For Hunters?



EDMONTON (CP) — Stiffer hunting regulations for hunters under—21 were recommended to the federal-provincial conference on wildlife Tuesday.

R. C. Passmore, executive director of the Dominion Wildlife Federation, suggested a "learner licence" for young hunters.

The proposed licence would be issued only to those who passed a hunter safety program. A separate bag limit for persons under 14 would be set up.

Mr. Passmore also proposed that unlicensed hunters hunt under the close supervision of a licensed hunter who would share his bag limit.

Tennis Pros Won't Take 'No'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will make a new move today to have the Davis Cup thrown open to all tennis players, and America's champion squad is solidly behind the effort.

"We are all behind Alistair Martin (president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association)," said Arthur Ashe, the top-ranked U.S. player. "We have complete faith in what he is trying to do."

Ashe and other members of the U.S. Davis Cup team, including captain Donald Dell, are competing in the Washington Star $25,000 international championships here.

Martin leads a fight before the annual meeting of the International Lawn Tennis Federation in Prague today to have player categories defined differently and to give national associations more autonomy in granting playing privileges to their competitors.

The move, in effect, can have the result of opening up Davis Cup play to pros such as Rod Laver, Pancho Gonzales, Ken Rosewall and Dennis Ralston—a privilege vetoed last week by the Davis Cup nations. It categories are redefined by the ILTF, the Davis Cup action, which carried by a slim 21-to-19 vote, can be negated.

The Associated Press has learned that if the U.S. campaign, supported by England, France and Australia, fails, the big four tennis nations may pull out and form an international organization of their own.

Quinte's Betty Ingram Shaves Score by Six

TORONTO (CP-Staff) — It's people like Betty Ingram that keep Marlene Stewart Streit from stealing the show at the Ontario women's amateur golf championship.

While Mrs. Streit, continued to pull away from the field with a 36-hole total of 147, the Roy of Quinte Country Club's 10-time champ did an impressive job of score-shaving in Tuesday's second round of the three-round tourney. A 79, with her opening 85 put Mrs. Ingram in a four-way tie for eleventh spot, well in front of such competition as Kingston's "Cookie" Cartwright (88-83-171) and national junior girls' titlist Linda Devine of Toronto (88-82-170).

Quinte's Ann Acton shot a second round 95 to go with an opening 93 for a 188 total for 36 holes. Clubmate Ena Corke came in with a 99 Tuesday to give her 97-99-196, while Betty Walmsley's 107-104-211 accounted for the fourth Bay of Quinte total.

Meanwhile Gayle Hitchens Borthwick said Tuesday that only "a miracle" will prevent Marlene Stewart Streit from capturing her sixth provincial title following second round play at the Ontario women's amateur golf championship.

Mrs. Borthwick, the former Canadian champion from Mississauga, Ont., shot a par 74 in the second round, the best performance of any of the 146 competitors. But she still trailed

BETTY INGRAM

Mrs. Streit by five strokes going into today's final round.

Mrs. Streit, of Fonthill, Ont., the defending champion, had a one-over-par 73 following her two-under-par 72 in the opening day competition.

Mrs. Streit had an excellent start in Tuesday's play, scoring three birdies on the first five holes at Oshawa Valley Golf and Country Club course in nearby Mississauga.

But then she only managed one-over-par for four successive holes to finish with a two-day total of 147. Mrs. Borthwick had 152, followed by Pam Miller of Oshawa with 156 and Sue Higgs of London with 158.

Mrs. Borthwick missed four putts under three feet, two of them closer than 24 inches.

But she finished the second round with an eagle on the short but tricky 360-yard, par-five 18th.

Jackie Rosart of Burlington, Ont., who started competition again this season after an absence of seven years, slipped to fifth place with a score of 159. She was in third place after the first round.

The second round of the tournament also determined the makeup of the four-member Ontario interprovincial team.

Mrs. Streit clinched a berth Monday and after Tuesday's play she was given 44 points. Mrs. Borthwick locked up the second berth with 22 points, followed by Mrs. Higgs with 20,

Deacon Jones Beat Robinson to Hall of Fame by 10 Years

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Quick now, who was the first Negro admitted to baseball's Hall of Fame?

If you said Jackie Robinson, you're wrong. He is Deacon Jones and he was admitted in 1952—10 years before Robinson.

Deacon, whose real name is Grover Jones Jr., has been working as a hitting instructor for five seasons and now is with Duluth Dukes of the Northern League.

Deacon was named American Legion baseball Player of the Year for 1951. In that year, as a 17-year-old catcher, he led all hitters during the regionals, sectionals and finals with a .408 average to win the batting trophy.

He was signed after college by Chicago White Sox and hit .318 at Waterloo, Iowa, in 1955.

Brought up with the parent club in spring training at Tampa, Fla., in 1956, the White Sox were drooling over Deacon's prospects.

Thege his career took a definite turn.

"I was as excited and enthused as any rookie," the 35-year-old Jones recalled recently.

"In an exhibition game I hit one up the alley in right center, and trying to make an impression, tried to stretch it into a triple.

"The play was close at third and I dove head first for the bag. All my weight came down on my right shoulder. It tore the large biceps muscle. I stayed in the game, but the next day I couldn't move my arm."

At 22, his baseball days were numbered. Years of treatment failed to make the lame arm respond.

After his injury, Jones became a student of the science of hitting.

"I always had the feeling my arm would come back," he said. "That's what kept me going."

"But I realized if I was going to go anywhere, my bat would have to carry me. Hitting became an obsession with me. I learned all I could about it."

Jones played well in the minors, collecting a .409 batting average one year and winning a Silver Bat award. But the effort only gained a brief trial in the major leagues with Chicago White Sox a few years ago.

But the Chicago staff saw something in Jones that made him worth more than just a player. They asked him to stay on as a coach and hitting instructor in their farm system.

His work in the minors is beginning to show up in the Chicago lineup.

Carlos May, Bill Melton, Ed Herrmann, Gail Hopkins, Rich Morales, Buddy Bradford, all have come under Deacon's tutelage the last several years in the minors and represent the White Sox hopes for the future.

Braves Feel Pain of Dodger Aches

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angeles Dodgers ache all over but Atlanta Braves are feeling the pain.

Led by injured Manny Mota, who banged out eight hits, one short of the major league record for most hits in a doubleheader, the Dodgers swept Atlanta 9-3 and 4-3 Tuesday night and took over first place in the National League's Western Division from the Braves by one-half game.

After rapping seven singles and a double in 10 at-bats, driving in three runs, scoring twice and stealing a base, Mota limped into the clubhouse, where his left elbow and left knee were packed in ice.

Mota broke the elbow playing winter ball in the Dominican Republic and injured the knee sliding a few days ago. The elbow probably will require post-season surgery, but the injuries didn't stem the five-foot-11, 168-pound outfielder from raising his average since coming to the Dodgers from Montreal Expos to .412 and his overall mark to .366.

Elsewhere, New York-Mets rallied to nip Chicago 4-3 and trimmed the Cubs' lead in the East to four games, Cincinnati Reds whipped San Diego 8-2, San Francisco Giants turned back Houston Astros 7-4, St. Louis Cardinals downed Philadelphia Phillies 6-3 and Pittsburgh Pirates walloped Montreal 8-2.

Mota's big night began with an infield hit in the first inning of the opener, after Frank Aaron had put the Braves ahead 1-0 with his 32rd home run and 83rd of his career. Willie Davis singled Mota to third and they both scored when Orlando Cepeda threw wildly to second trying to trap Davis in a rundown.

In the third inning, Mota singled and was out trying for a double. In the fourth, he doubled a run home and was out trying for third. In the sixth he got a harmless single and he filed out in the eighth.

Mota singled in the first inning of the second game and stole second, but was stranded. He wasted a single in the third and grounded out in the sixth, one of 14 straight batters retired by Don Reed.

But Maury Wills broke the spell in the eighth with a two-out triple and Mota singled him in, cutting Atlanta's lead to 2-1. Mota then scored the tying run on singles by Davis and Len Gabrielson.

The Braves went ahead 3-2 in the ninth on Rico Carty's pinch double, but Tom Haller, who homered in the first game, started another rally with a leadoff double in the Dodgers' half.

A single by Bill Sudakis knotted the score again and, after a single by Willie Crawford, the Braves elected to walk Willie Intentionally and pitch to Mota. He promptly singled, scoring Sudakis with the winning run.

Cleon Jones belted a game-tying two-run double and scored the winning run on Ed Kranepool's two-out bloop single as the amazing Mets rallied for three runs in the ninth to trip the Cubs and Ferguson Jenkins, the Chicago relief native.

Until the fateful last inning, Jenkins had allowed only one hit, Kranepool's fifth-inning homer. Ernie Banks and Jim Hickman connected for Chicago.

Tony Cloninger hurled a five-hitter, retiring the side in order in seven of the nine innings, and Tommy Helms and Alex Johnson laced two-run singles as Cincinnati overpowered San Diego. The Reds trail Los Angeles by three games.

The Giants, 3½ games back, had dropped seven in a row to Houston. But they rallied for five runs in the eighth to whip the Astros and Larry Dierker. Ken Henderson's single tied the score 3-3, John Stephenson singled home the lead run and singles by Tito Fuentes and Ron Hunt, each of whom doubled in a run in the seventh, produced three more. Jim Wynn homered twice for the losers.

Bob Gibson, staked to five early runs, including Phil Gagliano's first homer, survived a shaky start for his 11th victory and hurled St. Louis past Philadelphia, although he surrendered eight hits and seven walks. The Cards have won four straight, their longest streak of the year.

Steve Blass fired a three-hitter and Roberto Clemente belted three hits, including a two-run homer, as Pittsburgh routed Montreal and snapped a seven-game losing streak.

Lolich String Snapped By Red Sox Mound Prodigy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mike Nagy, Boston Red Sox' 21-year-old pitching prodigy, ended Mickey Lolich's string of nine consecutive victories Tuesday night with a 4-1 three-hit triumph over Detroit Tigers.

The Red Sox' right-hander also drove in the first two runs of his brief major league career with a second-inning single—after Lolich loaded the bases on three straight walks.

Nagy, who has been beaten just once—by the Red Sox 5-4 on April 25—in 19 previous verdicts, ranked as the ninth-best World Series, since last Sept. 9.

The victory sent the Red Sox back into second place in the American League's Eastern Division—one half game ahead of the Tigers—after they lost Monday night to Baltimore's runaway Orioles, who swept a twi-night doubleheader from New York Yankees 10-3 and 4-1.

Elsewhere, Chicago White Sox knocked Oakland slugger Reggie Jackson in a doubleheader split with the Athletics, taking the nightcap after a 2-1 loss. Cleveland Indians pitched around big Frank Howard and tripped Washington Senators 6-5. Cesar Tovar's first 1969 homer got Minnesota Twins past Kansas City Royals 4-3 and Seattle Pilots beat California Angels 3-1 on Don Mincher's three-run blast.

Nagy was tagged for a first-inning double by Tom Brenen but then held the Tigers hitless until the eighth, when Dick McAuliffe singled. A hit batsman Jim Northrup's double and a ground out produced Detroit's lone run in the ninth.

Lolich walked Tony Conigliaro, George Scott and Russ Gibson in the second before Nagy's single to right put Boston ahead to stay.

Batting—Manny Mota, Los Angeles Dodgers, rapped out seven singles and a double in 10 at-bats—one short of the major league record for most hits in a doubleheader—drove in three runs, including the winner in the nightcap, as Los Angeles swept Atlanta Braves 5-3, 4-3.

Pitching—Mike Cuellar, Baltimore Orioles, stopped New York Yankees on three hits—a homer and two singles, all by Ron Woods—in Baltimore's 4-1 triumph in the second game of a twi-nighter.

The Orioles, who had lost four of their previous five starts, established a 10½-game club record—in the fourth inning of the opener. Right-hander Tom Phoebus drove in his eighth victory against two losses.

Doug Powell crashed a three-run homer and Frank Robinson and Dave Johnson each stroked a two-run inning, enabling right-hander Tom Bradley to coast home for an 8-2 mark.

Mike Cuellar stopped the Yankees on three hits in the first game by rookie Ron Woods—in the second game as the Orioles moved 11½ lengths ahead of the pack.

Jackson, the majors' home-run leader with 34, went hitless in six trips at Chicago, where Oakland took the opener behind Jim (Catfish) Hunter and the White Sox rebounded on a pair home-baked triple by Tom McCraw.

Hunter scattered seven hits and struck out nine as the Athletics snapped a four-game losing streak, but McCraw's sixth-inning triple with the bases loaded Chicago flurry that decided the nightcap.

Jackson, whose errant throw in the third inning of the nightcap hit teammate Danny Cater in the back of the neck, knocking him out of the game, has gone 5-for-30, with only one homer, against the White Sox this year.

Cleveland pitchers baffled Howard, who smacked his 31st and 32nd homers Monday night against the Indians, twice intentionally—once with the bases empty.

Howard still managed to deliver one run with a sacrifice fly, but the Indians came from behind to win with a three-run seventh-inning rally climaxed by Ken Harrelson's 13th homer.

Expos Make Turn In Typical Fashion

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Expos started the second half of their National League season on the wrong foot Tuesday, losing 8-1 to the Pirates in Pittsburgh.

In 81 games played by the Expos in the first half, they won 26 and lost 55. Their record against Eastern Division teams is 20-39 while they are 6-26 against Western division clubs.

The Expos enjoyed most of their first-half success against Chicago Cubs, Eastern Division leaders, with six wins and eight losses.

There have been as many highlights as disappointments for the fledglings.

On opening day, April 8, the Expos defeated the Mets 11-10 at Shea Stadium in New York.

Pitcher Dan McGinn will go down in the record books as the first Expo to hit a home run. He connected in the fourth inning to give Montreal a 4-3 lead against New York.

McGinn was also a hero here on opening day April 14 at Jarry Park. He was the winning pitcher as the Expos defeated St. Louis Cardinals 8-7 before more than 29,000 fans in the first major league game in Canada.

Three days later in Philadelphia, right-hander Bill Stoneman etched his name in the record book with a 7-0 no-hitter against the Phillies.

There were unpleasant moments for the Expos:

When Houston Astros defeated the Expos 10-3 at Jarry Park on May 13, Montreal started a 20-game losing streak against Western Division clubs. The streak ended June 8 when Montreal defeated Los Angeles 4-3.

The Expos return to Jarry Park next Monday to open an eight-game, seven-day stand. Club officials are looking to capacity crowds during that stretch which will see Pittsburgh and New York visiting.

So far, the Expos have drawn 543,091 fans in 35 home dates and the fans have turned up in all kinds of weather to support their ball club.

The Expos hope to improve on their home record. In 38 home games, the Expos have only won 9. As Bob Bailey said following the Expos' recent series in Philadelphia, "It's a shame we don't win more often for those people — we should do better than that."

Grand Circuit Trots Returning to Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Billy Haughton, one of North America's most successful harness racing drivers, had his first look at Toronto's Greenwood Raceway Tuesday, from the air.

But an airport control tower operator decided Haughton and his pilot, Greenwood racing director Ed Bradley, were not welcome.

"Get the heck out of there," the aircraft's radio blared.

"Apparently we were in the way of another aircraft taking off from the Island Airport," Bradley said in an interview later.

Haughton, 46, a native of Gloversville, N.Y., will drive several horses at Greenwood next week when Grand Circuit racing returns to Toronto after an absence of 34 years. The series of races, which will make 22 stops at North American tracks this year, last appeared in Toronto at the old Thorncliffe Park in 1935. The Grand Circuit, which started in 1871, has had races at Montreal's Blue Bonnets track for the past two years.

The series features North America's best fao and three-year-old pacers and trotters. "Grand Circuit racing gives the people a chance to see not only the outstanding young trotters and pacers," Bradley said, "but a chance to see such drivers as Haughton in action."

Haughton directs 146 horses and works for 32 owners.

Bombers Detour Montreal Flights

WINNIPEG (CP) — Quarterbacks John Schneider and Lucien Sebo each threw a touchdown pass Tuesday night as Winnipeg Blue Bombers blasted Montreal Alouettes 18-0 in a Canadian Football League exhibition game before about 14,000 fans.

Blue Bombers latched on to six of seven pass interceptions, twice pulling out of trouble when Montreal was threatening.

Pierre Guindon converted both touchdowns, added a field goal and kicked a 65-yard single on a kickoff following Winnipeg's second touchdown. The ball went into the Montreal end zone and Danny Houston was rouged in an attempt to run it back out.

All-star fullback Ken Nielsen and rookie halfback Jim Walker caught the touchdown passes.

Winnipeg scored a touchdown in the second quarter and completed the scoring in the fourth.

Bombers were effectively contained in their own end all the first quarter but struck early in the second after Schneider hit Nielsen for a 30-yard pass-and-run play to the Montreal 10-yard line. Nielsen beat Montreal's Rod Woodward for the touchdown two plays later after Bombers had been forced back to the 16.

Montreal missed a scoring opportunity early in the second half when both Donnie David and Roger Murphy got in the clear only to have Carroll Williams throw short on a pass.

Twice Montreal was stopped deep in Winnipeg territory by pass interceptions.

Winnipeg's total offence was 293 yards compared with 177 for Montreal. Schneider and Sebo passed for 234 yards. Williams and Bill Frank got only 123 yards through the air.

Ann's A Fair-weather Hockey Player

By MALCOLM JOHNSTON
Staff Sportswriter

Ann Thompson goes to great lengths to practise her sport.

About 180 miles, to be exact.

Ann, the Quinte area's lone field hockey player, commutes from Belleville to Toronto by bus or train twice a week to attend her team's regular practise sessions at Sunnybrook Field, Toronto.

Her travelling diligence since early May paid off last week. Ann was one of 11 girls chosen to represent Ontario in the Canadian Women's Field Hockey Championships at the Canada Summer Games in Halifax...Aug. 15-22.

Field hockey is virtually unknown in the Quinte area. It most closely resembles soccer in nature. There are 11 players — five forwards, two fullbacks, three halfbacks and a goaltender — and the game is played on a regulation football field. The net has exactly the same dimensions as a soccer goal.

Rounded sticks about three feet long with a flat head on one side are used to hit a hard cork ball the same size as a baseball.

Players cannot touch the ball except for stopping it with their hand, and cannot swing their sticks above the shoulders. Games are low scoring since goals must come from within a 15-yard semi-circle in front of the goal.

Endurance is a key to field hockey success. Each game is composed of two 35-minute halves and substitution is not allowed except in the case of injury.

The resultant training keeps Ann Thompson occupied five days a week, leaving two days for practising in Toronto.

On alternate days she runs two miles or does 70 wind sprints of 100 yards each.

A graduate of Moira Secondary School and the University of Toronto, the 21-year-old Humewood Drive resident is in her third year as tennis instructress at the Quinte Figure Skating and Tennis Club.

She was always a tennis buff but did not come into contact with field hockey until her third year at the University of Toronto.

"I just wanted to try it and I seemed to pick it up quickly," said Ann who started playing inter-faculty field hockey at the University of Toronto and then attended a field hockey camp in Maine early last fall.

A member of the University team which captured the championship in the 10-team Intercollegiate league last fall, Ann was selected for a tryout camp at McMaster University this May. One of 22 players selected from 60 at the McMaster camp, Ann commuted to Toronto during the month of June for the final trials to select the Ontario team and it was only last week that the 11-woman squad and two alternates were selected.

"I guess I was attracted to the sport because I enjoy getting out and running and field hockey is one of the few outdoor team sports available to women," Ann added.

"Most girls don't mind running but they are a little afraid of sticks. We don't wear pads although you're allowed to wear shin pads if you want to. There are few injuries but bruised shins are commonplace."

An Honors History graduate from the University of Toronto Ann will seek a Masters degree in Physical Education at the University of Michigan starting in the fall of 1970. This fall she will attend the University of Toronto to make up the Physical Education credits she needs to enter the University of Michigan.

The extra year in Toronto will enable Ann to play field hockey for the intercollegiate team again and give her a chance to work towards her goal — a place on the Canadian Women's Field Hockey team which competes on an international level.

PUSH THAT BALL — Ann Thompson practices a push shot — one of the intricacies of field hockey passing techniques — during one of her five-a-week practice sessions in preparation for her role as left inner forward on the Ontario Women's Field Hockey team which will represent the province at the Canada Games in Halifax, August 15-22.

Reid Avenges Loss to City Hotel As Juniors Force Another Jam at Top

Richard Ellis Juniors avenged last week's 5-2 loss to City Hotel by riding a pair of City errors and "Scotty" Reid's two-hit pitching to a 1-0 victory over the Hotelmen in the opening game of Tuesday night's Commercial Softball League double-header at Alemite ball park.

Reid, who moved the Juniors into a three - way tie for first place with Stinson's Construction and City Hotel, All three clubs have won 10 games, but the Juniors have an advantage for they have lost only four games to date, while Stinson's have lost five and City Hotel seven.

Meanwhile a six - hit five run fifth inning enabled Corby's Distillery to rebound from an 8-0 loss to Stinson's Monday night and drop Belvedere Hotel 6-2 in the nightcap of Tuesday night's Commercial League doubleheader.

Last Wednesday City drove Reid from the mound after two innings with five hits and four runs and Stinson's stymied the Juniors with a three - hitter as City moved into sole possession of first place in the seven team Commercial Softball League, but Tuesday night it was a different story.

Reid limited City to just two hits — a third inning double by Elliot and a ninth inning single by Bob Growden — and faced just 25 men in the seven inning game. He struck out nine and issued two free passes.

Ethier threw hitless ball for four innings and also came up with a two - hitter, but a pair of fourth inning errors cost City the game.

Ellis' cleanup hitter Paul Goodfellow tallied the game's only run in the bottom of the fourth inning when he reached second on a two - base error by City shortstop Pug Kellar and scored on a two - base throwing error by City pitcher Larry Potter. The Juniors only hits were a fifth inning single by John Campbell and a sixth inning safety by Bob Parsons.

CORBY'S 6
BELVEDERE 2

Fifth inning singles by Bob Annandale and Chuck Rowbotham, Dave Sneddon, Ralph Boomhower, Gary McMillan and Ross Empey produced five runs and powered Corby's to their 6-2 win over Belvedere in the second game of Tuesday night's Commercial loop doubleheader.

Reid's win — their fourth in the last five games — was the club's sixth of the season and boosted the Distillers into a fourth place tie with Belvedere.

Belvedere's loss left the Hotelmen mired in the league cellar alongside the Black Diamond Cleaners. Both clubs have won five games and lost ten.

Carl Boomhower went the distance for Corby's Tuesday night. He scattered five hits, fanned one man and didn't issue a walk. Losing hurler Wayne McConnell gave up ten hits and struck out eight without walking anyone.

Gary McMillan topped Corby's at the plate with a double and single while Bob Wannamaker and Ralph Boomhower also collected two hits apiece for the winners. Chuck Rowbotham, Dave Sneddon, Wayne Bumstead and Ross Empey all had base hits for Corby's.

Bob Lloyd with a pair of singles, Doug Ross with a two - bagger and Cliff Hinsman and Lyle Wannamaker with singles accounted for Belvedere's five hits.

Conlin Helps Self To Keep Turbos on Top

The Turbos completely buried the Intelligencer last night in a Departmental Softball game to the tune of 11-0, scoring seven runs in the sixth inning.

Ron Conlin pitched the full seven innings for the winners allowing only two hits and one walk while striking out six batters.

Ron Culloden and Dave Empey each collected two hits for the losers and gave up eleven runs and eleven hits.

The pitcher for the Turbos, Ron Conlin, hammered out two homers, one of which was a grand slam. Percy Stiles, Dave Plumbe and Bill Nancarrow managed two singles each for the winners.

The Intelligencer was limited to singles by Maurice Switzer and Ron Broadbridge.

The win put the Turbos four points out in first place, ahead of their nearest rival, the Combines.

Merchants Lose Before 68 Trenton Fans

The Quinte Merchants Ontario Baseball Association Senior "A" club continued to run into rough going last night and dropped a 17-6 decision to the defending Canadian Senior "A" champion Brooklin Redmen Tuesday night at the Trenton Community Gardens.

Tuesday's loss, the Merchants 12th in 15 league games to date, failed to alter the league standings with Brooklin still leading the five team league and the Merchants bringing up the rear.

Playing coach Don Craig paced the Redmen Tuesday night with three goals while teammates Jimmy Campbell, Glen Linton, Neil Armstrong, Dave Houston and Paul Tran each scored a pair of goals.

Doug Maynard topped the Merchants' scorers with a pair of goals in the game watched by 68 spectators. The Merchants' next game is scheduled for Thursday when the club travels to Brantford for an 8:30 p.m. encounter with the Brantford Excelsiors.

Shannonville Up Six After Trouncing Latta

League-leading Shannonville scuttled fourth place Latta 11-5 behind Glen Hancock's five-hit pitching Tuesday night to extend their lead to six points over second place Frank's Concrete in the five team South Hastings Baseball League.

Barbecued Chicken fanned a pair and issued only one free pass over the six inning distance as Shannonville won its 12th game in 16 starts to date.

Doug Green and Bob Smith shared the pitching chores for the losers and gave up 11 hits and two walks while striking out half a dozen men.

Bud Hill sparked the Shannonville attack with a triple and a pair of singles; Dave Lewis stroked three singles for the winners and Wayne Sager banged out a triple and single. Bob Smith, Gary Hancock, Doug Geen, Dave Julian and Keith Park all hit safely for Latta.

'Roar!'

The Belleville Lions took advantage of six errors and dumped the Napanee Juniors 7-5 in an EOBA Midget contest last night at Parkdale field.

The Lions scored four runs in the first inning to get off to a fast start and build up a safe lead before Napanee's three-run eighth-inning comeback.

Belleville used three pitchers, Waybi Farrell, Doug Dersnah and Rick Graham while Wayne Gibson went the distance for Napanee.

Brian Coughlin, Rick Meagher, Randy Burke, Rick Graham, and Paul Hall managed singles for the Lions. Napanee outhit Belleville by hammering out ten singles but they could not follow up and score the runs needed to win.

Walkathon Planned

The Minor Sports Association met last night to discuss arrangements for the Walkathon on September 27 to help build the new Quinte Recreation Centre.

Pledge cards will be distributed to local business establishments and industries. People soliciting for the Walkathon will carry a letter of introduction from the Association.

An alternate date for the walkathon was set in case rain interferes with the proceedings. The alternate date is Saturday, October 4.

Sports On All Fronts

BISLEY, England (CP) — Canada's armed forces contingent was awarded its second individual trophy and two high team placings Tuesday as it seemed headed for one of its best showings in years at the annual Commonwealth rifle shoot. Delayed tabulations from Monday's opening competition gave the Canadians a second and a third team placing and two individual wins against about 300 service marksmen, including champions of all branches of Britain's armed forces.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) It may surprise many sports buffs, but Sandra Post of Oakville isn't the only Canadian on the U.S. women's professional golf circuit. Sandra was the first — she was among the top 20 on the tour last year — but she has been joined by Jancy Smith, 26, of Windsor, Ont., who plays out of Freeport, Grand Bahamas. A former school teacher, the 5-foot-8, 140-pound golfer turned professional four months ago. She will play in the 54-hole Supertest Women's open tournament at Toronto starting Thursday.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cassius Clay — Muhammad Ali — announced himself "overweight but fast" before going through a six-round gymnasium workout. Amid speculation the former world heavyweight boxing champion might be planning a return to the ring, Clay boxed two rounds Saturday and another six Monday. Clay's draft evasion case is being appealed and, if the guilty verdict is overturned, he could return to boxing.

Joe Thomas, president of Windfields Farms, sees the horse owner's problem.

"He has some bad days all right, but you can tell he's happy in this surroundings."

Our veterinary staff keeps a close eye on him and they feel that he's fine now.

"But when that bad weather comes in the fall, I don't know. That might be it."

Actually the first well-known horse Taylor had was Mona Bell. She took him and a gelding lead in the 1938 King's Plate and only yielded in the closing yards to Dark Love by less. Shortly afterwards, she fractured a leg and was killed.

Taylor acquired her sister, Irideflo, who in later years gave birth to Bennington, Bettannia, Canadiana and Victoriana.

Canadiana was the first Canadian horse to earn more than $100,000 in purses. Victoriana never made it into competition, but produced the great Victoria Park and later Victoria Regina, the dam of Viceregal.

Victoriana's father was Windfields.

Taylor thought he had a Plate winner with Windfields, but the horse was barred from the 1946 Plate because it was raced outside the country. At that time the Plate rules prohibited that.

Windy Enjoys Life Of Retired Winner

TORONTO (CP) — He's 26 years old, but he won't look up to watch a cute little filly prance by. He's a horse, and at that age he just grazes and leisurely munches his feed.

Windy, as the racetrackers used to call him, is enjoying a dignified, inactive retirement at E. P. Taylor's farm which bears the thoroughbred's name: Windfields.

He was the first truly outstanding runner Taylor developed, and he provided the foundation upon which most of the Taylor stable was built.

Taylor says Windfields is beginning to show his age.

"He gets quite badly crippled in the cold weather and I'm told the merciful thing to do may be to put him down. If he's going to be suffering, then that's the way I want it. But I don't care to be around when it happens."

"I want a country that's lovely and romantic—he wants one where he can get ham and eggs for breakfast."

Manitoba MLA Wins Support For Going NDP

WINNIPEG (CP) — In English and French the message came through: St. Boniface is for Larry Desjardins and he is for St. Boniface.

Mr. Desjardins, the Liberal who gave the New Democratic Party its 29th seat for a majority government, received an overwhelming vote of confidence at a meeting of 1,000 constituents Tuesday night.

There were only 13 dissenters in a show-of-hands vote.

Elected as one of five Liberals in the June 25 Manitoba election, he joined the NDP caucus July 1, but later said he wanted the constituency to voice its support for him as Liberal Democrat. He insists he is still a Liberal.

"I know my career is finished now," he said in an interview after the meeting where he was welcomed with cheering and extended applause.

"I'll never be a cabinet minister or anything."

Ed Schreyer, 33-year-old leader of the NDP, is to announce today the makeup of his cabinet, but it will not include Mr. Desjardins—"I made no deal that would be advantageous to me personally."

Mr. Schreyer, who came from Ottawa three weeks before the election, led the party to one of the biggest political upsets in Canadian history.

NDP candidates swept 28 of 57 seats to topple the Progressive Conservative administration of Premier Walter Weir, defeating five cabinet ministers in the onslaught.

Conservatives won 22 seats and the Liberals five—including Mr. Desjardins—and a Social Crediter and an independent were elected.

Mr. Schreyer needed the 29th seat to form a majority government and has offered the Speaker's job to Jake Froese, the lone Social Crediter.

The 45-year-old Mr. Desjardins, who has represented the French-flavored area adjacent to Winnipeg for 10 years as a Liberal, said when he announced his support for Mr. Schreyer: "I never thought I'd be a member of the caucus—I just wanted to make sure there was a government."

Mr. Desjardins won June 25 by 1,330 votes over the NDP candidate.

Warning Was Not Understood

SUBIC BAY (AP) — The deck officer of the U.S. destroyer sliced in halves by an Australian aircraft carrier says he misunderstood a message warning that the two ships were on a collision course.

The officer refused to testify formally, but made statements that were read on board of inquiry at this Philippines U.S. naval base today indicating confusion over the message apparently led to the June 3 collision that killed 74 American sailors.

The unsworn statements were made a few hours after the crash by Lieut. Ronald C. Ramsey of Long Beach, Calif., the duty officer aboard the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans at the time it collided with the Australian carrier Melbourne in the South China Sea.

The statements said Ramsey thought the Melbourne had sent him a message saying it was changing its course to 160 degrees. This would have meant the carrier was making a left turn.

The Melbourne's commander had testified the message stated the carrier's course was 260 degrees. Officers aboard other ships in the area confirmed his testimony.

After the message was sent, the Evans and the Melbourne collided while trying to avoid each other.

Nova Scotia Liberals Finally Win Election

MUSQUODOBOIT HARBOR, N.S. (CP) — The Liberals retained the Halifax Eastern Shore riding Tuesday with their first win in five byelections called since the last Nova Scotia general election in 1967.

A. Garnet Brown, 39, a Halifax food broker, polled 3,955 votes to win the seat held by Dr. Duncan MacMillan until his death earlier this year.

Progressive Conservative Murray Prest had 2,980 votes and Stephen Hart, the New Democratic Party candidate, had 203.

The returning office closed for the night after 39 of the 60 polls in the riding had reported. Results were expected today from an advance poll in which about 100 persons voted.

Mr. Prest, a 44-year-old lumberman, conceded the election in a surprise announcement at PC headquarters here. At the time, only 17 polls had reported and results showed Mr. Brown with 956 votes and Mr. Prest with 776.

But official returns were slow coming in and unofficial results at party headquarters showed the Liberals leading by about 600 votes when the announcement was made.

The election gave the Liberals five seats in the 46-seat house, compared with 41 for the Conservatives.

Mr. Brown's plurality of about 1,000 was an increase from Dr. MacMillan's 519 in the 1967 election when he polled 4,201 votes. Mr. Prest's total of 3,289 was down from the 3,682 votes Conservative Nelson Gaetz received in 1967.

The New Democratic Party had been hopeful following the upset win by the party in Manitoba's general election June 25, but Mr. Hart, a 25-year-old schoolteacher, polled only 209 votes compared with 608 for NDP candidate James Yetman in 1967.

About 7,500—69 per cent—of the 12,500 eligible voters cast ballots.

Sub Leaks

INVERNESS (AP) — A midget American submarine joined the hunt for Scotland's Loch Ness monster Tuesday and promptly sprang a leak. Another submarine, meanwhile, was in operation.

It was the second snag in the plans of the Loch Ness Phenomena Investigation Bureau, a British-American group determined to seek out the monster in its lair—if it exists.

Pesticides Act Violations Go Undetected Says Official

TORONTO (CP) — W. L. Smith, health department officer in charge of enforcing the Pesticides Act, Tuesday told an unofficial inquiry into the deaths of 10 ducks on Wards Island in Toronto harbor that many violations of the act go undetected.

If 200 college students were employed by his department to search out violations, he said, "you'd have to lend me 10 lawyers to handle all the prosecutions that would probably come along."

Mr. Smith said that the 20 inspectors in his department, are doing a good job of finding and prosecuting offenders of the Pesticides Act of 1967 which sets regulations for licensing of commercial spray operators and exterminators.

Dr. Donald Chant, head of the University of Toronto zoology department, told Mr. Smith that Dianizon, the pesticide alleged to have killed the ducks is available commercially in Toronto.

Dr. Chant said Monday the amount of Dianizon found in two of the ducks was 81.5 and 66 parts per 1,000,000, more than four times the lethal dose for ducks.

The two-day hearing was sponsored by a U of T group, the pollution probers, and a citizen's group, Action to Stop Pollution.

Two Hurt On Motorbike

PICTON — Two Prince Edward young people received minor injuries Sunday afternoon when the motorcycle they were riding rolled off County Road 12, 1¼ miles from Bloomfield.

Donald H. Burns, 16, Picton, and Susan Craig, RR8, Picton were en route to Outlet Park when the motorcycle driven by Burns had a flat tire and went off the road.

Miss Craig suffered a head injury requiring stitches, while Mr. Burns received body abrasions.

Both were taken to Prince Edward County Memorial hospital for treatment, then released.

He's Not Worried

'Dirty-book' Editor Defends His Role

TORONTO (CP) — Ever wonder about those books at the back of small shops? The books sealed in plastic or in a plain brown paper bag marked Adults Only?

Stephen Max Allen can tell you all about them. He can tell you about homosexuality, voyeurism, sadism, lesbianism, even bestiality and necrophilia. That's his business and he describes it bluntly:

"I'm in the dirty-book business."

Mr. Allen, 29 and a graduate in English from Cornell University who taught for three years at the New York Medical College, is an expert in the field of addiction, and the only dirty-book editor in Canada.

"I'll tell you everything you want to know about the dirty-book business because I know it inside out. And I think I play a very important role in society today. People want and need dreams and fantasies."

Mr. Allen solicits manuscripts and edits them, making sure they contain what the reader is looking for. He doesn't write any of the books himself "except those introductions you see written by Dr. So-and-So, PhD, MD, or whatever degree I decide to pretend I have that day."

He says he is the only editor of his kind in Canada and handles the only line of its kind that originates out of Toronto, a 25-book series called Taurus Publications. The books are printed in California and marketed all over the United States and Canada.

Some manuscripts he contracts from authors he knows —one is a teacher—and pays $900 for a finished work. Cost of printing the paperbacks is seven cents a book, but high distribution costs raise the price to $1.75.

Asked about a crackdown in Canada on obscenity and pornography, Mr. Allen said he is somewhat annoyed because he has several thousand books at a warehouse near the airport held up by customs officials.

"But I'm not worried—these things come in spurts. There's no organized and prolonged attempt to smother the market here as there was in the U.S. two years ago. It's a sporadic thing."

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We have friends arriving from England soon and we are planning to visit Ottawa for a few days. Please give us an outline of the main attractions and a scenic route.

ANSWER: Ottawa's Parliament Buildings are, next to Niagara Falls, Canada's best known symbol. Probably the most popular tourist spectacle in Ottawa is the Changing of the Guard held daily at 10 a.m. on the lawns of Parliament Hill during the summer months. From this colorful ceremony it is only a step to the peace tower of the Parliament Buildings where conducted tours are available daily starting at 9 a.m.

Visits to the Mint on Sussex Drive are by appointment only (phone 922-2348) with tours every half hour on weekdays.

The Canadian War Museum, Sussex Drive, opens daily at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Saturdays.

Laurier House on Laurier Avenue opens daily 10 a.m., Sundays 2 p.m.

The National Art Gallery at Elgin and Slater Streets opens weekdays at 10 a.m. and Sundays and Holidays at 2 p.m.

The newest attraction is the $46 million Arts Centre which you can tour free. The concert hall seats 2,300 people, has 34 boxes and has about everything in modern technology to ensure the sound throughout the hall will be perfect. The stage area is awe-inspiring and vast, second only in North America to the Metropolitan opera's stage at the Lincoln Centre, in New York. A stroll through Sparks Street Mall is a pleasant diversion where there are many trees and flowers and beautiful stores.

When you are tired of walking you can take a cruise on the Ottawa River which lasts an hour and a half and takes you past many historical spots. Adults $2.50, children $1.25.

Then there are the pleasant, scenic drives beside the Rideau Canal and the Ottawa River to cool you off on a hot day. The drives extend across into Quebec, to Hull, and the treed tranquility of Gatineau Park. The 88,000 acre park with its more than 40 lakes has several over-looks that provide splendid views of the Ottawa River Valley far below, and there is also Moorside, the former summer residence of William Lyon MacKenzie King, which is now a tearoom and small museum.

Scenic Route: Take 401 to the St. Lawrence to just east of Prescott to route 16, and take this north to Ottawa.

Or, if you have more time, travel another 18 miles to Morrisburg where you and your friends can visit Upper Canada Village. This is a restoration of a village of the mid-19th century. Here you can see the blacksmith working in the open, if you like, take a ride in a stage coach, or go and see bread being made. During the day, when the village is open to visitors, local residents dressed in the clothing of this era, go about the affairs that occupied citizens 100 years ago. From here you can take No. 31 north to Ottawa.

Return Route: A pleasant, scenic return route is No. 7 to Madoc and No. 62 to Belleville.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

(2ND BELLEVILLE)

The 2nd Belleville Cub and Scout groups held the first of what they hope to make an annual family outing at Zwick's Island, June 29.

Grossman Says Court-ordered Whippings Should Be Administered by Judges

TORONTO (CP) — Allan Grossman, correctional services minister for Ontario, said Tuesday night judges who order people to be whipped perhaps should be required to carry out the sentences themselves.

Failing that, the minister said, the judges "should at least force themselves to witness such a procedure."

Mr. Grossman was commenting in an interview on a letter published in The Star Tuesday from Isabel LeBourdais, author of a widely-publicized book which contends that convicted murderer Steven Truscott was innocent.

In her letter, Mrs. Lebourdais criticized the Ontario Court of Appeal for upholding a whipping sentence against a man found guilty of indecently assaulting a 14-year-old girl. She said no judge would ever pass such a sentence if he had to be on hand when it was carried out.

This brought a reply from Mr. Grossman:

"I am absolutely opposed to anything which adds to the brutality of society. There should be no place in our society for one to be brutal to another. I can see the point behind the confinement of an offender, but I can see no point at all in being physically brutal.

"I know the judges mean well. . . . But perhaps they should be required to carry out such a sentence. If not that, then perhaps they should at least force themselves to witness such a procedure."

Traditionally, whipping has been employed in two ways—as part of a court sentence and to enforce prison discipline. Ontario abolished it for prisoner discipline nine years ago.

Two weeks ago, Federal Penitentiaries Commissioner Allan J. MacLeod said it was being "phased out" as a disciplinary weapon in his jurisdiction.

Provincial Judges were asked Tuesday night to comment on Mr. Grossman's remarks.

"If I ever gave a sentence of whipping I would be prepared to witness it," said Judge Donald Graham, "but I have never given one. I think there is a place for it in cases of extreme brutality, but nowhere else."

Judge Joseph Addison said he first thought there was a place for whipping, but has since changed his mind.

"When I originally came to the bench 11 years ago, I thought there was a place for the lash, but then I talked to my wife and daughters about it and they told me that if I ever passed that kind of sentence on anyone, there was no point in my coming home.

"I have never ordered anyone to whipped but if I ever did I would be prepared to do it myself."

Judge Norman Gianelli took another view.

"If one considers that a chap should have the lash, then I think it's his job to put it in the sentence. There are certain types of individuals against whom it is probably the most effective thing to do."

The judge said he had imposed the penalty "at least five times." Asked if he would be prepared to watch it being done, he replied: "Certainly."

Under the Criminal Code, whipping can be made part of the punishment for rape and attempted rape, armed burglary, choking and drugging indecent assault, incest and sexual intercourse with a girl under 14. The code forbids whipping female offenders.

The sentences are carried out with a cat-of-nine-tails unless the presiding judge specifically orders that a leather strap be used instead. The strap is laid across an offender's bare buttocks, the lash across his back.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics report on criminal offences for 1964—the most recent year available—showed that of the 37,827 indictable offenders sentenced, only 10 were ordered whipped.

Between 1956 and 1966, the courts of Canada ordered whipping in 120 cases, but it was used on 313 occasions to enforce discipline in federal prisons.

Giant Spruce

A tree faller chops into a huge spruce tree with a chain saw near Sandspit in the Queen Charlotte Islands off the west coast of British Columbia. Spruce and cedar trees in the Queen Charlottes grow 25 per cent faster and taller on the average than anywhere else in the province because of climatic conditions. Timber companies gross about $24,000,000 a year from forest products in the islands.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market plunged into its third consecutive downward session, with a sharp mid-morning loss today.

In the first hour of trading, the industrial index dropped 1.04 to 177.07.

The index has fallen 4.83 in the last two days, more than half it gained in a six-day rally that was ended Friday.

However, volume again was light, indicating investors are unsure of the market's outlook.

By 11 a.m. only 537,000 shares traded compared with 790,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Losers outnumbered advances 200 to 70.

Sixteen of the exchange's 21 groups indexes were off. Chemical, merchandising, trust and loan and utility issues were fractionally higher. Steels were unchanged.

Real estate issues and oil refining stocks led the decline.

In real estate issues, Revenue lost ½ to 5¼, Bramalea ¼ to 7¾, Block Bros. ¼ to 7¾ and Capital Building ¼ to 6¼.

Among oil refiners, Imperial Oil dropped ¼ to 19¼, Petrofina ¼ to 19½ and Gulf Canada ¼ to 20¼.

Falconbridge was down 1¼ to 124, Stuart House 1 to 7, Denison 1 to 44, CHUM A ¾ to 17, Seaway ¾ to 11¾ and Inco ½ to 30½.

On index, golds were off .08 to 20.19, base metals .35 to 106.81 and western oils .78 to 259.80.

The Toronto market fell sharply Tuesday and posted its second consecutive daily loss.

A six-day rally was interrupted Monday when prices took a strong downward swing.

The industrial index dropped 2.51 to 178.11, bringing its total loss in the last two days to 4.83.

During the rally, the market recovered 8.43 of 19.79 points lost in June.

Volume remained light, as it has in recent weeks.

Observers said the lack of trading activity indicates that investors are still uncertain about the direction of the market after its June slump.

They said most of the reasons that touched off the June slide still exist, gnawing at investor confidence.

The main reason for the performance of Toronto has been continuing weakness in New York.

Oil refiners and banks were among heavy losers Tuesday.

In oil refiners, Gulf Canada lost ¾ to 20¼, Shell Canada ¾ to 27, Imperial Oil ¾ to 20, Texaco ¼ to 28¾ and Petrofina ¾ to 19¾.

Among bank issues, Royal dropped ¼ to 20, Nova Scotia ½ to 22¼, Toronto Dominion ½ to 19¾, Montreal ¼ to 14¼ and Canadian Imperial ¼ to 19.

Shulby's dropped 1¼ to 11¼ after the company reported first-quarter earnings of $67,000 compared with $73,700 for the similar 1968 period.

Royal Trust lost 1 to 22¼ despite first-half earnings of 67 cents a share compared with 62 cents in the first half of 1968.

Reichhold gained ¼ to 12. The company expects improved earnings this year and said that if market conditions are favorable it plans to issue about $1-000,000 of debentures this quarter.

Kidd Copper slipped one cent to 38 cents. It expects a decision next week on its application to export copper concentrates from its leased Spanish River, Ont., mine to Japan.

A large Japanese corporation has agreed to provide $700,000 of financing through the purchase of Kidd convertible debentures if an export permit is granted.

Revenue was unchanged at 5¾, Victoria Wood was up 1¼ to 11¾ and Seaway gained ¼ to 12¼.

A hearing against Revenue, Victoria Wood and some directors of both companies on Ontario Securities Commission charges was adjourned Tuesday until July 15.

Revenue is the largest single shareholder in Seaway.

On index, western oils dropped 2.36 to 260.58, base metals 1.79 to 107.36 and golds 1.11 to 220.27. Volume was 2,672,600 shares compared with 2,770,000 Monday. Declines outnumbered advances 481 to 99.

Apollo Team To Reveal Moon Secrets

'Say, those earthlings aren't as ugly as I thought!'

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Three scientific experiments to be placed on the lunar surface by the Apollo 11 astronauts may reveal for the first time how much the moon quakes and wobbles.

The instruments could tell scientists how rapidly continents on earth are drifting apart and whether the moon's interior is molten mass or solid rock. They may also "hear" meteors striking the surface and find gas particles in radiation streaming through space from the sun.

Called EASEP for Early Apollo Scientific Experiments Package, the devices were designed to help man unlock the secrets of the origin and structure of the moon.

The gas particle collector will be brought back by the astronauts. But the two other instruments will operate long after Apollo 11 astronauts Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin leave the moon.

"The scientific return, because man is there on the moon, is significant," said John Small, chief of the lunar surface projects office at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Spacecraft Center.

If the space agency attempted to land and deploy the same experiments on an unmanned flight, "the automatic devices for putting the equipment off, locating them very precisely and levelling them would require many, many more pounds. And probably you'd have to cut your complexity down," he observed.

Packed inside a compartment in Apollo 11's lunar module are:

—A seismic station that can detect the slightest motions on or within the lunar crust.

Aldrin is to place it about 70 feet away from the lunar module. After carrying it to the site, he will pull a lanyard to release spring mechanisms that open power-producing solar panels. It is expected to operate for up to a year.

—A solar wind composition experiment consisting of a piece of aluminum foil, one foot by three, unrolled like a window shade and held upright on a tele-scoping stand.

Aimed broadside toward the sun, the sail-like device is to trap particles of gases including helium, neon, argon, krypton, and xenon drive by the solar winds. Armstrong and Aldrin are to roll the foil up again and bring it back with them for analysis.

—A laser reflector, measuring about 2½ feet square, which will reflect, like a mirror, a laser beam from earth.

By measuring the time it takes for the beam to strike the reflector and bounce back to earth, scientists expect to know, within inches, exactly how far the moon is from earth.

Laser measurements from different points on earth over a long time could reveal how fast continents are drifting apart, proving or disproving theories that Africa and South America, for example, were once one big continent. The laser reflector is expected to operate for up to 10 years.

Space Box Score

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Apollo 11 in the 21st manned vehicle orbited by the United States, climaxing eight years of flights aimed at landing men on the moon.

Twenty-three American astronauts have logged flight time. Several made two or three trips, giving the United States 41 men in space. In the 20 previous launchings, the astronauts recorded a total of 4,514 hours and 22 minutes flight time.

The Soviet Union has orbited 12 manned spaceships for a total flight time of 808 hours and 10 minutes. Sixteen cosmonauts have gone aloft. Only one made a repeat trip.

U.S. astronauts have conducted 10 rendezvous missions, 11 linkups with other satellites and 10 space walks. Comparative Russian figures are three, one and three.

The longest American flight was 13 days, 18 hours, 35 minutes. Russia's longest was four days, 22 hours, 6 minutes.

Apollo 11 mission is to last just over eight days, including 21 hours 38 minutes spent on the moon by Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.

Ambulance Firms in Quinte Provide Efficient Service

By TOM DONOGHUE
(Staff Reporter)

Around 3,500 times a year an ambulance in the city is off to an accident scene, to a drowning, or a house call to save a life.

Just another one of those modern conveniences that citizens take for granted. But the story behind the ambulance scene is one of hard work, organization and expensive equipment.

Only 25 per cent of all ambulance calls are emergency and necessitate the use of the siren, said the spokesman for one firm. But emergency or not, they are all just as important.

Of the two ambulance companies in Belleville, La Salle and City Ambulance, each is different in its program and operation.

La Salle has been in existence since 1932 but was taken over by its present operator, Stuart Meeks in 1958. City Ambulance was established in 1963 with Len Steele as president.

For both firms, drivers and attendants must follow a rigorous training course and before they can join the company, each must have training in Red Cross and/or St. John Ambulance First Aid.

Mr. Steele said his employees attend courses given by the Belleville Medical Association which include lectures as well as practical work, all of which lasts for eight months.

Both companies also offer training programs of their own.

The Ontario government makes it compulsory for all drivers and attendants to take the Ambulance Driver and Attendant Training Program at Camp Borden for three months.

When the recruit has completed all the courses, he is then allowed to be involved in the ambulance service on a full time basis.

Equipment used by the companies costs an estimated $100,000. Once again the province sets a list of equipment that must be carried by the ambulance. This includes oxygen, fracture boards, wrecking equipment in case a victim is trapped in wreckage, and approximately 500 other items.

Funds to keep the services in operation are handled through the Ontario Hospital Services Commission. A budget is sent to the commission for approval and when the draft has been reviewed the budget is made and money allotted.

Each call taken by either ambulance costs $20 up to a 25 mile radius of the base and 60c per mile beyond 25 miles. The patient himself pays $5, plus 15c per mile extra outside the set rate radius. Billing is not done by the ambulance service but rather is handled by hospitals.

La Salle has an unusual addition to its complement of vehicles. A rescue boat has been introduced to the area so that the Bay of Quinte itself will be given coverage.

The idea was introduced by Mr. Meeks, the operator of the service, after seeing the fire department make a number of rescues on the Bay. He felt that a special service should be introduced to help the fire department in this duty. So far this year 29 calls have proved the necessity of the boat.

La Salle now has its boat tied up at the dock at the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club always in readiness if an emergency should ever arise. This service is not subsidized by the province but rather exists on donations from interested people and those who are rescued.

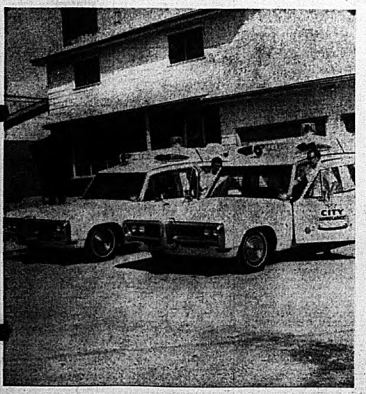
Both companies have underwater equipment to help in searching for drowned victims, and lost articles and both handle up to 2,000 calls each year.

When a call is made for an ambulance the caller must identify himself, give the location of the accident, and the number from where the call is made.

Many people resent giving the particulars on the telephone in an emergency but the spokesmen indicate they must have this information to determine whether the call is legitimate or if it is merely a prank.

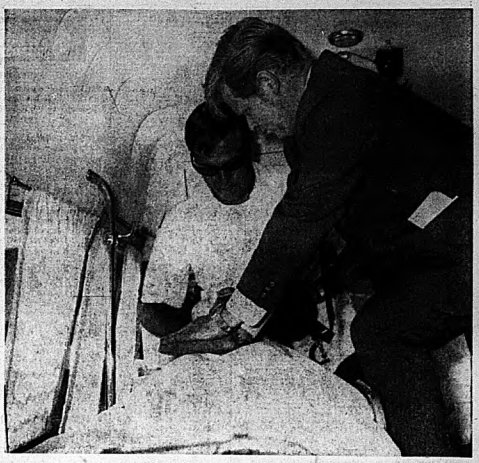
Prank calls are received about once every week, and could deprive someone of service if the ambulances are answering a false alarm when an emergency arises.

The ambulances are dispatched from the main offices of the firms. If a call is taken and a vehicle is not at the home base it is contacted by radio and directed to the accident. This allows for faster service and helps insure that the patient is taken to a hospital as soon as possible.



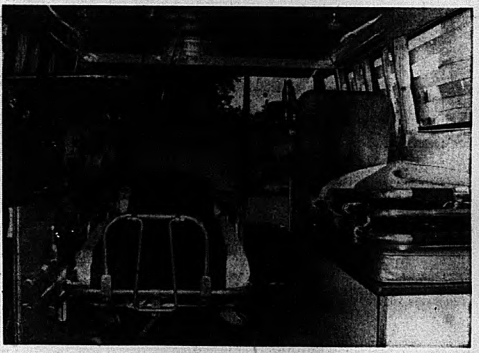
City Ambulance has a Cadillac and three Pontiacs while La Salle uses two econo-lines which have been specially equipped with all the extras.

The busiest time of the year is the summer when families are travelling or are at the cottage.



Checking Equipment

Bob Baley from LaSalle Ambulance checks out some of the equipment in the ambulance. The power for this air pump comes directly from the vehicle itself and can also power the saws and wrecking equipment that are used to free victims who are trapped in wreckage.



City Ambulance Ready to Roll

City Ambulance headquarters is on College Street West. The firm, along with LaSalle Ambulance, always has a team of drivers on duty and an ambulance ready to respond to a call within minutes.

A Life in Their Hands

A City Ambulance team of Steve LaMorre and Robert Howell demonstrate the techniques of resuscitation and heart massage in cramped quarters that is part of their every day work. The "patient" is a special mannequin developed for the teaching and practice of heart massage. A cut-away section of the chest wall allows first-aid trainees to observe the effect of external massage on the heart and lungs.

Vital Equipment

All the equipment necessary to handle any kind of accident or emergency is neatly packed into the ambulance so that everything is within arm's reach. There are over 500 items that must be included in the equipment and all must be placed where they can be reached easily.

DO KIDS LIKE ICE CREAM?

The answer, of course, is a resounding "yes" to both questions!

Kids have been eating and enjoying ice cream down to the last "lick" ever since it was invented.

And Want Ads have been "working" . . . producing results for both buyer and seller ever longer than ice cream has been in existence. If you haven't used the Want Ads, you're missing one of the real treats in life.

And it's so easy, all you have to do is dial 962-9171 to place a low-cost, fast-acting Want Ad.

Ask for classified.
